20 Seek Class Sweetheart Titles

DIAL DIRECT is the telephone situation as it now stands at RPI. Formerly every call made to, within, or from the school was handled by switchboard operator. Now, it is possible to dial directly, another department in the school, as shown in the first photo. The operator may be signalled when the party wishes to speak to her or when transferring a call, see second photo. To obtain an outside line it is only necessary to dial 9, see third photo. A small directory with complete instructions has been issued by the school.

Four Winners Named Today By Judges

A panel of student judges last Thursday narrowed down to 20 a field of 40 candidates for 1959 class sweethearts. Each class had nominated 10 sweetheart candidates. The panel eliminated, by secret ballot, five girls from each class.

The four class sweethearts, the girls who will represent their respective classes in the 1959 Cobblestone and in the May Court, were selected by a different panel today and will be featured in the next Proscript.

The five judges were: Dave Richards, Student Government president; Shirley Stevenson, Student Government vice-president; Win Johnson, German Club president; Gene Hunt, Cobblestone editor-in-chief; and Tom Robbins, Proscript editor-in-chief.

Listed below are the semi-finalists and the classes they represent.

Dream Girls - Note

The "Dream Girl Contest", postponed several times by the Accidental Club, was underway Monday, January 12, according to the club's president, Zeb Norman.

This contest is being held as the Accidental Club's contribution to the Student Government Association Scholarship Drive which was held November 15-22.

Contest Postponed

The contest for selection of a name for the new student lounge has been postponed until February 16.

Originally scheduled for the first two weeks in January, Mr. Bruce Locke, manager of the Shop Shop, said that the time between Christmas holidays and examinations was not sufficient for the contest.

New Telephone System Is Installed at RPI

By Shirley Voland

A new telephone system has been installed at RPI which enables faculty and students to dial directly from one department to another. Previously all inter-departmental calls had to go through the switchboard.

Not understanding the new system thoroughly, I visited the switchboard operator, Mrs. Helen Ross, for additional information.

In the hall near her office, I found the old black board forlornly blocking traffic. A shiny gray one was in operation in its place.

Directory

I glanced through a copy of the little directory that had been issued to explain the new system and found four general instructions.

To dial from extension to extension in the school, listen for the dial tone and then dial the desired number. In the directory can also be found the new extension numbers.

The next instruction listed is for reaching the operator, which is accomplished by dialing 0.

Instruction number three is for transferring calls. The proper way to do this is to depress the plunger slowly three times. This will signal the switchboard operator who will then transfer the call.

"Instruction number four is the most confusing," says Mrs. Ross. "First, listen for the dial tone, dial 9, listen for a second dial tone and then dial the number you are trying to reach."

"The day the new system was put into operation, mistakes were many," continued Mrs. Ross. Most of the complaints came when instead of dialing 9 for outside, telephone users would dial the city number direct. When they called an Atlantic number, they got Mr. O'Connell's office, a Belmont number put them in touch with the Business office, Milton got Miss Overly to the phone and Pioneer contacted Mr. Hilton.

The new system also eliminates the inter-communication system which Mrs. Ross used before to call individuals when there were more than one person using the same phone.

"This causes some mix-ups," said Mrs. Ross, "as there are in some cases as many as 10 people using the same phone and only one name will be listed in the directory. Also in such cases, people are reluctant to answer a phone when there is a chance it could be for one of the nine others."

"I'm sure it will work out fine eventually," said Mrs. Ross, "but there will have to be a few adjustments made in the future."

The new system will give Mrs. Ross more time to act as receptionist. "Before, I often had to give people short answers when they asked questions because the board was busy."

Dramatists' Musical Set For March

Marilyn Ende and Robert McQuain will play the leading roles of Mrs. Sally Adams and Constantine Cosmo in "Call Me Madam," the Drama Department's third major production of the year, slated for the Shafer Street Playhouse on March 11, 12 and 13.

The supporting roles of Princess Maria and Kenneth Gibson will be handled by Betty Sue Dipoye and Jess Dipoye.

Others in the cast will include Donald Norris, Jim Reymier, Frank Brooks, Bill Morgan, Bob Buchanan, Carlton Schrieves, Kenneth West, Richard Askew, Sarah Ralston, Deanna Waggoner, Betsy Holt, Paul Apperson, Myer Chovitz, Frank Fuller and Rich Duff.

Dancers will be Barabar Jones, June Harding, Lisa Milton, Walta Chandler, James Challenger, Bert Clark, Jim Manning and Charles Shockley.

