Recreational Facilities Added to Shafer Court

By Pat Hensley

Badminton, volley-ball and ping pong have been added to the Cobblestone Campus for the enjoyment of all students, according to Dean O'Connell. They are to be played on the mall.

The new games in the Shafer Court are part of an athletic program which had its impetus last year. Dean O'Connell said the first mention of a campus-wide athletic court came at a meeting of the Canterbury club. Later, more suggestions were brought up concerning the program, and then action was taken by interested faculty members.

Coach Allen, who is especially interested in the program, arranged for two students, paid by the college, to over-see games in the mall. Doug Loughridge, an Accounting major, and Jim Jones, a Physical Education major—both from Fredericksburg—alternate their duty on the court.

The court is open from 2 p.m. until dark, Monday through Friday. On Saturday, the hours are 10 a.m. until 3 p.m., and on Sunday, 1:30 until 5 p.m. Equipment is distributed by either Loughridge or Jones.

Jones, a sophomore, said he thinks the athletic program is a "wonderful idea," and something the school should have had long ago.

Maybe Other Games

Jones also said that the program is in the experimental stage, and if it works as well as suspected, other games will be arranged for student participation. One definite possibility, according to Jones, is that two sets of horse shoes, will be set up behind the building at 16 Park ave.

Dean O'Connell said that croquet had been planned for the yard in front of the Science Building, but few people seemed to be interested in croquet. "We plan to rearrange the nets on the mall so that more courts will be available," said Dean O'Connell.

He Accepts New Position In New York

Ralph A. Rush, director of the School of Distribution, has resigned effective at the end of this semester.

He has accepted a position as director of the American Hotel Association Educational Institute.

Dr. Oliver said this week that Mr. Rush's successor has not been named.

"The Educational Institute—which Mr. Rush will direct—is a newly established program to train persons connected with hotel business.

"From the engineers who build the hotel to the cooks and bakers," Mr. Rush said about the range of training.

Training for lower echelon jobs will be operated through local school boards. Degree programs, for example a BS in hotel management, will be operated in connection with colleges.

"We have contracts with Cornell University for a graduate program and with Michigan State," Mr. Rush said.

Mr. Rush will work in New York City, where he will have an opportunity to complete the requirements for his PhD in Business Management at New York University.

Standards Are Lowered, O'Connell Announces

By Virginia Gibson

Dean's List requirements here have been changed, Dean O'Connell announced Monday.

The new Dean's List standard will be officially reported in the May issue of the college catalogue and will become effective next September.

The change reads, "Students who in any semester make an over-all average of 2.5 with no grade below a C are placed on the Dean's List for the following semester and are entitled to special privileges. In figuring this average, no quality points or credits on required physical education are considered."

The new requirement was suggested by the Committee on Academic Status last November.

The disclosure of the Dean's List revision came when the Administration was asked to comment on a story in last week's PROSCRIPT, concerning a survey of Dean's List requirements at other Virginia colleges. The survey conducted by the Journalism Department found that only four colleges equal RPI's standards and only one exceeds them.

60 Per Cent A's

Under the present standard, RPI requires 60 per cent A's and 40 per cent B's, with no grade of C. Last semester only 22 students out of the 2,302 full-time enrollment were on the Dean's List.

The survey showed that RPI, which has the third highest total enrollment of any college in the state and one of the highest full-time enrollments, was surpassed in stiff standards only by Emory and Henry College, which requires straight A's. Emory and Henry also has a secondary honor roll for lesser distinction.

Of the 26 Virginia colleges that answered questionnaires on their requirements, 21 require a B average or better. Some schools set a minimum limit on the number of A's, and most require no grade below C.

Students who qualify for the Dean's List here are allowed unlimited cuts up to the state limit of 13 absences. A student is automatically dropped from the class roll after 13 excused cuts. Here, one unexcused cut per semester hour is allowed.

