

Glee Club Sets Feast of Carols

Annual Service Features Foreign Songs

The 14th annual Feast of Carols given by the Girls' Glee Club will be held at the Pace Memorial Church at 5:00 p.m. Sunday, December 17.

Heretofore the service has been held in the gym, but this year it will take place at the Pace Memorial Church to accommodate the crowd.

Traditional and less familiar carols from many countries, including England, France, and Germany, will be heard. A Haiti carol will be sung by a trio composed of Doris Hedg-peth, Ernestine Gibson, and Dorothy White. Anne Field, Alice Hurst, and Martha Jane Coleman will sing solo and duet selections. The organ accompanist will be Mary Elizabeth Kimsey.

The processional will be "O Come All Ye Faithful" and the recessional, "Hear the Herald Angels Sing."

A candle-lighting service will pre-cede the Feast of Carols, and the public is invited.

Annual Pictures Now Being Taken

Individual pictures for the Wig-wam, RPI annual, are being taken all this week by the Welford Dun-ford Studio on West Cary Street.

Most of the juniors and seniors had their pictures taken last week but those who were unable to be at the studio at the scheduled time may get them this week. Ellen Dyer, editor of the Wigwam, stated that the proofs should be back about a week after the pictures are taken.

Price for each student will be $1.50, which should be paid when the picture is taken at the studio. Students must pose in long-sleeved white blouses.

To reach the Welford Dunford Studio take the Floyd bus to West Cary Street. The studio is several doors below the Byrd Theater.

IRC Meeting Tonight To Discuss Russia

Dr. Alice Davis and Madame Nadia Danilevsky will speak and show pictures on Russia tonight at the International Relations Club meeting in the Studio Theatre at 7:30.

Mary Clare Dinneen, president of the IRC, said that the meeting is for new members who have been invited. Anyone else interested in joining is also welcome to come, she said. Refreshments will be served following the meeting.

A candle-light service is being planned for next week when the new members will be initiated.

Eskimo Woman Spoke Here Today

Anauta, only Eskimo woman on the American platform, spoke here this morning in convocation at Pace Memorial Church at 10:45.

Coming to the United States via Newfoundland, Anauta learned English quickly and soon became ac-customed to the American way of life. She laughed at the way Amer-ican girls dress, saying that "in my country our girls wear deerskin stockings, sealskin boots, deerskin undergarments and top clothes."

A native of Baffin Land and the author of "Land of the Good Shad-ow," Anauta has spoken in many different states. She obtained money to come to America by sell-ing furs which she had brought with her to Newfoundland.

Orchestra Concert Changes Date

The date of the school orchestra concert, under the direction of Mr. Volney Shepard, which is to be held in the gym, has been changed from December 12 to Wednesday, Decem-ber 13, at 8:30 p.m.

RPI students who will participate in the orchestra concert will be Mildred Hale playing the clarinet; Dorothy White, violinist; Helen Briesmeister, cellist; Mary Elizabeth Kimsey playing the flute; and Grace Emanuel at the piano.

The repertoire includes selections from the classical, romantic, and modern schools of music.

From the Lyric Suite of Grieg they will play "Notturmo" and "March of the Dwarfs." Also on the pro-gram will be Haydn's Militaire Sym-phony, "Andante Cantabile" from the String Quartet by Tchaikowsky, and two movements from a "Suite in F Major" by Mr. Volney Shep-ard, the Director of the School of Music at RPI.

(Please see page 3 for Mr. Shep-ard's own humorous (?) comments on the orchestra concert. If this is not inducement enough then see Mr. Shepard—Editor.)

Wigwam Christmas Formal To Be Held December 16

Will You Dress Christmas Dolls?

Would you like to bring happiness to an underprivileged child on Christmas day? You may do so by going to room 11, first floor of the Administration building and there obtain a doll which you may clothe.

The Salvation Army is sponsoring this activity. Mrs. Lois Washer is in charge of distributing the dolls here at school.

