

"Fashion" Begins Tomorrow Night

Miss Ann Blager Gives Thesis Play

"Fashion," dictated by Miss Ann Blager as her Master's thesis play, will be presented by the Theater Associates on April 29, 30, and 31 in the gymnasium.

All seats will be reserved for the production; seats are twenty-five cents for students and fifty cents for the general public.

The play which revolves around the newly rich Tiffany family in the middle seventeen hundreds, includes the following cast: Ann Perkinson, Virginia James, Suzanne Thornton, Jean Moore, Byrd Bradshaw, Earl Wood, S. Lewis Gaber, Leroy Buckner, Thomas Cowardin, Reno Francheschki, William C. Kolb, Donald Sassocin and Bernard Lacy, Jr.

Muriel Deno and Lousenia Woolridge are acting as stage managers, Caroline Graves is in charge of properties, and Lillian Cohn is prompter. The sets were executed by Lousenia Woolridge, Muriel Deno, and Buddy Kolb. The costuming was handled by Miss Alma Cannon.

IRC to Hold Formal Saturday, April 7

The International Relations Club will hold a spring formal in the gymnasium at 9:00 o'clock, Saturday, April 7. Pat Miller, chairman of the dance, has announced that the theme will be Moonlight and Roses. Bob Boykin's orchestra will be there complete with drums, sax, trumpet and piano. The highlight of the evening will be a floorshow, whose entertainment will be centered around the theme of the dance.

Tickets will be on sale soon, and will also be sold at the door. Stag tickets are 50 cents, and drag 75 cents.

Chairmen for the dance committees are: Girls' tickets, Bena Jo Houston and Vera Rosenberg; Boys' tickets; Mary Blackwell and Margie Ashby; Entertainment, Peggy Kelly and Darrell Landrum; Manpower. Mary Clare Dinneen and Gloria Cooper; Decoration, Arvil Clay and Joe Lipscomb; Publicity, Patsy Royal and Pat Flannagan; Posters, Jackie Schutze and Emma Jeanne Spears; Refreshments, Earl Wood and Leroy Buckner.

Late Permissions Change Announced

Because of the nation-wide (N.Y. State being an exception) midnight curfew on places of amusement, Dr. Johnson recently stated that late permissions for students living in the dorms are now given for 12:30 instead of 1:30. However, in special cases a student may receive a 1:30 permission if approved by the House Council of the dormitory in which she lives.

T-B X-rays Given Here This Friday

Students and Faculty To Be Tested Free

Representatives of the Virginia Tuberculosis Association will be in the RPI gym on Friday, March 30, from 9:00 a.m. until 12:00 noon and from 1:00 p.m. until 4:15 p.m. to X-ray the lungs of all students and faculty members desiring this service. Dr. Johnson requests that everyone cooperate and take advantage of this opportunity.

Students will report for X-ray in alphabetical order of last name according to the following schedule, which will also be posted on the bulletin board in the Main Hall of the Ad Building. A through Da from 9:00 to 10:00 a.m.; De through Ha from 10:00 to 11:00 a.m.; He through Ly from 11:00 to 1:00 noon; Mac through Ric from 1:00 to 2:00 p.m.; Rid through St from 2:00 to 3:00 p.m.; and Su through Y from 3:00 to 4:00 p.m. Women faculty members may report at any of the above periods which suits their convenience.

Students are asked to estimate approximately when within the hour their name will come up and not to leave classes at the beginning of the hour if their name is not scheduled until the end. Also, students are requested to report back to classes immediately after their X-rays. Because of the time element, students should wear sweaters and skirts or two-piece dresses.

Male students and male faculty members will report at 4:00 p.m.

Freshmen Chosen For Dance Figure

According to latest reports of freshman activities for the May Day dance, which they are sponsoring, the members of the figure have been chosen.

