BANDOIAN ASKS
HARMONY

Needless to say, I am very happy to have learned that my running mates and I were successful in our bid to be elected as next year's SGA officers. The spirited pre-election campaigning that was waged by all candidates and the up-to-the-minute election coverage by the PROSCRIPT did much to stimulate interest in the voting. I believe that the record number of students who cast their ballots can be attributed to those two factors.

To the Collegiate party supporters, I say, "THANKS FOR YOUR VOTE OF CONFIDENCE. WE WON'T LET YOU DOWN." To those who felt that the other candidates and platforms were more to their liking, I'd like to say that I hope no hard feelings will persist now that the election returns are apparent — that my running mates and I will gladly devote our efforts to any and all proposals which we feel will be beneficial to the student body as a whole. Our goal will be to put into effect any measures which will make RPI a bigger and better college.

We know that cooperation and pleasant relationships between all students, faculty and administration will, to a large degree, determine our success and therefore we make this plea: That we all work harmoniously together to make our school a more pleasant and highly regarded institution of higher learning . . . Carl Bandoian, President-elect.

RECORD VOTE
CAST FOR PREXY
IN ELECTIONS

By FRANCES STRINGFELLOW

The vote of 957 cast by students in the recent election for officers of the 1949-'50 Student Government Association broke all records for balloting here. Not only did the totals more than double the 440 votes of last year, but a record of participation in events during the past few years shows that Carl Bandoian won the presidency with a total vote of more than half the student body. This is an achievement.

The increase in voting interest was attributed to several factors. First, the presence of three candidates in the race tended to represent three large groups of student voters, as each candidate had "backers" who supported his efforts.

Second, the enthusiastic attempts of the candidates to make themselves and their platforms known contributed to interest. Posters, speeches and rallies advertised the plans of each aspirant.

Third, the cooperation of the present Student Government Association officers made the campaign a success.

MAKE-UP RULE
CHANGES MADE

Students wishing to take make-up tests on Friday afternoon should apply to Dr. Margaret L. Johnson or Miss Juliet L. Woodson on Wednesday of the same week before 2 p. m. according to a statement from Miss Woodson, secretary of the Committee.

The student will be given a slip to take to the professor who will make out the test. A duplicate slip will be sent to the student proctor.

DEANS CITES
CONDUCT RULES

R.P.I., Feb. 18—The following statement on the conduct of the students has been released by Dr. H. H. Hibbs, Dean of R. P. I. This statement has been modified from the one which appears on page 29 of the catalogue.

Students of Richmond Professional Institute are expected to conduct themselves as ladies and gentlemen—decorous, sober, and upright—both within the College and elsewhere. The Dean will dismiss from the College any student convicted of public drunkenness or of other conduct reflecting serious discredit upon the College. The Dean or Counselors of Men and Women may suspend for the current session, or otherwise discipline, any student found guilty of drunkenness; drinking in public; drinking even in moderation at or immediately before college functions; gambling; or dissoluteness; all of which are strictly forbidden. The Dean and the Counselors reserve the right to demand the resignation of any student whose conduct, while not sufficiently objectionable to warrant dismissal, tends either to bring criticism upon the College or to serve as a bad example for

A SUCCESSFUL ELECTION

A record number of votes was cast in the recent Student Government Association elections. There have been numerous speculations as to the causes of this flurry of excitement. Guesses have ranged from the efforts of the Young Independent Voters' club to an awakening of "school spirit" in the student body.

We believe that the main reason for the voting was the candidates themselves. Through spirited campaigns, large and colorful posters, and published platforms the candidates worked up the interest of the students.

Both parties campaigned to the hilt. Employing such tactics as pep rallies, spontaneous and publicized speeches, and free distribution of cigarettes, they stirred up the school.

We want now to congratulate all the candidates on their attitude toward the elections. No reports of electioneering at the ballot boxes were heard. Any last-minute attempts at swaying voters were carried on outside the buildings.

There are innumerable persons who are to be congratulated on participating in the elections. The Young Independent Voters' club threw their whole-hearted support into the battle by supplying ballot boxes for the precinct system. Members of the Student Government Association sat at the polls for three days. There were many others who worked behind the scenes to help make this a successful election.

The Proscript wishes to add its praise of these people for their efforts. And—congratulations to the Collegiate Party, 1950's leaders of the student body.

