

CONTRIBUTORS

Sue J. Kim is an assistant professor of English at the University of Alabama at Birmingham. She specializes in critical theory, contemporary literature, and ethnic studies.

Nina S. Roberts is an assistant professor in the Department of Recreations and Leisure Studies at San Francisco State University.

Donald A. Rodriguez is an associate professor of Environmental Science and Resource Management at California State University, Channel Islands.

Rosanne Kanhai is a professor of English and Director of Women's Studies at Western Washington University.

Sarah Hentges is a Libra professor of American Studies at the University of Maine at Augusta.

Reinaldo Silva teaches in the department of Linguas e Culturas, Universidade de Aveiro, Portugal.

Farha Ternikar is an assistant professor at Le Moyne College in Syracuse, New York. Her teaching areas include race and ethnic relations and gender and society.

Kerin Gould after living with a Hñãñhu community in Mexico and working with Indigenous activists in the US, returned to complete her doctorate in Native American Studies at the University of California, Davis