Rat Week To Begin Monday

By Sandra Turner

Rat Week, the final phase of Freshman orientation, will begin Monday morning and end Friday night.

On Friday, Turnabout Day, a freshman Rat Court will be chosen by the Junior Rat Court to govern the day's proceedings. If Freshmen wish to "rat" Juniors, the girls must wear heels and the boys must dress in coats and ties.

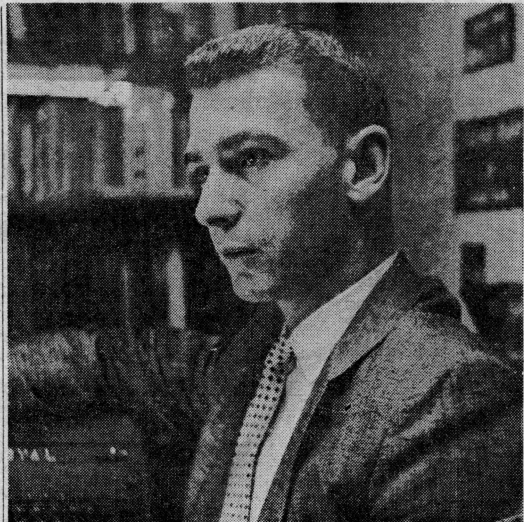

The crowning of Mr. and Miss Rat at the Big Brother-Big Sister dance next Friday night will end the festivities.

"Ratting" will be supervised by these Rat Court members: Margaret Ziegler, Junior Class president; Carolyn Williams, secretary; Dee Dee Bishop, treasurer and Barbara Jenks, SGA representative. Other Rat Court members, chosen by the Junior Class executive council, are George Crawford and Newton Prince, Commercial Art Majors; Rick Heidloff, Fine Arts; Pat Riddle, Elementary Education; Wally Saval, Liberal Arts; and Dick Whitehead, Advertising.

Favors Requests

The juniors will be able to ask favors of the freshmen from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. Rats who do not comply with reasonable requests will have to attend Rat Court in the Mall on Shafer st. each day at noon, where Rat Court members will mete out punishment for the offenders.

Any member of the Junior class with a printed identification tag will be eligible to ask favors of the Rats, but only Rat Court members can call "air raids" and "floods." The Rat Court members will wear (Continued on Page 2)

Pendleton Named Dean of Students

James D. Pendleton, an English instructor, has been named dean of students by President Oliver in one of two deans office changes this year.

Richard E. MacDougall, former assistant dean of men, became dean of men in the other change.

The two changes were necessitated by the resignation of William R. O'Connell in June. Mr. O'Connell, who had served in the deans' offices for four years, resigned to do graduate study in university administration at Columbia University.

As Dean of Students, Mr. Pendleton will continue to teach world and American literature courses and will be chairman of the Academic Status, Scholarship and Disciplinary committees.

Mr. Pendleton came here in 1958 from New York City Community College, where he spent two years as assistant to the dean and an English instructor.

BS at Davidson

After receiving his BS degree from Davidson College, Mr. Pendleton attended the University of North Carolina, where he received his MA degree and taught English for a year.

Mr. Pendleton said his chief objective in his new job will be pro-

Five Staff Members Receive Promotions

By Virginia Gibson

The RPI faculty gained 29 new members, and five were promoted to new positions this fall.

Returning in new capacities are James D. Pendleton (See Story in Column 2), Richard MacDougall (See Column 2), Leroy Buckner, Milo Russell and Bernard Martin.

Mr. Buckner was recently appointed acting director of the School of Distribution to succeed Ralph A. Rush, who resigned to accept a position in hotel administration in New York.

Mr. Buckner has been an associate professor of Distributive Education since June 1960 and holds a BS degree from RPI and an MS from New York University.

In the Department of Fine Art, Mr. Russell was appointed a full-time instructor. Mr. Martin, a part-time instructor in the Evening College, now is also teaching part-time during the day.

Mr. Russell, who has been on the RPI faculty for five years in a part-time capacity, holds a BFA from RPI and an MA from the University of Virginia.

