I like to think of myself as a person who pays attention to things. Some of the things I have been paying attention to for over fifty years would include the following: blank sheets of paper, blank billboards, plain flush doors, the backs of black and white photographs, skylights, outdoor movie screens, indoor movie screens, the margins around anything that is printed, flour-covered aprons, breakwalls, piers, sidewalks, stepping stones, clean blackboards, barren bulletin boards, tablecloths, sunglasses, plaster walls, gymnasium floors, empty swimming pools, graffiti, music notation, newly plowed fields, opaque window shades, close-up shots of Greta Garbo's face, platinum blonde hair, colorless maps in children's geography books, white sheets, beaches, the aislesways in dark theaters, the spaces between things and the people I love.

When I am painting I like to think of myself as a painter who is paying attention to his painting; any other considerations are dismissed for being too fictional and abstract.
Richard Carlyon: A Retrospective
This catalogue was published in conjunction with the multisite exhibition Richard Carlyon: A Retrospective, which opened on September 11, 2009, and was organized by

Anderson Gallery
School of the Arts
Virginia Commonwealth University
907½ West Franklin Street
Richmond, VA 23284
804 828 1522
www.vcu.edu/arts/gallery

Reynolds Gallery
1514 West Main Street
Richmond, VA 23220
804 355 6553
www.reynoldsgallery.com

1708 Gallery
319 West Broad Street
Richmond, VA 23220
804 643 1708
www.1708gallery.org

Visual Arts Center of Richmond
1812 West Main Street
Richmond, VA 23220
804 353 0094
www.visarts.org

Title Page:
Richard Carlyon in his Richmond studio,
This Page:
Richard Carlyon dancing with Lucinda Childs in Jewett Campbell’s studio,
second Bang Arts Festival,
Richmond Professional Institute,
21 April 1965.

Published by Anderson Gallery, VCU School of the Arts, in partnership with Reynolds Gallery, 1708 Gallery, and Visual Arts Center of Richmond.
© 2009, all rights reserved. Except for legitimate excerpts customary in review or scholarly publications, no part of this publication may be reproduced by any means or transmitted in any form without the prior permission of the publisher and copyright holders.
Library of Congress Control Number: 2009905953 ISBN 9780935519334
Contents

