Samuel Leonard Cooke

After graduation I immediately entered the U. S. Army Medical Corps which in the course of 30 years service took me around the world three times. During this period I had extended service in the Philippines, Hawaii, North Africa, and Europe.

I married my high school sweetheart, Helen Anderson, who bore me two lovely children. I now have three grandchildren, and one great grandchild. My son is professor of chemistry, University of Louisville. My son-in-law has his doctorate in biology and is with the Virginia State Health Department.

After my wife's death and my retirement from the Army, I spent two months aboard the hospital ship Project Hope in Nicaragua. This was a very rewarding experience. The ship's personnel were made of very devoted people from most every state in the U.S. and some from foreign countries.

I am now married to a very fine lady who is a graduate of Duke University and a retired nurse. We are now living in Durham, North Carolina. We both enjoy travel.

My present retirement is my third from medicine and I will probably not participate in professional work again.

Arthur Cecil Chandler

On a beautiful day, during our first year at MCV, I saw my friends, Bill Hatcher and Joe Moore, coming jauntily down the street as they moved from West Grace Street to #6 East Franklin. Between them they carried a large trunk piled high with clothing, books, and toilet articles. Each carried a suitcase and wore his overcoat and three hats.

One recent evening in their former boarding house, a young lady complained that she overslept and had been late to work. Bill and Joe saw an opportunity to do a good deed. They set their alarm clock for 3 a.m.; then dangled it to the window below which was that of the young lady. She came to the window and called out, "What do you think you are doing up there?"

They replied, "We just want to let you know that you have only three more hours to sleep." That did it! The two embryo physicians were invited to seek another location where their sense of humor would be more appreciated.

I shall always be grateful for the associations and training at MCV. It was in Richmond that I met Laura Davis Smith of Petersburg, Virginia, and later fortunately married her. I am proud of our sons, an actor and an ophthalmologist. I am thankful for my good health that allows me to still be in active practice.

William Lawrence Cooke

When we went into service at the beginning of World War II, we talked blithely of capturing Hitler, Mussolini, or Tojo. Actually during service I did get to examine Tojo. As we steamed up Tokyo Bay, news of his attempted suicide was received on wireless. He was taken to a hospital in Yokohama, commanded by an army friend of mine. As I was scheduled as a chest specialist by the army, I insisted on examining Tojo and was finally permitted to.

Alonzo Ray Dawson

My fondest memory is of Dr. W. T. Sanger, our president, and as he referred to himself, "our classmate (29)". There was a slight difference. We came to MCV as freshmen, he as president. During the worst of World War II, a Christmas weekend, my family and I visited Richmond and as was my custom, I called Dr. Sanger to pay my respects. He answered the phone and invited me down to his office for a chat.

After the usual small talk we went into the Board Room. Hanging on the walls were drawings of every building that has now been completed in MCV's major development. He enthusiastically explained his plans and visions. After he had finished "poor, dumb Scotchman, me" blurted out, "This is marvellous but where are you going to get the money?"

I can see the expression on his face as he looked at the trains going up and down Shockoe Valley—sad—hurt. He then turned and stated in a firm voice, "Dr. Dawson, that doesn't bother me in the least, if I have the right idea I will get the money."

What a man! What a vision! What a teacher! It is all here now!

In 1945, I was chief of Navy Service at St. Elizabeth's Hospital in D. C. where thirty young Navy residents in psychiatry were assigned to my unit for training. It was then rather unexpectedly that I confronted the crisis of my career.

One morning we were alerted to expect a trainload of psychotic Navy and Marine Corps veterans from the Pacific. The usual admission rate was 100 per month, I anxiously contemplated the impact this contingent would have upon our 400-bed hospital. Rushing to transfer others out of the receiving unit in order to accommodate 145 severely disturbed and suicidal combat veterans in a single day proved a monumental task! Starting at 7 a.m., under great pressure for the following twelve hours, we managed to examine all new patients, both mentally and physically, and assign them to appropriate nursing units. Such a challenge (the greatest of 30 years in government service) would have been impossible without those 30 inexperienced Navy physicians, most of whom eventually completed their training and pursued careers in psychiatry.

Most of these patients improved or fully recovered within a few months. Our toughest problem was to control wild homicidal and suicidal behavior, best done through the use of electroshock therapy. We had no tranquilizers in those days!

I'm sure these events played some part in the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare subsequently honoring me with its Distinguished Service Award.

