Proscript Cites William-Mary Election Rules

In connection with recent discussion at RPI on electioneering and the conduct of elections the PROSCRIPT presents the following information as to the practice of the College of William and Mary at Williamsburg:

The 1947-48 handbook for the William and Mary Student Government Association, including both men and women, specifies that all elections shall be conducted by a committee for the conduct of elections consisting of the representatives to the Men's Honor Council and the Women's Honor Council. All elections are by secret ballot and the results of the election are recorded in the minutes of the respective Honor Councils.

Freshman Class President Asks Dues Be Paid

The deadline for payment of Freshman Class dues is May 5 according to Edward Kelley, class president.

"Anyone who has not paid his dues by that date will not be issued a ticket to the May Day Dance May 8," said Kelley, "these measures have to be taken or the Freshman class will not be able to fulfill its financial obligations. So far the class expenditures total $209—the class bank balance totals only $65."

The approximate expenditures follow: Orchestra for the May Day Dance, $140; decorations, $20; flowers for Freshman May Court representatives, $10; rental fee for table-cloths, $27; Wigwag charge for printing officers' picture, $12.

Figure practice will be Friday, April 30, at 4 p. m., in the gymnasium, "Volunteers are still needed, especially boys," reminds Kelley. "Only two weeks remain for practice so I hope figure participants will cooperate."

School Plans Two Concerts

The orchestra of the School of Music will present a concert in Williamsburg May 2. The same numbers will be played at McGuire Hospital May 9.

A major in the music department at William and Mary will play Mozart's Piano Concerto in A Major accompanied by the orchestra. The RPI students will present the "Overture to Iphigenius and Aulis" by Gluck, and Beethoven's eight symphony.

Kenny Gives Qualifications For Radio News Analysis

In a revealing informal speech to the advanced journalism class the past Wednesday, H. B. Kenny, news analyst for radio station WLEE, outlined the qualifications of the news analyst.

Kenny, who has worked as a Washington correspondent for the Minneapolis Tribune, and as a free lance reporter, lists the fundamental qualifications as an ability to make systematic assembly of facts and to recognize instantly the relationship of news matter.

"An element of individualism, and sincerity are prerequisite to the successful news analyst, but facts—cold, hard facts—are the primary necessity to superior analysis of the news," he asserted.

Short, bespectacled Kenny differentiates between the news analyst and the news commentator, in that the analyst presents facts, the commentator, opinions. He cites Winchell as an example of the commentator.

"Travel, too, is invaluable in my trade and that of the news-

Injured Student Sues For Damages

Nancy Hardiman, sophomore, injured recently when she was thrown from a "snapper whip" operated by a carnival in Richmond has filed a $25,000 damage suit in Federal District Court against the Majestic Greater Shows.

Miss Hardiman sued through her father, L. J. Hardiman, Jr., of Norfolk.

The complaint alleged that Miss Hardiman was severely and permanently injured when the car in which she was riding became detached from the rail and she was thrown from the device.

Miss Hardiman, an advertising art major, came to RPI from the College of William and Mary in September 1947.

Psych Professors Want Marriage Class Here

Psychology professors here agree that there should be a Marriage Relation class open to both sexes. At present only women Seniors may enroll for this class.

Mr. H. H. Hoffman believes, however, that it would be better to have separate classes for men and women.

"I don't see why a mixed class shouldn't be held unless it might prove embarrassing to some of those attending," was Mrs. Virginia Bray's comment.

Dr. Curt Bondy, head of the psychology department, is of the opinion that both a male and a female professor should be engaged to teach the class. "Discussion of problems that require segregation of sexes could in that way be handled by the professor of the corresponding sex, but most problems could be discussed openly in a mixed class," he asserted.

He added that the class should

3 Room Addition Planned; Construction To Start Soon

New Offices And Stairs Among The Improvements

Contract to construct a $45,336 three room addition to the Administration Building has been let to J. Kennon Perrin, and work will begin shortly. The building will be constructed west of the Administration Building and will join the present building at Rooms 12, 13, and 14.

