

Contributors

ALICE A. DECK is secretary/treasurer of the Langston Hughes Society; she is also Assistant Professor of English and Afro-american Studies at the University of Illinois, Urbana.

NORMAN FRIEDMAN is Professor of Sociology at California State University, Los Angeles.

MARY BETH HARALOVICH is Assistant Professor in the Department of Speech Communication at Iowa State University; she teaches history, theory, and criticism of film and television.

BARBARA L. HIURA teaches reading in an opportunity school in Sacramento, California; she is in the nation's first ethnic studies Ph.D. program at the University of California, Berkeley.

MARVIN A. LEWIS is Director of Afroamerican Studies and Research Program at the University of Illinois, Urbana.

HELEN MacLAM is President of NAES; she is also an associate editor for Choice.

NEIL NAKADATE is a regular critic for Explorations; he is Professor of English at Iowa State University.

CHARLES L. P. SILET teaches American literature and film at Iowa State University where he is an Associate Professor of English.

TERRY SIMMONS is President of Humboldt Research Associates, a natural resource policy and management consulting firm in Seattle, Washington.

RON STRIANO is a Ph.D. candidate at the California School of Professional Psychology, Fresno.