Minnie Pritchett Oldham

Nursing has come a long way in the fifty years since my sister, Leola, and I graduated from MCV. Night duty then was a 12-hour hitch with only one nurse on the floor after 11 P.M.

After graduation I did private duty in Richmond, then in Southside Virginia. There were a lot of pneumonia patients and many women who had their babies at home. You were expected to do 24-hour duty. One patient said he thought nurses were trained not to sleep.

It has been a privilege to be associated with the Alumni Association and my classmates through the years and to attend the nursing seminars.

Raymond Andrew Lowry

Thomas Nathaniel Hunnicutt, Jr.

"Controversy"

In the treatment of patients, controversies in medicine are an old as well as a present day problem; for example, the medical versus the surgical treatment of angina pectoris or coronary heart disease.

As a first year medical student, we had two professors with severe angina pectoris; one was teaching anatomy, the other taught jurisprudence. One elected to have surgery for the pain, the other continued medication; and each criticized the other for the treatment used. So what's new? Angiography and bypass surgery.

"Some Things Don't Change"

In 1929—Chronic irritation plus pathological X equaled cancer, and fifty years later (1979)—chronic irritation plus pathological X still equals cancer.

Raymond Andrew Lowry

Fifty years later I have many memories of College: I remember a classmate, who shall be nameless, coming to school still in a tuxedo after a dance; I remember two who forgot to go to graduation rehearsal (I was one of them). I also remember the professors who constantly stressed responsibility, service to humanity, and ethics. As for what I am doing now, I retired from the Navy Dental Corps in August, 1959, after 30 years' service. My wife and I live on the California desert in the winter and in the Colorado mountains in the summer.

Oscar Lee Hite

Oscar Lee Hite

September, 1925, a date long remembered—orientation at MCV, an unknown word. Upon matriculation, a box of bones of the human body was issued each new student with the admonition to study. No longer were credits the aim, but preparing oneself for a dedicated life of service to mankind was the challenge and goal.

Two interesting experiences, one in school, one later:

One not only studied medicine but politics played its role. On one occasion I went to the student election prepared to keep the forces in power in line. I rose to a point of order and informed the presiding officer that I had the instrument in my hand (the Constitution) and the other hand in my pocket. There was a loud roar from the audience, "Which hand?" Embarrassing to say the least.

In later years, I was called to see a lady patient. She had a temperature of 101°. I said to her husband, "You had better sleep in another room tonight."

His response: "I wouldn't sleep with her for $100."

I responded to his wife he was an awfully high-priced man.

This experience was narrated to my wife. Her admonition was that I would never see the patient again. Her prognostication was wrong. She has been seen many times since.

The practice of medicine has been a joy, always trying to see the humor on all occasions.

Chapman Hunter Binford

Recently I reviewed my bound volume of hand-written notes taken during my junior year at MCV. We sat for four hours daily on the hard seats in room 400 of the Egyptian Building. The leading physicians of Richmond, the majority without financial remuneration, gave us scholarly, articulate lectures encompassing the specialties and subspecialties of that period. They used no visual aids except the blackboard.

Chapman Hunter Binford

As a foreword to this compilation of notes I wrote:

"These notes represent in a rough way a resume of the efforts made by many of the best clinicians of Richmond to impart to us as undergraduates what they have made their own through hard work and diligent study. To each I am grateful."

Those professors, dedicated to the

Leonard Iverson Hoke

ideals of medicine as practiced 50 years ago, laid the foundation for the Medical College of Virginia as it stands today.

Roger Wade Perry

There were quite a number of interesting happenings during my school years, but one that stands out happened during our state board examination. The board was given in two parts: theory and practical.

When we went to the laboratory for the practical we found eight or ten exercises or questions to complete. We were given a sealed envelope containing a weighed portion of sodium salicylate with instructions to make twelve 5 grain capsules of sodium salicylate. Upon opening the envelope there was a purple tablet of potassium permanganate in the powder.

What to do? I reread the question. It stated to make twelve 5 grain capsules of sodium salicylate, so I laid the tablet aside; not using it.

One of the Board members came by, stopped and watched me for a while, then asked me where the purple tablet was?

When I showed it to him he wanted to know why I had not used it. I asked him to read the question. If I had used the tablet it would contain something other than sodium salicylate. He immediately contacted other members of the board and after a conference they threw the question out. They could not agree whether it was used as a test for neatness or for accuracy in interpreting the instruction.