The addition will be 30 feet front and 36 feet deep and will include an entirely new entrance to the building on the west side. The first floor will contain a large projection room for audio-visual instruction and will be artificially ventilated. The room will also have two openings in the back that can be opened but will have no windows.

There will be a large class room on the first and second floors and a store room on the third floor. At the same time a new fireproof stairway from the basement to the third story will be built. This stairway will open on the rear hall where rooms 12 and 12A are now situated.

This addition, besides providing needed classroom space for all classes will make it possible for the School of Business Administration to move from the Gymnasium Building to the Administration Building where it will have offices on the third floor.

Mr. I. J. Kreppick, head of the School of Business Administration will have an office on this first floor. Dr. Margaret Johnson will also move her office to the first floor in order that offices of the counselors of women and men students can be close together. Registrar's office will also be moved to the first floor and the School of Social Work will occupy the offices now used by the Registrar and Dr. Johnson.

The new addition will also enable the School of Distributive Education to expand.

The third floor of the Administration Building has been used in the past as a residence hall for graduate students and certain members of the faculty.

George Bernard Shaw, is rated as the foremost contemporary playwright by the RPI department. One of his plays, "You Never Can Tell," is playing in New York now, and another will be shown at the Malvern Festival this summer.

The box office for the play opened Monday in the front hall of the Administration building. All seats are reserved, and sell for 50 cents to students and 75 cents, general admission. The play will be given at 8:30 each night.

The cast is as follows: "Eliza Doolittle" Miss Cowan; "Speech Professor Higgins" Watkins; "Col. Pickering," deVaux Riddick; and "Mr. Doolittle," Charles Cagle.

By JOYCE ROWLENSON

Gather up your wampum and prepare for a big pow-wow down at the Reservation. The braves and maidens from William and Mary are putting on a heap big Varsity Show.

On May 13, the publicity agents from the mother college will visit the little tee-pee (RPI) and sell tickets for this production number. The first performance will be given at the WRVA Theatre on May 14.

The Backdrop Club is accredited with putting on this show, entitled "Take Your Time." Its plot is secret, even to the campus students.

Broadcast Music, Inc., have contract rights to the show and music. Three songs taken from the production will be nationally released soon.

There are a cast of 150 students in "Take Your Time," including the choir. There are 14 scenes, 25 original songs, 11 dance productions, and a ballet. The students from William and Mary have originated the whole production.

Ugh, come on scouts, let's scalp the nation with surprise.

Summer School Class Schedule, June 18 -- August 20, 1948

All students who previously submitted summer school applications should check this time schedule carefully to see whether they have conflicts. Those who have conflicts should see their advisers immediately and then report any changes to Mrs. Sudie Y. Beck, secretary of Summer school.

Textbooks must be ordered by May 15 to insure their arrival by the beginning of Summer school. Students applying for Summer school after that date may have to wait until additional books can be obtained.

So You Think You Can Write!

Do you have an old manuscript lying around your room that you simply know will sell? Did you dash off a poem the other night that you believe worthy of publication? So you're pretty good at writing short stories, eh? There's a list of 2500 hundred potential markets awaiting you in the library.

The list ranges everywhere from Adventure magazines to Women's Magazines. In between there are names of horse, dog, humor, love, cartoon, radio, song, poetry, mechanical, etc. publications.

The book, The Writer's Market, is published by the Writer's digest publishing company and contains such information as rate of pay, how to slant your articles or stories, type of material desired by the various magazines, length of articles wanted, addresses, and time in which you can expect a reply.

More aptly, time in which you can expect a rejection slip--Ed.

David Wags Way To 'Best' Award

David of Ross-Shire, Dr. Margaret Johnson's cairn terrier, walked off with two ribbons in a dog show which was held April 17, at the Rural Exposition Grounds.

The year old terrier was judged as the best in the novice class and also won a ribbon as the reserve winner in the best of breeds.

