Only 10 Students Fail Second SGA Rules Test

One Student Flunks Retest; Scores Show Improvement

Thirty-one students passed the Student Government Association test and 10 failed last week when the test was given a second time.

Penny Wetzler, SGA vice president, said the scores show a marked improvement over those of the previous week when only six of 19 passed. Each of the 54 representatives and alternates has now taken the test, and the ten who failed will be required to take it again.

Only one person failed the test twice, Penny said. That person will be dropped from the SGA roll and his organization will be asked to elect another representative.

"C" Average

The average grade, according to Penny, was a "C", and one person scored an "A". There were five "B's" and six "D's".

The following is a breakdown of the grading system:

95-100 — A
86-95 — B
78-86 — C
70-77 — D
below 70 — failure.

The test, which consists of questions about SGA rules and constitution, was composed last year by the Executive council. A few minor changes were made by the council this year, Penny said.

In other actions, Council voted to show movies on campus and heard a proposal to fly the flag on Shafer Street Court at half-mast. Pat Scott, SGA President, announced appointments to permanent committees and distributed sheets explaining rules governing bulletin boards.

After two weeks' discussion, Council voted to bring old movies to the campus for showings on Fri-

Coed Hospitalized After Auto Wreck

A coed injured in a two-car wreck last week end was hospitalized Monday with a fractured pelvis and multiple lacerations.

She is Rosemary Hicks, a sophomore Elementary Education major and one of two coeds injured in the wreck.

The second student, Delores Campbell, suffered only minor bruises in the accident and was released from the hospital after treatment. She is a sophomore Retailing major from Arlington.

Rosemary, 19, said she will be hospitalized for at least three weeks, after which she will probably go home to Greenville, S. C.

Senior From Marion Has Background for Interior Design

SGA President

Scott's Many Tasks Are Large and Small

By Pat Hensley

Last Friday afternoon found Lewis Patrick Scott, president of the Student Government Association, sitting on the Shafer Court amid falling leaves, disassembled speakers, wires and microphones.

Scott, a 22-year-old Interior Design major, was engaged in one of the more menial tasks of his office—that of assembling the portable public address system recently bought by the SGA.

As he connected some wires to a tube, Scott, who is from Marion, explained how he became interested in interior design.

"I knew I wanted to study ID when I was a sophomore in high school," he said, explaining that his father is in the furniture business, and that he has always liked working with furniture.

Before coming to RPI in 1958, Scott studied Industrial Arts and Architectural Drafting to prepare for a career in ID. He attended Hiwassee College in Madisonville, Tenn., and Washington County Technical School in Abingdon.

Likes Architecture

Architecture particularly appeals to Pat, but because of his low aptitude for math he believes he is more suited for ID.

Scott, a senior, is considering moving to the southwestern part of the United States when he graduates.

"The eastern part of the continent is stagnant in relation to architecture and interior design, whereas more advancement is

Civil Defense Forms Are Sent to Dr. Oliver

Survey forms for determining civil defense preparedness at RPI were sent this week to President Oliver's office.

The forms are part of a statewide survey of possible shelter areas in all state-owned institutions. The survey is being conducted by the office of the Virginia civil defense coordinator.

The survey, one of the first steps toward defense of large groups in event of nuclear attack, will include an inventory of all basements and other possible shelter areas at RPI, Dr. Oliver said.

After the forms are completed, someone from the state civil defense office will probably inspect the school and make recommendations, Dr. Oliver said.

Although civil defense information available at present is aimed primarily at individual shelters, steps are being taken on state and federal levels for group defense, he continued.

A three-step federal program, operating from the Department of Defense, has been set up to instruct large groups in civil defense.

The program, announced recently, will conduct a nation-wide survey of possible effective shelter areas in all federal buildings, all state-owned buildings (such as schools) and all local government-owned buildings and private industries.

Marine Recruiter Will Be on Campus In Late November

A U.S. Marine Corps officer selection recruiter, Lt. R. M. Browne, will be here November 27 and 28 to interview students for officer training programs.

The officer selection team will be at the Rotunda to provide information and to interview applicants.

