MEDICAL COLLEGE OF VIRGINIA • HEALTH SCIENCES
VIRGINIA COMMONWEALTH UNIVERSITY

February, 1972

Continuing Education Programs Scheduled

The school of medicine has planned three continuing education programs for the month of March.

The department of legal medicine will sponsor a law institute on hospitals and medicine March 3.

The Alton D. Brashear Postgraduate Course in Head and Neck Anatomy will be presented by the department of anatomy March 6-9.

On March 12-15, the department of radiology will sponsor "A Review of Clinical Oncology" at the Williamsburg Conference Center.

The continuing education department of the school of nursing will sponsor a training laboratory on "The Group Process" March 20-21 and March 27-28 in Room 409 of the Nursing Education Building.

The two sessions will be conducted by William David Cushnie, BSBD. Participants will be exposed to learning experiences which will give them opportunities to practice techniques which improve communication, teamwork, and group problem solving.

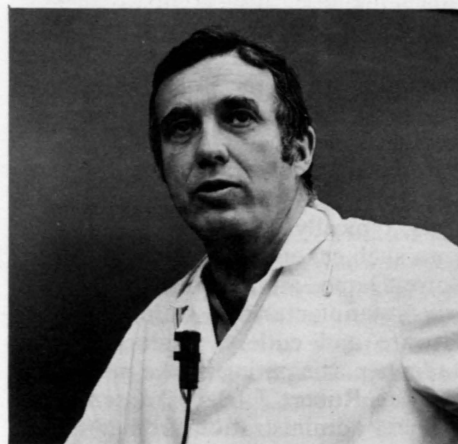

Enrollment will be limited to 24 registered nurses who are employed full-time in inservice education. There is no tuition charge.

The school of dentistry will offer a one-day course on endodontics March 17 led by Dr. Thomas P. Serene, associate professor and chairman of the department of endodontics.

The course will include illustrated lectures and television demonstrations covering the entire scope of endodontics. Emphasis will be placed upon new endodontic advancements and procedures, attempting to update the practitioner's background in this important area of dentistry.

A program on Bone Marrow and Grafts in Periodontics will be offered

Dr. David M. Hume

National Journal Recognizes Surgeon

Dr. David M. Hume, professor and chairman of the department of surgery, is one of 10 medical educators and researchers in the country who have received 1972 Distinguished Achievement Awards from Modern Medicine, a leading national medical journal.

Doctor Hume was among about 250 men and women nominated for the awards, which have been given annually since 1934.

Modern Medicine cites the surgeon for "innovative approaches to safe and ethical organ transplantation." He performed the first functioning renal homotransplants in man 20 years ago and is continuing to develop and refine this procedure.

A native of Muskegon, Michigan, Doctor Hume received a B.S. degree from Harvard University and his M.D. degree from the University of Chicago. He was a Harvey Cushing Fellow at Harvard, 1948-50; an American Cancer Society Scholar, 1952-53; and 1955-57; and he received the A. Francis Amory Prize of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences in 1962.

In 1968 he co-edited Principles of Surgery, a textbook the publisher claims is the best selling first edition medical book ever.

Budget Director Appointed

James G. Rennie, Jr., has been appointed university budget director, effective February 1, 1972. He replaces George T. Glenn, who resigned. George Biggs continues as assistant in the budget office.

Mr. Rennie joins the university from his former position as director, Program for Executive Development, and assistant director, Management Center, Institute for Business and Community Development, University of Richmond.

He is a Certified Public Accountant, and has had more than 12 years' experience in business and industry including over five years in the practice of public accounting in Richmond. His experience also includes positions in accounting and administration with Rose's Stores, Inc., Henderson, North Carolina, and First and Merchants National Bank, Richmond.

Mr. Rennie holds a B.S. degree from Hampden-Sydney College, and an M.C. degree in accounting and management from the University of Richmond. He is a member of several professional organizations.

Department Recognized

The department of rehabilitation counseling at VCU has the best program of its type in the nation, according to a study of the 80 existing rehabilitation counseling programs by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The department was established in 1955, offering the first graduate program in rehabilitation counseling in the nation.

March 6 and 7, led by Dr. Robert G. Schallhorn, professor and chairman, department of periodontics, University of Colorado.

A new approach to the management of osseous defects is the use of bone and marrow grafts. Doctor Schallhorn will discuss his philosophy of treatment, problems encountered with grafts, and future projections related to this type of therapy.

Student Health Service Sees Variety Of Ills

An apple a day might keep the doctor away, but if that old adage doesn't work, the Student Health Service can fulfill student needs for medical attention.