Hubert Vencill Moss

Hubert Vencill Moss

In referring to an experience in my office in the early years of my practice, I had a patient come in because of a loose tooth. On further examination I found a broken mandible. I called in an M.D. and he said I should take care of it. I had never done a fracture before but after reading my book I wired his jaws together and after 5-6 weeks he was fine.

He then developed a severe case of gingivitis and after clearing that up and making a bridge for the missing tooth, I charged $75.

Oscar Stewart Martin

Thirty-four ambitious men gathered together in September, 1925, to form the class of '29. We were so busy that we had little time to know what was going on in the outside world. By September, 1926, the fog began to dissipate and there were only twenty-four of us left. The next three years were uneventful and, in June, 1929, twenty three of us graduated. Our class worked together, played together, and all of us enjoyed those four years.

As of now, there are ten of us still around. There are six of us in Virginia—Isham Hardy in Hampton; Oscar Martin in Lynchburg; Dave Patrick, Waynesboro; Frank Rhinehart, Highland Springs; Bob Saffelle, Emporia; and Bagles Walker in Norfolk; Raymond Lowry is in Cantil, Calif.; Brown Morgan, Kannapolis, N. C.; Puss Smith, Raeford, N. C.; and H. V. Moss in Weirton, West Virginia.

Oscar Stewart Martin

With all of the seriousness of becoming dentists, there were lighter moments, too, like the Sunday night, after a day of cramming for pharmacology, four of us went to Funai's for a sandwich and coffee. Who should appear but Dr. Haskell returning from a day of duck hunting. He asked if we were ready for our final and we told him we thought we were so he said that if we liked, we could come down then and get pharmacology off our minds. Two of us made it but the other two had to return later and they also made it.

Then there was one of our classmates who was having trouble with his fixed-bridge casting. He had to complete it after exams. Dr. Chevalier (crown and bridge) and ten or twelve of us were guests at Dr. Wood's York River home. The classmate telegraphed Dr. Chevalier: "The patient swallowed bridge. Please wire pass." Dr. Chevalier wired back: "Will pass bridge when patient passes bridge."

Then there was Bob Moss, who, in taking his first plaster impression for a bewhiskered patient, spent three hours removing the plaster from his patient's whiskers with college pliers.

Then there was a Saturday afternoon when we went down the river on the Naval Reserve boat with our dates (26, 7-3 duty nurses). Striking a log, we sheared a propeller and drifted down stream until 1 a.m. when we were taken in tow by a sand tug boat. The girls got home just in time to make their 7-3 duty the next day.

Yes, these past 50 years have been wonderful. We hope the next fifty will be as interesting and challenging as the first fifty. MCV has been a wonderful college and will serve even greater needs in the future.

Bernard Lee Parrish

Ray Dawson and I did outpatient OB in August, 1928. We had never seen or examined a patient in labor. We had never seen a delivery and only knew what we had seen and read in Williams Obstetrics.

Our first case was on North First Street. Upon arrival we gave her the only medication we had—Quinine 5 grs. and Castor Oil 1 oz. and examined the patient. After the examination we didn't know anymore than before except she seemed to be pregnant.

The next morning Ray went off to breakfast. I was sitting on the front porch when a lady said, "Doctor, something is happening." When I went in and looked, there was this round object with irregular black lines under a gray membrane protruding. The first thing that flashed through my mind was, "Is this the placenta coming first?" Then suddenly the baby was out in the bed.

The next night we spent on West Clay Street. Early the next afternoon I went to check on the patient we had delivered the day before. Upon returning to patient No. 2, I found Ray reading a magazine and the patient sitting on a slop jar. When I looked she was having her baby.

Thank goodness these primitive obstetrics were abandoned shortly after we graduated.

Eugene Brown Morgan

Eugene Brown Morgan

I practiced seven years in Concord, North Carolina, and moved to Kannapolis, North Carolina, February 26, 1937. I was made a life member of the American Dental Association in 1971. I would put first, as one of my greatest sources of inspiration, the wonderful professors at MCV under whom it was my privilege to study. I remember so clearly: Dr. Henry Lyons, histology and clinical professor, even in 1925-26, he was one of the most dedicated persons to dentistry whom I have ever known, and he was a friend to all; Dr. Brodnax, professor of anatomy. "You boys go to church on Sunday mornings, Sunday night stay home and study;" and Dr. Haskell, professor of physiology, "I have taught dumber students than dental students. I have taught pharmacy students."