Dr. Johnson's dog was trained by Pat Cecil, whose dog, "Eric" won a U. D., the equivalent of a P. H. D. It was given for the highest rating in obedience trials.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Hodges' dog, Lassies Candy of Gullivac, a cocker spaniel, was also in the winner's class. She was judged as a first novice bitch.

VICTORY IN ITALY WAS COSTLY

The Christian Democrats have won in Italy, but the victory was both a costly and a portentous one. The odds were all against the Communists.

Three months ago the Reds apparently had the victory in the "bag." Then came a series of events:

(1) The anti-Communist fronts, realizing the folly of disharmony within their ranks, united to precipitate a Red defeat.

(2) Italy's industrialists, foreseeing their fate in event of Red victory, advanced huge sums of money to insure victory for the Democrats.

(3) The Vatican church, of which 98 percent of Italy's population are members, took a firm stand against the Communists, even threatening to deny absolution to its members voting Communist.

(4) The United States entered the campaign openly, offering to return Trieste to Italy. The U. S. also instigated the return of Nazi-looted gold to Italy; and hundreds of ships, laden with American goods helped prod the Italians to the Right.

Also worthy of note is a poll conducted by the United Press in Italy. This poll reveals that the Christian Democrats spent $4 to the Communist's $1 for election propaganda. The same poll also showed that of all the parties campaigning against the Reds, a ration of $7.50 to $1 was spent.

The Reds very probably would have won had the people of Italy been given a free choice. They would have won simply because there is distrust in Italy's present form of government. China is slowly turning Communist because there the same distrust prevails. In France a like trend is evident.

We should not gloat over the West's victory in Italy. Rather we should adopt for the future an affirmative, instead of a negative form of action. Democracy should be made so strong that it can always withstand a Red threat.

SGA ATTENDANCE IMPROVEMENT RATES PRAISE

Although the Proscript still retains the right to criticize, it is felt that praise should be bestowed when praise is due.

Some weeks ago, an editorial was published criticizing the indifferent attitude of the group representatives to the Student Government Association.

Even though there still is lacking the complete co-operation desired, a marked improvement in attendance has been noted.

The Proscript would like to feel that it is in part responsible for this. Nevertheless, the greatest credit should go to the groups themselves. Their cooperation is gratifying, and their continued interest will be the most powerful factor in establishing a strong student government which can fulfill the wishes of the student body.

A chain is no stronger than it's weakest link. It is the duty of each group to insure the continuity of a strong chain of student representation—to student government—for student welfare.—D. H.

LUNCH WITH DREW PEARSON

One of the high lights of the Washington visit was a luncheon with Drew Pearson, the news commentator, at the Iron Gate Inn. Mr. Pearson intrigued the students with his opinions of the national and international scenes. He commented that "Many authorities say there isn't a question of if we will have war, but of when we will have it."

The Journalism students watched a session of the House of Representatives. During their brief stay in the House gallery, the illustrious Representative Rankin addressed the lawmakers. From the gallery, the party made its way to the office of Representative J. Vaughan Gary of the Virginia third congressional district. Mr. Gary was a cordial conversationalist.

One of the greatest eye-openers of the trip's itinerary was the auditing of the Senate Agricultural Appropriations Committee meeting which took place on Thursday morning also.

After visiting the Mellon Art Gallery to view the paintings found in German salt mines and which constituted a considerable amount of the German war loot, the group left Washington for Pottstown, Pa., and New York City.

Journalism majors composing the Washington party were: Eugene Wright, Mary Scarlett, Virginia Calisch, Annette Moore, Arthur Lee, Martele Sporn, Annette Moore, and Emily Ann Rice.

Lillian Baber To Sing May 5

The School of Music will present Lillian Baber, soprano, in her senior recital May 5 at 8:30 in the Woman's Club auditorium. Miss Baber is from Richmond and has attended RPI for two years. She was a student at Va. Intermont College before coming here.

The 20-year-old senior will sing 11 selections, accompanied by George Harris.

Journal Material Sought—Sullivan

"Material for the May issue of the Journal is now being accepted," according to Anne Sullivan, editor.