The service provides a wide range of diagnostic and therapeutic services for outpatients and infirmary care for the treatment of relatively minor illness requiring bed rest but not hospitalization.

Dr. William R. Kay, director of the Student Health Service, explained that the service is partially supported by a student health fee of $49 per year which is included in a consolidated service fee which is compulsory for all regularly enrolled students. Registered for health services are about 1,700 students at the Health Sciences Division and 200 from the Academic Division who live in dormitories on the east campus.

"We see a little bit of everything, including brain tumors, diabetes, musculo-skeletal disorders, gynecological problems, peptic ulcers, dermatological problems, and emotional problems, but the majority are acute respiratory illnesses and gastrointestinal upsets."

The full-time health service staff in addition to Doctor Kay includes a nurse, Mrs. Alice Booth; secretary, Miss Lynda Hubbard; and custodian, Mrs. Josephine Douglas. Dr. Edward Paarfus serves part-time as student

Students Participate In Business Game

Students at VCU's school of business are for the second year participating in Emory University's Intercollegiate Business Game.

Last year's four-man team placed third in the competition, which is a complex business simulation of several major decision making functions in a typical manufacturing company.

Emory University's graduate business association is organizing and managing the game for the seventh year with financial support from Atlanta area firms.

Forty universities are invited to participate in the game each year. Students, typically in four-member teams from such schools as Louisiana State, Notre Dame, and Purdue, manage a firm manufacturing stainless steel flatware and cutlery products. VCU students participating in the game this year are Robert J. Balas, a senior in business administration from Annandale; Alvin L. Hamaker, a junior in accounting from Petersburg; Stephen O. Morrell, a senior in economics from Richmond; and Franke C.

Paulett, a senior in accounting from Richmond. Dr. Glenn H. Gilbreath, assistant professor of quantitative management, is faculty advisor to the team.

Participants set objectives for their companies and then transmit management decisions to an Emory computer. Decisions are made in 19 areas, including advertising, price, production, stock issues, and dividends. The Emory computer analyzes the decisions and transmits summary information, including a balance sheet, income statement, current economic index, and next year's forecast to each team. Six weeks of operation by the student teams simulates three years in the computer model. Virginia Electric and Power Company is providing VCU with data transmitting equipment for relaying information to and from the Emory computer.

All student teams will participate in the Intercollegiate Business Game Conference in Atlanta March 2, 3, and 4. Each team will present an oral explanation of their strategies before a panel of Atlanta businessmen, and winners will be announced the final day of the conference.

health psychiatrist. The full-time staff is on duty 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday, and senior medical residents take emergency calls at night and on weekends. Regular sick call is from 8:30 a.m. to 10 a.m. each day and from noon to 2 p.m. Monday, Wednesday, and Thursday, and 1-2 p.m. Tuesday. "We see students at other times primarily by appointment," Doctor Kay added.

Services offered by the health service include outpatient care, consultation, inpatient care in the student infirmary for minor illnesses, emergency care, medication, chest X-rays during fall registration, diagnostic laboratory tests and X-rays when ordered by health service physicians or authorized consultants, certain immunizations, and emergency dental treatment.

During the year ending June 30, 1971, the Student Health Service saw 4,403 students; 180 were cared for in the emergency rooms; and 928 student visits were made to A. D. Williams Clinic. During the year, 736 visited the Student Health psychiatrist.

Located in the South Hospital, the Student Health Services facilities consist of two examination rooms, a waiting room, secretary's office, a medication, treatment and storage room combined, and an infirmary on second floor with two two-bed rooms and a one-bed room. "We have been real fortunate," Doctor Kay noted, "never to have been seriously affected by a major outbreak of student illness." In some cases, the infirmary facilities have been unable to accommodate all inpatients, "but the hospital is very cooperative in finding beds," Doctor Kay assured. Extra beds are usually available in the department of physical medicine in South Hospital, and the director added that the former burn ward there can also be opened for infirmary overloads.

The present Student Health Service is an outgrowth of a student health reorganization in 1947. Prior to that time individual schools operated independent health services.

The greatest change the director has noted in the Student Health Service in recent years is the increasing need for emotional counseling for students. Doctor Paarfus serves as psychiatrist on a part-time basis and sees students only by appointment.

Experience in Self-Care Unit Compares to Pleasant Vacation

Clinical Center patient is escorted to her room, the beginning of a unique experience in hospitalization.

In less than five years of operation, the self-care unit of the Clinical Center has gained quite a favorable reputation among its visitors.

Comments from patients on questionnaires about their opinions of this unique form of hospitalization have nine times out of 10 indicated complete satisfaction.

