ENTERTAINMENT

The Entertainment Committee for the May meeting has everything arranged and waiting for you and your family. There will be everything from banquets to bridge luncheons. If you want entertainment, then they plan to run you ragged.

The chairman of the committee is walking the floor at night trying to plan ways of making your stay at Virginia Beach pleasant and, incidentally, to quiet the baby, as he is now a proud papa.

REPORT OF RELIEF COMMITTEE

The sale of amalgam scrap turned in by members at the last meeting of our State Association amounted to $25.66, and this sum was added to our State relief fund.

The committee urges all members of our State Association to save their amalgam scrap and bring it with them to our meeting at Virginia Beach in May. If each member will do this it will add considerably to our relief fund each year and thereby help us to take care of the future needs of any of our disabled members who may need our help and assistance. Our fund is slowly growing, but still very inadequate for the purpose for which we need it.

RALPH B. SNAPP, Chairman.
J. E. JOHN, Secretary.

NECROLOGY COMMITTEE

The Committee on Necrology takes this means to express its appreciation to those who have sent to the chairman the names of members who have died since our last meeting. Please send name, time of death, and age, and any other information available. This will be greatly appreciated by the committee.

C. E. HARPER,
Chairman.

MOUTH HYGIENE COMMITTEE

The function of the Mouth Hygiene Committee is mainly advisory, serving in such capacity as is helpful to the Department of Mouth Hygiene of the State Board of Health. There is a fine opportunity for further service to the profession should this committee choose to vitalize itself and should the members of this Association lend their helpful cooperation.

In dentistry there is no field as broad or as full of opportunity as that of Oral Hygiene. In the city of average size, the possibility of earning a sufficient livelihood when specializing in so-called "Pyorrhea" seems to have passed. This is mainly due to the better training of the dental student in oral hygiene, and a broader understanding of focal infections. The recent graduate, because of better training and more thorough application, gives more intelligent attention to oral health, thus, if not preventing, certainly delaying the onset of the advanced stages of pyorrhea. Because of a better understanding of focal infection, the dentist now extracts those teeth which he formerly referred to the pyorrhea specialist for treatment. These changes have sharply narrowed the field for specializing in pyorrhea. However, there should be in every community some practitioner willing to major in prophylaxis, so that these borderline cases of periodontoclasia will have proper and careful treatment. To this end I will devote my major attention.

Therefore, I ask all members of the Virginia State Dental Association who are interested in rendering a better service in prophylaxis to write me in the near future concerning the matter, that we may get together at the Virginia Beach meeting in May to consider the advisability of forming a group of general practitioners within the Virginia State Dental Association dedicated to the above purpose. If the response is great enough, we will arrange for group study, instruction in technique, and plans to promote in every way the sound principles of oral hygiene, while at the same time engaging in general practice.

An early response will be appreciated.

F. R. TALLEY,
Chairman of Mouth Hygiene Committee.

FLOOD CONTROL

The recent disastrous flood and the perennial occurrence of similar inundations throughout the land has at the present time made flood control the watchword of the nation.

The greatest floods in the history of man, however, are not caused by swollen streams or tidal waves. Hatred has many times covered the world with blood. Disease has, at times, brought ruin to whole nations. Waves of intolerance and bigotry have swept all sanity from the minds of men. Poverty has swamped millions of lives. In fact, our very existence here on earth seems to be as much a survival of the floods as a survival of the fittest. Today, where is the individual who is not having a struggle of some kind, trying to keep his head above the water?

The destruction occasioned by all these floods has become so acute, especially from the economic and humanitarian points of view, that their prevention is the absorbing interest in the fields of science today. Some thinkers believe that without immediate and drastic control, civilization is bound to crumble.

Real control and prevention must always be started at the source of the trouble. A few heroes may occasionally arise to stop leaks in the dikes, but effective control can never be achieved until the headwaters are reached and the dam placed there.

It is heartening to note that the efforts being put forth in the field of dentistry today are aimed primarily at control. The last few years have seen levees, in the form of legislation and education, check the flow of dental advertising to the point where it promises to become a mere trickle. The dentist no longer need flounder about in a sea of dental nostrums and quackery. The muddy stream of dental literature has already begun to clear and take on a much more palatable appearance. The chill of that final engulfing flood of years has been warmed through the American Dental Association Relief Fund and by the insurance protection afforded by the same organization.

One of the menacing waters, lapping at the doors of every home in the land, is dental caries. With a flood point of incidence reaching the 97 to 100 per cent mark in some localities, is it not time for the profession to concentrate its efforts on control?

Surgeon-General Parron recently said, "Since the most prevalent disease today is dental defects, each State should give concern to the need for a State Community Dental Health Program. The health of the State and the Nation depends upon improved dental health."