Freshmen and Sophomore candidates attend two six-week tours of duty during their summer vacation. Juniors attend for 12 weeks, and seniors and graduates attend a ten-week course after graduation and are then commissioned.

Faculty Dining Room Renovation Completed

A color scheme of yellow and white predominates the recent renovation of the faculty and staff dining room in the basement of Founder's Hall.

Mrs. Iris O. Emory, RPI housekeeper, initiated renovation plans last spring, assisted by Mr. Edward Price of the Industrial Sales division of Miller and Rhoads. He is an RPI graduate in Interior Decorating.

Renovation included complete replacement of the heavy wooden tables and chairs with light-weight chairs of fiber-glass and formica-surfaced tables. The light-weight furniture has increased the seating capacity of the area to 40 persons.

Draperies of fiber-glass printed material with a background of oyster white hang at the seven windows. They are designed to let a maximum amount of sunlight in the basement room, Mrs. Emory says.

The large "end" window is faced on the opposite wall by a hanging print, hand-screened on linen.

Five lighting fixtures of a smoked glass bubble incasing a long, white cylinder are suspended from the ceiling.

Faculty and staff comments on the renovated room are generally complimentary. Mrs. Sarah Massey, School of Business, finds the room "light, bright and colorful."

Other persons interviewed expressed pleasure of the "improved atmosphere."

"I enjoy my lunch much more now than in former years," says Mrs. Hazel Smith, also of the School of Business.

Question of renovation of the student dining area is largely undecided. "The housekeeping department hopes to renovate this area and I feel that much could be done with it," Mrs. Emory says.

SGA Test

RPI students have long been criticized for their apathy and, upon occasion, they have deserved it.

Such was the case last week when it was announced that 13 of 19 organizational representatives to Student Council had failed the annual test on the Student Government Association's rules and constitution.

These test results, SGA Vice President Penny Wetzler suggested in an open letter to students, left the SGA with two alternatives.

First, Miss Wetzler noted, the SGA could continue to operate with the small minority of the interested students present and be criticized for such operation.

Or, she said, student government could cease to exist.

Of course, to think of RPI or any college of comparable size without student government is out of the question. Student government not only must exist—it must thrive.

And apparently the representatives realized this. They responded spontaneously to the criticism, and this week Miss Wetzler reported that only 10 of the SGA's representatives failed the test when it was administered a second time. Perhaps more encouraging is the fact that of some 50 persons who took the test, only one failed twice.

This marked improvement must be considered heartening by the SGA. These test results show that the students can produce when they must.

However, this may not be the most important fact brought to light by the test results.

The SGA rules test has been a "campus sore spot" since it was introduced years ago, and it has resulted in a great deal of criticism of the students. It seems that an increasing number of representatives fails each year.

This gives rise to the question, "Is the test too difficult?" Students who have taken the test in past years, and those who took it this year, have indicated they think the test is too hard. Although these students' objections have been heard all over campus, no one has proved them invalid or attempted to do so.

Therefore, we feel a thorough evaluation of the test should be undertaken. If it is too difficult, remedial steps should be taken.

Drama Graduate Is Awarded Scholarship to Pasadena School

Jay Dunn, graduate of the Drama Department has received a scholarship for a year of graduate work at the Pasadena Playhouse College of Theatrical Arts in Pasadena, Calif.

Dunn was awarded the scholarship on the basis of the work he did during a six weeks' summer session at Pasadena. He expects to receive his M.A. degree this June.

Dunn opened October 13 in "The Pleasure of His Company," with Hans Conreid in the leading role. Dunn auditioned for the part in the summer and returned to Pasadena October 2 to begin rehearsals.

Dunn transferred to RPI from East Carolina College in 1957. He was musical director for "Plain and Fancy" and "The Boyfriend." Dunn appeared in the major productions "Call Me Madam," "The Fourposter," "Murder in the Cathedral" and "Look Homeward, Angel."

He also appeared in the Virginia Museum production of John Colson's "Come Down to Carrollton County" last spring. Dunn was in "Brigadoon," sponsored by the Richmond Department of Recreation and Parks last summer.