Many have compared their visits to vacations and others "look forward to coming back."

Wallace O. Kemp, Clinical Center administrator, says he has been "amazed" at the response to self-care. He maintains a file of questionnaires which patients may complete as they depart from the unit. "These have been very helpful too," he said, "in providing some constructive criticism to direct our efforts toward improvements."

The Clinical Center, which houses the self-care unit, was completed in late 1967 and includes two parking levels below ground; a restaurant, administrative offices, and a bank on the first floor; private physicians' offices on second, third, and fourth floors; patient rooms on fifth and sixth floors with a canteen and lounge area on each; and laboratories on second and third floors.

The self-care facility, which has been developed successfully throughout the country, is the only one in Richmond. It is designed to offer accommodations in an attractive and convenient setting to those who do not require the special and often more expensive services afforded only by the general hospital. It is restricted to those patients able to provide for their personal needs, to follow special orders of their own private physicians, and to go unattended to and from offices or diagnostic or treatment centers in the Clinical Center or neighboring buildings.

A recent addition to the Clinical Center is a $250,000 multiphasic health screening system, a first for Virginia. The system is one of several pioneer projects in the nation using new electronic equipment to offer a wide range of preventive medical care to an increased number of patients.

Located on the Clinical Center's seventh floor, the screening center was designed to provide comprehensive health examinations to 100 patients per day with an annual patient load of about 20,000 persons.

According to Dr. Robert Jessee, director of the center, a primary objective is the early detection of disease, especially heart disease, cancer, and stroke, the three leading killers. Testing through the screening center will be aimed at discovering those apparently well persons who have a high risk of developing a disease and at spotting asymptomatic diseases in early stages when the potential is high for more effective therapy.

"Proper use of the lab results could allow the physician to accomplish the health examinations with economic advantages to both the patient cost and expenditure of the physician's time," Doctor Jessee said.

Some of the questionnaires completed by patients in the self-care unit are written by what appears to be the somewhat unsteady hands of elderly persons, others are printed in large block letters, possibly the words of children. But most say the same thing.

The following are a few of the comments:

"I am basically a very critical person and a complainer, but my doctor is outstanding and I have nothing but praise for the entire Clinical Center."

"I have just recently spent 21 days in another hospital for tests. I nearly went out of my mind because I was not nearly that sick. This is perfect — the doctors, the nurses, the feeling of being able to come and go to meals, is wonderful. I think they have found my problem which also makes me feel good about this place."

"It is psychologically marvelous. I was dependent on the hospital and afraid to come back to self-care, but immediately I appreciated the quiet, cool, comforting atmosphere with uninterrupted rest. It makes one want to get well."

"The most impressive thing to me was that your staff was very kind and friendly. A smile goes a long way in this world. Your employees seem basically content, and this is a reflection on good administration."

"It creates a feeling of being entrusted with your own charts . . . this will be an integral part of future medical treatment."

"I had the best examinations, X-rays, and tests I have ever had in my 68 years."

"Self-care gives a person a feeling of freedom. It allows a person to enjoy his stay as best he can. It is a great deal better than the normal routine."

A few of the suggestions for improvement included addition of a sun porch, luggage racks in rooms, and an intercom system for patients when not in their rooms.

One patient's short and to-the-point comment seems to sum up all the rest. "It's great!"

Labor Volumes Donated to Library

A collection of 138 labor relations volumes valued at more than $1,000 has been donated to the VCU libraries by the Richmond-based Ethyl Corporation.

The volumes, published by the Bureau of National Affairs, are the Labor Relations Reporter series. The series includes labor relations decisions, wages and hours cases, and labor arbitration reports.

According to Gerard B. McCabe, director of university libraries, the gift "fills a gap in the libraries' holdings and will be particularly useful to the students and faculty of the School of Business."

The collection will be housed in the James Branch Cabell Library on the university's academic campus.

Ethyl Corporation is a worldwide chemical company which produces plastics, aluminum, and paper products.

Nontraditional Education Can Earn College Credit

Most educators agree that much of an individual's education takes place outside the classroom — through individual study, job training, and other means. VCU now offers an opportunity to apply that education toward a college degree by awarding college credit based on examinations known as CLEP, the College-Level Examination Program.

The program is available to anyone. Its basic purpose is to enable persons who have acquired their education in nontraditional ways to earn academic credit toward an undergraduate degree.

The testing program may be especially useful to persons who, due to marriage or military service, have had to interrupt their formal education, said O. J. Paris, director of admissions.