It is most fitting that Dr. Leroy M. S. Miner, President of the American Dental Association, should select as the theme for his tenure of office, "Preventive Dentistry in the Interest of Health."

Further evidence that the profession is fast becoming control-minded is seen in the tremendous, though many times poorly financed, research work being done. The changing concepts in dental education and the recent interest shown by states and cities in re-vamping their dental health programs are other doves with branches returning to the Ark.

The man who painlessly relieves a patient of his aching tooth may be rendering a service, but the real benefactor is the one who prevents the need for such drastic relief measures. Such efforts are the finest toward which the profession can lend its energies.

A SAD STORY

One afternoon in February of this year, a man dropped into a dental office and wanted to buy scrap amalgam. He was politely told that there was none for sale, as it was to be contributed to the Virginia State Dental Association Relief Fund. Curiosity, however, prompted the dentist to inquire of this would-be-purchaser just how successful his business was. He replied, "Oh, pretty good, I have collected forty-five or fifty pounds of scrap amalgam today."

Resolutions On The Death of Dr. Robert Guy Smith

The Tidewater Dental Association, Component No. I of the Virginia State Dental Association, having learned with profound regret of the death of their beloved and esteemed member, Dr. Robert Guy Smith, records with sorrow, the following resolutions:

RESOLVED, That in the passing of Dr. Smith, this Association hast lost a valued and esteemed member. His untimely demise, in the early years of his fruitful activities, leaves a vacancy in the honored ranks of his profession, and in the lives of his many appreciative patients. An honest, kindhearted man, he was strictly ethical in all his relations. Dr. Smith was not the type known as a "good mixer" but was distinctly a Christian gentleman, always calm, dignified and reserved in his modesty, yet cordial to his many friends, considerate, courteous and eminently fair to his fellow practitioners.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That in recognition of his useful life and high regard in which he was held by his profession, it is ordered that a copy of this become a part of the minutes of this meeting, and that copies be sent his bereaved family, and to the Virginia State Bulletin.

COMMITTEE ON LEGISLATION AMERICAN DENTAL ASSOCIATION

A Brigadier-General to head the Army Dental Corps, an increase of dental officers to a ratio of one for each five hundred of enlisted strength of the army—these are the principal provisions of a bill (H. R. 3491) entered in the House of Representatives on January 22, which seeks to provide adequate dental service for the army and place the chief of the dental corps on a parity in rank with other corps heads.

Representative Ross A. Collins, of Mississippi, a former chairman of the important War Department Subcommittee on Appropriations and familiar with army needs, introduced this bill, which is sponsored by the American Dental Association.

The introduction of this bill in Congress marks another move forward in the plan developed last year by the Committee on Legislation following a study of dental needs for the army. The committee settled deliberately to the task of securing for the army an adequate dental service, which is possible only with an increase in the present number of dental officers and with rank in keeping with the value and importance of proper dental service. Last year the committee presented the need for this change to Secretary of War Dern, General Craig and Surgeon-General Reynolds, the Surgeon-General's recommendation of an immediate increase of forty officers for the dental corps followed; this number was finally reduced to twenty-five by the Congressional Appropriations Committee, but the result was a gratifying increase of personnel and an official recognition of the need for building up this army service.

The increased complement of twenty-five officers granted by the last Congress brought the authorized figure to 183 dental officers. Just recently an agreement was made betwen the War Department and the director of emergency conservation work for the appointment of 168 dental reserve officers for active duty with the Civilian Conservation Corps, which increases the number of officers under the jurisdiction of the chief of the dental corps to 351 officers, a commissioned strength that surpasses four other services in the Regular Army, all authorized a Major-General to direct their activity; the finance department (128 officers); the chemical warfare service (91 officers); the ordnance department, whose chief is assisted by two Brigadier-Generals (321 officers), and the signal corps (249 officers). The above figures are actual ones as given by the latest Army Directory.

These departments of the army are indispensable, but the maintenance of the efficiency and health of the army rank and file cannot take second place in evaluating army corps service. An essential service in peace time, the Army Dental Corps has proved its value in time of war. This was generally recognized during the World War and the experience gained at that time made evident the fact that units of the army should have at least one dental officer for every five hundred of its enlisted men (as is now provided for the navy), and this proportion was provided by order of President Wilson just before the Armistice was signed. Because of the cessation of hostilities, this being a war-time order and not a law, the number of dental officers in the army reverted to its former proportion of one to each one thousand of the strength of the army. Experience then and since has made the fact evident that a minimum number of dental officers needed for adequate and efficient service is a ratio of one dental officer for each five hundred enlisted men. Providing this increase and the rank of Brigadier-General for the chief of this corps puts dentistry on a proper basis, the chief of the Army Dental Corps on a parity in rank with other corps heads and will permit an adequate dental service with an efficient direction of this service for the army.