Singers will include Gloria Runion, Mary Sue Breckenridge, Brook Burroughs, Twila Campbell, Martha Manning, Stanley Soble, Don Norris, Frank Brooks and Jim Reymier.

Mr. Raymond Hodges, head of the Drama Department, is directing the play. Assisting him are Jay Dunn as musical director and James Challenger, choreographer.

Alumni Elect 1958-59 Officers

John Louis Deusebio was elected president of the RPI Alumni Association at the annual homecoming held October 1 in Richmond. Deusebio, a 1950 graduate, will serve a one year term.

Other officers elected were Leo A. Vallenwieder vice president, class of 1954; Camille S. Rabben secretary, class of 1953 and Laura Nelson Cobb, treasurer, of the class of 1929.

The new board of directors is composed of Clayton Marr, 1950, Edna Garrett, 1930, Robert Boyd all of Richmond and Louise Perkins, class of 1951, of Danville.

Also elected for the coming year was Hugh C. Jones of the class of 1950, as president of the Richmond Chapter of the Alumni Association.

SWITCHBOARD OPERATOR, Mrs. Helen Ross now has more time to attend to her duties as receptionist and clerk, since the installation of the dial system.

Basketball Round-up

Devils Take Two Loop Victories; 3-1 for Week

RPI pushed its 1959 overall basketball record to a 7 win and 6 lost combination here last week with three home wins and a single road loss.

RPI 60—Lynchburg 56

The RPI cagers gave coach Ed Allen an unexpected New Year's gift Tuesday night when they came from far back to defeat the favored Lynchburg Hornets 60 to 56.

After a shaky first half, RPI captain Jim Craven sank a 20-foot set shot to tie the score. A two pointer by Bill Parker then gave the Devils a lead they never relinquished. Craven led the Allenmen with 16 points while Don Kloske totalled 11. Scoring honors for the evening, however, went to Hornet Tom Bennett who pitched in 21 markers.

Builders 83—RPI 63

A sharpshooting Newport News Apprentice School five rolled to an easy 83-63 win over RPI Wednesday in the Tidewater city. Paced by Bobby Jones and Bucky Burt, the Builders jumped in to an early lead which the Green Devils were never able to overcome. Don Kloske and Bill Parker paced the Richmond attack with 13 and 12 points.

RPI 68—UTS 58

RPI again pulled its "Silky Sullivan" come-from-behind action here Friday night to defeat Union Theological Seminary 68 to 58.

Paced by Kloske and forward Gene Bourne who racked up 21 and 16 points respectively, the RPI quintet spurred for 25 quick points in the last 10 minutes to win going away.

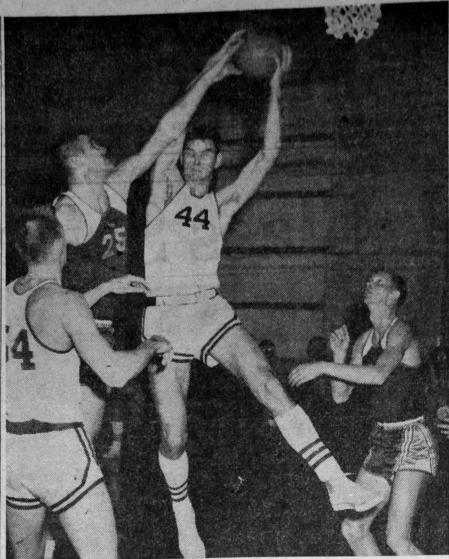

The win was the second of the season for RPI over Union Theological. On December 12, the Allen hoopers defeated the seminarians 44-40.

RPI 63—Roanoke 62

Two free throws with only 5 seconds left gave RPI its most exciting win of the 1959 campaign as Don Kloske and company again came from behind to edge the Mariners here Saturday night. Paced by the tall center's 27 markers and Jim Baillie's 14, the local five stormed from five points back with 40 seconds left to grab a 63-62 win over Buddy Hackman's star city quintet.

Roanoke put three men in the double figure column but fell just short of the Devil attack.

The win was the second Little Eight victory for RPI and moved them into a temporary fourth place tie with Lynchburg. The Green Devil loop mark now stands at 2 wins and 3 losses.

GREEN DEVIL leading scorer Don Kloske snares rebound in recent RPI-Lynchburg game won by the Devils, 60-56.

RPI Is Tourney Runner-up; Praised for Conduct, Sportsmanship Display

By Pat Joyce

It is often said that close doesn't count, but in the case of RPI's participation in the recent North-South Holiday basketball tournament in New Bedford, Massachusetts—it would have to have some meaning.