Mr. Martin received his BFA from RPI and MFA from Hunter College.

New faculty members were added to 13 departmental staffs.

Faculty additions to the Department of Commercial Art are RPI graduate, Richard N. Carlyon, instructor, and Donald L. Durland, assistant professor. Mr. Durland received his BFA from Miami University and MA from Bradley University.

Jerry Jewett Field, who holds a BS degree and a certificate in interior design from RPI, will be assistant professor in Commercial Art. Miss Anne P. Ryland, a graduate of Westhampton College and Parsons School of Design, will be a part-time instructor in that department.

Additions in Drama

The Department of Dramatic Art has Richard A. Higgins, instructor, and Thomas R. Long, assistant professor.

Mr. Higgins holds a MA from Pennsylvania State University and has had four years of professional theater work and is a former instructor at the University of New Mexico.

Mr. Long received his BFA and MFA from the University of Oklahoma.

Day School Enrollment Decreases

Day school registration decreased from 2,302 students last year to 2,069 this year, Mrs. Ethel B. Riebe, registrar, reported Monday.

Evening College enrollment will also be down this year, according to Melvin E. Fuller, director. Registration ended last night and, as of Monday, 1,875 students had enrolled in night courses.

Last fall 2,324 persons were enrolled in evening classes.

There are 1,959 full-time students in the day college this year. Of these, 1,623 are Virginia residents and 336 are out-of-state students. The male Virginia residents outnumbered the females 944 to 679. But non-resident males are outnumbered by the females, 128 to 208.

One hundred and ten students are enrolled part-time. In this category, the men are outnumbered, 60 to 50.

Last year there were 1,201 males in the day college, as compared to this year's 1,122. The coeds also showed a drop from pre-

Attendance System Changes

Absence Probation Added

Attendance system changes authorizing unlimited cuts for Dean's List students and the enforcement of an absence probation system have been enacted this year.

The changes, announced in a bulletin to faculty members last week, will also modify the number of cuts students are allowed in individual classes and provide new regulations for class excuses and for make-up tests and examinations.

Dean of Students James D. Pendleton said the modifications allow responsible students more freedom and a chance to exercise their own judgment.

Absence Probation

Under the changes, there are four ways by which a student may be placed on absence probation.

Students enrolled in 100 and 200 courses may be placed on probation whenever their number of absences in a class exceeds by more than one the listed number of credit hours for the course.

Students enrolled in 300 and 400 courses may be placed on absence probation if they cut a class after an instructor reports their attendance as unsatisfactory.

The third way in which a student may incur the probation standing is by missing the last scheduled class meeting before the Thanksgiving, Christmas or Spring holiday periods or the first scheduled meeting after the holidays.

And any student whose academic average falls below "C" may be placed on absence probation.

Laboratory Cuts

In addition, a student may be dropped from the class roll—without being placed on absence probation—if he is absent from a laboratory course more than once.

The absence probation standing will be removed from a student's record after the completion of one semester of regular college work beyond the semester in which the absence probation is incurred.

However, if a student should incur a second absence probation before the first has been lifted, the student will be subject to suspension from the college.

A person suspended from the school for a violation of absence probation is not eligible for re-admission until a full semester has elapsed.

The major change in the procedure by which excuses will be issued is that no excuses will be accepted later than five class days after the absence.

Students who miss a scheduled final examination must notify the student personnel office within 48 hours after the scheduled time of the exam under the changes.

Make-up Exams

Also, no student will be allowed to take a make-up examination without permission from the student personnel office.

Dean Pendleton said the changes are a combination of the findings of a faculty committee survey of attendance rules and further recommendations of the administration.

He said faculty and administration members had indicated they were dissatisfied with the old system.

Young Blood

With the appointment of two new deans this year, RPI apparently is continuing its policy of accenting youth in administrative positions.

The recent appointments of James D. Pendleton as Dean of Students and Richard E. MacDougall as Dean of Men are in keeping with a policy established several years ago, when William R. O'Connell became assistant to the provost.

Before Mr. O'Connell was appointed here and, later, became dean of students, top administrative positions had remained relatively stationary and in older hands.