Selected according to scholastic achievement, extracurricular activities, and all efforts toward class and school unity, the girls selected include the class officers, Byrd Bradshaw, Stella Burson, Sue Hutzler, Jane Maddox, Grace Emanuel, and Nancy Duggan, and the following girls: Alice Andrews, Laura Ann Barrett, Margaret Baxter, Enid Brundage, Peggy Christian, Mary Lou Dollard, Winston Evans, Isabel Halslip, Helen Hansard, Helen Jean Keeling, Gene Layne, Mary Munce, Ann Overcash, Jean Riddle, Loretta Widder, Maurine Snead, Nancy Shuman, Nancy Schlack, Phyllis Hutton, Mary Roberts, Peggy Kelley, Norma Gilmer, Betsy Bridgeforth, and Alyce Booker. The ribbon-bearers are: Jean Mattox, Jane Brown, Grace Riley, Dorothy Courtney, Lili Cooper, and Frances Savage.

Five Students Presented Keys At Convocation

Mary Sue Hibbs Heads Student Government

Mary Sue Hibbs, pre-social work major, was recently elected president of Student Government for 1945-1946.

Betty Donahue, a recreational leadership major, was elected vice-president for the period. Pat Albright (last year's Student Government treasurer), was elected secretary. Byrd Bradshaw, also a recreation major and a freshman class representative to May Court, was elected treasurer.

Installation of the new officers will take place at convocation at Pace Memorial Church the second week of April.

RPI Girls Aid At McGuire Hospital

RPI girls are having the opportunity to aid in the rehabilitation program at McGuire Hospital by acting as dancing partners for the wounded veterans, Mrs. Lois Washer announced.

Frequently before the patients are discharged they request to be taught to dance because this skill makes their adjustment to future situations easier. Most of them have never danced, so only basic steps are taught by the instructor at the hospital. Six girls are needed daily with the exception of Saturday and Sunday.

The class is held from 3 to 4 o'clock and the Red Cross Motor Corps provides transportation leaving school at 2:30 and returning at 4:30.

Partners are needed for the weeks beginning April 2, 9, 16, 23, and 30. Mrs. Washer emphasizes the psychological carry-over value for the men if the same girl goes more than once in a week. Then the serviceman feels that he has a friend in the group and that all the girls are not strangers. New dance groups are formed each Monday.

Girls from the recreation classes have been invited and the rest of the students are asked to see Mrs. Washer if they are interested. The usual rules about dress and conduct prevail.

Senior Honor Winners Tapped By Faculty

Five senior students today received honor keys in a ceremony at Pace Memorial Church where the student body and faculty met in convocation at 9:45.

Dean Hibbs presented the keys which were given by the Student Government Association and members of the faculty taped the students who received them. Virginia Coles Merfield, president of Student Government this year, received the leadership key. Dorothy Tennent was awarded the art key for her work in interior decoration. Those who received keys for scholarship were Margaret Benedict, Gwen Colalter, and Ruth Light.

Heretofore the keys have been purchased by those who were tapped, but the Student Government Council this year voted to buy the keys.

Dean Hibbs States Next Year Plans

Dr. H. H. Hibbs has announced that present students who are returning for the session beginning September 19, 1945, should reserve their rooms for next year immediately.

Reservations can be made with your dormitory hostess, who will give you a room slip which you are to take to the Treasurer's Office and present with the payment of the $5 room reservation fee.

April 1st is the deadline for present students to reserve their rooms next year. After April 1st all unreserved rooms will be made available to other incoming students, and will be assigned promptly.

No room will be held for any student after April 1st unless the $5 room reservation fee has been paid to the Treasurer's Office.

We are receiving a large number of applications from students for next year, and this early deadline for present students' reserving rooms is necessary in order that we may know how many of the new applicants we can accept.

Rose Saddaca's Theme Chosen for May Day

"A Midsummer Night's Dream," the theme for May Day which Rose Saddaca suggested, was recently selected. According to June Wharton, committees are now beginning to function actively to make a successful May Day, built around our theme, "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

The chairmen, Betty Donahue and June Wharton, urge the students to volunteer for service on any of the committees, as the committee heads are still in need of workers.