"FIVE FINGER EXERCISE"

Drama Opens Wednesday

Peter Shaffer's "Five Finger Exercise," one of the biggest original English stage hits, will be presented at 8 p.m. next Wednesday through Saturday in the Shafer Street Playhouse.

The play—generally considered to be the work of one of England's "angry young men"—will be the first of six major productions presented by the Drama Department this year.

And although Raymond Hodges, director of the department, is not usually in sympathy with the British "angry young men," he does think that Shaffer's play is valid.

It has a universal theme—that of the reaction of certain types of persons to each other, Mr. Hodges says.

The play reveals the selfish passions of a nouveau riche English family triggered by the employment of a young German as tutor for their teen-aged daughter.

With bitter memories of a Nazi father, this youth hopes to find in the outwardly tranquil family an antidote for the horror he has seen in his homeland.

But the boy finds he has joined a group that lives in a state of mutual incomprehensions—a husband and wife and two children who have lost the power to make allowances, communicate or forgive one another.

The mother sees herself as more refined and elegant than her husband, whom she snobbishly considers an insensitive boor because he cannot share her devotion to modern painting and other forms of culture.

The father testily regards his 21-year-old student son as an "arty-tarty," and a waster of time with his crowd which is always "giggling, drinking and talking dirty." The mother babies her son and calls him preposterous pet names. Their flippant 15-year-old daughter tries to stay above all these struggles.

The coming of the tutor in this household, simmering with deceptions and barely repressed antagonisms, has devastating impact. Unintentionally he becomes a match that starts an explosion that in the end leaves the family shattered.

Included in the cast is Robert Culver as the father, Stanley Harrington; Jean Biddle as the mother Louise; Edwin Putze as their son, Clive; Iris Berket as the daughter, Pamela, and James Davis as the tutor, Walter Langer.

Sets are designed by Mr. Richard Higgins and costumes are designed by Miss Agnes David.

Personnel Class Again Offered in Business

The management center of the School of Business is again offering a course of study for supervisory personnel.

W. O. Edwards, head of the management center, said the classes will be held from 7 to 8 p.m., beginning October 25.

Mr. Edwards said the major objectives of this course are to review the management role of supervisors and to train the individual in techniques which contribute to improved job performance.

Instructors include members of the School of Business faculty and guest instructors, all of whom have had industrial experience.

B. P. Burrow of the Liberty Mutual Insurance Co. will instruct the class in Principles of Business Organization and Management; R. V. Jackson of E. I. Du Pont de Nemours, Controlling Costs and Reducing Waste; W. M. Jolly of Allied Chemical Corporation, the Psychology of Handling People—Motivation and Leadership Fundamentals; St. George T. Lee of Albemarle Paper Company, Work Simplification and Methods Improvement.

Robert L. Ramsey of The Dow Chemical Corp. will instruct in Improving Communications in the Work Place; McDaniel Williams Training Consultant, Guarding Management Rights in Labor Relations; W. O. Edwards of RPI, Taft Hartley as Amended and Federal Wages and Hours Laws; Russell A. Johnston of RPI, Principles of Business Organization and Management.

Fine Art Group Plans Graphics Class for TV

The Fine Art department will present a graphic arts class on WRVA-TV (Channel 12) Wednesday as part of an educational television series offered from 9 to 10 a.m. each week day.

Some 80,000 school children will watch Mr. Maurice Bonds, director of the Art department, conduct a class of three Fine Art majors from Richmond, Juniors June Chapman and Roy Woodall and senior Michael Junkin will demonstrate the techniques of lithography, etching and woodblock printing.

"The class will be aimed at children in the fifth and sixth grades and will show how print making is done on a professional level," Mr. Bonds said.

Last year the Art department presented A sculpture show instructed by Mr. Charles Renick. RPI is one of the eight Virginia colleges participating in the program. The series will be carried in 38 Virginia cities and counties and in one West Virginia county.

Report Lists 53,300 Books in Library

The school library has 53,300 books on its shelves.

This is disclosed in the semi-annual list of books catalogued from March 15, 1961.

Some 4,565 books were included in this list of those catalogued and shelved this year.

A copy of the list may be obtained by leaving a note in the library mail box or by contacting with library personnel.

day nights. A suggestion that matinee showings be made on Friday and Saturday afternoons came from Bob Nitchie, a senior in Advertising.