Dreams do come true. My son, Dr. E. B. Morgan, Jr., graduated from Emory University Dental School in 1964, and is now practicing in adjoining offices with me.

William Prather Stull

My four years at the Medical College were very happy and enlightening—many lasting friendships were made. Forty years of practice in Carlisle, Pennsylvania, were very gratifying and rewarding, especially the thirty-nine years on the OB staff. I spent forty-four months in the Air Force during World War II.

Naturally, I had many odd and interesting experiences. In my early years of practice I collected and examined urine specimens. On one of my house calls, I picked up a sample in a quart whiskey bottle and left it on the seat of the car. When I returned from another call, the bottle and contents were gone. What a cocktail mix!!

I am grateful and honored to be able to attend this 50th reunion and meet the boys again.

Anne Franks Mahoney

Since graduation in 1929 it has been my privilege to have been active in both MCV and the MCV Alumni Association continuously in many different capacities. The Nursing Section of the Alumni Association claimed my greatest interest and effort until the structure of the organization changed.

The first Outstanding Nurse Award was made to me in 1970 which made me feel very humble. I gained more from my experience than I gave. My eight years as a member of the MCV Board of Visitors and one year as a member of the Transition Board as V.C.U. came into being saw many problems, challenges, and constant new developments of which I was proud to be a part.

Hubert Adams Shaffer

Throughout my years as a student in the MCV School of Nursing and later as a professional nurse many pleasures were mine, as well as much hard work, and many friends were made whom I would not have known in any other field. I remember each of my classmates of 50 years ago with pride, and sorrow to miss four of them this year.

Hubert Adams Shaffer.

While students, Dr. Wilkinson and I were partners on call for outpatient obstetrical cases. One night during mid-winter we were called to deliver a negro woman in a cold, poorly lit garret. While we did the delivery, three young, teen-age girls sat about arm's length behind us continually giggling and watching every move.

A very few nights later we delivered a young negro woman in a two-room shanty near the tobacco factories by the C & O tracks. It was a very cold night and for heat a negro man kept a fire going in the pot-bellied stove in the small room during the delivery. After the delivery we gave them post-delivery instructions. The next evening, Dr. Wilkinson and I made our first post-delivery call on the mother. We were horrified to find that the mother had gone to work as usual at the tobacco factory and the baby had frozen to death in its bed.

William Augustus Anthony

I asked a very successful practitioner for some advice. I expected some advice on bedside manners or some wisdom in diagnosis and treatment. Instead, he said, "Work like hell and economize." I remembered this as if Dr. Charlie Haskell had said it to me.

I am planning to attend my class reunion this spring.

Rosalind White Roach

I have always been proud of my profession as a nurse and especially being a graduate of the Medical College of Virginia. I have served as a nursing supervisor in the Occupational Health Division of the Veterans Administration, as well as serving in the hospitals. I have always been a very patriotic person and felt it a real honor to be qualified to serve the veterans in the hospitals, as well as working in the main office and being assigned to the health units to care for the employees who service the veterans. For several years I was the chief blood recruiter for the Veterans Benefits Office in Washington, D. C. This made me realize how important it was to encourage the employees to donate blood and I had many contacts with the Red Cross at this time when I was called on to send donors for emergency donations.

I served in the Army Nurse Corps during World War II and so many interesting things happened, too many to relate. It was a real pleasure to take care of our soldiers who were sick and those who had been wounded.

A good student nearly always cherishes the memory of an outstanding teacher. Doctor Haskell, professor of pharmacology, was such a teacher.

As was his custom, he went down the roll, and when my turn came and I was totally unprepared, I resolved to be ready when my turn came around next time. Contrary to his usual procedure, he called on me again the next day, and again I was caught with my pants down. With a sardonic smile and his customary drawl, he remarked, "Mr. Blankinship, didn't you know lightning sometimes strikes twice in the same place!"

How watermelon got into pharmacology I don't know, but this remark he made one day lingers with me: "A watermelon seed in the hands of one skilled in its use is a missile of no mean potentiality."

Another encounter with Doctor Haskell was my final oral exam in his office on the third floor of the Egyptian Building. The fire in the pot-bellied stove was low, the coal bucket was empty, the janitor not available, and so I volunteered to get some coal but he said we would wait. Before he could start, his daughter popped in, having had a flat tire, janitor nowhere to be found. Again I volunteered. Again I was rejected. I believe if I had gotten the coal and had fixed the flat, I still would have gotten a "C" average. He was a great teacher, always against proprietary drugs but in later years he successfully founded a pharmaceutical company of his own. I would encounter him frequently at medical conventions and he always made me feel that he always knew I would amount to something or he wouldn't have given me that "C" in pharmacology.