The Journal is open to material from all students and the girls are particularly urged to contribute. So far only one article written by a girl has been printed," she said.

Contributions may be turned in to Mrs. Gordon at the switchboard or to any English instructor.

Administrators' Club Plans Outing

At the Administration Club meeting April 21, a picture titled "Money at Work" was shown.

The movie was followed by a discussion over a outing to be held by the club Saturday, May 15 at 2:00 p. m. A committee was selected to take care of details.

An election of next year's officers will be held today at 3:00 p. m. in Room A of the Ad. building.

candidacy for an office by petitioning this committee and presenting a petition bearing eleven signatures including his or her own. Petitions for president of the Student Body may be signed by any student in the college. Petitions for candidacy as class officers may be signed only by members of the class affected.

A Committee on Nominations composed of the senior members of the Student Assembly nominates candidates when there are less than three qualified candidates nominated for each office by petition.

In general, no student may be a candidate for an office unless he has an average of "C."

There can be no campaigning within 50 feet of the polls. Any student engaged in disorderly conduct is not allowed to vote.

At William and Mary, the SGA has jurisdiction only over activities common to both men and women. There is a separate association for women and the constitution and by-laws of this association forbid any kind of electioneering or politics pertaining to election of officers in the Women Student Government Association.

In the Women's association, nominations by petition are not permitted but are made at three consecutive meetings of the Association in March by secret ballot by members of the Association. There is also a senior nominating committee which can nominate candidates under certain limitations.

No woman student can vote for officers in the Woman's Association until she has paid her dues.

Modesty Forbids

By ROLAND FRIEDMAN

We at RPI are proud of all our little barking friends. They did well at the dog show a couple of week-ends ago. David of Ross-Shire (Dr. Margaret Johnson's pet), received a ribbon for being best in the novice cairn Terrier class. He was also reserve winner in "best of breed—cairn Terrier."

According to Mrs. Gordon, receptionist, "Davie" did well because he "is of Canadian descent."

Ahem . . . Mrs. G., we accidentally found, also has a past in Canada.

About a month ago, I ran across an article in a local newspaper datelined Springfield, Mass. It was on the subject of necking.

There is nothing "as wholesome as good clean necking," in the opinion of a Springfield psychoist.

Dr. Dorothy T. Spoerl, a member of the psychology department of American International College, advised students, however, to "be relatively careful where and when you do it."

"You don't have to travel 100 miles into the woods where you'll be alone with temptation," she added.

She warned couples not to "spend so much time in wooing that on the day you walk to the altar the only thing you know about your spouse-to-be is that he or she is a facile necker."

Ed's Note—Is there something else one need know.

Television made its debut in Richmond the past Thursday evening. The future in this field is limitless. Its possibilities as an educational medium here in the college are also limitless.

It is probable that the drama department, as well as other departments in the college will be called upon to lend their talents in putting on television broadcasts.

As a classroom educator, television programs might very well be a boon to education.

Programs viewed by an entire class, whether these programs be plays, include speakers, or what have you, would increase interest in many phases of a student's curriculum.

It will be interesting to watch, and to see whether RPI will take the lead in Virginia next year, with one department or other installing a television set for classroom use.

Male Crashes Female Class

News of the proposed mixed Marriage Relations class next September has traveled very rapidly. Many of the males at school are interested, and at least one male decided to investigate the course before registering.

Last Friday, the male in question conducted his own, very secretive survey -- and got away with it.

In the new restricted to-women Marriage Relations class Mrs. Beatrice Marion waxed eloquently on the discussion of the current rates for maternity cases. Members of the class added their "food for thought" and bits of wisdom, and it was felt that all had profited by the discussion.

Shortly before time for class to dismiss a stirring occurred under the big table. Complete silence shrouded. Room 1, Ad. Building.

Very languidly, a Heinz Special (57 Varieties) dog strolled into view. After listening to the discussion for nearly 50 minutes, he seemed quite unimpressed and had no comment to offer.