The wardrobe should consist of sleeping togs, play clothes, and a "dress up" outfit. All dolls must be returned on or before December 14.

Two gatherings have been spon-sored for the purpose of dressing the dolls.

Miss Helen Frease, Occupational Therapy Instructor, held a gather-ing for Occupational Therapy stu-dents Friday night, December 1. The girls spent the evening sewing the clothes, and dressing the dolls. A few Costume Design students were also present.

A group of girls from Founder's Hall also held a "get-together" for the purpose of getting the dolls fin-ished and returned.

Pat Albright Made Basketball Head

Pat Albright has been elected manager of the basketball team this year. Ethyl Merritt is assistant manager for the season.

Practice is held each Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday afternoon at 4:00 in the gymnasium. Miss Edna Jane Nesbitt, coach, says that all students are welcome to come out to practices.

Among last year's players out this year are Ann Edge, captain, Mary Virginia Vanni, Pat Quisenberry, Agnes Nobles, Betty Hodge, Lois Wilfong, Ray Bowers, and Betty Williams. Others will be seen on the court as the season progresses, Miss Nesbitt said.

First game of the team will be in January and will begin the Round Robin tournament with other local schools: John Marshall, Thomas Jefferson, Westhampton, St. Cath-erines, Collegiate, and the Basket-ball Club.

Professors Attend Social Work Meet

Dr. George T. Kalif, Miss Corde-lia Cox, and Miss Aileen Shane at-tended the Regional Meeting of the Virginia Conference of Social Work in Fredericksburg on Friday, Decem-ber 1. Also, some of the social work students at RPI were present.

Dr. Kalif spoke at an Alumni luncheon of the Richmond School of Social Work while at the conference.

Staff Makes Plans To Go "All Out"

The annual formal Christmas dance of the Wigwam will be held in the gym Saturday night, Decem-ber 16, from 9:00 to 12:00. Mary Virginia Vanni, general chairman, announced today. "The staff has decided to go 'all out' and present the most colorful dance of the year," she stated.

Chairmen of the dance committees are Ebbie Sitgall, decorations; Pat Quisenberry, men; Mildred English, invitations; Dot Tenent, publicity; Pat Albright and Beannie Passeri, tickets; and Virginia Coles Merfield, orchestra.

Santa In Person

"An honest-to-goodness Santa Claus will meet you at the door, and the gym will be in perfect atmos-phere with trees, lights, balls, and holly," Vanni said.

Prices Reversed

Reversing the normal procedure in ticket prices, tickets for the dance will be 75 cents stag and 50 cents drag. (Says Vanni, "Bring a man and save a quarter!") Students purchasing drag tickets and finding at the last minute that they will come stag instead will be expected to pay the additional 25 cents at the door.

Christmas Seals Sold This Week

Christmas Seals will be sold on the first floor of the Administration building from Wednesday, Decem-ber 6, through Saturday morning, December 9. The seals will be on sale all morning and one hour each afternoon.

Through Miss Lillian Guidry of the Richmond Tuberculosis Associa-tion, the Proscript is sponsoring the sale here in the school.

Shirley Scott is in charge of the stamps in the school. Helping her with the sale are: Betty Moore, Marianne Silver, Corbin Crafford, Alice Andrews, Julianna Norfleet, Toney Overcash, Betty Anderson, and Alyse Deane.

Miss Guidry is in charge of the stamp sale in the city of Richmond.

Make-Up Test Rules Cited By Dr. McCoy

The following announcement was made today by the office and Dr. S. J. McCoy:

No student will be permitted to take a make-up quiz unless he pre-sents to the person in charge of the make-up quiz a written permission from the Registrar's Office to take the make-up.

His subject was, "Professional Edu-cation for Social Work."

Share Your Snapshots

Every year the Wigwam devotes a portion of its pages to snapshots of the students. For the past several years film has been very scarce and the staff has requested that students lend snapshots of themselves, schoolmates, or campus scenes for use in the college annual.

It is not a bit too early to begin offering pictures you have taken or to take some that may be used in the annual. Not only does this save what little film the staff can obtain for special pictures but a greater variety of poses and people result.