My father and four brothers received their M.D. degrees from MCV and I have had the pleasure of seeing our two sons graduate from MCV. Both specialized in obstetrics and gynecology and they now practice in Roanoke.

I did general practice in Roanoke from 1930 until my retirement in December, 1975. I served in the Army from 1942 until 1946, fifteen months in the Pacific on Saipan with the 176th Station Hospital. I held the rank of major and was chief of surgery and later was commanding officer.

After graduation, I came to Norfolk and interned at the old St. Vincent DePaul Hospital for two years. After that I began the practice of medicine, as a general practitioner, and did a lot of surgery and obstetrics. I was associated with Dr. Levi Old, a fine surgeon. I delivered many children through the years until I stopped surgery and obstetrics when I was about 65. I continue to work full time in general practice, including hospital care.

I could tell many stories of experiences in my practice. I think my most embarrassing moment occurred one day when I had finished an operation at DePaul Hospital, and went over to an adjoining operating room. Dr. Charles E. Davis was operating on a man's thigh and had a large incision laying wide open on the thigh. I looked at the leg and exclaimed, kidding Dr. Davis, "This man will never walk again".

Whereupon the man raised up from the table and exclaimed, "The Hell I won't!!!!" He was under spinal analgesia.

One of life's greatest opportunities was the privilege of schooling given by our dear alma mater. Here we had intensive training in the healing arts, preparing us to render service to mankind. Applying the golden rule to this excellent schooling led to a life of fulfillment and great joy.

Being a graduate nurse of the Medical College of Virginia brought many opportunities and unanticipated challenges. At the age of twenty one, I was sent by the College to a hospital in North Carolina to reorganize the school of nursing. While there, a patient was ready to deliver and the attending physician was notified at two o'clock in the morning.

His reply was, "Ah, Miss Harrell, I just got in from an emergency. I'm tired. Won't you please deliver for me? I'll drop by to see her in the morning."

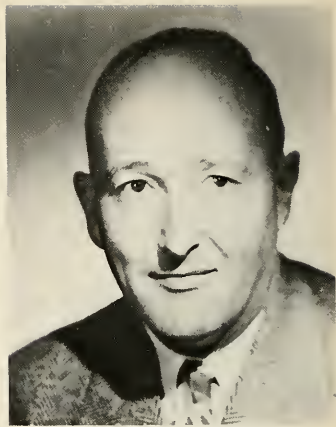

Mastering that experience, I felt secure in the challenge presented as Dr. C. C. Coleman's surgical nurse. Later I went into industrial nursing. God bless our alma mater, and may she live forever!

Frances Ladd Pickard

It was a privilege to graduate from the Medical College of Virginia with the class of '29.

I have many fond memories of many people; but the most vivid is of Dr. Dudley C. Ashton. He knew my name was Miss Ladd and each time he met me in the hall, elevator, or patient's room he would pat me on the head and say "Blessings on thee little Ladd". Of course some V.I.P. was always present! Most embarrassing then but a fond memory now.

John Hudson Robinson

It happened to me during a noonday in April, 1928, while I was sitting on a concrete wall in front of the administration building of MCV enjoying the warm sun between lectures. Looking across the street I noticed a tall, lean, and well-dressed gentleman looking at a large anchor chain in the enclosed Confederate Museum yard. I walked over to the gentleman and offered to explain some of the collected items in the museum.

During the conversation he told me he was Henry Ford and he liked to collect early American items. He also told me that he and his wife were staying in Richmond and tomorrow they were going on to Williamsburg, Virginia. He also asked me to please keep quiet his presence in Richmond. I agreed to keep his secret.

The next day a Richmond newspaper announced that Mr. Henry Ford and wife had been in Richmond but had now journeyed on to Williamsburg, Virginia. This was the only time I ever had an opportunity to talk with Mr. Henry Ford.

One day in the anatomy laboratory during our freshman year, we started studying the anatomy of the abdomen and one group of students inquired of their fellow classmates what they could do to make the cadaver's abdomen easier to dissect. After receiving negative head shakes from several groups, one enterprising student suggested that they inflate the abdomen by inserting a bicycle pump into the rectum and pumping air into the intestines. A bicycle pump was finally located and just as they were to start the operation, they noted every other student in the laboratory had their eyes on their table with big grins on their faces and the experiment was forthwith canceled.

