Report to the Faculty Senate

The Status of the Faculty

January 22, 2013
Faculty Status Report: Overview

Although our overall faculty numbers, percentages and trends are in line with both our peer institutions and national reports, we have a significant uphill road to climb to achieve our aspirational goal to become a premier urban, public research institution.

• Support from the state has declined significantly since 2008, yet VCU continues to invest in faculty growth (Excellence Funds, PRQF, etc.)
• Faculty trends are generally positive
  – Increase in T & R and A & P faculty (% of Tenure/TT faculty ahead of national average)
  – Slight increase in female T/TT faculty members (% is above national average)
  – Overall percentage of T/TT minority faculty has increased at VCU (% is slightly higher than peer institution average)
• Although slowly increasing, salaries are not keeping pace with peers or national average
VCU is committed to the recruitment, retention, and support of talented and diverse faculty, the core of the university’s vision.

• Quest for Distinction, Theme I, Goal D. states:
  – Recruit and retain faculty, staff and senior leadership with the skills and talents to increase the quality teaching and learning, high impact research, and diversity at all levels

• The second University Level Initiative for 2012-2013 states:
  – Attract, retain, and support a nationally competitive and diverse faculty, and increase the number of diverse university staff who are supported and prepared to deliver high quality service commensurate with the expectations of a premier urban, public research university
This commitment has been challenged by significant reductions in state support and relatively low tuition in comparison to other institutions in the Commonwealth.

- Between FY11 and FY12, VCU experienced a $41 million reduction in state E&G and federal stimulus funding
- The resulting impact was a $63.5 million loss in state E&G funding since 2008, about 31% of the university’s total revenue
- FY13 E&G support is about $8 million in new E&G funds, leaving a total deficit since 2008 at approximately $55.5 million
- Additionally, state pressure has challenged institutions of higher education to keep tuition increases at the level of a cost of living increase, approximately 2.5%
This combination of declining state support and low tuition has resulted in increasingly serious resource constraints.

- Faculty salary levels have remained stagnant over the last five years, and VCU is losing ground to other institutions
- Tenure-track faculty numbers are increasing slowly after a period of stagnation and slow decline
- The student-faculty ratios are increasing in specific disciplines, particularly at the undergraduate level, but not overall
- There is a heavier reliance on adjunct faculty to teach core courses, particularly at the undergraduate level
- There has also been a decline in staff-student ratios for support/administrative personnel
Defining Faculty: T&R and A&P

Teaching & Research Faculty perform a variety of teaching, research, and service duties in support of the university’s mission.

- May hold tenure & tenure track positions
- May occupy collateral positions that are not tenure-eligible
- Require advanced degree or work experience that equates to advanced degree
- Titles: professor, associate professor, assistant professor, instructor, or lecture

Administrative & Professional Faculty positions are directly related to the management of the educational and general activities of the university.

- Appointments normally cover specified time period (≤ 1 Year)
- May hold previously established tenure status
- Require advanced degree or work experience that equates to advanced degree
- Titles: chair, dean, executive director, librarian, HR professionals, etc.

Defining Administrative vs Professional Faculty

Administrative Faculty positions are directly related to the management of the educational and general activities of the university.

- Must perform the duties and responsibilities associated with this category 50% or more of the contractual time
- Must regularly exercise discretion & independent judgment
- Generally direct the work of others
- In consultation with HR, the President & Vice Presidents can designate administrative positions reporting to them
- Hold faculty ranking, but carry administrative titles (chair, dean, executive director)

Professional Faculty positions support the professional functions of the university, and their designations are normally limited to librarians, counselors, coaches, lawyers, physicians, dentists, and other professional positions serving education, research, athletic, medical, student affairs, and development functions or activities.

- Involve non-teaching duties and responsibilities 50% of the time
- Require the incumbent to regularly exercise professional discretion and judgment
- Must produce work that is intellectual, varied in character, & should not be standardized.

VCU experienced a 75 percent decline in administrative employees per student from 1993 to 2007… declining from 12.0 full-time administrators per 100 students to 3.0 in 2007.

Despite the loss in state funding and the moderation of tuition rates, VCU has made a significant commitment to recruit talented and diverse faculty over the last three years (2010-2013).

- In FY11, the university raised tuition by 24% and committed $11.3 M for faculty recruitment
- In FY12, $3M was committed to faculty hires through Excellence Funds
- In FY13, $5.9M was committed to faculty hires through Excellence Funds
- The Office of the Provost has dedicated $2.3M in additional funds in FY12 to support faculty priority hires, faculty research, and teaching and learning
- Presidential funding to faculty has increased with resources provided to support faculty research through the President’s Research Quest Fund (PRQP)
Over the last three years, T&R faculty numbers have increased from 1,919 in Fall 2009 to 2,048 in Fall 2012, while A&P faculty increased from 588 to 686 in that same period of time.

In line with national trends, VCU had 35% of its faculty in tenure or tenure-track lines in 2012.

- Four-year institutions report 64% of their faculty are not eligible for tenure; as an example, UCSF saw its proportion of non-tenure-track faculty rise from 57% to 67% between 2000 and 2010.¹
- The majority of contingent faculty nation-wide are teaching only or teaching intensive.²

Diversity among our adjunct faculty follows similar trends to those reflected among our T&R faculty.

- Women account for slightly more than half of all adjunct faculty, 50.5%, a number that has remained stable since Fall 2009.
- Minority adjunct faculty as a percent of total adjunct faculty has grown slightly from 13.3% in Fall 2009 to 14.1% in Fall 2012.
- Most of the minority growth among the adjunct faculty has come from Hispanic hires – an increase since 2009 of 22.
- With the change in definition in 2010, All Other Minorities saw an increase of 8 faculty between 2009 and 2010, and a 3-year change of 9 hires, while African-American adjunct faculty fell by 13 positions during that period.