However, shortly before and after Dr. George J. Oliver's installation as provost in 1959, a series of appointments to RPI administrative posts was made.

Melvin E. Fuller, a 1957 graduate of the University of Virginia, became director of the Evening College; Mrs. Jane B. Gladding became Dean of Students and Women, and Mr. MacDougall became assistant dean of men.

Now, following Mr. O'Connell's resignation to undertake graduate study at Columbia University, two men under 30 years of age have been elevated to top-ranking administrative positions.

Apparently the administration and the Board of Visitors of the Colleges of William and Mary believe the policy of appointing young, capable persons to important posts is paying dividends.

President's Welcome

To the Students—New and Returning:

As we begin a new session I should like to extend a cordial welcome to all students who have enrolled this year at RPI, both those who have been here before and those who are here for the first time. We hope that you who are beginning your experience at RPI will find here the opportunities and the training which will help you accomplish the purposes which you have in mind in enrolling. Your advisers and other members of the faculty and administration are here to help you get a good start and to assist in planning your college program; be sure to use the advice and help thus available to you.

To you who have been here before let me say that we are happy to have you back; we miss you when the college is not in session. It is our hope that this year and each succeeding year may be even more successful for you than those which have preceded and the same resources for advice and help are available to you as those referred to for first-year students.

This year promises to be somewhat difficult on occasion with the uncertain international situation and concern about military service, and the like. To all students, therefore, I should suggest that concentration of our interest on getting the most out of college and losing ourselves in wholesome, creative activity will give stability and freedom from anxiety which will enable us to face whatever the year may bring with hope and with confidence that we can manage it.

George J. Oliver, President.

moting school unity. "I would like to do whatever I can to create a greater feeling of unity in the school," he said. "I feel this would probably involve a greater knowledge of all departments by all students."

He indicated that this might be accomplished through departmental exhibits, visiting lectures and performances.

Mr. MacDougall said he is also concerned with promoting school unity. He noted that orientation helped acquaint new students with the school and is an important part of the unity program.

During his three years here, Mr. MacDougall has managed the 712 W. Franklin st. Dormitory, and last year he was assistant dean of men.

Master's Degree Work

In addition to his new position, he is working on his master's degree in Clinical Psychology. He did undergraduate work at Boston College, and his wife is a Boston native.

Mr. MacDougall will advise and aid male students with academic and personal problems, whereas Mr. Pendleton will be more concerned with administrative and student activities.

Earn and Save

Students Work During Summer

Some RPI students loafed during the summer, but most of them found some kind of job to while away the idle hours—and, incidentally, to save a few dollars for their schooling.

They held odd jobs ranging from manager of a traveling hamburger stand to holding down hot machines in a Reynolds Metals Company plant.

Pat McNeally, a 19-year-old Freshman from St. Paul, Minn., was employed last summer by the Reynolds Metal Co. of Richmond. McNeally, a Pre-med student, worked as a machine operator. He remarked that he plans to work somewhere else next summer.

Carolyn "Squeaky" Freeman, Sociology major, of Roanoke, taught swimming at a YMCA Girl Scout camp. This 19-year-old freshman plans to seek employment at a private camp next year.

Eugene Johnson was employed by Abernathy's Meals On Wheels, a mobile restaurant. Johnson, 18-year-old Music Education major from Richmond, said there is little further in the job but that he ate well.

Sandra Haas of Richmond worked in the clinic at MCV. Sandra is a freshman majoring in Music Education.

Faculty Gains 29 Persons; Staff Members Promoted

The School of Business added five new faculty members.

Dr. J. Kenneth Roach is the new director and professor in that department.

He holds degrees from Duke, Columbia and New York University.

Milton P. Miller and Junie L. Bradshaw are part-time instructors. Dieter H. Weiss is part-time assistant instructor. Bernard C. Dill is assistant professor and Dr. R. Pierce Lumpkin, associate professor.

In the School of Distribution, E. Cofer Loomer is a DE instructor; Donald H. Bowles, associate professor of Retailing; and James B. Butts, assistant professor of Retailing.