Warren Gleaves Bishop

Dr. Bishop was the only member of the class of '29 to cross the Mississippi River for his internship. He went to San Francisco, California, for it and then to Oregon and has continued practice in Medford, Oregon, except for three-years service as a commander in the U. S. Navy, serving in the Pacific zone and in the Philippines.

In recent years he has devoted much time to geriatrics, being medical director of the Rogue Valley Manor for the past eighteen years. He has been active in local and state medical societies; Shrine, Elks, and Kiwanis Clubs; and has served many years on the city's Athletic Commission.

Warren Gleaves Bishop

He spends his spare time fishing for salmon and rainbow trout or attending Pacific coast football games.

Lillian Gayle Winston

Some of my dearest memories come from the Medical College of Virginia and the nurses' training I received some fifty years ago. Turning the clock back to the Christmas holidays of 1928, I was on night duty in the emergency room of Old Memorial Hospital. A drunken man was brought in who was in bad condition and at the point of tearing the place apart. While I was in the process of getting my orderly and intern together to help do a lavage on the man, Dr. Patrick H. Winston, an OB intern, came to my rescue and in no time had the situation in hand. When the orderly returned with another intern, everything was under control.

Lillian Gayle Winston

On October 8, 1930, Dr. Winston and I were married. We lived and practiced medicine in Clarksville, Virginia. I was his wife, mother of his two children, and office nurse. He was a faithful general practitioner to all of the people in the Clarksville community until he died very suddenly on October 6, 1977, and was buried October 8, 1977, on our 47th anniversary.

I am very proud to have attended Medical College of Virginia as it prepared me for a rewarding life.

James Clarence Bray

While I have many fond memories of my days at MCV, I think that I will share with you what my degree from MCV has meant. I arrived in Richmond in the middle 1920's; I came from a rural high school which graduated 15 people. I had never seen the city of Richmond before, nor had I ever ridden a train such as the one which brought me from Norfolk to Richmond. Since that time, I practiced pharmacy in Petersburg and for eight highly enjoyable years in Waverly prior to acquiring my own business in Portsmouth, Virginia.

MCV provided me with the one opportunity to dramatically chart the course of my life. I am thankful that the College ably prepared me to make my way.

William Asa Seawell

During my sophomore year we had gotten about half way through Dr. Charlie Haskell's course in physiology and I had not been called upon during that time. I thought he had forgotten me until one day it happened. I was so nervous and upset I gave him every answer other than the right one.

Dr. Charlie was very kind to me. He said, "Now Seawell, I know you are upset so study tonight and come back tomorrow with the correct answers," which I did.

Elva Newman

An outstanding and fond memory of my three years as a student nurse at MCV is a daily routine we performed: up at 6:00 a.m., walk three blocks from the Clay Street Nursing Home to the Memorial Hospital on Broad, have breakfast, and out quickly into the inspection line for Miss Reitz. It was a "Good Morning, Miss Reitz; Good Morning, Miss Reitz; Yes, Miss Reitz; Yes, Miss Reitz; and ending up sometimes in having to go back to Clay to our room to sew on a missing button or lower a hem that by accident became ten or twelve inches up instead of seven, from the floor. Those were the happiest days of my life.

William Joseph Ellis

My junior year I elected to get my OB cases over during the summer. Rufus DeHart, now deceased, and I went to deliver a young black girl who had an apartment over a fish market. Labor was progressing to our satisfaction, but the patient's mother kept asking, "Is it time for sneezing?"

Elva Newman

Samuel Taylor McAtee

We didn't have the faintest idea to what she was referring. After the fifth time, same question, I told her, yes, it was time. She provided hot coals on a shovel, poured black pepper on the coals, and passed this under the patient's nose, she sneezed twice and gave birth. Incidentally, since beginning practice I have delivered two sets of triplets, all still living.

Virginia Moore Porter

I have many pleasant memories of my school days at MCV. When I go to my class reunions I feel like I am in a different place as there have been such progressive changes. I am so proud to be a member of the class of 1929 and am looking forward to seeing "y'all" in June.

Samuel Taylor McAtee

Forty-six students had registered in the freshman class in pharmacy by September 14, 1926. At least one of these students was unusual. She was a lady, somewhat older than the rest of the class but very much interested in pharmacy. Dean Rudd was surprised to find three of these students from Berryville, Virginia. Only 26 members graduated in 1929.