4 Lenders and Sponsors
5 Acknowledgments
8 Richard Carlyon: A Life in Art
   Howard Risatti
32 Tributes
   Emmet Gowin
   Ray Kass
   Elizabeth King
   Bernard Martin
   Lester Van Winkle
   Chris Burnside
36 The Video Art of Richard Carlyon: A Conversation
   Wesley Gibson
42 Plates
74 Curatorial Statements and Exhibition Checklists
   Ashley Kistler, Anderson Gallery, vcuarts
   Beverly W. Reynolds, Reynolds Gallery
   Brad Birchett and Gregg Carbo, 1708 Gallery
   Katherine Huntoon, Visual Arts Center of Richmond
90 Biography
92 Selected Bibliography
94 Photography Credits
Sponsors
Altria Group
Markel Corporation
Office of the Dean, VCU School of the Arts
Reynolds Gallery
Robert and Liz Acosta-Lewis
Jean Crutchfield and Robert Hobbs
Salvatore and Alice Federico
Hiter and Jil Harris
Fredrika and Paul Jacobs
Alan Kirshner and Deborah Mihaloff
Drs. Erica Mindes and Ken Zaslav
Bill Royall and Pam Kiecker
Tom Adair
Jeannie Baliles
Jay Barrows and Cindy Neuschwander
Jack Blanton
Tim and Sally Bowring
Daniel and Terry Brisbane
Chris Burnside and Karl Green
Gregg Carbo
Jason and Cheryl Carlyon
Jackson Richard Carlyon
Miles William Carlyon
Katerina Caterisano
Ann Chenoweth
Clapp-Schandelmeier-McClintock Family
R. L. Croft
Janet R. and Marco N. Cuniberti
Elonzo Dann
Diana Detamore
Paul DiPasquale
Elizabeth Ellis
Christopher English and Meda S. Lane
Kevin Epps
Susan Ferrell
Cynthia Fraula
David Freed
J. B. Fridley
Joan Gaustad and Gerald Donato
Susan Glasser
Sarah Beth Goncarova
Kelly Gotschalk and Ricky Croft
Reni Gower
Emmet and Edith Gowin
Dr. Donald and Mrs. Jo Grayson
Laura Hamilton
Monroe and Jill Harris
Myron Helfgott
Fran and Bill Hensley
Sharon J. Hill
Mary Anne and Walter Hooker
Sydney O. Jenkins
Champ Roberts Johnson
Phylis Joyner
Elizabeth King and Carlton Newton
Ashley Kistler and Dan Resler
M. A. LaFratta
Whitney Lynn
Main Art Supply
Cyndi and John Massad
Susan Israel Massey
Joseph McGrath, Esq.
S. R. McPeters
Nancy C. Millet
Kerry Mills and Pippin Barnett
Charlotte Minor
Buffy Morgan
John D. Morgan
Alex and Kathryn Nyerges
Anne Peet and Roger Carrington
Celia Rafalko and Rick Sample
Ragan Reaves
Harold and Jean Rufty
Diego Sanchez
Elizabeth Schandelmeier
Julia Schandelmeier
Ray and Nancy Schandelmeier
Simmons-Wescott Family
Leonard Slater and Anne Battle
D. Jack Solomon
Donald Spanel
E. B. and James Stutts
Javier Tapia
Barbara Tisserat
Richard Toscan and Sharon Walker
Susie Van Pool
Lester and Donna Van Winkle
Valerie Wade
Willie Anne Wright

Lenders
Altria Group
Cynthia S. Becker
Julia and Randy Boyd
Justin Brown
Jason and Cheryl Carlyon
Jean Crutchfield and Robert Hobbs
Joan Gaustad and Gerald Donato
Susan Glasser
Hiter and Jil Harris
Elizabeth King and Carlton Newton
Longwood Center for the Visual Arts
Cade Martin
Media General, Inc.
N. R. and R. C. Schandelmeier
Taubman Museum of Art
Acknowledgments

When remembering Richard Carlyon, it is difficult to imagine anyone else who has had such a wide-ranging and lifelong impact on this community, creatively and educationally, except perhaps Theresa Pollak, founder of the VCU School of the Arts. Because of his sustained and influential presence, Carlyon emerges as an eminently worthy candidate among other individuals who might be cited as Pollak's successor. In an unpublished statement excerpted from a 2005 critique of a student's work, he articulated what must have been a guiding principle for his own endeavors: "One lives one's life in relation to an outside. This outside is in large measure what we are. Outside ourselves, we overlap with others... People are their environments as much as they are themselves." This is only one from a host of lessons that many of us have gleaned from his example and perspicacity.

The impressive list of more than one hundred individuals that appears on the facing page is a resounding tribute to Carlyon. We are deeply grateful to each of these contributors, for it is their generosity that has made this project possible. At a particularly crucial time, Altria Group stepped forward to become the lead sponsor, underwriting a substantial portion of the costs of producing this catalogue. We extend special thanks to Nancy Lund for her enthusiastic support and to Gordon Dixon, Scott Moore, Albert Lunsford, and Rob Pannell for their kind assistance. Richard Toscan, dean of the VCU School of the Arts, has been an essential source of encouragement and support, as has Alan Kirshner, chairman and CEO of Markel Corporation. We are indebted as well to the institutional and individual lenders also listed on the preceding page and thank them for allowing us to include their works in the exhibition.

The organization of this retrospective, on view simultaneously at four Richmond venues, depended on the ideas, insights, and eager participation of Beverly Reynolds at Reynolds Gallery, Brad Birchett and Gregg Carbo at 1708 Gallery, and Katherine Huntoon at the Visual Arts Center of Richmond (VACR). Each curator was responsible for conceiving a different thematic approach; when presented together, our hope was that these four installations would become complementary parts of a larger cohesive whole, imparting a much fuller picture of the breadth of Carlyon's artistic achievements.