If you have pictures you would like to lend, either give them to a member of the staff or leave them in the Wigwam mail box in the front hall of the Ad Building. Compiling an annual in wartime isn't a cinch, and your help will greatly ease the burden of the few students who devote their time and talent to give you such a memento against such great odds.

The Perfect Solution

Would you like to spend an enjoyable evening once or twice a month and get a cut in sociology to boot? We have the perfect solution: the Intercollegiate Council.

If you enjoy exchanging ideas and working with other college students (men, too!) in Richmond, you'll certainly find a place for yourself in the Council.

The next meeting is Tuesday night, December 12, in the Egyptian Building of the Medical College of Virginia. Plan to come. If you hesitate, just ask any of the twenty-five RPI students who are members to tell you what you're missing.

No Filthy Jeans for Fashion Queens

After reading the various comments on college girls' attire called to public attention by the Wellsley girls pictured on Life Magazine's cover several issues back wearing jeans, old shirts, and unkempt hair to town, it was quite inspiring to hear a visitor here last week say that she thought our girls dressed better and more sensibly than most college girls she has seen.

Now that it has been called to your attention, you'll have to admit that it is seldom you see an RPI girl in clothing that is inappropriate for a college campus. Perhaps the temptation for us is less since our school is located in a residential district of the city. Besides many of the students commute from other parts of town and naturally dress sensibly.

Whatever the reason behind this good quality which called for the visitor's compliment last week, it's something to be proud of!

Remember Your X-Ray

In an effort to assist Richmond in selling its quota of Christmas seals for the Tuberculosis Association, the Proscript has undertaken the sale in our school. Shirley Scott, our art editor, is in charge of the seal sale.

When you are asked to buy a few seals please contribute to this great cause in this small way. Remember the free X-rays given RPI students in past years by the Richmond Tuberculosis Association and show your appreciation by buying Christmas seals.

The Students Speak

THE RIGHT WAY

Dear Editor,

The procedure in convocation seems to be confusing to some and maybe this explanation will help untangle it.

The seating arrangement is that on one side of the aisle the seniors are seated, and behind them are the freshmen. On the other side of the aisle are the faculty, juniors and sophomores.

On leaving convocation the faculty and seniors march out. After the seniors, the juniors, sophomores, and freshmen respectively leave by classes. The difference is that the seniors march out by rows whereas the other classes leave by any of their aisles and do not march out.

Please remember where your class sits and do not leave until the class above you has left. By doing this you will help the junior marshalls considerably.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth A. Jameson,
Senior Class President.

BLANCHE SENDS THANKS

The following letter was sent addressed to "The Students" by Blanche Glenn, junior here last year, who has been ill in the Medical College:

Dearest Girls,

How sweet all of you have been! I've appreciated all the many cards and gifts more than I can tell. The teddy bear that the Senior Class sent sits on my night stand all the time.

I miss all those grand old gossip sessions and bridge pow-wows we used to have but there is some hope that someday I'll be right in the middle of it again.

I'd love to see all of you whenever you can come.

Love and thanks to each,
Blanche.

JEST IN FUN

In the behavior problems class of Dr. Kalif the troubles of one Mrs. Abrams, an unfortunate character in a case story being read in the class, are also becoming the troubles of the b. p. students. In the discussions one day Dr. Kalif advanced, "The only man with whom Mrs. Abrams could be happy would be Prince Charming. But there isn't a Prince Charming really, now is there?" Our newly-wed, Virginia Coles Merifield, was astonished and immediately retorted in a defensive sort of voice, "Yeah-yus!" About all Dr. Kalif could say to this apparent proof against his statement was, "Oh, come now!"

Some RPI girls at the William and Mary-University of Richmond game Thanksgiving Day got some laughs along with the thrills. It seems that one of Richmond's players was constantly being mentioned over the loud speaker. A joker in the crowd was heard to inquire, "What is this game supposed to be—William and Mary versus Suttentfield?"