"The CLEP program will reduce the cost of a college education and the amount of time spent at VCU," Paris said. "It will also allow the university to accommodate the large number of Virginia students who want a college education by making it possible to accept and graduate more students."

The exams are also open to degree-seeking students now enrolled at VCU who wish to reduce the time and cost of their degree program.

Offered by the university for the first time this year, the examinations were developed by the College Entrance Examination Board, which provides tests and other educational services for schools and colleges.

Dr. Curtis G. Keesee, director of counselor education at VCU, said the program is "part of a trend in higher education, recognizing that people learn in a variety of ways."

Nontraditional educational experiences which may have served as preparation for CLEP include correspondence study, television courses, independent study, and on-the-job training and experience.

ing and experience.

According to VCU's director of admissions, "the level of performance expected is that of the average college sophomore."

The program offers two kinds of tests — general examinations and subject examinations. Both are objective tests consisting of multiple-choice questions.

The general examinations measure achievement in five basic areas of the liberal arts: English composition, humanities, mathematics, natural sciences, and social sciences-history.

Each exam has a time limit of 75 minutes except English composition, which takes one hour.

The subject examinations measure achievement in specific college courses and each subject exam consists of a 90-minute objective test.

Some of the exams also include essay sections, which require 90 minutes.

Through CLEP, candidates may receive as much as 54 semester hours of credit toward an undergraduate degree at VCU, which is one of two CLEP centers in Virginia. The other is Virginia Western Community College in Roanoke. The university is one of 14 institutions of higher education in Virginia which accept credit earned under the program.

At VCU, general examinations are given on one Wednesday each month and subject exams are held on the following Thursday.

Exam fees are $15 for one to two general exams and $25 for three or more. Subject exams are $15 each.

Non-VCU students who would like information concerning CLEP may contact O. J. Paris, director of admissions, 920 West Franklin Street, Richmond, 23220.

VCU students may apply for the program through their academic advisors.

Postal Increase Postponed

The U.S. Postal Service has postponed indefinitely a proposed third class rate increase which was scheduled to be effective January 24.

The action was taken in compliance with a ruling on January 14 by U.S. District Judge George L. Hart denying the postal service's authority to place the rates into effect.

The decision has been appealed to the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia circuit.

Dr. Harry Lyons Is Consultant For Federal Grants

A 50-year association with the Medical College of Virginia is not easily broken.

Dr. Harry Lyons retired in June 1970 having graduated from the school of dentistry, and having served on the faculty since 1923, the last 20 years as dean of the school of dentistry.

Last September he came back to the university renewing his association at the request of Dr. Warren W. Brandt, president. Doctor Lyons now serves as university consultant for federal grants. In this position he is responsible for securing information on sources of support for higher education and collecting catalogs from federal grant agencies.

"There are 1,019 federal granting programs now offered by 57 U.S. agencies," he said, "ranging from the U.S. Department of Agriculture to the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare."

Not only does Doctor Lyons secure information, but he also makes it available to individuals, faculty members, and department chairmen, who may be interested in obtaining research and training funds.

Doctor Lyons serves both campuses of the university and also offers assistance in the preparation of grant applications.

Persons interested in federal support for research and training programs should contact Doctor Lyons at extension 4444. His office is located in the administrative suite, first floor, Sanger Hall.

Born in Washington, D.C., Doctor

Lyons spent most of his early life in Lexington, Virginia. In addition to his D.D.S. degree from the MCV school of dentistry, he holds honorary degrees from Temple University, Manitoba University, and New York University.

While on the faculty of the school of dentistry from 1923 until his appointment as dean in 1951, he served through the ranks from instructor to professor and head of the departments of oral pathology, diagnosis and therapeutics, and periodontics.

After his retirement as dean he became actively involved in a national fund raising effort for the American Fund for Dental Education.

Doctor Lyons is married to Dr. Doris Yingling, dean of the school of nursing.

'Seek and Destroy' Potential Poisons

This year there will be one half to one million accidental poisonings among children in the United States. And for every child accidentally poisoned, there is an adult who is responsible.

That adult may be the parent who is careless in the use of a potentially hazardous product; the manufacturer who makes his capsules to look like candy; or the distributor who does not use safety features.

Emphasizing the need for continued adult vigilance, pharmacy and pediatrics staff from MCV will join others in observance of National Poison Prevention Week March 19-25 to alert the public to the dangers and tragedy of accidental poisonings. Theme for the 11th observance will be "Seek and Destroy."

Dr. Fred J. Salter, assistant director pharmacy clinical services, noted that poisons are not always marked with skull and crossbones. They may be labelled prescription drugs, furniture polish, bug killer, lye, lighter fluid, kerosene, and any number of other substances kept around the house. Any non-food substance can be a potential poison, he said.