Also playing important roles in the project's implementation were Tatjana Beylotte, director, 1708 Gallery; Julia Boyette, assistant director, Reynolds Gallery; Maggi Tinsley, marketing coordinator, VACR; Jayne Shaw, associate dean for development, VCU School of the Arts; Tim Bowring, who organized and moderated the artists' panel at 1708 Gallery; designer Dale VanMegroet, who contributed his time and talent to produce the exhibition invitation; and Rick Michaels at Main Art, who framed works for each venue with exceptional results. As always, the installation at the Anderson Gallery simply wouldn't have materialized without the input and hard work of Exhibition Manager Michael Lease and Gallery Coordinator Traci Flores.

Preparations for this retrospective began in January 2007. Over the next year and a half, thanks to Jenna Kowalke-Jones' perseverance and Nancy Millet's early contribution, an inventory was completed that documents nearly 2,000 paintings, drawings, collages, constructions, and videos made by Carlyon over half a century. Lending his assistance on numerous fronts, Jason Carlyon... undertook the photographic documentation of his father’s studio so that it could be reassembled for this exhibition. Bev Reynolds, unstinting in her support through the years, graciously offered to host a benefit exhibition at the Reynolds Gallery in May 2008, with proceeds from sales donated to the project. We are also indebted to Sheila Gray, who from the start has tirelessly helped organize, pack, and move works.

We are immensely grateful to Howard Risatti, VCU emeritus professor in the Department of Art History and a close friend of the artist, for everything he has done on behalf of this retrospective. He has served as an invaluable advisor to the project from the beginning. While Carlyon’s reputation as an influential teacher is legendary, his prolific activities as an artist have been less consistently visible and closely examined and deserve wider exposure. Dr. Risatti’s in-depth essay illuminates a complex, multifaceted career and establishes a balance between these two spheres. Author Wesley Gibson has also previously written with great insight about Carlyon’s work. His essay on the artist’s videos is a most welcome inclusion, and we thank him for tackling this assignment in the midst of a hectic teaching schedule.

A singular pleasure afforded by the project was the opportunity to work once again with John Malinoski, associate professor in the VCU Department of Graphic Design, who took on the job of designing this book as a personal commitment. He applied such inventiveness, intelligence, integrity, and precision to this challenge that the resulting design is itself an impeccable tribute to an esteemed colleague. We extend to him our sincere gratitude and boundless admiration. Thanks go also to Susan Higgins and Elizabeth Bolka of Worth Higgins & Associates for the special care they lavished on the printing of the catalogue; Jerry Bates of the VCU Graphics Lab for so readily addressing our prepress-production needs; Travis Fullerton for photographing the artworks reproduced here; and William Simeone, Sr. for his editorial help.

That Carlyon was an inspiration to so many, on so many different levels, becomes abundantly clear in the eloquent tributes appearing in this book by Chris Burnside, Emmet Gowin, Ray Kass, Elizabeth King, Bernard Martin, and Lester Van Winkle. Chris Burnside also enhanced this project immeasurably with the performance he created in honor of Carlyon, presented in conjunction with the exhibition by the VCU Department of Dance & Choreography. Choreographer Laura Schandelmeier, Carlyon’s niece, opened the program with a dance inspired by one of her uncle’s videos. We greatly appreciate the support of James Frazier, Dance Department chair, and Drs. Erica Mindes and Ken Zaslav, who generously underwrote the post-performance reception.

We have enlisted Eleanor Rufty Carlyon’s help and consultation in countless ways throughout the development of this project. Her steady perspective and unceasing inspiration have been instrumental in keeping us on track. This book is dedicated to her.

Ashley Kistler
Director
Anderson Gallery
VCU School of the Arts