Council discussed having both matinee and evening showings with an admission charge of 50c a person. Any profit will go to the SGA treasury. The films will be shown as soon as the publicity committee can organize a campaign to promote them.

A proposal to fly the flag on Shafer Street Court at half-mast during official periods of mourning was made by Don Blackwell, representative of the Young Republican's club. The proposal was tabled, pending approval from the administration.

Committee Chairmen

President Scott announced the following chairmen of SGA standing committees: Jim Bradley, Floor Committee; Dorcus Campbell, Elections; Penny Wetzler, Activities; Pat Story, Finance; Dean Dowdy, Bulletin Board; Margaret Zeigler and Bob Nitchie, Publicity; and Rob Reline, Rules Committee.

The publicity committee set a size limit on posters for campus bulletin boards. Posters are to be no larger than 22" x 14" and must be posted on designated bulletin boards.

Posters announcing school functions must not be posted more than two weeks in advance of the function, and they must be removed no later than three days after the activity. Personal notices will be permitted on the bulletin board opposite the Registrar's Office.

November Deadline Set for Certificate, Degree Application

Degree and certificate applications for February or June graduates are due in the Registrar's office November 1.

Receipt of degree fee of $11.50 for BS degree and $16.00 for MS degree must accompany the application. The fees may be paid in the Cashier's Office Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 2:00 p.m.

Students graduating after the summer session must submit their application by June 15.

being made in states like Nevada, New Mexico and Arizona," Scott said.

After working a few years, he would like to study the technical end of stage production. "I find that type of work fascinating," said Scott, who's green eyes light up easily. He likes working with lights and wants to do technical television work.

This line of work may run in the family, for Scott's 17-year-old brother is interested in technical radio; but what definitely does run in the family is Scotch-Irish and German blood.

He freely admits one characteristic associated with the Scotch-Irish people, a quick temper. "I'm also stingy in a way," he added. He intends to remain a bachelor for another 10 years because marriage is "expensive."

Enjoys Jazz

When he finds a few free minutes, in between SGA work and studies, Scott likes to listen to jazz. His favorites are Ferguson and Brubeck. He learned to play drums in high school and still plays for his own entertainment.

Regarding the SGA, Scott believes that it will be better this year.

"The SGA began this semester with a handicap," he said referring to the absences of a treasurer and junior class president, "and it has pulled through very well."

MEN'S BASKETBALL

18 Candidates Report To Varsity Practice

Coach Ed Allen greeted eighteen candidates Monday as fall basketball practice officially began.

The candidates were put through a brisk pace of wind sprints, calisthenics, basketball drills and a 40-minute scrimmage. Coach Allen said that by the time the season opens (November 30) the squad should be in better shape than any other in the state.

Of the eighteen candidates, six are freshmen, three sophomores, six juniors and three seniors. There are only two candidates who are over 6'3".

Coach Allen said because of the lack of height the Green Devils will have to be a running team (fast-breaking). He added that he plans to use a zone press, similar to the one West Virginia has been using so successfully the last couple of years during the entire game.

It was a rough two hours for candidates Monday, for they were out of condition and the effects were telling. Scrimmage was extremely rough. It was a typical first day as Coach Allen said play was a little on the ragged side.

The squad will practice daily at 2 p.m. for the next month.

It will at least be a week before the final squad cut. There are eight guard candidates, three center prospects and seven forwards. Devil Sidelights—Steve Peebles, the Green Devils fine senior guard, has a bad knee and will probably be laid up for a week or so. Bud Reid, intramural star last year, has to have his weak ankle taped up every day before practice. Ernie Wilkerson, who played for the Green Devils two seasons ago, is back trying to win a berth with the team.

Baptist Group Sets Meeting for Oct. 26

Due to a conflict with class meetings, the Baptist Student Union has postponed its Thursday meeting until October 26. The meeting will be held in Hibbs 203 at 5:30 p.m.

'Early Bird' Women's Tennis Squad Selected

By Linda Murphy

Selection of a 12-member "early bird" women's varsity tennis team was announced this week by Coach Nancy Alexander.