"You'd better carry your mother's curtains back home," shouted a young civilian boy to Ann Yost Friday night as she was coming home from an Air Base dance in a white fascinator.

AMERICAN HEROES

BY LEFF

Corporal Walter Bodt's squad was spying out Jap positions in the Pacific. We needed information badly. The squad got it, but was cut off from our lines. Using handkerchiefs tied to bayonets, Marine Corporal Bodt wigwagged the information back. He lost an eye, sustained other wounds from furious enemy fire, but his message was urgent. He stuck and got it through, winning the Navy Cross. Weapons are urgent too, and your War Bonds buy them.

Mr. Shepard Sez

Come to the orchestra concert and hear Mary Elizabeth Kimsey toot the flute.

Come over to the gym and listen to Grace Emanuel pound that old piano at the orchestra concert.

You will want to see Mildred Hale's fingers skimming over the clarinet keys just like a sailor climbing up the rigging.

Dorothy White will make her violin talk at the orchestra concert.

Playing the cello is right down Helen Briesmeister's alley—so don't miss her at the orchestra concert.

And come to the concert and watch me fling my arms around—perhaps you may think to no avail—but, aha, it works.

W & M Defeats U of R

RPI football fans were among the 5,000 shivering spectators at the Stadium Thursday to view the annual Thanksgiving classic between the William and Mary Tribe and the University of Richmond Spiders. The favored Indians scored a 40-0 victory over the Spiders who made a belated threat in the last quarter.

This season William and Mary defeated Hampden-Sydney 38-0, and VMI 26-0, in addition to other victories.

A S L Has Dance

A barn dance party was held by the Art Students' League in the gym Tuesday night, November 28. Sawdust covered the floor; and blue jeans, plaid shirts, and brooms decorated the room.

Miss Edna Jane Nesbitt and Eugenia Hardy called the figures for square dancing. The art students and their guests also bobbed for apples and danced the Virginia Reel and a fortune teller was on hand to predict the future. At the end of the evening refreshments were served.

Class Rings Ordered

Scheduled to arrive in April are the twenty class rings and pins ordered by the senior class and fifteen ordered by the junior class during November.

A standard William and Mary ring, it will have the letters RPI on it and is offered in onyx, sapphire, garnet, or ruby setting. With the black stone the ring costs $18.50 and with either of the other backgrounds $22.00. The 20 per cent federal tax will be extra.

Especially designed for this school are the class pins, priced at $6.50 or $15.00 plus tax, which have RPI on the upper half and W and M below.

Rings and pins may still be ordered through Jamie Jameson, senior class president, or Mr. Walter B. Anderson, Balfour Company representative, at 4-3542. At least three persons must desire rings or pins to place the order.

Fine Arts Group Organized; Club Is Newest on Campus

By Ethel Moore

The newest organization on the campus is the Fine Arts Group which was organized November 28th by the students and alumni of the Department of Fine Arts. Almost every great artist of the past and present has at one time or another been associated with a group of fellow-workers in which the problems and aims of the artist and of art are discussed in such a way as to cause the artist to be aware of them to the extent of realizing his own difficulties and the possible solutions.

Such a group invariably arises spontaneously from the need of verbal expression about one's own work and the work of others in the same or similar fields. Also such a group can sponsor exhibits and in other ways further the cause of its members. This is the nature of the newest organization at RPI. Since its purposes are largely of a technical nature of interest to only a limited group, it in no way overlaps the activities of any organization on the campus. It is hoped that each member will be able to clarify many of the problems which confront the fine arts student as a result of the programs and discussion meetings.

The group is under the able leadership of Helen Bass. Betty Fisher is program chairman; Carolyn Elsnor and Martha Jane Shands are co-chairmen of exhibits. Plans are well under way for a good year and it is hoped that tangible results will be evident to the entire student body as well as to the members. It is rumored that an exhibit will soon be opened at an undisclosed campus location. There will be several one-man shows given this year by students still in school. Interest and enthusiasm are at an all-time peak in the School of Fine Art and something really fine and productive is expected to result.