Poison control centers at MCV and at the University of Virginia receive approximately 10 calls daily from pediatricians and other physicians on accidental poisonings. The MCV poison control center, one of 18 in Virginia, maintains a file of literature on known poisons and their antidotes and serves as a physician's resource center for poisoning accidents.

"Ninety percent of all poisonings involve children," Doctor Salter noted, "and 75 percent involve children under five."

Statistics reported for 1970 by U.S. Poison Control Centers show that medications of all types were responsible for 56.4 percent of the total poisonings in children. Aspirin accounted for 13.6 percent of these poisonings reported, with baby aspirin involved in 75 percent of all aspirin poisonings.

"It is apparent that parents still do not recognize the hazard of baby aspirin," Doctor Salter explained. "The number of aspirin tablets per bottle has been limited by law, special safety caps have been devised — yet still the poisonings occur." He said he is encouraged, however, by the fact that

Toxicology Society Meets March 5-9

The 11th annual meeting of the Society of Toxicology will be held at the Williamsburg Lodge March 5-9. Papers in all aspects of toxicology will be presented.

The meeting, which is open to all interested scientists, will include a special symposium on mutagenesis Monday, March 6.

For further information, contact Dr. Joseph F. Borzelleca, department of pharmacology.

Dance Is March 25

The MCV Faculty Woman's Club Section of the VCU Woman's Club will sponsor a dance Saturday, March 25 for all members of the VCU Woman's Club and their guests. The dance will be held in the Larrick Student Center, with a social hour at 7 p.m. and dinner at 8 p.m.

Tickets are $12 per couple. Reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Francis J. Brooke, 353-3342; Mrs. E. S. Davis, 794-8297; Mrs. Philip Modjeski, 272-2346; or Mrs. John Barnard, 231-2437.

the percentage of aspirin poisonings dropped in 1969 for the first time in 10 years and decreased again in 1970. "Parents should be reminded each and every time they purchase baby aspirin to keep it in a safe place at all times and not to refer to it as candy."

Vitamins rank second among those products involved in most accidental ingestions in small children with soaps, detergents, and cleaners being third. Other substances include antihistamines and cold medicine, tranquilizers, hormones, cough medicines, and anti-septics.

"Three-fourths of all childhood poisonings could be prevented by keeping all drugs and dangerous household products out of sight," Doctor Salter said. "The medications should preferably be kept in a safe, locked storage area. The cleaning and polishing agents must be stored on high shelves out of reach of small children."

The kitchen is the most likely place for poisoning to occur, followed by the bathroom and the bedroom. Responsibility for poison-proofing the home rests with the parents, and Doctor Salter offered some possible precautions for preventing poisonings:

- * Always read the label and take medicine only in amounts stated.

- * Always store internal medicines separately from other products.

- * Give prescription medicine only to the patient for whom it was prescribed.

- * Never leave medicines on furniture or counters; always return them to a safe storage place immediately.

- * Check medicine cabinets regularly, discarding medicines no longer used. Flush unused drugs down the drain and rinse containers before discarding them.

- * If an accidental poisoning occurs, contact a physician or hospital emergency room. Do not panic, but do not wait for symptoms to occur.

- * Always refer to medicine by its proper name in the presence of children; never call it candy.

- * Always turn on lights when taking or giving medicine.

Anderson Gallery Shows Sculpture — Calliope to Collection of 'Things'

Hanging from the ceilings, sprouting from the floors, and gracing the walls were forms of every imaginable material bent, hammered, molded, glued, and welded in sculptural expressions including a wooden calliope that actually works, an enchanting lighted exhibit, and unusual collections of articles from checkerboards to dolls.

The impressive sculpture exhibit was on display January 5 through February 2 in the Anderson Art Gallery at 907½ West Franklin Street.

The gallery has been open one semester and has shown a variety of exhibits by students, faculty, and out-of-state artists. "We hope in the future to bring in more out-of-state work," said Bruce Koplin, gallery director, "to give visitors an opportunity to see what goes on elsewhere."

A converted stable, the gallery building was provided for the Academic Division by a contribution from Colonel A. A. Anderson in 1928 for the establishment of the first studio of the present school of the arts. In 1930 the Colonel made another contribution which made possible the refurbishing of the building for exhibit facilities and classrooms. The building was used as a library for many years, but with the construction of the new James Branch Cabell Library it was returned in 1970 to the school of the arts.