I left Richmond on June 6 for Charlottesville and a job at Chancellor's Drug Store, near the University of Virginia. In 1934, I was transferred to the downtown area to manage Timberlake's Drug Store. Mr. J. Robert Ponton and I bought the business in 1937.

After almost 40 years on Main Street, we sold our business to Mr. John Plantz in 1977. I retired in 1971 and continue to live in Charlottesville.

It has been over fifty years but it seems only yesterday that our MCV baseball team took a trip to North Carolina and stopped in Dinwiddie so a member of our team (the now deceased, Dr. R. D. "Jug" Butterworth) could visit his mother. When he returned to the bus he had the largest bag of homemade cookies I ever saw. We really enjoyed them and I don't think we met many times after that for practice or a game that someone did not say, "Jug, has your mother sent any more cookies?"

Rachel Haile Hughes

It is an honor to be a 50-year graduate of the Medical College of Virginia and a member of the School of Nursing, Class of '29.

I shall always be grateful to my dedicated teachers, Miss Reitz, Miss Mew, Dr. LaRoque and many others that prepared me for my life's work. After living in fear of Dr. LaRoque for three years, my first night on special duty in my white uniform Dr. LaRoque, while making rounds with a group of interns, stopped me in the hall on first private at Memorial Hospital, congratulated me and kissed me on the cheek, and said "All my girls get this."

I was with the Veterans Administration for thirty-two years—Perry Point, Maryland; Dearborn, Michigan; Fort Howard, Maryland; and McGuire's, Richmond, Virginia.

Since retiring I have worked as a volunteer with the American Cancer Society and the American Red Cross in my home county, Essex. I enjoy bridge with my friends and travelling.

Marcus Raynor Smith

I have been active in dental societies, serving as president of the Fourth District and Southeastern Dental Societies, and on practically every committee while practicing in Raeford, North Carolina, until my health caused me to retire.

I married Emily Moore Mellon of near Statesville, North Carolina, in 1934 and we have one son, one daughter, and three grandchildren.

I have been active in community and town civic life, having served on every board and drive, and in local church, Presbytery, North Carolina Synod and General Assembly, and on all church courts of the Presbyterian Church U. S., was the recipient of Man of the Year Citizenship Award, and have found time to do some fishing and travelling.

At MCV I was having some trouble with a full denture case. Dr. Holliday tried twice with failure and suggested that I try something, which I did and reported back to him that it didn't work and asked him what I should try now. He replied, "Do like the damn fools around the river, do the best you can." There have been a few times during my practice that I remembered that.

Edward Lawson Carter

On this fiftieth anniversary I can look back on my years at the Medical College of Virginia with many cherished and happy memories. The year nineteen hundred and twenty-nine was not a particularly good year in the field of business, although I had the good fortune to be employed as soon as I passed the State Board. I worked for several years in the retail drug business. Then I joined the Upjohn Pharmaceutical Company as a detail and sales representative. Later I was transferred to the hospital division of the Upjohn Company. I retired thirty-two years later from that Company. However, my retirement did not last long. In a few months I joined the staff at Johnston-Willis Hospital as a pharmacist, and I remained there for nine years, retiring in 1977. Mrs. Carter and I are both retired and are truly enjoying life.

After finishing my internship I located in Shelby, North Carolina, a city of 20,000 and a county of 80,000, fifty miles west of Charlotte, a city with three large hospitals. In 1942 I enlisted in the Medical Corps and served four years, two years overseas with the 98th General Hospital. Returning home in February, 1946, I gave up OB and just did general practice.

I had been appointed physician to the city and county jail, and here's one little bit of humor: A patient called and asked if I was home, my wife said, "No, he was at the jail."

She screamed! "In jail?"

My wife said, "No, he is making a call at the jail."

I remember sneaking out of Cabaniss Hall, through the underground to Clay Street to a prearranged meeting with my classmate, Anne Franks. I'd been campused (my last day in training) for refusing to clean a sink the painters had messed up in the clinic at Old Virginia Hospital. I spent the day at West Point, Virginia, Anne's home, a glorious time!

Edwin Taylor von Pippin II

Because I was a high school graduate, I enrolled in Memorial six months before we became the School of Nursing. I graduated in two years and eight months. I had to make up the lack of hours in order to register in other states. We worked twelve-hour night duty and ten-hour day duty.