Honors Fete Scheduled For Tuesday

New Student Government Association officers will be installed, a memorial in honor of the former Miss H. Elizabeth Messick and honors awards will be presented at a formal convocation in the Gymnasium at 11 a.m. Tuesday.

The incoming SGA officers will be installed by the present SGA president and vice president, Jerry Bradshaw and Betsy Harman. Attendance at the ceremony is compulsory.

Mrs. Esther Arledge, president of the Richmond Soroptimist Club, will present a portrait of Miss Messick, who was the head of the School of Occupational Therapy here before her death. The portrait was done by Mr. William C. Kolb, an RPI graduate.

A plaque in honor of Miss Messick will be presented to the school by Miss Margaret Peple of the Virginia Occupational Therapy Association. The plaque, "The H. Elizabeth Messick Outstanding Student Award," is made up of brass plates, which will be engraved with the names of outstanding O.T. students each year.

German Club May Sue Combo For Failure to Show Up at Dance

By Larry Prentice

Whether the German Club will take legal action against the Rhythm Maker combo, which failed to make a scheduled appearance for a dance last month, was to be decided this week by the club.

"Our lawyer, Mr. Bernie Dunkum, is planning to give the club officers several alternatives," said Dean O'Connell Monday. "They will decide on what action to take."

The dance was scheduled Saturday night, March 25, and the largest student dance turnout since the Maynard Ferguson Mid-Winter week end gathered at the gym for the much publicized event.

But the Rhythm Makers, a Negro combo operating out of Roanoke, were not there. Neither was a last-minute replacement suggested by their agent. It resulted in an embarrassed German Club, no dance, and many disappointed students.

Anger soon replaced embarrassment within the German Club. Officers remembered they had signed a contract with the American Federation of Musicians Agency of Philadelphia on December 10 for the combo's services.

"Not only was a contract signed," said Dean O'Connell, "but a $100 deposit, which has yet to be returned, was made."

Played Earlier

First word that the group didn't intend to play came from students who attended an earlier dance featuring the combo in downtown Richmond.

"Some of the students remarked to the combo that they were looking forward to the following night," Dean O'Connell said.

"The combo seemed to know nothing of the engagement, although their leader, Mr. Louis Watts, had participated in the signing of the contract," the Dean said. "They informed the students that they were playing elsewhere."

James Hill, German Club president, placed several unsuccessful calls to Philadelphia on the night of March 23, in an attempt to talk to the combo's manager.

"He was unsuccessful," Dean O'Connell said, "and met with me early Saturday morning (March 24)." Hill and the Dean consulted a Richmond lawyer, who informed them that the club had a right to demand charges or another band of equal talent.

The German Club executive committee hurriedly agreed to accept another band. The Rhythm Makers' manager, David Elerby, was located by another call to Philadelphia. Elerby promised the club another band, according to Dean O'Connell.

"The call was made at 10 a.m.," said the Dean, "and at noon the (second) band's leader, Larry Jones, called Hill to assure that his band would arrive by 7 p.m."

The new band did arrive—at five minutes after midnight. By then the students had returned to the dormitories. The following Monday, Elerby called Hill to apologize and to try to set a new date. Hill refused and referred Elerby to school officials.

"The matter has been resting in the hands of Mr. Dunkum, who has been investigating the situation and will report to the club officers this week," said Dean O'Connell.

'Plain and Fancy' Ready For Opening Wednesday

By Betty Martin

"Plain and Fancy" may be its name, but just plain hard work and fancy sets will be required before curtain time for the Department of Dramatic Arts' musical production at 8:30 o'clock Wednesday night.

The department has been working for three weeks on the musical written by Joseph Stein, Will Glickman, Arnold Horwett and Albert Hague. Nightly rehearsals, plus vocal and dance practices, have crowded the performers' schedules.

Leading the 31-member cast will be Dick White, Marilyn Ende, Julia Field, Stanley Soble, John Wilson, Diane Bell, Frank Fuller and Sharon Godsey. They are supported by a cast of 22 others.