Classes to Compete In Volley Ball

Intra-mural class volleyball games will be held in the gym before the Christmas holidays.

The first game will be played on Friday, December 8, between the freshman and sophomore teams. The winner of this game will play the junior team on Monday, December 11, and the victorious team from this game will play the seniors on Friday, December 15.

Captain Gives Party

Mary Munce, captain of the hockey team, entertained the entire squad at a tea Monday afternoon at her home.

Minority Club Holds Convocation

The Minority Club conducted convocation exercises on November 28, in the Pace Memorial Church.

The purpose of the convocation was to acquaint the students with the history and development of William and Mary College in Williamsburg and with RPI. Leroy Buckner reviewed the history of William and Mary College in Williamsburg. Darrell Landrum spoke about the founding of RPI in Richmond, after which Ernestine Gibson, a member of the Girls' Glee Club, sang the 23rd Psalm. Then Earl Wood talked about personalities who have contributed to the progress of RPI.

INFORMATION, PLEASE

If you would like to have the low-down on some of the higher ups, e.g. an opera singer, missionary to Tibet, U. S. senator, guides at the Poe Shrine, an ensign from Tulsa (reserved), or a symphony president, we suggest you enlist the aid of the Section B Freshman English class. One of the requirements for preparation of their term papers is to obtain interviews, and many of the students have encountered interesting personalities and information "in the line of duty."

Virginia Ellis engaged Mr. Billings Ruddick, president of Richmond Symphony, in a little conversation from which she got some interesting information on her subject. Pat Benton probably had the most enjoyable time—she talked with an ensign from Tulsa. (English class was never like this!) Leroy Buckner, whose subject concerns the history of William and Mary, spoke to various individuals around the campus, and used this information as his material for his interesting speech in the Minority Club's convocation.

Grace Emanuel wandered around somewhere in high grass over on the north side, looking for a missionary from Tibet. She finally found him and talked a while. Mauricia Marks, visiting the Poe Shrine, discovered that she knew more on the subject than the guide. Mary Louise Dollard, who wrote to Ellen Glasgow, received a gracious reply from Miss Glasgow. Jane Maddox has not yet had an answer to her letter.

Jean Boze wrote to the granddaughter of the Virginia senator, Carter Glass. Through Mr. Glass she learned some interesting facts about President Roosevelt's college days, a most interesting account. Lelaine Labenberg visited the Founders' Service Society for facts about Jane Adams, but, to her surprise, they gazed at her blandly when the name was spoken. So, Helaine is still minus that information.

Corinda Miller went backstage at the Mosque and talked with Charles Kullman. She was both pleased and satisfied with her results. Rosalind Retzer, in place of an interview, went to several stores and played recordings of Victor Herbert, the "man of her paper."

Miss McFarlane From Mississippi

"I think teaching is a good way of seeing the country," said Miss Kathryn McFarlane, the new member of the Business Department faculty.

Miss McFarlane hails from Drew Mississippi, which is located in the Mississippi Delta. Upon graduating from high school in Drew, she attended Mississippi State College at Columbus and received her Bachelor's Degree in Business. While in college she was especially interested in debating and YWCA activities.

After graduation she taught business courses in a high school in Mississippi.

She then took additional courses at Bowling College of Commerce in Bowling Green, Kentucky, and later became a faculty member there.

A friend recommended RPI to her, and this is the first time Miss McFarlane has been in Virginia. She recently visited Williamsburg, and its restoration thrilled her very much.

She likes football a great deal. Her father taught her to hunt and fish, and she also enjoys these sports very much.

Miss Ann Bagler Directs 'Rehearsal'

Christopher Morley's one-act play, "Rehearsal," will be presented at the Bond Theatre tomorrow night, December 7, at 7:00 p.m., by the Theatre Associates.

Miss Ann Bagler is the director, and Ann Perkinson, Virginia James, Lou Woolridge, Jeanne Moore, Suzanne Thornton, and Byrd Bradshaw have roles in the production.