Happy Easter!

Are You Keeping Posted?

The San Francisco Conference is near at hand. Armies on the Western Front have crossed the Rhine. Congress is in full session.

Today with world events happening so fast and furiously, it is almost an impossibility for one to keep up with the ever-changing picture. Not only is World War II in all its theatres and on its many fronts rapidly progressing, but big events in the international and national political scene are also moving at a fast rate. Then, too, these developments are not minor changes—but are events of paramount importance which will go down in the great annals of history.

The problem is just how are we to keep well informed on the day-to-day developments occurring all over the globe. We certainly should know just what the score is—and we do want to know what's happening. However, many of us (although our intentions are good) don't always keep up with events day by day.

Do you think it would be advantageous to have discussions, say one evening a week, in the various dorms around campus to talk over what's going on in world affairs? Perhaps some of our professors would consent to come and speak to us about current events. This is merely a suggestion; so how about thinking it over! If you have any ideas on the subject, address your letters to the Proscript, and we'll try to work out some plan whereby there will be an opportunity of "keeping informed" on current events today.

The Cartoons

Who makes the cartoons for the Proscript?

The masthead carries the names of the art editor and of the cartoonist, but the girls who do the production behind the scenes are those who make the linoleum cuts. These are members of Mrs. Polly Loesch's O.T. class in Applied Design.

Members of the class who have made cuts for former issues are Marcia Duehring, Mrs. Helen Standau, Margaret Bayne, and Edith Ann Meyers. Today's cartoon, designed by Emily Woolridge, was cut by Edith Ann Meyers.

It is such splendid co-operation as this that makes the Proscript possible.

The Collegiate World

Waves training at Smith College received circulars from a tattooing firm offering to "Beautify American womanhood with a varied collection of anchors, flags, battleships, tracer shells, or anti-aircraft guns."

Bond bidding for the Dogemobile, a '27 Buick "limousine," with ump-teen passenger capacity, began at $5,000 at Stanford University. The previous year's winning bid was $12,000. This was part of their effort to top the quota of $27,000 in the Sixth War Loan Drive. Dates with campus notables were auctioned, the Kleenex and a carton of cigarettes were added attractions.

Biddy Balz, Michigan State College junior, enroute to see the house-mother ran into Flight Officer Dick Haddad who had come to surprise her. Biddy took one look and shrieked, "Horror, my hair is in pig-tails." Well, that's one way to greet him.

No Easter Bunny?

Dear Editor:

I am the Easter Bunny. My private detective Easter Bunnies have informed me that your school isn't going to have even Easter Monday holiday. If that is so, who will look for the eggs I and my assistants plant for Easter Monday? Think of all the food that will be wasted! The OCD won't like RPI.

Please think of me and my tradition, Mr. President of William and Mary.

Sincerely,

The Easter Bunny.

Store Service Girls Teach Retail Classes

As a part of the course in methods of teaching, Store Service seniors spent the week of March 19 teaching Retail Training Classes in high schools throughout the state.

The students and the communities in which they taught are: Evelyn Huiet, Roanoke; Hannah Crawford, Charlottesville; Jo Keeter, Staunton; Jane Tarbuton, Arlington; Margaret Doering, Alexandria; Miriam Kell, Culpeper; Marjorie Scales, Thomas Jefferson High School, Richmond; Jean Lytch, John Marshall High School, Richmond; Betty Williams, Portsmouth; Betty Royston, Portsmouth; Jane Buffet, Newport News; Norma Culler, Norfolk; and Clara Ballenger, Hampton.

LOUNGING WITH LEIBOWITZ

Have you seen Miss Freas and Miss McFarlane skating up and down Shafer Street after supper? We understand that one evening a sailor helped them put their skates on and wouldn't believe they were faculty members.