Before Wednesday, three painted three rooms and two barns must travelers, a cyclorama, one house, have been constructed. Hundreds of costumes and properties will have been gathered or made, and in general, the dramatists need more than 24 hours in each day.

The musical's action centers around a New Yorker and his girl friend's visit to an Amish community, where folks still dress and live like their 17th century ancestors.

To make things more delightful and difficult, an Amish couple are about to be married. Though the play is a folk comedy, a tender love story is entwined.

One night before openings, the entire cast will meet for a whisker-making party. Why? The Amish gents show their marital status in the Smith brothers' style.

Such hit songs as "Young and Foolish," "Plain We Live," "It Wonders Me," and "Plenty of Pennsylvania" are heard in the show.

Raymond Hodges, Drama Department head, will direct the production. Jay Dunn will direct the music and Carey Lee King will coreograph. Technical direction will be lead by Thomas C. Holloway and costume designing by Miss Agnes David.

Dowdy Is President Of Seniors

Dowdy is a Retailing major from Front Royal.

His vice president is Mary Russell from Winchester, a major in Recreational Leadership.

Eileen Rives, also from Front Royal, will serve as Senior class secretary. Eileen's major is Psychology.

The only unopposed office—that of treasurer—will be filled by Binford Harrell, a Commercial Art student from Portsmouth.

Tom Hovis, the new class SGA representative, is a Commercial Art major from Dallas, N. C.

Only 80 juniors out of a registered 130 voted in the three-day election. The entire Junior class, including students who do not pay their dues and are not registered, totals some 400 students.

Band Club Proposed To SGA

Student Council Wednesday night was to vote on a proposal to establish a dance band club here.

The dance club would choose and finance bands to play at SGA dances.

The proposal, which was made at the April 11 meeting of Council, would require a membership fee of $3, which would include class dues.

The dance band proposal includes class dues because only class members are supposed to attend the dances. This would insure their membership. Also, the state does not allow compulsory fees to be collected for a dance band.

"If this thing pans out, it may be the best way I know to solve this dance band problem," said Jerry Bradshaw, Council president.

Council is also trying to secure use of parking spaces at the Grove Avenue Baptist Church and at Pace Memorial Church for Parents' Week end, May 5-6.

President Bradshaw also announced that today is the deadline for clubs to submit preliminary plans for their activities in the Spring Carnival. The carnival also will be held May 5.

Two persons were appointed to the SGA Publicity Committee in other business. The two students are Bill Chapman, a sophomore Advertising major, and Sally Woolford, a junior Applied Social Science major.

Honors Convocation Is Tuesday

minist Club will be invited to the ceremony.

Dean O'Connell will present the scholarship and alumni awards. Betsy Harman will receive the Honor Key for Academic Achievement and the Alumni Award for the highest academic average in the Senior class. Betsy and Jerry Bradshaw, SGA President, will receive Leadership Keys, and Lynn Hayes and Roger Wright will receive Honor Keys for achievement in art.

Maurice Bonds, head of the Department of Fine Arts, will be the speaker.

Mr. Rush Resigns

He received his BS at the University of Wyoming and his MS at New York University.

Mr. Rush came to RPI as head of the Department of Retailing in 1954. In 1956 he became director of the School of Distribution.

He said, "During the time I have been here, we have stressed close cooperation with the business community, which is very important."

An academic procession consisting of the faculty and Senior class members will march. It will form on the Shafer st. side of the Administration Building at 10:30 a.m.

Classes will be dismissed from 10:30 to 12, according to Dean O'Connell.

comparable to this one is the intramural program, which has enjoyed only a limited amount of student interest. The apparent success of the new program could be attributed to the fact that the mall is available most of the time and organized teams are not required.

Several students supported the popularity of the new program. "I think it brings students closer together," said Woody Eney, a sophomore in Drama. Woody added that the campus is much livelier now.

Tom Marshall, a sophomore in Commercial Art, echoed the sentiments of several others when he said, "I think we should have had this long ago."