Psychology Staff

Dr. Joseph M. Aposhyan, a former instructor at Mary Washington College, and Walter Turroo are new associate professors of Psychology.

Dr. William H. Gulley succeeds Dr. Alice Davis as an associate professor of Sociology. Harry L. Carnes is an instructor in the Department of Sociology and Social Welfare.

The new director and associate professor in the School of Occupational Therapy is Cornelius A. Coolman, formerly acting director of the OT department at Colorado State University.

Miss Alice Chadwick from the OT department of the Jewish Hospital at St. Louis, Mo., is assistant professor.

Additions in Social Work

John J. Horwitz is associate professor and Mrs. Margaret D. Popika, assistant professor, in the School of Social Work. Mrs. Popika replaces Mrs. Ruth G. Boyer who is on leave of absence.

James E. Corbett is instructor of engineering mathematics for the School of Engineering and Lt. Col. John F. Wall, instructor of Physics. Col. Wall did graduate work at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. For the School of Engineering Technology, Fairfax G. Davis, who holds a MS degree from RPI, is an assistant professor.

Welford D. Taylor and Mrs. Bette B. Riesmeyer are new English instructors.

Mrs. Johanna Gillhoff will teach German under the Department of Modern Languages.

Rat Week Slated To Begin Monday

green felt arm bands with the letters RC printed on them in yellow.

Rat caps must be worn between 7 a.m. and 7 p.m. except on Sundays or off the campus.

All Rats must wear name signs around their necks. The signs are to be in the shape of a rat no smaller than 16 inches. Information contained on the signs will be the full name, weight, height, home town, dorm, major and phone number.

Rat Signs

Rats are required to carry with them at all times the following articles: a hunk of cheese, a set mouse trap, a baby bottle, two flavors of chewing gum, a pack each of filter and non-filter cigarettes, a raw egg signed by five Juniors, a napkin and a balloon, inflated and tied to the left wrist.

Rats must memorize the Alma Mater, the Honor Pledge, one yell and "What is a rat?"

Before entering the cafeteria, Rats are required to yell "Hi, y'all!" and be answered by a member of the Junior class. Rats are to address all Juniors as "sir" and "madam" and tip their hats when addressing them.

Those who have not picked up Rat Hats or lists of instructions for Rat Week, may do so Monday in the Rotunda. Those who have not signed up for a Big Brother or Big Sister are advised to do so then.

By Tom Weedon

What started out to be a most promising season for Green Devil basketball fans has suddenly become a season of uncertainty.

The Green Devils have lost all Little Eight second team selection George Shaheen to the army. Their top rebounder, Marshall Vaughan, is doing missionary work, and Billy Woodson and Mike McDonough have dropped out of school. This leaves the Green Devil squad with only three holdovers from last year's squad, which posted a 13-12 record.

The holdovers are guards Jimmy Jones and Steve Peebles and center Bobby Muse. Co-captain Doug Loughridge is also back in school, but is uncertain he will play ball this year.

Coach Allen said that this is definitely going to call for a big rebuilding job. He added that the Green Devils may do better this year or much worse—he just isn't sure what he has at this early stage.

All varsity hopefuls are to report to practice on Monday, October 16. Coach Allen has arranged a 25-game schedule, which includes newcomers Langley Air Force Base and Frederick College of Portsmouth. The Green Devils will open their season on November 18 by playing their annual alumni game. The season officially begins on November 30 as the Green Devils entertain Medical College of Virginia.

Devil Sidelights—Green Devil sports figures certainly stayed in line with their sports interests this summer. Coach Allen ran the North Side Day YMCA camp. Basketball player Steve Peebles was a tennis instructor at a Florida yacht club. Jimmy Jones worked as a playground director for the Fredericksburg Recreation department. Doug Loughridge also worked in Fredericksburg as a life guard. It also should be noted that baseball player Jimmy Jett worked at a fish market in New Jersey.

Big Intramural Season Ahead

The 1961-62 RPI intramural program will begin October 2 with a single-elimination badminton tournament, which will run through November 2. All entries must be in by Thursday.