The three-story building is open Monday through Friday 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and on Sunday afternoons from 2 to 5. According to Mr. Koplin, students, faculty, and the public "have been very enthusiastic" about the gallery and he is satisfied with the response. Many visitors come from outside the university community, he noted, including business people on their lunch hours.

Many of the exhibits have been from the VCU permanent art collection which for about 25 years was in the garden of the building that now houses administrative offices at 910 West Franklin Street. Segments of the collection are brought to the gallery and then returned to storage on a rotating basis. During the month of March a collection of Durer prints, 16th century German woodcuts will be shown from the university's permanent collection.

In addition to the gallery director and his secretary, three undergraduates and one graduate student are on hand to answer questions. Members of the VCU Woman's Club also staff the sales and loan gallery and serve as hostesses for tour groups and special activities in the gallery.

Upcoming exhibits include: senior exhibitions from the painting and printmaking department, and communications art and design and photography to VCU students and faculty both March 7-31.

Evening College Offers 'Mini-Courses'

A series of one-credit "mini-courses" in geography is being offered by the Evening College of the Academic Division. These courses should be useful to prospective travelers, to students, and to others who wish at least a conversational acquaintance with other cultures.

The first course, covering modern Turkey, meets each Wednesday from 12-1:30 p.m. at Grace and Holy Trinity Church, 8 North Laurel Street, and will continue through April 26. A second section is held on the same dates from 7 to 8:30 p.m. in Room 249 of the new business buildings, Floyd Avenue and Linden Street.

Both sections are taught by Dr. Harland Westermann, dean of the school of community services, who spent three years in Turkey. The remaining classes in the series, to be offered later, will also be taught by persons who have resided in the area under discussion and who have an intimate knowledge of the country on which they will lecture.

Three non-credit courses are also being offered by the Center for Continuing Education:

1. In progress, Mondays, 8-9:30 p.m. Location: St. Catherine's School, 6001 Grove Avenue
DRUGS: Their Use and Abuse. 7 Sessions, $15, plus $2.50 for programmed text. Instructor: Dr. J. A. Rosecrans.
The material will include causes and complications of drug misuse and abuse.

2. Beginning March 2, Thursdays, 9:45-11:45 a.m. Location: St. Giles Presbyterian Church, 5200 Grove Avenue.

FOCUS ON CHOICE: Women at the Crossroads. 10 sessions. $60. Instructor: Mrs. Anne Milkes.

Political Theorist To Speak March 8

Dr. Russell Kirk, described by Time and Newsweek magazines as one of America's leading thinkers, will speak during a convocation at 2 p.m. March 8, in the Mosque.

Doctor Kirk has been for two decades in the thick of the intellectual controversies of our time. He writes and speaks on political thought, educational theory, literary criticism, Miss Eva Erickson, director of the graduate program in nursing service administration, College of Nursing, University of Iowa, helps a nursing faculty group explore some of the problems of clinical evaluations of nursing students. The discussion was part of a school of nursing faculty workshop on "Clinical Evaluation" that Miss Erickson led January 19-21.

This course is given in cooperation with Washington Opportunities for Women, and affords an opportunity for women to investigate the worlds of work, education, and volunteer service through testing, speakers, small group discussions, and workshops.

3. Beginning March 7, Tuesdays, 7:30-9:30 p.m. Location: Room 11. Business Building, 1015 Floyd Avenue.

GENEALOGICAL RESEARCH FUNDAMENTALS. 10 sessions, $45. Instructor: Joseph F. Inman. Instruction in use of public records, including vital statistics, census, wills, deeds, marriages, taxes, manuscript collections, publications, etc.

Registration by mail is available for the non-credit courses. For information, call the Evening College office, 770-6731.

foreign affairs, and many other topics. The best known of his 16 books is The Conservative Mind, probably the most widely read and reviewed work of political theory published in this century.

Doctor Kirk is the only American to hold the highest earned arts degree of the senior Scottish university — Doctor of Letters of St. Andrews. He earned his bachelor's degree from Michigan State University and his master's degree from Duke University.

Accounting Department Schedules Forums

The faculty of the accounting department will present two accounting forums featuring distinguished speakers on two separate evenings.

Accounting Forum I will present Professor Oswald Nielsen, holder of the Carman Blough Chair at the University of Virginia on Tuesday, March 14, at 7:30 p.m. His topic will be "Reporting Financial Changes — Opportunities Under APB Opinion No. 19." Professor Nielsen is noted for his work in the field of auditing and numbers among his many achievements authorship of the book Auditing Philosophy.