This is the first year that the tennis team has started organizing in the fall. Tryouts have been going on for several weeks.

Of the 12, seven are returnees from last year. Joanne Harris, a junior in Physical Education and a member of the doubles team last year, is returning. Her partner, Linda Menard, a senior in Occupational Therapy, is also a holdover.

The veterans this year are Sammy Feeman, a senior in Distributive Education; Dagmar Gomez, a Commercial Art senior; Virginia Team, a Commercial Art sophomore; Julia Brown, an Elementary Education junior; and Glenn Thomas, a Recreational Leadership sophomore.

Two promising freshman are Dee Dee Dvorak, a Business major, and Jean Habert.

The remaining three are from the beginners' tennis class taught by Coach Nancy S. Alexander. They are sophomores Brenda Hughes and Carol Johnson. Barbara Bowry is another new member. She is the president of the Women's Recreational Association.

Next Spring

These girls will constitute next spring's tennis team. This does not mean, however, that the team is closed. Anyone who wants to play should contact Miss Nancy S. Alexander, women's Physical Education instructor.

Last year's record for the season was six losses and one win. The sole victory was against William and Mary. With the early start, experienced players and frequent practices, Coach Alexander hopes to better that record this year.

Sound driving calls for reduced speed on residential streets and particularly near parked cars, according to the National Safety Council. Most child traffic accidents occur when a youngster runs into the street from behind a parked car.

Shafer Court Set to Open For Recreation

Coach J. S. Timberlake announced Monday the Shafer court would open immediately for use as a recreation center.

He said that the volleyball and ping pong equipment would be available to students again this year.

Timberlake said participants expressed considerable interest in mall activities last year. Because of this, he plans to expand the usual weekly afternoon sessions to include Saturday and Sunday afternoons also.

The mall activities are not included in the team-organized intramural program, but are a separate part to be used for the recreation of everyone.

Jimmy Jones and Paul Stafford, both Junior Physical Education majors, will issue equipment and supervise the court's activities.

Sixteen Matches Left in Intramural Badminton Games

Only 16 matches remained to be played Monday as intramural badminton headed into the quarterfinals.

There were eight matches left in both men's and women's competition.

Dagmar Gomez, last year's women's champion, heads the women's field of eight. There is no clear-cut favorite in the men's division.

Advancing into the quarterfinals, along with Miss Gomez, are: Marion Wright, Bonny Matthews, Inez Littleton, Sue James, Bev Teachey, Caryl Strathman and Rosemary Hicks.

Also Glenn Thomas, Sammy Freeman, Matha Kegan, Joanne Harris, Barbara Bowry, Judy Jones, Judy Dower and Pam Murray.

In the men's quarterfinals are: Steve Peebles, Jim Jett, Paul Stafford, Jim Jones, Ralph Lindsay, Don Bullive, Bill Jamerson and Richard Roberts.

Also Tom Wright, Mason Lockridge, Ronnie Crews, C. G. Grizard, Dennis Burton, Doug Loughridge, Lewis Morgan and Bud Reid.

Language Department Expands Lab Program

The Modern Language department has expanded its activities and facilities this year to encompass an active laboratory schedule.

An extra room has been added to the department on the third floor of the Administration Building. It has been painted and decorated and is being used for a language laboratory, which interested students use for extra-curricular work.

Of the 120 students enrolled in modern language classes, approximately 90 per cent are taking advantage of the language laboratory, reports Miss Juliet L. Woodson, assistant professor of Modern Languages.

The lab is open from 8:30 Monday morning until 5 p.m. Friday evening. It is available for both night and day school students who want to improve their speaking ability.

"Hear Himself"

"The advantage of the laboratory," says Miss Woodson, "is that each student can hear himself speaking. This is superior to the classroom, where he can hear only what he thinks he sounds like."

A two-track recorder is used. The student listens to the master tape and repeats what he hears. His voice is recorded and the entire tape is played back to the student.

Students spend about one extra hour a week in this lab, assisted by student workers and tape recorders. There are presently two tape recorders in the room. Another recorder will be purchased soon and there are two additional recorders that can be borrowed.

Three types of tapes are being used by the students. One is to be used in connection with the daily lessons in the French workbooks. Another tape utilizes more advanced forms in stories.