Mrs. Marion commented diplomatically, "I hadn't realized the men were so eager to join this

Prof's Corner

Mrs. Raymond Hodges was a house mother here for six years, five at 819 and one at 813 W. Franklin. Wife of the head of the department of dramatic art, Raymond Hodges she began teaching English courses at RPI last year on a part-time basis. She laughingly refers to herself as "merely a fill-in 'til times get better."

"Think clearly," I was saying to my class, "reason logically. Beware of wishful thinking, prejudice, all those things which tend to becloud our thinking, prevent us from viewing things as they really are . . ."

This is so important, I kept saying to myself. But I shouldn't have to say it to college students. Right habits of thinking should have been instilled in them since early childhood, stressed all the way through grammar school and high school. They should be taught at the mother's knee. Just as I'm trying to do to my own son.

Like that day he was stuffing himself with meat pie, and ignoring the golden, flaky biscuit crust.

"Eat your biscuit, son," I said. ("Now be subtle about this. None of this it's-so-good-for-you technique. Appeal to his logic.")

"But I don't like biscuit," said Barry.

"I know you don't. But it's too bad, because you're missing so much enjoyment by not liking them. And you don't like cauliflower, either. You wouldn't eat yours when we were invited out to dinner last Thursday. I was quite embarrassed."

"Daddy doesn't like cauliflower, either. If Daddy has gotten along without cauliflower all these years, why should I have to like it?"

"Well, you're younger than Daddy. It's easier for you to learn new things. Suppose you didn't like music. You wouldn't get any pleasure out of playing your records, would you?"

"No, I guess that's right." He paused a moment and thoughtfully spread a large spoonful of jam on his bread. "And if I didn't like the radio, I wouldn't want to listen to Gene Autry, would I?"

I winced a little at that one. "No, you wouldn't. And if you didn't like baseball, you certainly would not have had so much fun with the boys this afternoon."

A benign expression diffused his face, the expression which he always assumes when he is Being Good. "Mother," he announced with manly determination, "I see what you mean, and the next time anyone offers me cauliflower, I'm going to eat it. And like it!"

"That's fine," I replied. "Now eat your biscuit."

He buried his nose in a glass of milk. "Can't, Mom. I don't like biscuit."

Oh, well, I thought, he's only eight. Maybe by the time he's in college . . .

"Mom, worms don't have any bones at all, do they?"

I was somewhat non-plussed. I really hadn't given the matter much serious thought. "No-o," I answered, "I don't suppose they do."

"They don't," my small son assured me. "That's why birds eat 'em. They don't have to peel 'em."

Maybe I had better forego summer theatre this summer, and brush up a bit on child psychology.

class."

Then the door was opened and so ended the first occurrence of a mixed Marriage Relations class at R. P. I.

will be housed in 908 West Franklin street. A new building will be purchased to house the undergraduate students now living in 908 West Franklin street. An additional faculty residence, 904 Park Avenue, has already been purchased.

No students will live in the Administration Building although some apartments in the third floor front will continue to be occupied by some members of the faculty. This move will provide about 17 new offices for teachers.

The Art School will occupy the space now occupied by the School of Business Administration in the Gymnasium Building.

The addition to 901 West Franklin street will be brick walls, concrete floors, tile roof and will match in appearance the addition built on the east side of the Administration Building some years ago.

At the same time the narrow hall opposite the Treasurer's Office in the Administration building will be widened.

The wood stairway on the front of 816 Park avenue where the V. P. I. fireproof, steel stairway V. P. I. engineering classes are held will be taken out during the summer and a modern, fireproof, steel stairway will be installed in its place. The contract for this alteration has been let to the Thorington Construction Company.

Two years ago when the addition in the rear of 814-16 Parke Avenue was built, a steel rear stairway was built. This front stairway will complete the fireproofing of this building.

The brick walls of 814 Park avenue have been painted to match 816 and as soon as the iron balconies for the windows and doorways have been installed 814 and 816 Park avenue will have the appearance of one building.

cast were the highlights of the journalism field trip over the week-end.