Accounting Forum II brings Dr. William L. Campfield, CPA, to VCU on Thursday, April 13, at 7:30 p.m. Doctor Campfield is an associate director with the U.S. General Accounting Office, Washington, D.C., and is actively engaged in professional affairs through the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants, the American Accounting Association, the National Association of Accountants, and other organizations. His writings frequently appear in professional journals and he is contributing author to two textbooks on auditing.

The objective of these forums is to afford students, faculty, and practicing accountants from all branches of the profession an opportunity to meet one another and to hear the thoughts of leading figures on topics of immediate interest. The audience will be invited to address questions to the guest speakers. No tickets are required, and the doors will open to the public at 7 p.m.

Methadone Program Acquires Housing

The MCV methadone treatment program is now located in permanent housing at 15 West Cary Street. Through the combined efforts of the hospital pharmacy, the adolescent clinic, Dr. Joseph Byrne of the alcohol division, and the psychiatric department, the program has become a full-time operation with a staff of physicians, pharmacists, social workers, and volunteer members of the psychiatric department.

From temporary dispensing from the back door of the pharmacy a year ago, the program now has its own building and works with about 225 heroin addicts daily, providing both methadone and counseling.

The methadone is a synthetic narcotic discovered by the Germans during World War II, and it has been used since then as a relief for pain. It was found a few years ago that methadone could be used in place of heroin. If the proper dosage is used, the methadone will block the desire for heroin. Therefore, the patients can take this drug daily and function normally, without heroin.

Counseling is then combined with the methadone to help each patient understand why he became an addict and what he can do about his future. According to Mrs. Susan Flinkow, coordinator of the methadone treatment program, most addicts have a background of broken family relations, poor employment and school records, and frequently crime. "To readjust to a life style, without drugs, of working and maintaining stable relations with family and friends requires long periods of counseling. Using the methadone as a holding tool during this period of readjustment, the patient can be maintained until he is capable of functioning on his own without drugs," Mrs. Flinkow explained.

Presently the program is funded by a grant from the State Division of Justice and Crime Prevention. The money from this grant is supplemented by the daily fee of $1.50 which each patient pays. "It is hoped that in the future the program will expand its staff and funding to handle 400 patients," Mrs. Flinkow added.

Language Problem? No Barrier For MCV Staff

MCV Hospitals means service — in any language.

Occasionally patients admitted to the hospitals cannot speak English and the hospital personnel must locate an interpreter.

Mrs. Elizabeth Hildebran, assistant director of nursing, said the nursing staff encounters an average of one or two such patients each month. Frequently they speak Spanish or Portuguese, she said, and there have been patients who spoke only Chinese.

"People are always very helpful,"

Student Life

In response to a request from Franklin Bacon, associate dean of student life, for faculty and staff to serve as host families for foreign visitors, 13 families have indicated a desire to have these visitors from other parts of the world in their homes for meals or special occasions. According to Dean Bacon, this not only relieves the feeling of being alone for these people, but it also gives them a different idea of American life from that ordinarily found in dormitory living. Other persons interested in participating may contact the student life office at extension 4701.

The tournament bridge group is underway at the Larrick Student Center, and there are still openings for others who wish to join and play on alternate Tuesdays, which began January 25. Under the franchise the present cost per player is $1, and participants are limited to VCU students, faculty, and staff, and their spouses. Free parking arrangements have been approved in the student center parking lot for those who are registered as players.

Sharing Sorrow

Our sincere sympathy is extended to:

The family of William T. Dickerson, Sr., sheetmetal supervisor in the department of buildings and grounds, who died December 30, 1971. Mr. Dickerson had served the department since July 21, 1948.

Mrs. Marie Drew, VCU post office, in the death of her brother January 24.

Mrs. Hildebran remarked, "and we can almost always find one or two persons to interpret with no trouble." Several physicians and nurses speak other languages, and there is at least one nurse who speaks several languages.

When the nursing staff is unsuccessful in locating an interpreter among hospital personnel, a message is transmitted by telepage to locate someone in the hospitals who speaks the language. Such a case occurred recently when a Portuguese child was admitted to the hospitals, and a telepage call brought an interpreter to the assistance of nursing staff.

This is but one example of the many problems which prove to be no match for MCV's flexible staff.

Births

Our congratulations to:

Dr. and Mrs. Alan D. Entin, assistant professor of psychiatry, on the birth of a son, Arik Sandor, September 28.

News Briefs

School of Business

Dr. John B. Sperry, CPA, associate professor of accounting, received an invitation from President Nixon to attend the first White House Conference on "A Look at the Industrial World Ahead." The conference was held February 7-9 and concerned a prediction of the business environment during the next 20 years.