Frances Satterfield's heading for a house party at Nag's Head this week end. Mary Emily Hayes is going home to Georgia for the week end. Talking about going places, Betty Re Mine will be the matron of honor at her sister's wedding in Norfolk. Helen Jeanne Keeling may meet Ted in Roanoke. From what we can gather he's a "H. P."

Vanni is gliding on air—she got a cablegram from Johnny.

Jare Cavan Budwell's husband is coming up from VPI for ten days.

Ann Bates and Darline Smith are doing their vacationing a little early. The girls are going to Sulphur Springs to visit with the Army O T's, for the week end.

Winston Evans went fishing at Westhampton Lake without worms. Hmmm, wonder about her line.

Ellen Dyer's Howard was in town last week. And Kathleen Abbott's Ray came up from Florida a day earlier than he was expected.

Gee, we're sorry we missed seeing Ruth Gordon and Lillian Shelton skipping across Franklin Street barefooted to other day, and wearing leotards!

Announce Bond Winner

At an informal meeting of the Boosters, held last Thursday, March 22, the raffle for the $18.75 bond was ended when Mrs. Eloise Waters' name was drawn from the pile of hopeful people. The Boosters were all over their quota expected in the raffle.

"Anybody got a match?"

O. T. Girls Write From Hospitals

Miss Sue Hurt, director of the Occupational Therapy department, has received letters from girls in training. These girls are putting to practice what they learned while in school at RPI.

Clare Leverne writer from Lovell General Hospital, Mass.: "The O.T.R.'s here ask for criticism, want criticism, and we may do as we wish for the benefit of the patient. Therefore, OT is what we'll make of it.

"We hope the Second Army feels the way we do—not a moment was spent unnecessarily in Kinesiology and Orthopedic Application."

Esther Dowd, at Ashburn General, Texas, says: "Training thus far has surpassed all my hopes and expectations. It is thrilling to be in the thick of things. I have three very interesting orthopedic cases, all arthritis.

"I have not found it at all difficult to adjust to hospital life. The OT department is very well organized. Two privates assigned to this shop take care of tools and supplies; one civilian teaches ceramics, another woodwork. That gives the OT students a chance to concentrate on the Therapeutic end of things, as they should."

From Ft. Sam Houston, Texas, Mary Louise Fry writes: "There are six of us students here. The others are from Mills and UCLA, and have been here about a month. For the past two weeks I have been in the closed NP shop. The large shop nearby has carpentry, printing, block printing, ceramics and leather."

Freshmen Win Basketball Title

With a score of 32 to 16 the Freshmen defeated the Juniors in the annual basketball tournament of the classes held March 14. This gives the Freshmen team the title of champions of the school.

For the Freshman team Gene Layne was high scorer, and Marjorie Lucas was high-scorer for the Juniors.

The Junior lineup was: Marjorie Lucas, forward; Beanie Passeri, forward; Lou Woolridge, forward; Pat Quisenberry, guard, Betty Donahue, guard; and Nobles, guard.

Lineup in the Freshman team was: Mary Munce, forward; Gene Layne, forward; Ida Quarles, forward; Helen Jeanne Keeling, guard; Jane Maddox, guard; and Virginia Rowe, guard.

What Do You Think?

Sounded like something of a proposal when Helen Robertson bluntly put the question to Chuck Wood in sociology class the other day, "Would you want to marry a woman—" and was rudely interrupted by no less than 50 laughing voices who wouldn't wait for her to qualify the woman as one "who has less education than you?" Now, let's see, does that still leave Helen in the race?

Peroxide blonde: An established bleachhead.

CIGARETTES UNEQUALLED FOR DELICACY AND FLAVOR

Above is shown a cigarette advertisement designed by Major Lewis Ginter, of Civil War fame, which appeared in newspapers throughout the world in 1897. Major Ginter made his money after the Civil War in tobacco through packaging and good advertising. RPI's present administration building, which was designed by the famous architect, Stanford White, was built as a home for Major Ginter. Dean Hibbs purchased the building in 1930.