Student Teaches Blind Bowlers

By Alberta Lindsey

Does a bowling team composed of persons who are blind seem unusual to you?

It doesn't to Louise Kleinkoph, a junior in Applied Social Science. She works with such a group from the Institute for the Blind.

Louise has been working with these bowling teams since September. They bowl every Friday night from 6:30 to 9 at Sunset Bowl.

The 25 bowlers, ages 14 to 65, range from partially blind to totally blind. They come from all walks of life—students, preachers, schoolteachers, secretaries and others.

The only special equipment used by the blind bowler is a rail which runs along the left side of the alley. The person takes the ball in his right hand and puts his left hand on the rail. He is then straightened by a sighted person to make sure he is going in the right direction. He takes three steps forward and delivers the ball.

"They do remarkably well compared to sighted bowlers," said Louise. "My supervisor, Roy Ward, who is partially blind, has a 203 average, and just recently a totally blind woman bowled 147."

There are two employees with normal eyesight from the Institute working with Louise and her supervisor. A sighted person also keeps score.

Usually there is a sighted person on each team, but a blind team never bowls against a sighted team.

The group that Louise helps belongs to a league made up of five blind teams from surrounding towns. It also participates in tournaments. It will bowl a tournament at Charlottesville late this month and another in Ohio later. Mr. Ward, who founded blind bowling in Virginia two years ago, also edits a bowling newspaper which is printed in Braille type. It is issued bi-weekly and contains bowling news from blind teams throughout the United States.

"The regular leagues which also bowl at Sunset alleys, have been very nice to us," said Louise.

Tennis Star Cracks Arm During Match

Bad luck hounded the varsity tennis team in its opening contest of the season at Bridgewater.

Not only did the RPI squad lose all of the matches, but one of the team's better players, Linda Menard, slipped during a doubles match and cracked a bone in her arm.

Playing in the second doubles match, Linda fell while serving. In an attempt to avoid forfeiting the lead they were holding, Linda stayed on the court, and her partner, Joanne Harris, covered the entire court for the remainder of the set. The two had won the first set of the day and were leading, 4-2 games, in the second set when the accident occurred. The match was defaulted to Nancy Bollinger and Rosanne Kinsy of Bridgewater.

In the other doubles match, Jean Bucher and Jean Rucker of Bridgewater defeated Pamela Vaughn, Fine Arts freshman, and Sammy Feeman, Distributive Education junior. The set scores were 3-6, 6-1, 6-1.

In the number one singles division, Jane Meadows (B) triumphed over Virginia Team, a Commercial Art major, with scores of 6-3, 6-3. Joanie Gross, freshman Applied Psychology major, lost to Jean Braunlich, 6-0, 6-2 in the number two match. Dagmar Gomez, a junior in Commercial Art, was defeated by Judy Switzer in the third match, 7-5, 6-3.

Coach Alexander explained that the RPI tennis team did "very well for being as inexperienced as it is." She said that it takes at least one year to get used to playing tennis at a college level, and it is played on a much higher competitive basis than in high school.

The "Detroit" electric was advertised in 1910 as the car which would "carry you a whole day with current to spare."

Virginia's Discount Cards Here Today

Coach Ed. Allen said Monday that he expects to have student discount cards for the Richmond Virginia home games by today.

The cards enable a student to purchase a regular $1.25 general admission ticket for 50 cents.

Love is a little blind; when we love someone dearly we unconsciously overlook many faults.

The schedule for the remainder of the season follows:

April 24—Lynchburg (home)
May 2—Longwood (away) 2:00 p.m.
May 9 — Bridgewater (home) 2:30 p.m.

Green Devils Lose To Hampden - Sydney

RPI's baseball Green Devils lost their first Little Eight contest last Saturday in a game marred by threatening rain, 12 errors and wildness by RPI pitching.

Hampden-Sydney's Tigers won the game, 17-3, as they jumped on Steve Peeples, RPI's starting pitcher, for four runs in the first inning.

The Tigers scored their four runs on three walks, an error and a hit.