The men's tournament will be played on Monday's and Wednesday's from 4 to 7 p.m. in the gym.

The women's tournament will be played on Tuesdays and Thursdays at the same time and same place.

Coach J. S. Timberlake said that failure to appear for a game or a match would constitute a forfeit and that no exceptions would be made.

The intramural calendar for the coming year is as follows:

- Oct. 2-Nov. 2—Badminton (entries by Sept. 28)
- Nov. 13-March 1—Basketball (entries by Nov. 6)
- March 5-March 29—Volleyball (entries by Feb. 26)
- April 2-May 3—Ping Pong (entries by March 26)
- April 16-May 17—Ten Pin Bowling (entries by April 19)

Tennis Tryouts For Women Begin

Tryouts for the Women's varsity tennis team got under way Tuesday afternoon. Coach Nancy S. Alexander said additional tryouts will be held on the Byrd Park Courts until the weather gets too cold. The team members will be announced later.

Golf Candidates Urged To Report for Practice

All varsity golf candidates are to report to a practice session today at the Meadowbrook Country Club, Coach J. S. Timberlake announced.

The squad will practice at 2 p.m. every Friday from now until the golf season officially begins in the Spring.

Dance Club Enlists Some 292 Members

About $2,308 has been collected from the 292 persons who have joined the RPI Dance Band club, Student Government Association President Pat Scott said this week.

Scott estimated that almost 75 per cent of the members are freshmen. The club was organized by the SGA Executive Council last spring to promote name bands for school-sponsored dances.

An $8 membership fee, which includes a $6 dance club fee and $2 class dues, is being collected from each club member.

The drive for membership in the club will continue for three weeks, after which band engagements will be discussed. The Executive Council Committee hopes to have 400 members by that time.

Plans include a name band for Openings on October 21, and a big name band dance and concert for Mid-Winters. Scott mentioned Count Basie as a possibility. There would also be a third name band for the spring formal.

From its treasury, the dance club will match any offer from the Administration to finance the engagement of the bands.

The club will exist as a membership organization only, without specific officers, and under the authority of the Executive Council.

Parking Rules To be Enforced During Day

Rules affecting daytime parking on campus will be strictly enforced again this year, R. V. Woodall, RPI business manager, announced this week.

Campus parking regulations govern the Harrison st. and 712 W. Franklin st. lots and school-owned spaces in alleys off Park ave. and North Laurel st.

RPI tags must be attached to cars parked in these spaces. Tags will be checked by the school police.

Spaces are rented on a yearly basis for parking from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Violators are subject to a $2 fine.

The state license number of a violating car should be reported to Mrs. Dorris Budd in the business manager's office, Mr. Woodall said. The renter of the space should park on a city street until the offending car can be removed.

SGA, Juniors Are Seeking Replacements

The Student Government Association and the Junior Class will be seeking new officers next week due to the failure to return to school of two 1961-62 electives.

The office of SGA treasurer, formerly held by Orriss Burnett, will be filled at the regular SGA meeting Wednesday night, President Pat Scott announced this week. "We plan to nominate and elect the new officer at the one meeting," he said.

Burnett resigned in a letter to Council earlier this summer. Under the SGA constitution, any sophomore member of Council is eligible for the post.

"Orriss plans to return to school after a semester's absence," Scott said. The Petersburg native was elected last year.

Margaret Ziegler, elected last semester as Junior Class vice president, has already assumed the duties of president, the office vacated when Woody Eney left school to live in Fort Wayne, Indiana.

Nominations for Margaret's vacated office were to be registered late this week, with elections to follow within a few days.

Managers Selected For Men's Dorms

Jim Hanshaw and Robert Madden have been named managers of the Lafayette and 712 W. Franklin st. men's dormitories for this year.

Hanshaw is doing graduate work in Clinical Psychology, and Madden is a senior in Commercial Art.

Bill Ward, an Advertising major, is the assistant manager and Carl Thompson, a Business Administration sophomore, is assistant at 712 W. Franklin st.