The Green Devils came as close as possible to taking the tourney championship without being actually awarded the trophy. Winners in their opening round game against Stonehill College (Mass.) by a 75-69 count, the Allenmen lead until the final two minutes in the title go against New Bedford

Tech before dropping the contest, and the championship, 78-72.

It was simply a case of running out of steam for the Devils. They looked sharp in coming from behind to defeat Stonehill, and maintained the pace until the closing moments of the title tilt. However, a busy schedule and 600 miles apparently had its effect, and the local cagers just weren't up to it.

RPI was the cinderella team of the four college tournament. Poorly judged officiating put the North-partisan crowd on the side of the lads from Richmond during the first game and they stayed there throughout the tourney.

Perhaps the incident which will have the most lasting effect concerned a matter too seldom considered in competition today. Moments after losing the championship of the tournament, the entire RPI crew paraded into the officials' dressing room and congratulated them for a "nice job of officiating."

As a result of this display of sportsmanship, RPI Provost H. H. Hibbs received a letter last week from the chairman of the Massachusetts Board of Basketball Officials (See Page 4, Col. 2)

Girls' Sextet Tops Hampton In Preliminary

The girls' basketball team chalked up a 39-29 victory over the Hampton Independents last Saturday in a preliminary to the RPI-Roanoke clash.

Nadine Wimmer was top scorer for RPI with 19 points followed by Pat Richie with 13.

The RPI guards maintained a zone defense during the first half. Carol Ballance, top scorer for Hampton, presented a trouble spot because of her scoring ability. At the end of the first half Ballance had totalled 13 points.

In the second half RPI switched to the man-to-man-type of guarding. As a result, the guards prevented Ballance from further scoring.

Despite the fact that RPI was competing without first string players Tommie Ellis and Suzanne Legore, the team still came out on top. Forward Pat Richie substituted for Ellis, while guard Juanita Vaughn filled in for Legore.

The next game will be against William and Mary in the gymnasium on February 7.

Communism at RPI

Students beware! Beware of the Red menace!

Any day now federal investigators may disclose that RPI is a hotbed of Communist underground activity. Your best friend may be revealed as a card-carrying subversive. You think we jest? Not according to Bill Stern. He has read the handwriting on the locker room wall.

On the radio a few weeks ago veteran sportscaster Stern expounded a theory the gist of which was this: schools which do not participate in intercollegiate football are potential breeding grounds for young Communists. Young people, Stern said, are charged with emotional electricity and if this energy is not directed into proper channels, it will be released in improper ones. There is nothing original about the latter statement. It is Stern's concept of a "proper channel" that merits attention.

Football is the sportscaster's remedy. If a young man can disperse his aggressive tendencies on the gridiron, Stern said, then he isn't likely to attempt to violently overthrow the government. If students can release pent-up emotions cheering for the college team, it is improbable that they will ever be found cheering at a Marxist rally.

To illustrate his point Stern pointed out that faculty purges at Harvard, Columbia and the University of Chicago flushed a number of professors who would have been more or less at home teaching at the University of Leningrad. A raft of Red sympathizers was found among the students at these institutions. The University of Chicago has no football team; Harvard and Columbia have greatly de-emphasized athletics.

Now do you see the peril? Our football-less cobblestone campus may easily be flooded by the Red tide.

You see, at an institution where intellectual activity is stressed a student is apt to THINK. Thinking is dangerous. It almost always leads to discontent. A boy or girl, thinking for the first time, charged with energy, intoxicated with the wine of youth and smoldering with discontent invariably becomes an idealist. Idealists are politically liberal and when a flaming liberal (most young liberals burn brightly) is exposed to certain academic stimuli, the worst can happen.

Twenty-five years ago, when Stern was younger and more in touch with things collegiate, the transition from thinking student to participating Communist was more predominant. In those days to say that a student at an Ivy League university "had ideas" was precisely the same as saying he was waxing pinker by the moment.

Oddly enough, most of the young leftists of the twenties and thirties grew up to be as soundly American as Bill Stern. Many are still liberal, but that is the penalty thinking men must pay. (Has anyone ever compared the accomplishments, the relative worth to our nation, of Harvard or Chicago graduates, and the musclebound alumni of, say Auburn or Notre Dame?) University level Communism appears to be little more than a phase. If the young Red continues to think and to read and to mature, and if he has not turned to the Left to compensate for some physical or psychological inadequacy, he soon recognizes Communism as bitter folly and diverts his energy to causes more worthy of his time and talent.

But they say old football fans never die.