HIGH PRICES—AN ANALYSIS

Must we have high cost of living today? How and when did high prices come about?

To look over the facts concerning these questions we would need to go back to the years 1939, '40, and '41. In 1939 the United States began building ships, army camps, enlarging the Army, Navy and Marines and in general preparing for our national defense. As a result many jobs were created and high wages were paid for skilled and unskilled labor. Prices began to rise. True there was a great increase in dollar circulation which offers some account for the rise in living costs. But is that all?

Finally in 1941 the United States was drawn into the war. Our standard of living decreased a trifle because some of the goods and luxuries to which we had always been accustomed became scarce and in some instances were cut off completely. Demand was there but the supply wasn't. Now since the war is over it would seem logical that prices would gradually come down as we get back to our pre-war supply basis, but if such a thing is taking place it is hard to see. Robberies, such as that of the Schwarzschild's jewels worth $500,000 are beginning. Crimes like these could well mark a revival of the pre-depression days 20 years ago.

What of the farmers? After another year they could become hard-pressed for a fair return from their labors. As the situation stands in the South, the government is in control of tobacco prices, that is, the buying companies must pay a certain price for a certain grade of tobacco which is set by the government, otherwise the government buys it. Even with assurance of a good price for their goods, many farmers are feeling the impact of high costs.

Inflation is here but we can fight it by refusing to pay high prices for something we can do without.

Students And Faculty Discuss "Romeo And Juliet"

Opinions on the Shakespearean production, "Romeo and Juliet", to be presented by the Theatre Associates this week are varied. Following are some of them:

Mr. Raymond Hodges, Head of the Department of Dramatic Art, and Director of the production, "The fact that this is one of Shakespeare's early plays is evident in the plot development. From a directorial standpoint, it is entirely different from his other plays, since it cannot be divided into little independent scenes—as the Nunnery scene in Hamlet, or the soliloquies—but must be rehearsed in sequence. The whole play is much more fluid and interwoven than other Shakespeare. I'm very happy that we are doing the show—Shakespeare is always interesting."

Mr. Arthur Bean, English Department—"Romeo and Juliet" retains considerable interest, but it is not one of Shakespeare's greatest plays. However, much more than his others, this play proves conclusively that Shakespeare was a predestinating Presbyterian."

Mr. Melvin Backman, also of the English department—"It is a great love story, although some people have to be young to appreciate it. One of the reasons 'Romeo' has continued to be part of our literature and culture is that love, certain psychologists to the contrary, has continued to be part of our lives. 'Romeo and Juliet' is our greatest glorification of love."

Bud Sheaks, a Fine Arts major—"This whole thing is silly!"

Miss Norma Jackson, president of the Art Students League—"Romeo and Juliet" is one of the most beautiful plays, from a costume angle, that can be presented. It can be done in the medieval period of costume, which is one of the most picturesque and elaborate periods in history."

Dr. Theodore M. Moore, Head of the English Department, "This is not one of Shakespeare's greatest tragedies, because there is too much coincidence involved in the denouement of the tragedy. There is no doubt that it is one of the great love stories of all time. However, I feel that it is a good choice for Theater Associates, because of the beauty of the poetry, the diversity of the roles, and the fame of the love story."

Dr. Margaret Johnson, Dean of Women—"I'll be interested to see the production—I saw Jane Cowl and Katherine Cornell in their productions, and thought that Cowl was better, but I didn't like the way that the play developed into a one-star production. I think it's a wonderful thing to attempt a classic play such as this, but you always get more criticism when you do it—and most of it is from people that don't know enough about it to criticize."

Mr. William H. Lockey, Jr.—"To me, Shakespeare presents a holiday for a designer, since he is given such a great deal of freedom. The many scene changes are fascinating to work on, and offer a great challenge to the designer. The locales indicated in the script need not be adhered to, since most of these are editorial, and not Shakespeare's own. We find that where the locale is important, it is described in the lines. You know, it has been said that the greatest character in 'As You Like It' is the Forest of Arden. I'm not a literary authority, but I do feel that 'Romeo' is one of the plays in which Shakespeare is beginning to show his genius for character—most noticeably so in the Nurse and Mercutio."