Student, Faculty Art Shown At Museum

The works of four students from R.P.I. as well as that of two faculty members were selected by the jury to be included in the exhibition of Virginia Artists to be opened at the Virginia Museum, April 7.

The artists are Elizabeth Beck, Sally Kesler, Katherine La Bruce, Beatrice Villar, students; Theresa Pollak and Clyfford Still, professors of Fine Art at school.

Emanuel Wins Contest

Grace Emanuel wrote the prize-winning words for the Booster Club's song contest.

On Wednesday, April 4, during 20-minute period the Boosters will hold a pep rally in the gym to introduce the new song. Some members of the Girls' Glee Club will sing three separate musical settings written for the words by students in the School of Music, and the student body will vote on the tune they wish to adopt.

The words to RPI's new pep song are:

We are one for all and all for one
With green and gold on high,
United we will always stand
For we're from RPI;
We do our work and have our fun
Or know the reason why;
You're on the winning side,
When you're with RPI.

Your Spring Chapeau

By Dena Davis

ABOUT HATS . . . Did you know that the bonnet which is popular today dates back to 1816? Just think, that makes it 129 years old; however the bonnet of 1945 looks anything but that old! Today's version is smart and pretty. It omits the underchin tie and modifies the crown and brim creating something new and exciting out of something old.

This brings us up to the sailor, which made its first appearance in 1894. It was then known as the "Bicycle Sailor" and some today still are but with a few changes. The Gibson Girl drawings glorified the sailor and served as the inspiration for today's edition. The sailor of 1945 is labeled "Sissy Sailor" and has the same crown of old but a much narrower brim and can be worn either on top of the head or off the face. It's pert and perky and is a nice accessory for either spring dress, suit or coat.

The cloche came along next in the year 1914, the year of the first World War. They were the days when Mom cut her hair to ear-tip length and pulled the head-fitting cloche down over hair and ears so that all one could see was nose and chin. The present day version which was revived in 1943 is much the same as the original with the brim narrowed somewhat and the crown heightened.

IRC Council Will Hold Meeting

The Richmond Intercollegiate Council will hold an executive meeting at RPI on Tuesday, April 3, at 8:00 p.m. Students from RPI who will attend this meeting are Katherine Stern, Jane Poulton, and Patsy Royal, who is chairman of the publicity committee.

Other schools represented in the council are Westhampton College, University of Richmond, Medical College of Virginia, St. Phillips, Virginia Union, Union Theological Seminary, and Assembly's Training School.

The next meeting of the entire council will be on Tuesday, April 17.

Students In Dress Contest

Emily Woolridge, Dena Davis, Toni Overcash, and Ann Carol Hunter were the four RPI girls selected to appear in the contest of 20 girls that were judged at WRNL Radio Station, March 17, to select the perfect figure representing Barbara Lee dresses. The contest was sponsored by Barbara Lee Dress Designers and Thalhimers. There were many entries in the contest from RPI.

A blank including measurements, a snapshot, and the home address was filled out by each girl entering the contest. This blank was sent to New York where it was judged and returned to Richmond for final results of those eligible for the final judging.

Saroyan Play To Be Given

The first Saroyan play, "Hello Out There," will be presented by the Theatre Associates on April 5. Harold Jordan and Florence Lewis will have the important parts in this impressionistic and modern play.

Mr. Raymond Hodges has announced that there will be a Theatre Associates meeting after the play on April 5. Mrs. Frank Appery, a professional player in the Abby Irish Theatre, a national theatre in Dublin, Ireland, will be the guest speaker. Mrs. Appery is now director of the Children's Theatre of the Collegiate School here in Richmond.

Craig Gives Concert

Mr. Charles Craig, Jr., professor of organ and theory in the School of Music recently played in a recital for the students of William and Mary College in Williamsburg, Va.

Also, the boys' choir at All Saints Church under the direction of Mr. Craig, sang for the patients at McGuire Hospital recently.