Library Starts Policy Of Student ID Cards

The RPI library this summer started a policy of issuing student identification cards, which must be shown in order to check out books.

The ID cards are not transferable and should not be loaned, since the student whose name appears on the card will be held responsible.

The cards were issued at registration. Any student who did not receive one should check the bulletin board in the library for times that they may now be obtained.

Slater Food Service Begins Fifth Year

Slater Food Service entered its fifth year of operation in the RPI cafeteria this month.

"For the benefit of the new students," Edward P. Bigger, cafeteria manager, said, "they are free to inspect cafeteria facilities any time and to make suggestions on service."

Mr. Bigger has been manager since 1957. The cafeteria employs 46 persons, two of whom are students.

Slater Food Service operates cafeterias for more than a dozen colleges and hospitals in Virginia.

Career Cues

"Cure for job boredom:
I made my favorite pastime my career!"

Richard Bertram, President
Bertram Yacht Co., Division of Nautech Corp.

"When you stop to think what percent of our total waking hours is spent bread-winning, you realize how tragic it is for any man to work at an occupation he doesn't enjoy. Besides frittering away life, it reduces chances of success to just about zero. I know... because it almost happened to me!

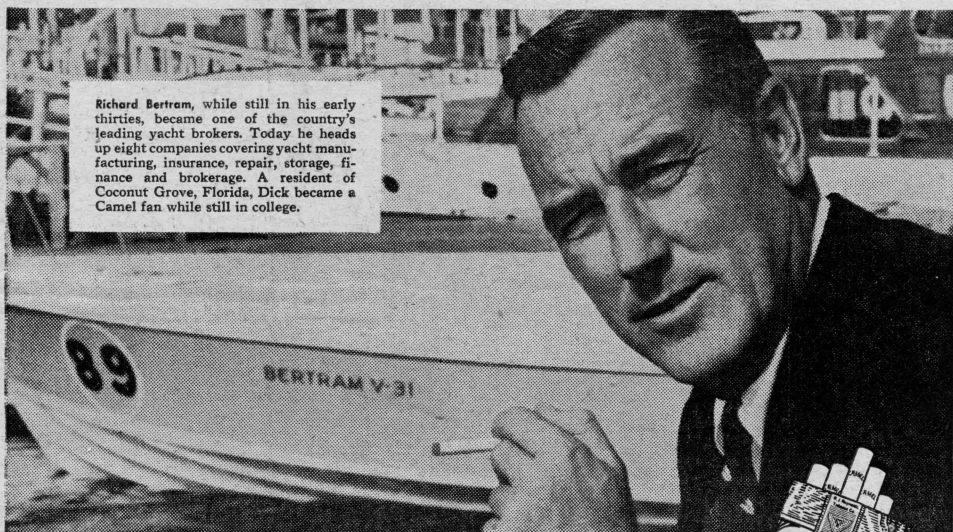

After college, I did what I thought was expected of me and joined a solid, Manhattan-based insurance firm. I soon found office routine wasn't for me. I lived only for lunch hour when I could walk to the Battery and mentally sail with the ships that stood out in the Narrows... and for the summer weekends when I could go sailing. Fortunately, the company I worked for is one of the leading insurers of yachts and after two years I was transferred to their Yacht Underwriting Department. Enjoyment and interest in my work improved immediately 100%.

After World War II, I started my own yacht brokerage firm and yacht insurance agency in Miami, combining my marine insurance background with an even closer relationship with boats.

My only problem ever since has been a feeling of guilt that my work was too easy. I love boats and boating people. That affection has paid me rewards way beyond the financial security it has also provided.

The moral's obvious. You have an odds-on chance for success and happiness working at what you enjoy most—what comes naturally! And if it's not just frivolous, your life's work could well be what you now consider just a pastime. It's certainly worth thinking about, anyway!"

Richard Bertram, while still in his early thirties, became one of the country's leading yacht brokers. Today he heads up eight companies covering yacht manufacturing, insurance, repair, storage, finance and brokerage. A resident of Coconut Grove, Florida, Dick became a Camel fan while still in college.

And to make any time pass more enjoyably...