Mr. Richard E. Allen, Head of the Journalism Department—"The play has some of the most beautiful love dialogue and poetry that can be found in all literature. The story is not unusual, and the

The Chuck Wagon

Give a man a clear day with the sun shining upon the nearest stream, a rod or pole and the love of the outdoors and you've an irresistible combination resulting in long hours of pleasure. Fishing, is the name usually given to that pleasure, and whether it be done with an air of intentness or of indolence, it still is one of the sports that man can enjoy, in spite of restrictions.

The wealthy vacationer or the school boy, alike feel the same thrill when the long wait is rewarded with the firm tug or the explosive fierceness of the elusive quarry. Spoons, plugs, or the lowly worm all serve the whim of the fisherman, and each man swears by his favorite with the ardent love born of success.

There are usually only two accepted types of fishermen; those who like to fish for the sake of fishing, and those whose day is incomplete unless they are rewarded with at least one finny catch. To the first, I send a hearty salute, for to me the very hint of spring arouses the desire within me to set out for any stream, river, or pond, where I can drop my line, and just enjoy fishing. If the fish feel like biting, good, but if they choose to ignore my bait, good also. I do not mean to condemn the man who goes after his quarry with eagerness, and strives to seek his every hiding place with well placed casts. For to him also, belongs the thrill of the true fisherman, and his pleasure is perhaps deeper, in the exultant moment when he has outwitted the wily bass or trout.

The quiet peace of the country side in the spring, or the hot summer months, with the sun dappling the tiny eddies and currents of some stream or river, is reward enough for me and many who seek the lazy moments of rest and contemplation which so seldom come to us.

The days grow longer even now, and whether the few buds and blossoms to be seen will be chilled by winters lateness, the true fisherman will take advantage of its every pause, and seek the stream. Young and old, black and white, man and woman, they will cast aside the hurried press of the moment, and find pleasure in the quiet corners of the outdoors.

The small boy hastily tosses his books into some nearby weed clump, picks up his pole, pauses to dig enough worms for a few hours fishing, and hurries off to the nearest brook. "Wait up fellows, I'll go along with you!"

Question: If you won a $25,000 contest what would you do with the money?

Nancy Thumma—I really don't know. I've never thought about it, but I imagine I'd give some to charity and pay for my education. Then I'd probably take a trip to Europe and give some to Sidewalk.

Terry Langstaff—I'd go abroad and study and do a little sight-seeing. That would take care of all of it.

Larry Drivers—I'd put about half of it in a bank, take a trip during the summer and invest some in a radio business.

George Bowles—I would buy a home and a moderate priced automobile. Then save $1,000 for immediate expenses and invest the remainder in Government bonds. I guess that's what I'd do with it. I'd have to do a lot of thinking before I started spending that much money.

Devil's Corner

By WINSTON OVERTON

This week's tip of the Devil's horns goes to Delmer Sylvia, one of the newest additions to the Green Devil quintet. During his first game with the Devils he scored 3 points for a new R.P.I. scoring record.

The lack of support that the student body has given to the basketball team this year began to pay off today with the cancellation of the varsity game with the U. S. Amphibious Base, champ of the Atlantic Fleet in '48, which was to be played on Feb. 26 at the Gray's Armory. Also, for the same reason the baseball team has the student body to thank for the cancellation of its annual spring trip. This year's trip was to include a four day, four game tour of North Carolina.

Mr. Ziegler has announced that he will not handle tennis this year. Lack of cooperation with the program was given as his principal reason.

There is still a possibility of having a tennis team if enough support is shown and a faculty member can be found to take Mr. Ziegler's place.

Jayvees Drop 88-45 Contest To Collegiates

R.P.I., Feb. 16—The Collegiates took their second helping of victory at the expense of the Jayvees tonight by the tune of 88 to 45.

The contest brought down the curtain on the heated series and gave Nelson Corryea's crew a clean sweep. The Collegiates battered the Juniors 51 to 35 in their first meeting a week ago.

The independents buried the Jayvees' hope of getting back on the win track by grabbing a quick lead and building up a wide margin. At halftime the Collegiates were on the big end of a 44 to 19 count.

Gerwin, Crosby, and Clarke were the big guns in the winners attack, netting 66 points between them. Gerwin was the leader with 27 points. Crosby chipped in 22 and Clarke placed third with a 17 point total.