School of Dentistry

Dr. John A. DiBiaggio, dean, served on a panel to discuss "The Image of the Dentist" at the annual meeting of the American Association of Dental Schools in Las Vegas, Nevada, March 20-23.

School of Nursing

School Nursing for the 70's, a publication by Dr. Martha Borlick, professor and chairman, department of community health nursing, is now available from the National Education Association, Washington, D.C., for $1.75 per copy.

Mrs. June Turnage, instructor, department of medical-surgical nursing, was conference leader for "The Dying Person and His Family," a conference in two parts presented on December 8 and December 15 by the continuing education program of the school of nursing in Richmond. Resource persons from the departments of medicine, psychiatry, and patient counseling participated in the conference. Mrs. Jeannette Kissinger, assistant professor and acting chairman, department of medical-surgical nursing, and Miss Anne Dauria, associate professor, continuing education, served with Mrs. Turnage as group discussion leaders. Attendance on the two days totaled 230 registered nurses from throughout Virginia.

Mrs. Amy Hecht, associate professor, department of community health nursing, has been accepted for membership on the Council of Nurse Researchers of the American Nurses' Association.

Dr. Patricia L. Wiley, associate professor and chairman, department of psychiatric nursing, participated in Conference II, Areas of Concern in Mental Health and Rehabilitation, devoted to Innovations in Theory and Practice. The conference was held January 28 in Chester. Doctor Wiley was on the panel to discuss Responsive Action in Mental Health to a Changing World. Her topic was "Nursing and Rehabilitation."

Department of Medicine

Dr. W. T. Thompson, chairman of the department and president of the Richmond Academy of Medicine, gave his inaugural address at a dinner meeting January 11. His topic was "Quality, Quantity, and Cost of Medical Care — Challenges to Our Profession."

Department of Pharmacology

Dr. Marvin A. Friedman, Dr. Joseph F. Borzelleca, and Dr. Herbert McKennis, Jr., attended the annual meeting of the Society for Experimental Biology and Medicine, Southeastern Section, at the University of Miami School of Medicine on January 12. They presented the following papers: "Differential effects of piperonyl butoxide on mouse liver microsomal metabolism of Type I and Type II substrates," M. A. Friedman; "Peripheral vascular effects of dihydrometanicotine," R. G. Bost and H. McKennis, Jr.; "Effects of fluoroalkane propellants on cardiac rate and rhythm in mice," J. F. Borzelleca, J. L. Egle, Jr., and J. W. Putney.

Dr. Joseph Borzelleca presented a talk on "Body Ecology" during the Medical Forum at the Village Presbyterian Church January 19.

Department of Psychiatry

Dr. Alan D. Entin, assistant professor of psychology, appeared on Channel 8 television program "Contract" December 17, 24, and 31 to discuss "The Role of Families in the Development of Emotional Health and Illness."

Doctor Entin has been re-elected president of the Richmond Psychological Association.

Dr. Robert J. Resnick, assistant professor of psychology, spoke January 22 at the Child Care Training Institute on "Assessing and Solving of Problems Between Parents and Their Children."

Department of Sociology and Anthropology

Dr. Bernard Murphy, assistant professor of sociology, is serving on the Board of Directors of the Church Hill Housing Development Corporation, Inc. This corporation has been set up as part of the First Year Action Program of the Church Hill Model Neighborhood, a federally funded urban development program which has brought Church Hill over $3,000,000 for the current fiscal year. Doctor Murphy has been actively involved in the program for the past two years, serving on committees to work out needs and priorities in physical environment and relocation. He also is currently vice-chairman of the Church Hill Planning and Zoning Committee, charged with developing a long range master plan for the area.

*****

Building and Grounds

The biography of Philip Colavita, Jr., resident architect, will appear in the sixth edition of the Community Leaders of America.

Stephen Giles, power plant boiler fireman, employed by buildings and grounds since May 6, 1954, retired December 31, 1971.

Service Awards Presented

Approximately 2,000 employees were honored during service awards presentations January 24, 26, and 28.

On January 24 and 26 recipients of 10- and 15-years service pins were honored at a buffet luncheon in the Larrick Student Center.

During the afternoon of January 24 and 26, VCU administrators participated in individual departmental presentations of five-year service pins at various locations on both campuses.

The grand finale of the program was a banquet at the John Marshall Hotel Friday, January 28, for employees with 20 years and above service. Pins were awarded by Dr. Warren W. Brandt, president.

This was VCU's first service awards program. MCV's last service recognition program was held in 1968; the Academic Division has never had one.

Any employee with questions regarding service awards should contact Miss Katherine Hock, personnel department, extension 5474.