Arriving in Pottstown Friday afternoon, the group was taken to supper by the Mercury. The students began working on the paper at 7 o'clock.

Annette Moore covered a dance at the country club, while Virginia Calisch went to the North Coventry high school for the Junior-Senior prom. Eugene Wright went on a story about a raid on violators of the state

McGuire Hospital diamond. Neither team scored again until the eighth when the little Spiders scored their final run.

The Green and Gold threatened when they scored three runs in the last half of the eighth, but were never able to close the five run gap.

Johnson hurled and led the Richmond JV's at bat, fanning 4 and getting three of their eight hits. Burrough paced the Devils with two hits.

PLAY MEDICAL COLLEGE TODAY

The Green Devils meet the Medical College of Virginia today at McGuire Hospital field. They were scheduled to play Battery Park at Hotchkiss field the past Saturday and McGuire Hospital Sunday at the McGuire Hospital field.

The school will play the Virginia JV's at McGuire's Friday and Camp Lee at Petersburg Saturday.

Mary Scarlett covered a truck fire. Joy Dunbaugh worked with the editor of the paper during the evening.

After the stories were handed in, and regular staff members edited them, the students followed the articles through the composing room and foundry. During the press run they had a talk fest with the newsmen. Saturday morning Mr. and Mrs. David S. Emery entertained the group at breakfast at Shellbark Farm. Mrs. Emery is the sister of Roland B. Smith, advisor of the journalism department.

After a visit to Shandy Hill, the general manager of the Mercury, the group entrained for New York at noon.

The travelers were invited to breakfast Sunday morning by Mr. and Mrs. George Scarlett, parents of Mary Scarlett, sophomore. Mr. and Mrs. Roland G. Smith, Mr. Smith's parents, were hosts for dinner the same evening.

That night the troupe went to the American Broadcasting Company's "Stop the Music" show at the Ritz Theater, 219 W. 48 street. The group was startled when Bert Parks, master of ceremonies, asked "Is Mr. Roland Smith in the audience? He is wanted backstage."

He gave no reason, but the mystery was soon cleared when a producer explained that Walter

Tennis Team Faces Strong UR Netters

The men's tennis team will furnish the opposition for the strong University of Richmond netters today at Byrd Park. The match is scheduled to get underway at 2:30. A previous match between the two teams which was scheduled for April 14, was called off because of rain and will be played at a later date, not yet selected.

Tomorrow RPI will play Lynchburg College at the same place and time as above. The Professional Institute will wind up the season at Lynchburg in a return match on Monday, May 24.

The locals have a match with the Hermitage Country Club at Hermitage on Monday, May 3.

be opened to Freshmen as well as to upperclassmen. "For," he continued, "men and women alike often enter college with distorted pictures of the sex problems and this distortion should be cleared as quickly as possible."

Mr. Hoffman believes that no more important course can be conducted in any college than a course on marriage relationships. "For," according to him, "the home today is in jeopardy."

"Much waywardness and delinquency can be traced directly to broken homes," Dr. Bondy declared. He continued "an intelligently conducted class in Marriage Relations might prevent divorces and, consequently, prevent waywardness of the children."

According to Mr. Hoffman, "the old idea of refusing to discuss matters of sex was one extreme. Now, the idea of letting down all the fences and taking off all the brakes is the other extreme. Both extremes are objectionable," he concluded.

Winchell had invited the group to his news cast.

Rushing over to Winchell's studio, the students were given seats where they could watch him at work. He came in at 8:55 dressed in blue trousers, blue shirt, and a blue tie loosened at the neck. Perched on his head at a jaunty angle was his ever-present hat, which he wore during the 15 minutes of the broad cast.

On his desk were four cups of water, each of which contained about one good mouthful. Winchell explained that he was in a state of high tension and his mouth was dry. During breaks in the program, he tossed off a cup of the liquid.

Tomorrow the journalists are to visit the Time, Life and Fortune and Loew's "News of the Day" studios. They will eat lunch with Otto Kleppner, advertising agency president and author of "Advertising Procedure," the textbook used by adv. classes.