A man's mind is his living room and during the formative college years it must be furnished. In later years it is easier to rid the room of a few volumes of Marxist dogma than to shovel out piles of peanut shells, pop bottles and sweat socks.

FBLA Votes To Consider Disaffiliation

The RPI chapter of the Future Business Leaders of America voted Saturday night to consider breaking away from the state and national organization.

After more than two hours of discussion the club voted 11-1 to propose an amendment to their club constitution.

An amendment, if passed, will allow the local organization to disaffiliate from the state and national FBLA.

Whether to remain or disaffiliate will be decided at a meeting tomorrow night in Ad. 0 at 7 p.m.

The action to disaffiliate was prompted by membership dues totaling $128.00 which the local club now owes.

Many members expressed strong protest at the meeting against paying this amount because they could not see that they were getting anything for their money.

Some were in favor of paying the dues. One member said he thought the club was obligated by their present constitution to pay the dues. Don Norris, FBLA president, explained that the only obligation the club has is to its own members who understood when they paid their $2.50 dues that $1.00 of it was for state and national membership.

Norris also said that, "The executives of this club believe that our first obligation to our members is the preservation of a strong and active local organization."

"The payment of $128.00 would jeopardize the operations of the club and would be felt strongly by next year's club."

At the meeting it was estimated that if the dues are paid it will leave approximately $63.00 to carry them through the rest of the year.

Norris said that if the vote tomorrow night favors disaffiliation the name of the local club will be changed to the Executive Club and a constitutional revision made.

He added that it may be necessary to withdraw from the Student Government Association and reenter under the new name in the event that the amendment is passed.

It was also said at the meeting that RPI is the only college in the region that belongs to the state and national organizations. According to the treasurer only high schools in this region are members.

The 12 members that voted were the only ones remaining of 23 after the two hours. The paid membership is 128.

Registration

The schedule for the term ending is as follows:

Final examinations will begin January 19 and end on January 28.

Students whose last names start with letters A through L will register January 30 from 8:30 to 4 p.m. in the gymnasium and those students whose names begin with letters M through Z will register February 2.

Business students will register at the School of Business. All other students will register in the gym. Classes for the second semester will begin on February 3.

Examination Schedule

Examination dates and times are listed below. Look for block letter during which time class normally meets to determine date and time for examination except for certain courses in Business, English, and Art which are listed separately. Where room numbers have not been specified, classes will meet in classrooms they have been using. No changes unless authorized by the Assistant to the Provost.

Social Workers Visit Home for Aged

On January 8, the introductory and management of this type of Social Work class visited Beth Shalom Home of Virginia, a Jewish home for the aged. The purpose of this visit was to allow the students to observe the operation

Executive director Leon Cantor, said that the home, recently completed, is one of the most modern Jewish homes in Virginia.

Steinberg Art Will Be Shown

For a number of years RPI student artists have been exhibiting paintings and sculpture in Ed Steinberg's Meadow Automatic Laundry. Now it's turn about.

Steinberg will hang a one-man show in RPI's Arts and Science Building gallery January 19. Eighteen paintings by the laundryman-artist will be on display until the end of the semester.

Steinberg has never exhibited his own work at the laundromat.

Scholarship Aid

Scholarship aid for students, preferably from the Roanoke area, will be offered by the Roanoke Chapter of the RPI Alumni.

Anyone interested should contact Dr. Margaret Johnson, Dean of Students, in her office.

Military Policy Will Be Taught In Night School

The marines, army, navy and air force will join forces here next semester to teach a new night course on American Military Foreign Policy.

Among eight lecturers, each of whom will be in charge of two or more class periods will be Maj. Gen. Leslie D. Carter (Ret.).

Maj. Gen. Carter was Deputy Commanding General of the Second Army. He served in the army for 40 years. He has been awarded the Legion of Merit, Legion of Honor and the Distinguished Service Medal.