They added two more in the second on two walks, a hit batsman and a hit.

The Tigers scored three runs in the third, one in the fourth, three in the sixth, one in the seventh and three in the eighth.

RPI scored two of its runs in the bottom of the third on a single by Gene Bergh, a triple by Joe McNamee and an error.

The Devils scored their other run in the fifth as Bergh got on base by an error and McNamee walked. Bergh and McNamee pulled off a double steal, and Bergh scored on a sacrifice fly by Mike McDonough.

The Green Devils travel to Norfolk today to play the Norfolk William & Mary Braves. Their next home game will be against Newport News Apprentice School April 29.

SPORTS

By Bill Jamerson

The Green Devils have a 2-3 over-all record and are 2-1 in the Little Eight after five games. The two games they won were the result of some fine pitching by Dukie Talbott and Steve Peeples in 5-4 and 4-0 conquests over Bridgewater College.

RPI seems to have Bridgewater's number this year, as it won three basketball games and two baseball contests from that school this year without defeat.

Aside from those two Bridgewater games, the Devil baseball nine has made a weak showing so far this season. The team's pitching, which was supposed to be the weak spot this season has given up only 18 earned runs in five games so far. The seven-man hurling staff has given up 31 walks and has struck out only 20 men.

The team hitting, which was supposed to be the strong point this season, has collected a total of only 18 hits and 13 runs. Three men—Jimmy Jett, Gene Bergh and Joe McNamee—have garnered 12 of those 18 hits.

McNamee is the only Green Devil currently batting over .300, with an average of .307. Jett and Bergh are close to the .300 mark, however. After that, the Green Devil batters fall sharply.

Marvin Russell, last year's leading Green Devil hitter, with a .382 average is currently embedded in a batting slump with only one hit in 11 at bats.

The team's fielding has not been up to par either, as it has made 18 errors in the five games.

The Green Devils are a young and relatively inexperienced group, however, and will improve. The team can blame the poor pitching and hitting on lack of practice. The Devils were rained out of most of their practice sessions and should improve as the season nears completion.

Golf and Tennis

The golf and tennis teams have not made impressive showings this spring. The golf team, which has lost three straight matches, is in its first year of competition and has a team composed of freshmen and sophomores. Coach Timberlake is looking for vast improvement next year.

Mall Sports

RPI students will be able to participate in volleyball, pingpong, badminton and croquet on the Shafer Court this spring from the hours of 2 to 1 p.m. on weekdays, weather permitting.

12 Freshmen Seek Sophomore Officer

Twelve freshmen have submitted petitions announcing their candidacy for next year's Sophomore class officers.

Steve Yearick, General Business student from Greenville, N. C., and Bill Buskell, Distributive Education student from Crown, are candidates for president.

Kathy Trainor, Retailing student from Monongahela, is the unopposed candidate for vice president.

Sharon Combs, Occupational Therapy major from Easterville, Pa.; Betty Martin, Journalism major from Durham, N. C.; Jean Caseino, Interior Design major from Beckley, W. Va., and Shirley Critzer, Secretarial Science major from Waynesboro, are candidates for secretary.

Terry Allen, Interior Design student from Shelby, and Edwin Per-nell, Accounting student from Henderson, N. C., are seeking the office of treasurer.

Eugene Arrington, Retailing major from Roanoke; Gary Evans, Commercial Art major from Arlington, and Marilyn Suskind, Applied Science major from Newport News, are candidates for SGA representative.

Campaigning started yesterday and voting will be held Wednesday through Friday in the lobby of the Hibbs Building. Class cards or SGA activity fee cards showing paid class dues will be required of a student before he will be allowed to vote.

Bridge Tourney To Be Held May 3

A bridge tournament will be held in the gym at 2 p.m. Wednesday, May 3.

The tourney, which will be held under the school intramural program, will be directed by Coach J. S. Timberlake, with assistance from Peggy Peters.

There will be an entrance fee of 50 cents per person to pay for the cards and awards.