Opening To Be Held

The Fine Arts Group will present a showing of work done by students now in the Art Department, on April 5, at 8 p.m.

Cupid?

By Toni

What would you do if you were cupid?

Well all right gang; here's that poll again. Some like it hot and some like it cold and some don't even like it. You'd better be careful of what you say now days.

Margaret—Doering—The question requires great thought.

Pat Benton—Send a little arrow at an Ensign.

Jane Buffett—Whatsa 'matter, is it worrin' you?

Lucille Wakefield—Fly where there are some men. (Not intended to discourage the co-eds.)

Pat Haberern—I wouldn't. "Buckie"—I'd have some fine time—bongggggg!

Rosalind Retzer—hummmm—build up service men's moral.

Suzie Colonna—Go ask somebody who says cute things.

Mrs. Mosby—I'd run off and get married.

Marian Radin—Get everybody married off. (Optimistic isn't she?)

Jean Riddle—Find a good lookin' man wif' money and shoot him.

Ruth Hoffman—Boy! is that a cinch! I'd stick Mr. Hodges (at the play.)

Mary Rogers—Retire for the duration.

Truman Tuck—Fall in love or shoot a sailor.

Marjorie Scales—Wouldn't you like to know? (A. We know.)

Evelyn Huiet—Put some clothes on.

Jeepy Payne—Shoot cupid's mate up at Boston.

Betty Anderson—Hmmm (blank).

Mrs. Chalkley—The situation is hard to visualize, but I think I'd shoot my husband; he's still right sweet.

Ethel Merritt—Shoot me a boy friend—a little love arrow never hurt anybody.

Jean Snelling—Have more love than the world could stand.

Margie Tyree—Try to make everybody happy.

Shirley Parks—Oh, I don't know.

Pat May—Fly to Mindora.

Marion Walker—Let's rationalize the subject, we'd be a little cold wouldn't we?

Jane Haliwanger—My imagination doesn't stretch that far.

Dr. Kalif Speaks

Dr. George Kalif, head of the School of Social Work, spoke to groups of students about social work at Marion College on March 22, and at Virginia Intermont on March 23. He also held individual conferences with the students.

Spring Sports Begin

Softball games are being played every night after supper. Miss Nesbitt says that games between the dormitories will be scheduled soon.

Volleyball, tennis, badminton and archery will begin this week. This will offer a chance for gaining points for intramural points.

PERSONALS

We made an error in our last issue and wish to correct it. Avril Clay has not become engaged to a sergeant. We must have been thinking of somebody else. Who could it be?

Mary Sue Hibbs spent the week-end with Lucy Durham at Randolph-Macon Woman's College in Lynchburg.

Donaline Turner of Stuart Circle Hospital and the Navy are now engaged.

Tanny Norfleet welcomed home an old acquaintance who returned to Camp Lee recently.

Virginia Kelly is back in 821 after two weeks in the infirmary.

Pat Newton has gone to Washington to visit her fiancé who has just returned from overseas.

Blanche Fulford and Becky Wall took off with Navy fliers last week-end.

They tell us Toni Overcash and Jean Brock are doing very well with a flyer (former All-American footballer from Wisconsin) and a Lieut. from Camp Lee, respectively.

Mary MacEntee, new house president of 818 Park, entertained Ann Jo Lowry from her home town, West Hartford, Conn., last week.

Jinx West and Sara Entwistle visited in Roanoke Rapids, N. C.

Mrs. George Kalif and George, Jr., left on March 21 for Orange, New Jersey, to visit Mrs. Kalif's father and grandmother. They expect to be gone two weeks.

Jean Reeves and Virginia Strobel spent the week-end in Baltimore. Took in the sights at Annapolis (!) Saturday.

Erna Rosenbloom, Phyl Dautch and Mary Ann DiPirro spent a long week-end in Washington with Henrietta Cohen at her home there.

Blanche Glenn came by school Friday afternoon. She has been ill at the Medical College for some time.