The Committee on Legislation asks every dentist and all dental societies to take a serious interest in this proposal, acquaint the Congressmen and Senators who are their representatives in Washington with the merit of this measure, and request their vigorous support of H. R. 3491.

1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Virginia, That section sixteen hundred and forty-nine of the Code of Virginia as heretofore amended, be amended and re-enacted so as to read as follows:

Section 1649. The Virginia State Board of Dental Examiners may revoke or suspend the certificate and license of any licensed dentist for any one or more of the following causes:

1. Fraud, deceit or misrepresentation in obtaining a license, or the presentation to the board of any diploma, license or certificate, illegally or fraudulently obtained; or

2. The commission of a criminal operation, or the conviction of a felony; or

3. Chronic or persistent inebriety, or addiction to drugs, to such an extent as to render him unsafe or unreliable as a practitioner of dentistry, or such gross immorality as tends to bring reproach upon the dental profession; or

4. Any unprofessional conduct likely to defraud or to deceive the public or the commission of any fraud upon the public or individual patients in obtaining or attempting to obtain practice; or

5. Wilful negligence in the practice of dentistry; or

6. The employment of unlicensed persons or of persons whose certificate and license have been finally suspended or revoked to perform work which under this chapter, can only be legally done by persons holding a license to practice dentistry in the State, provided, however, that a person whose certificate and license has been finally suspended or revoked may be employed pending an appeal if he has given bond as provided in the next succeeding section; or

8. Accepting employment by or working in the office of any individual firm or corporation that is violating any of the provisions of this section for which the certificate and license of any licensed dentist may be revoked or suspended, and failing to sever such relationship after notice in writing so to do from the Virginia State Board of Dental Examiners.

Chapter 83.—An Act to amend and re-enact Section 1650 of the Code of Virginia, as heretofore amended, relating to the hearing of charges against licensed dentists and the revocation of licenses, so as to permit suspension of licenses, and to prohibit a person whose license is revoked or suspended from practicing dentistry pending a decision upon appeal. (H. B. 163.)

Approved February 28, 1936

1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Virginia, That section sixteen hundred and fifty of the Code of Virginia, as heretofore amended, be amended and re-enacted so as to read as follows:

Section 1650. An accusation may be filed with the secretary of the Virginia State Board of Dental Examiners charging any licensed dentist with the commission of any of the offenses enumerated in the preceding section. Such accusation shall be in writing, signed by the accuser or accusers and verified under oath. Whenever such accusation is filed, the secretary of the State Board of Dental Examiners shall set a day for hearing, and shall transmit to the accused a true copy of all papers filed with him relating to such accusation, at least ten days before the day so fixed, and shall notify the accused that on the day fixed for hearing he may appear and show cause, if any he can, why his license to practice dentistry in the State shall not be suspended or revoked. For the purpose of such hearing, the State Board of Dental Examiners is empowered to require the attendance of witnesses, administer oaths, and hear testimony, either oral or documentary, for and against the accused. If after such hearing of the accused, the board shall be satisfied that the accused has been guilty of the offense, charged in the accusation, they shall thereupon, without further notice suspend for such period as said board shall determine or revoke the license of the person so accused and found guilty. Notice of that action of the Board shall be promptly given to the accused or his attorney. A person whose license has been suspended or revoked shall not pending appeal practice dentistry during the period of suspension or following revocation unless and until the action of the board shall be reversed by any court to which an appeal may be taken, unless and until he has entered into a bond in the penalty of one thousand dollars, with surety approved by the clerk of the court to which the appeal is taken conditioned not to violate the provisions of section sixteen hundred and forty-nine of the Code of Virginia and all amendments thereof. The practice of dentistry in violation of the action of the board shall subject the person to the penalties prescribed in section sixteen hundred and forty-one of the Code of Virginia for engaging in the practice of dentistry without a certificate.

Any person who may feel himself aggrieved at the suspension or revocation of his license may, within thirty days appeal from the action of the State board in suspending or revoking the same to the circuit court of the county or the corporation court of the city in which the offense charged originated where the matter shall be heard de novo. The person desiring to appeal from the action of the State board shall, after five days' notice in writing to the secretary of the State board, apply therefor by presenting to the court, or the judge thereof, his affidavit setting forth the fact of the suspension or revocation of his license, and that there has been a miscarriage of justice, or error committed by the State board, or that the decision of the State board was contrary to law or was not supported by the evidence adduced at the hearing. Whereupon the State board shall certify to the court the accusation and other papers concerning the matter and filed with the secretary of the State board.