The third tape helps students master idiomatic expressions and colloquial terms.

Student Aids

The instructors are all French students. They aid the students in pronunciation and in other technical ways. Art Jensen, a junior in Applied Psychology, was a lab assistant last year. Helping him instruct other students this year are Meri Boyd, Robert Dewell and Ricki Rickman.

Five French classes are being

Films Often Lose Book's Meaning, Speaker Declares

The "true meaning" of a book is often lost in the transition to a movie, the daughter of a noted author said here last week.

However, Mrs. Mariko Terasaki Miller said, this was not entirely the case in her mother's best-selling book, "Bridge to the Sun".

Speaking to the Drama Department, she did say that a "vacuum" had been created when movie producers omitted pertinent political facts documented in the story.

This book, and the movie, is about Mrs. Miller's father, who was Japanese, and her mother, who was American. It describes the difficulties they encountered during World War II.

Considering all cuts made on the master book, Mrs. Miller said that she felt the producers made a very good movie.

Use your wipers in foggy weather to minimize condensation on the windshield. This is especially important at night when a misty windshield also intensified headlights glare.

taught in the day school and three at night. The new laboratory, however, is not only for French students.

It is to be used for all modern languages taught here. Recordings are now available for German and Spanish students. Aids in Russian will soon be available.

The laboratories are still in their infancies, Miss Woodson says. They were used last year, but there was a lack of student interest.

The department has more than doubled its size in the last three years.

Four New Officers Selected by PBL

Four new officers of Phi Beta Lambda were recently selected.

Kenny Spruill, junior Accounting major, is acting business manager, and Norman Hall, senior General Business major, is treasurer.

The first general meeting of the business club elected Shirley Critzer, sophomore Secretarial Science major, SGA representative and Joan Gosis, sophomore General Business major, historian.

Plans for a hayride set for November 3 at the Up and Away Dude Ranch were discussed. Limited to members and guests, the outing will include dancing, horseback riding and a weiner roast.

Additional plans will be made at the next meeting, October 24.

Homecoming Is Scheduled November 4

The RPI Alumni Association will hold its 11th Homecoming Saturday, November 4.

A schedule of planned events follows:

At 8:30 a.m., there will be a breakfast for alumni of the Business school in the dining room of the Chesterfield Apartments. The School of Business will sponsor the breakfast.

Dr. and Mrs. Oliver will host a coffee hour, at the President's home from 10-11:30.

The business meeting will be held at 11:30 in the Shafer Street Playhouse. At 1 p.m., luncheon will be served in the Rotunda.

A social hour for alumni and faculty will be held from 5-8 p.m. at 1800 W. Grace st. The Homecoming dance will be held in the Empire Room of the Jefferson hotel from 9-12:30 p.m. Music will be provided by The Continentals, alumni of the school.

Concert Band Plans October 31 Program

The RPI band will present its first concert of the year at 4 p.m. October 31 on the Shafer Court.

The program will consist of a variety of musical compositions, ranging from the contemporary "Parade of the Charioteers" from the movie "Ben Hur" to a selection from the classical ballet "Sylvia" by Delibes.

Reason is only a tool.

'Harvest Ball' Planned Instead of 'Openings'

The first Student Government Association-sponsored dance of the year, traditionally called "Openings," has been named the "Harvest Ball" this year.

The ball will be held November 4 in the Mosque ballroom from 9 p.m. to 12 midnight. Dress will be semi-formal.

The Collegiates, a dance orchestra from Virginia Polytechnic Institute, will furnish the music.

A feature of the ball will be the crowning of a Harvest Queen. At class meetings, each class will select three candidates for the contest. The Harvest Queen and three attendants will be chosen by ballots marked by persons attending the dance. She will reign over the dance with her court.

The Sophomore class is in charge of planning the dance. Kathy Trainor, a Retailing major, is dance chairman. Members of the dance committee are Sue Clotzman, refreshments; Karen Belding, decorations; Gene Arrington, SGA representative; and Edwin Pernell, treasurer.

Mrs. Fierst, a Retailing professor, also said that dance contests with prizes would be held at the ball.