Edwin Taylor von Pippin II

Many years have passed since I was born in Bristol, Virginia, on May 12, 1907. I could not begin to put into two hundred words my life history. Since the first time I filled a prescription in 1918 during the flu epidemic, I have filled many capsules and rolled a pile of Blaud's pills.

With the sale of my drug store, after thirty years, I hope to start another career—retirement!

I expect to be at my fiftieth reunion in June.

Frank Spencer Anderson, Jr.

After graduating from the MCV Pharmacy School in 1929, I spent one year at the University of Florida obtaining a B.S. in pharmacy and then returned to Richmond and went to work. On June 21, 1967, I moved to Emporia, Virginia, and continued working regularly as a pharmacist until about September, 1975, when I retired. I am still doing some relief work every now and then either in Emporia or Boykins.

April 15, 1979

Dear Alumnus:

How very much I would like to write each of you individually and thank you for your many kindnesses to me over the years as I have worked with you and for you in the MCV Alumni Association. I cherish your friendship and will have a storehouse of pleasant memories to look back upon.

All that prefaces the news that on April 15 I submitted my resignation to the president and chairman of the executive committee to be effective July 1. I hate to leave you but all good things must come to an end.

I guess I could say I've loved almost every minute of it. The challenges have been many and the work sometimes a bit overwhelming but through it all has been the support and cooperation of you, my employers, for which I'm most grateful. The hospitality extended as I've covered the many miles of the chapter circuit has been heartwarming.

My devotion to the MCV Alumni Association and its alumni I think is apparent. I wish for it and you the best of futures. I hope it can remain independent and cognizant of the needs of the MCV alumni. I have told the president and the chairman of the executive committee that if ever I could be of any help, I'll gladly volunteer my services.

Thank you again.

Sincerely yours,

Minnie M. Franck
Executive Secretary

Reunion, '79

Medical College of Virginia Alumni Association 1105 East Clay Street, Richmond, Virginia

Dear Alumnus:

When you receive this, Reunion, '79, will be almost here. The dates, June 1, 2, and 3 have been long on our minds and now the plans are in the final stages and we are looking forward to welcoming you. One slight change you will note in the program, we are not having a dinner-dance on Saturday night but instead a cocktail party at the Commonwealth Club, which we know you will enjoy.

We hope you will plan to be with us to enjoy the camaraderie that exists between MCV alumni and to attend the annual meeting where your wise counsel will be solicited.

Sincerely yours,

Robert O. Hudgens, M.D.
President

stopped down, he was director of the graduate training program in neurosurgery at Good Samaritan and Christ Hospitals.

E. Cotton Rawls (M) of Stamford, Connecticut, was the subject of an interesting writeup in the Alumni News of the College of William and Mary.

1932 R. Lee Clark, Jr. (M), of Houston, Texas, retired as president of the University of Texas System Cancer Center in August and was named president emeritus of the institution he had created and the University Cancer Foundation that supports it. Many tributes were paid to him but we quote from the last paragraph of the University of Texas System Cancer Center Newsletter: "No one, however, was able to express the emotions engendered by Dr. Clark and his fruitful labor of 32 years quite as eloquently as Carmen Prudente, vice-president of the Antonio Prudente Foundation, Sao Paulo, Brazil. Her closing lines said what many, perhaps, wanted to say but could not: 'A radiant smile and his open arms were all we needed to take him straight to our hearts. Wherever he goes, on pilgrimage against cancer, he is surrounded by people looking for the privilege of meeting him. God bless you, Lee Clark, and may your way be paved with roses and the stars shine on you.'"

THE TEAM WORKING FOR THE MEDICAL COLLEGE OF VIRGINIA

The Alumni of MCV are serving humanity with distinction and compassion throughout the world. Their records of achievement inspire those who labor at MCV—one of the finest teaching hospitals and research centers in the nation—to continue dedicated training of the future members of an expanding health care team.

The Medical College of Virginia Foundation is dedicated to assisting the institution and its staff by providing financial help desperately needed now but not available from the long-range, and sometimes drastically curtailed, budgets of the Commonwealth of Virginia.

Your MCV Foundation needs Alumni assistance and provides a practical and well-managed source through which your gifts, large or small, during life, or under the terms of your will, may be made. Such gifts are fully deductible in computing income and estate taxes. The Foundation welcomes your contribution, or your inquiries.