The last Bond Theatre play was Florence Knox's "For Distinguished Service," directed by Mr. Raymond Hodges. The cast was composed of Nova Brown, Florence Lewis, and Barbara Warner.

The Bond Theatre will have a play each Thursday night for the purpose of accumulating a fund to make it possible for the students whose potential careers in drama have been interrupted by the war to go on with their plans in the future. The admission is one 10-cent War Stamp.

Sympathy

Our deepest sympathy is extended to Ann Garrett and her family upon the recent death of her father.

Clothing Students Set Fashions

Golly, "keeds", you might be all out of breath but it's really worth the climb up those four flights of stairs to see some of the outfits under construction in Mrs. Mundy's clothing construction class.

Oh, you say you were up there the other day? Well did you see that elegant black number that Ashery Joyner is working on? It's the very latest thing in Vogue—a one piece black crepe with a plain skirt but an oh-so-chic side draped bodice with a detachable peplum lined in pink taffeta.

Deetz Clarke is really going to look smooth in that white flannel jacket of hers, too. She got her idea from "Vogue," used her pattern drafting experience for producing a pattern, and the jacket is now almost completed. It's a finger tip length, fitted outfit under the name of the "Diplomat Jacket".

Everyone is waiting for Ruth Riley to make her entrance in the fuchsia crepe she was whipping up not so long ago. It combined all the latest highlights in winter fashion, slim four gored skirt, square draped neckline, set-in cap sleeves and a gathered detachable peplum that tied in a bow in front. It is truly an eye catcher!

Blouses too were being favored by these fashion majors. Ann Hatcher is going to look like the height of femininity in the dusty rose crepe blouse she is making. It also has cap sleeves cut in the blouse, and it ties at the neck with a large soft bow. The high round neck line and long sleeves give it a definitely slinky appearance.

Going down those steps is much easier than going up, but after you have seen the clothes, don't say I didn't tell you it was worth it!

New Absence System Proves Successful

According to Miss Juliet Lee Woodson, who is handling the absences this year, the new absence system which was announced in the first issue of the Proscript is working very well. She remarked that excuses are coming in very promptly.

Graduate students are using the honor system in cutting. They are allowed the same number of cuts as undergraduates but do not have to report them to the office as they are expected not to overcut without notifying Miss Woodson.

Juniors Plan Board

In the absence of the Store Service seniors, the junior retailers are planning the posters for the bulletin board in the Ad building.

Last week Barbara Webster designed the poster, and next week Margaret Hicks and "Pat" Newton will plan the board.

Sallor to his girl: "But, honey, I haven't got a girl in every port. I haven't been in every port!"

Meet the Seniors

In interviewing the seniors this week, the first was a very attractive little blonde, Virginia Fusco. Virginia has been at RPI for four years and will receive her degree in Business in June. Being a real Richmonder, she came to RPI from Thomas Jefferson High School. Her first year, Virginia was a member of the Cotillion Club. She hopes to work here in Richmond after graduating.

Betty Royston is another four-yearer here. Betty is from a small historical town in the Shenandoah Valley, New Market, and while here has been in the School of Store Service. She has been active in nearly all school sports as well as the other activities of the school. This year she lives in 216. Betty is doing her Christmas field work in Newport News in Nachman's in charge of the adjustment department.

Anne Kell is another Store Service senior who is from Bluefield, West Virginia. Anne transferred from Bluefield College in Bluefield, Virginia, where she studied Liberal Arts. She heard about RPI from her brother who was a dental student here in Richmond and through a friend who went to school here at RPI. During the field work period Anne is in Miller and Rhoads at the mail order service desk.

Margaret Benedict is a major in Physical Therapy. Margaret is from Florida, but last year she stayed with relatives in Richmond and was a day student. This year she lives at Founder's Hall. Last year she was president of the Junior Class.

Ping-Pong Tourney Organized by Girls

A ping-pong tournament has been scheduled and planned by Nancy Duggan for this week in the gymnasium. Enthusiasts may see her or Miss Nesbitt if they wish to compete. Sets will be between two contestants each day of the contests then the winners will play one another to determine the champion.