Anyone interested in participating in the tourney, should contact Coach Timberlake or Bill Jamerson, PROSCRIPT sports editor.

Students and faculty members are eligible to participate.

Grading Plan Change Noted By Committee

A change in grading practices will be effective with this semester's examinations for students taking field work, and student teaching courses.

This changes the grade of "S" or "U" to the "A, B, C" standard, for those courses. Dr. H. H. Hibbs, former Provost, requested that the S and U be used because there was a tendency then to grade too highly in these courses.

The Committee on Academic Status also said that, effective this semester, only students with permission from the Dean's office will be given an "Incomplete" grade if they have missed the examination. Students without permission will be marked absent and may not make up the exam without written permission from the dean's office.

60 Persons Attend Job Workshop

More than 60 students attended the Job Seekers Workshop, designed to aid June graduates in job placement, the week before spring vacation. The program was sponsored by the School of Business.

Recital Delayed

The violin recital of Miss Barbara Mueller, scheduled for April 14, has been postponed until sometime in the summer. L. W. Batty, head of the School of Music, said Monday.

Classes Will Start Sept. 18 Next Year

Classes for the fall semester will begin Monday, September 18, according to the calendar released by the administration this week.

Registration for returning students will be on Friday, September 15. Orientation period for new students will be held from September 10-16.

The first recess will be for Thanksgiving, from 5 p.m. Wednesday, November 22 to Monday, November 27.

Christmas recess will be on a split week, from 5 p.m. Tuesday, December 19 to Wednesday, January 3.

Mid-year examinations will be from January 22-31. Second semester registration is February 1-2, and classes begin February 5.

Spring vacation will begin on Friday, March 30, and end April 9. It will not be on a split week as it was this year.

Final examinations will be from May 28 to June 6. Baccalaureate and Commencement will be on June 10.

DE Class Makes 'Spring' Boards

"Harbingers of Spring" is the theme of two colorful bulletin board displays on the second floor of the Administration Building this week.

The Merchandising 210 class made the three-dimension posters as a class project. The present displays are among the better miniature department store window displays turned in, and they feature spring fashions. Students whose work is now being featured are Marvin Brown, Cynthia Burkett, Pat Daniel, Garvin DeHart, Pam Murray, Susan Plemmmons, Walter Schaefer, Ronald Thompson and Ray Womble.

Attends Rite

Miss Olive J. Faulkner, director of the School of Nursing, attended to represent RPI at the dedication of the new hospital and radiology building of the University of Virginia.

Junior Class Election Ends This Afternoon

Voting ends today for Junior class officers for next year.

The only candidate for president is Lee Inman, an Applied Social Science major from Richmond.

The candidate for Vice president is the present Sophomore class secretary, Margaret Ziegler. Margaret is a Fine Art major from Salem.

Carolyn Williams, a Fine Art major from Floyd, and Julia Field, a Drama major from Culpeper, are candidates for Junior class secretary.

Dee Dee Bishop, a Fashion Illustration major from Marietta, Ga., is the candidate for treasurer.

Barbara Jenks, a Commercial Art major from Berryville, is the candidate for SGA representative.

Voting in the Rotunda will end at 5 p.m. today, and results of the election will be carried in next week's PROSCRIPT.

RPI Symphony's Annual Concert Set for Tonight

Haydn's Trumpet Concerto will be the feature of the RPI Symphony Orchestra's annual spring concert under the direction of Milton Cherry at 8:30 tonight in the Gymnasium.

The orchestra is composed of students from all departments in the Music School, as well as from other departments. It is supplemented by high school students and musicians from the community.

Six of Mr. Cherry's 11 years on the faculty have been devoted to the direction of the orchestra. He is head of the Theory and String department, and for a number of years his string quartette performed throughout Virginia.

Soloist for the featured concert will be Edward Mirr of the Department faculty. He is principal trumpeter with the Richmond Symphony Orchestra.

The program will include selections by Frescobaldi, Schubert and Cimarosa.