Darleen Smith went to White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., this week-end to see Lynn Reichert, a former Army OT here.

Virginia Millsip has been doing case work at the Travelers' Aid at the USO.

Dot Campbell went home last week-end.

Ask Dorothy Deer why the gleam in her eye!

Sylvia Horwitz's Alaskan Highwayman (no kin to the highwayman in the poem) was down to see her last week.

Eunice Purnell is expecting her mother and brother this week-end.

Joan Becker went home to Youngstown, Ohio, for a week.

Mrs. Harry Laufer spent a week with her daughter, Helene, here recently. Helene and Marjorie Blumberg spent the week-end with Joan Shapiro at her home in Norfolk.

Among the girls at Founder's who recently spent week-ends home are Jane Maddox, Lois Wilfong in Roanoke, Nancy Foscoe in Lawrenceville, Nancy Schlack in Newport News, Betty Lichenstein in Arlington, and Jane Cartwright in Welch, W. Va.

Mrs. C. O. Frey is spending this week-end with Charla.

Lang Stevens and Duch Wallbridge spent the week-end at Norma Culler's home in Baltimore.

Grace Rilee's gardenias are from a recent visitor, Harry Jordan.

Good things come in two, says Grace Emanuel, who was visited this week-end by two seamen stationed at Bainbridge, Md., who are from her hometown in Pennsylvania. They were Ben Arthur and Bob Balliett.

R P Imbeciles

At a basketball game: "I don't think I understand. They look one way and throw the ball the other."

Why, natch: "Who can tell me the difference between evolution and revolution?" asked the teacher. "That's easy," replied the stupid—pardon—student, "one evolves while the other revolves."

Brides-to-be please note: Mrs. Washer tells the one about little Johnny who was used to being given a penny a day for being good. One day his mother asked, "Johnny, why can't you be good for nothing like your father?"

Free ride: Confided one of the co-eds in her room-mate, "Harry is so romantic. He calls me 'Fair Lady.'" "Romantic, heck," drawled her partner, "he's from my home town and I happen to remember that he's a streetcar conductor."

So soon?: A student was very enthusiastic about a wedding she had just attended. "You know," she related, "the preacher said, 'Wilt thou, Mary, take this man—' and Mary wilted."

Meet the Seniors

Audrey Ullman, a physical therapy major, isn't around school much these days but she used to haunt the day room. Right now she's doing her field work at the Medical College. Next month she'll be located at the University of Virginia Hospital in Charlottesville and the following month she'll return to this city to work in the office of an orthopedic surgeon until graduation.

Sylvia Horwitz, who is working for her BS in nursing with a major in physical therapy, is a registered professional nurse (all of that and more too!) graduated from the Edward J. Myer Memorial Hospital School for Nurses (there; we told you!) and attended the University of Buffalo for two years prior to coming to RPI last year. She likes ice cream, and likes to drive a car and wishes she had one. (Silly girl.)

Ellen Marcus is a sociology major who has transferred to RPI twice. She first came here from Mary Washington, then in September she transferred here from Sweetbriar College which she attended last year. She is a member of the International Relations Club and can be found frequently in the day students' room.

Eugenia Hardy is a major in social work. She is a member of the Cotillion Club. If her interests have anything to do with it we might say she's the typical college girl. They are people (which might be modified to read "men" in some cases), food, bridge, dancing and sleep.

It's a Toss-Up

Looks like RPI's girls have got it all over the MEN in quality as well as quantity, at least when it comes to playing basketball. (Of course, there's a minor consideration that we have a few more hundred to pick from.) Winning 26 to 12, the girls were marked with only a few minor charges. (Any wonder — with the manpower shortage?)

On the victorious girls' team were Muncie, Bradshaw, Quisenberry, Noble, and Nesbitt. Putting up a good fight for the "stronger" sex were "Strangle - Hold" Buckner, Wood, Red, "Today-We-Are-Men" Overcash, and Donahue.
