

Contributors

JOHN R. HARLAN holds a Masters of Business Administration degree from Gonzaga University and received his Doctor of Jurisprudence degree from the University of Oregon. He has served as the Prosecuting Attorney for Yakima County, Washington, and presently is the Corporation Counsel for the city of Pullman, Washington.

DAVID L. HOOD is an Assistant Professor of Political Science in the Department of Sociology, Political Science, and Native American Studies at Eastern Montana College. One of his research interests is the impact of ethnicity on political behavior.

NOEL J. KENT is an Associate Professor of Ethnic Studies at the University of Hawaii at Manoa. He is the author of Hawaii Islands Under the Influence and a number of articles dealing with political economy and race. His current research interest is the meanings of the American economic and cultural crisis.

ALBERTO L. PULIDO is an Assistant Professor of Sociology and Ethnic Studies at the University of Utah. His major areas of interest include the sociology of religion, ethnicity and religion, and Chicanostudies. He is currently working on a project that explores the dynamics of ethnic relations in the American Catholic Church.

ANN RAYSON is an Associate Professor of English at the University of Hawaii. Her areas of research are African American and ethnic American literature. She has published articles in Black American Literature Forum, MELUS, and other journals as well as books on Hawaiian history.

GEORGE S. SWAN is a member of the Ohio State Bar Association and the American Political Science Association. He has been admitted to practice before the Supreme Court of Ohio, the U.S. Court, Southern District of Ohio, and the U.S. Supreme Court and has been recognized in Who's Who of American Lawyers and Who's Who in the World.

JOHNNY WASHINGTON is an Associate Professor of Philosophy at Florida Atlantic University and Acting Director of the Ethnic Studies Program. He is also president of the Organization of African Descendants and the author of Alain Locke and Philosophy: A Quest for Cultural Pluralism.

LE VON E. WILSON is an Assistant Professor of Business Law at North Carolina Agricultural and Technical State University. He has been elected to Who's Who in American Law and Who's Who Among Emerging Leaders in America. He is the author of the forthcoming book, Beyond the Right to Strike . . ., a critical look at where the rights of certain public employees end and where the rights of the general citizenry begin.