Hardy staged a 17 point comeback in the second half to wind-up far ahead of the Jayvee scorers with 21 points. Pulley and Henderson got 3 points apiece to share runner-up honors.

RPI Girls Add Bridgewater And Roanoke To Win Streak

R.P.I., Feb. 23—The Green Devil's girl's basketball sextet has added two more victories to its winning streak. This gives the girls a total of five wins out of six starts.

The winning lassies met Roanoke College on the local court, Feb. 11, and they proved again their prowess with a 32-16 victory lead. High scorer for the R.P.I. sextet was Miss Bass with ten points.

On Tuesday the local girls defeated Bridgewater College 25-21 in a close contest on the R.P.I. hardwood. The R.P.I. sextet kept the lead throughout the contest, but were given a stiff struggle by the Bridgewater lassies, who also use the zone defense system.

Miss Everhardt hit the hoops for a total of ten points, while forwards Bass, Colgin, Martin, and Doremus completed the other 14 points.

The local femmes take on the Richmond Club on the R.P.I. hardwood today at four o'clock. This will be the ninth game of the season for the girl's team.

The line-up for the locals was —forwards Colgin, Doremus, Waller, McCormick, Ritchie, Everhardt, and Martin; guards: Phipps, Tartar, Hackett, Hasler, Nussman, Kerns, Yowell, Dorey, and Button.

Sylvia Sets New Mark In 84-52 Defeat

Dayton, Feb. 15—Delmar Sylvia, former Tee Jay standout, turned in a record 33 point performance as the Green Devils bowed to the Shenandoah cagers 84 to 52.

Sylvia playing his first game for the Green and Gold established a new mark for R.P.I. hoopers to shoot at. The eighteen year old freshman collected 17 points in the first half and roared back after intermission with 16 more.

Coach Black's mountaineers threatened to rout the Devils before the game was four minutes old. Striking with uncanny accuracy the beanpole five from the Shenandoah Valley grabbed a 20 point lead by the middle of the first period. Sylvia and company began moving late in the period and matched the Shenandoah of-

Thomas Leads UTS To 63-51 Win Over RPI

R.P.I., Feb. 19—Paced by Dan Thomas with 26 points and Davis Thomas with 13, the Union Theological Seminary won its second straight game this year from the Green Devils, 63 to 51 at the Grays Armory.

The U.T.S. quintet led throughout the game, but were more pressed than in the first game which they won 66 to 44 at the Central Y. U.T.S. held a two point lead at the end of the first quarter, 19-17, but pulled away in the second frame and led at the intermission 39 to 25.

The Devils matched their opponents point for point in the final half, but could not cope with the towering height of the six-six Dan Thomas, former all-state

Tennessee ace. The giant center controlled both backboards throughout the game.

Delmar Silva and Artis Mills were high scorers for RPI with 20 and 15 points each. Other Green Devil scorers were Washer, 8, Guild, 4, Smiley, 3, and Granger, 1.

 ending is unfortunate, because it is one of the oldest tragedy cliches in the fields of drama and opera. Dramatically, the play is very effective, and I'm looking forward to seeing it here."
 Mr. Miles Woods, English pro- fessor—"Despite its obvious weak- nesses, the tragedy, if tragedy it is offers many delightful moments of dramatic enjoyment. There is innocence and charm in the ac- tion, and in the characters of Romeo and Juliet that never lose their appeal. I should like to add, too, that I am happy Theater Associates are presenting this play. I know they will do a grand job of it, as they have done with others."
 Miss Rosamund McCanless, col- lege Librarian—"To me 'Romeo and Juliet' is one of the most charming of plays. As a story it had already delighted people for several hundred years before Shakespeare translated it into deathless poetry."
 Mr. Langley H. Wood, Sociology senior, said that "'Romeo' is one of the finest pieces of lyrical writ- ing that Shakespeare ever did, but I wouldn't recommend the play to amateurs. If it's not properly done, it will emerge as a farce. Good luck, TA's."
 Miss Marge Davie, OT senior—"On my exam in Shakespeare I said that 'Romeo and Juliet' was silly, adolescent love, character- ized by impetuosity, and devoid of judgment and maturity. P. S. I think I flunked that part of the exam."

 Mr. Robert Watkins, President of Theater Associates — "Oh, dear!"