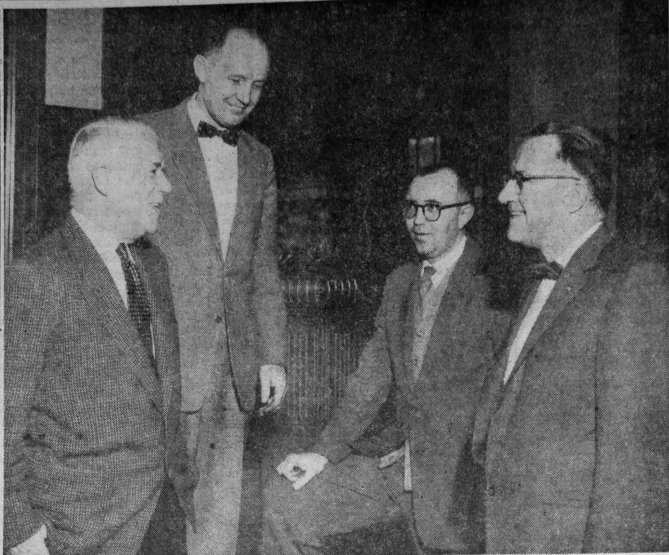

The other lecturers for the classes are: Comdr. Jack Herod, captain of the USS Leosser; Lt. Col. Irving I. Held, air force; Col. Jesse M. Johnson, Commanding Officer of the army reserve center in Richmond; Col. Robert N. Fricke, past Commanding Officer of the Marine Reserve Center in Richmond; Maj. William H. Sager, marines; Comdr. M. Robert Allen, Educational Advisor, Quartermaster School at Fort Lee; and Capt. Walter W. Regier, co-ordinator of the course, lecturer in international law at RPI and instructor at Richmond USAR school.

RPI Devils Will Play H-SC on Friday Night

RPI will host the Tigers of Hampden-Sydney College tomorrow night (Friday) in a rematch of an early season encounter won by H-SC, 72-58.

The Tigers defeated the Devil eagers in the Little Eight opener at Death Valley on the strength of some phenomenal foul shooting by guard Vernelle Martin.

H-SC features a pair of fine back-court men in Martin and Leon Hawker. In addition, center Gil Sayres is the man the Green Devils will have to hold down if they want to walk off with another Little Eight win.

CHEERFUL CONFERENCE of rehabilitation experts. Dr. Leonard M. Miller, of the office of rehabilitation, Department of Health, Education and Welfare, Washington, D. C., and Mr. A. A. Doffmeyer, assistant regional representative from Charlottesville discuss the progress of RPI's School of Rehabilitation with Dr. Wade O. Stalnaker, department head, and Mr. Keith C. Wright, professor.

cials, which stated, in part: "I am sure you will be pleased to know how splendidly Mr. Allen and the players on your team are representing your institute. They have made their mark both as athletes and gentlemen."

No, Virginia, winning isn't everything.

WANT AD

Wanted: six assistants for registration, Feb. 25 from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. Will pay 75 cents per hour. Anyone interested should get in touch with the Evening College office, either Miss Hornbarger or Mr. Fuller.

Proscript Staff Changed

Ginger Foxwell, a senior from Richmond, will be the editor in chief of the Proscript for the second semester. She succeeds Tom Robbins, also a senior, from Colonial Heights.

Assuming full duties as managing editor will be Charles Thomas, a senior from Wilmington, N. C. Thomas and the new editor in chief were co-managing editors for the fall semester.

A junior from Williamsburg, Bob Boswell will continue as news editor.

Sophomore Shirley Voland will fill the feature editor post previously occupied by Claude Burrows, senior. Both students are from Richmond.

Retaining positions for the second semester are:

Gerald Cox, circulation manager, a junior from Durham; Frank Edens, business manager, a senior from South Boston; and Don Ikemerry, photographer, a senior from Daleville.

The first issue of the paper handled by the new staff will appear on February 12.

Health Officer Visits School January 7-9

The School of Rehabilitation Counseling was host January 7-9 to Dr. Leonard M. Miller, assistant chief, division of training, Department of Health, Education and Welfare, office of vocational rehabilitation, Washington, D. C. and Mr. Alfred A. Doffmeyer, assistant regional representative from the Charlottesville office of vocational rehabilitation.

The purpose of Dr. Miller's visit was to review the progress of the School of Rehabilitation Counseling since it began in 1955.

In addition to conferences with Dr. Wade O. Stalnaker and Professor Keith C. Wright of the Rehabilitation department, Dr. Miller discussed the training program with students, graduates of the school, local rehabilitation agencies and allied agencies and faculty members. Discussion topics were: student placement, recruitment, course content, internship training, community participation and future plans for the School of Rehabilitation Counseling.

The three day visit was concluded Friday after a conference with Provost Hibbs and administrative officials, a tour of RPI and meetings with department heads.

Freshmen to Vote Registration Day

Dates set for freshman class elections are January 30 and February 2. Campaigning will be held from January 19-25, it was announced at the class meeting January 8.

A change in the class constitution, providing that 1/5 of the freshman class be present at the voting of amendments, was accepted by those attending.

Nancy Roane of Danville was chosen to represent the freshmen in the dream girl contest, which is sponsored by the Accidental club as their contribution to the SGA Scholarship Drive.