Gene Layne and Nancy Duggan will play the first set. They will be followed by Mary Virginia Vanni and Pat Quisenberry. Ann Caryl Hunter will play Enid Brundage. Other sets will probably be scheduled later in the week.

The schedule will be found on the bulletin board by the stairs going to the Day Students' Lounge.

DAY AND DORM BELLES

Nova Brown and Mary Christen have been seen wandering about Richmond with two very smooth lieutenants. This is indeed optimistic enough to start of the week's column.

We want to wish much happiness to Ann Blager who has just become engaged to a boy from the college she attended in Minn. We are also wondering if its love with Elaine Weiner and the Quartermastery.

Everyone seems to be wondering when Ernie is coming to visit Pat Haberern.

Excitement and expectation shown all over Dela Tazewell and Emily Woolridge's faces last week-end as they started off for Annapolis to the Thanksgiving Hop at the Naval Academy. It must have been a wonderful weekend.

Betty Moore is left wide open for a seafood dinner if Norfleet can swing a certain deal.

Hickok House is fixing boxes for the Red Cross to send soldiers who have no families and do not expect to receive any gift for Christmas.

There are two new social work agencies in Hickok House, the "Naps and the 'Saps".

Best wishes to Martha Homes O.T. major who will be married December 27.

Jane Budwell had a long week-end with her husband at VPI, leaving November 29 for Blacksburg.

Christine Taylor attended the Duke-Carolina game at Chapel Hill last weekend and saw Virginia Stone who was graduated from R.P.I. last June.

Mr. Volney Shepard, the director of the Music Department, is organist at the Grove Avenue Baptist Church.

Mrs. Leslie Beetles, a member of the Music Department, has gone to Staunton, Virginia, to take part in the dedication of a new organ at the Lutheran Church. Mrs. Beetles' husband is organist at the First Lutheran Church in Richmond.

Mrs. Van Stauber (Dottie Mills) was a visitor at the school over the weekend.

Virginia Morrison who was a student two years ago here at R.P.I. was a visitor in Founders over the weekend.

Helen Hedgpath Merritt spent a few days visiting here last week. June Wharton spent the week-end in Rocky Mount, N. C., and Kat Somers visited in Burlington, N. C.

Lang Stevens, Duch Walbridge, and Phil Dautch spent the week-end in Radford.

Marion Yelton is going to Washington for the weekend.

Kitty Harris will spend the weekend in Williamsburg.

Virginia Coles Merfield is going to Colorado, December 20, to be with her husband.

Marion Straus headed the group that sent a basket of fruit to Blanche Glenn.

Ise Senn has been looking particularly happy these few days. Wonder who could have caused that.

Many R.P.I. students were among the spectators at the William and Mary-University of Richmond game which was held Thanksgiving Day.

Mary MacEntee spent the Thanksgiving holiday at her home in Hartford, Conn.

Liz Pratt is back in classes after a short stay at the Stuart Circle Hospital.

Sara McCrary spent the week-end in Washington.

Loretta Widder and Charlotte Leon spent the weekend in Norfolk. How sweet those Navy uniforms are!

Jinx West spent the Thanksgiving holiday at her home in Roanoke Rapids, N. C.

Pat Miller visited her O.A.O. at Annapolis.

Calling all art students! Calling all Art students! Virginia Bowling, second floor rear in 818 wearing bunch of feathers and two flowers. That is all.

Sue Chaires, a graduate in Social Work, announced her engagement Nov. 28, to Lt. (jg.) William Boynton.

The following were among the audience at the Fred Waring Broadcast at the Mosque Thanksgiving night: Overcash, Wallace, Landrum, Wood, Creps, Donahue, Scott, Sampson and James (oh so dressed up!) Gilmer (with a man!), Norfleet, Ink. Jarrett, Davis, Kelley, Albright, Vanni, Wells, Richey, Crawford, and England.
