

New Rings Are Mailed, On the Way

The RPI Ring committee was notified this week by the representative from the Josten Ring co. that the class rings were shipped from Minnesota May 18-20.

Class rings were scheduled to arrive at students' homes COD beginning today.

Approximately 145 orders were placed last February for men's and women's rings. There will be a balance of $27 and shipping charges to be paid on the women's rings and $45 and shipping charges on the men's rings.

The women's ring is a black onyx in a simple gold band. A school crest designed by the company is cut into the stone in intaglio, a process by which the design is depressed below the surface of the stone so that the image will be in relief. The graduation date and the degree earned will be engraved inside the band.

Men's Ring Called Massive

The men's ring is massive in size. On one shank, the city of Richmond is represented by the motto "Sic Stur Ad Astra" and the city founding date, 1782, derived from the city flag. Above the shield are the crossed flags of the United States and Virginia, flanked by laurel leaves to represent achievement and myrtle leaves to signify friendship. The degree is engraved on the shield.

On the other side of the ring, the motto "We Shall Not Forget" is engraved in Latin, with the graduating class year. The school seal displays Business represented by the world, the Sciences by swirling atoms and the Arts by a palette. Superimposed on the world symbol is the lamp of knowledge over a replica of the Administration Building.

Linda Anne Murphy
New Proscript Editor

Proscript Staff Has Been Named For Fall Semester

Linda Anne Murphy, a junior Journalism major, will be the editor of the Proscript next semester. Linda succeeds Larry E. Prentice, who will graduate in June.

Other appointments announced this week by Jack R. Hunter, head of the Journalism department, include Alberta Lindsey as managing editor, Sandra Beale as news editor and Dave Harvey and Perkins Gormus Jr. as photography co-editors.

Linda, a 20-year-old Berryville resident, is presently an associate editor on the Proscript. Her other journalism experience includes editing the Virginia Methodist Student Movement's newspaper, the Methodist Youth Fellowship's subdistrict publication, and serving as editor of her high school newspaper.

Linda was publicity director for the local Wesley Foundation organization last year, served as a staff member for her high school annual and was public relations secretary last year for the Virginia Methodist Student Movement.

A Dean's list student, Linda will be president of $28 dormitory next year. She won a trip to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago earlier this semester for achievement in a 4-H health program.

Managing Editor

Alberta, a 20-year-old Richmonder, succeeds Sandra L. Turner, who also will graduate in June. Alberta has served both as features editor and drama critic for the Proscript this year.

At Richmond's Highland Springs High School, she was a reporter and feature writer on the school's newspaper staff, was on the yearbook staff and was club editor for the school's handbook.

A junior in Journalism, she has written for the Henrico County Herald and The Richmond News Leader and has had a series of articles published in a national teen-age magazine.

Sandra is a 19-year-old sophomore Journalism major from Ivor. She has served as features editor for both her high school newspaper and for the Proscript. She succeeds graduating Pat Hensley Gray.

Photography Co-Editors

Harvey and Gormus both have records of considerable photographic experience. Succeeding Nick Wise, they will share the post of photography editor.

426 to Graduate

Seniors Gain Diplomas June 9

A record number of seniors will be graduated Sunday, June 9 in the Mosque.

Approximately 426 seniors will participate in the graduation exercises, according to Mrs. Ethel B. Riebe, registrar, and she said that this number may increase as more seniors report to her whether they will take part in the ceremonies.

Seniors who do not participate in the exercises will have their diplomas mailed to them by the college.

Degree applications have been received from 426 students. There are 89 candidates for the Bachelor of Fine Arts degree; 268 Bachelor of Science; 10 Bachelor of Music and Bachelor of Music Education and 49 Masters degrees.

Commencement Speaker

Dr. Joseph Robert, professor of history at the University of Richmond, will address the Senior class, faculty, Administration and guests at the graduation exercises. The Rev. Jack Minnith, minister of the Reveille Methodist Church here will deliver the baccalaureate address Sunday morning.

Dr. Robert was formerly the assistant dean of the graduate school of Duke University; the president of Coker College in Hyattsville, S. C. and the president of Hampden-Sydney College.

Rehearsal for the commencement exercises will be held at 3:30 p.m. on Thursday, June 6 in the Shafer Street Playhouse. All who plan to participate in the exercises are urged to be present.

The baccalaureate service will be held at 11 a.m. June 9 in the Mosque. Graduating students are asked to assemble at 10 a.m. in the ballroom, located in the basement.

A reception for seniors and their parents will be held from 2:30 to 4 p.m. Sunday at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Oliver at 910 W. Franklin st.

Seniors are asked by Mrs. Riebe to assemble at 4 p.m. in the ballroom before the graduation exercises begin at 5 p.m.

After the graduation exercises, caps and gowns must be returned to the ballroom where they will be picked up by school personnel. Seniors who have not yet gotten their caps and gowns will be fitted anytime between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. Monday through Friday in the Housekeeping department, located in the rear of 824 Park ave.

The Senior class recently held a dinner and dance at the Meadowbrook Country Club as a part of their graduation festivities. The class proposed last semester that the exercises be held in the Byrd park amphitheater, but the Administration decided in favor of the Mosque.

Mr. Raymond Hodges, head of the Department of Dramatic Arts, is faculty marshal in charge of graduation exercises.

House of Representatives Names Jim Walton Speaker

The House of Representatives elected as its Speaker for the coming year Jim Walton, a senior Social Science major from Sandston. Walton represents the Social Science and Recreation Club in the House.

Walton won over Art Martin,

German Club representative, who was his only opponent. The vote was Walton, 22; Martin, 4.

This year's election was in great contrast to the fight that developed over the Speaker's chair last year. Due to an extremely close vote and a disagreement on rules, that election dragged on for some days.

Walton took over the chair from out-going Speaker, Dick Duffner, who has served in that position for two years. Duffner graduates this year.

States Function of SGA

The newly elected Speaker stated that "It is the job of the Student Government Association to help raise RPI to a position of respect among other Virginia schools. Next year, the SGA will attempt to field a debate team from this school to compete with other colleges."

"I would like to see the students take more interest in their governing body," said Walton. The House convenes at 5:45 each Wednesday evening and is open to the student body, Administration and faculty.

Members Named To Help Freshmen

Members of the Freshman Advisory Board for 1963-64 have been appointed.

Edwin Purnell, a junior Business major and Mary Katherine Burton, a sophomore in Music, will be co-chairmen for the board. The other new members are Carol Bushnell, a junior in Costume Design, secretary; Kenneth Shutts, a junior in Business, treasurer and Joy Bennett, a junior Interior Design major, Student Government Association representative.

The board's function is to coordinate freshman activities and to advise freshmen throughout the year. The board will be counseled by Dean MacDougall.

Museum Art Exhibit To Conclude Sunday

Sunday will be the last day of the annual spring exhibition of the School of Art at the Valentine museum.

The exhibit, which began May 5 with the "Reflections of the Middle East in Fashion" show by the Department of Costume Design, includes works from the departments of Fine Arts, Commercial Arts, Arts and Crafts and Interior Design.

Displays from the departments of Fashion Illustration and Interior Design are also on exhibit on the first floor of the Administration Building.

Rotten Apples

Not so very long ago people in high authority in the U.S. Post Office Department set out to clean the filth from our nation's news stands. A close look at any of a numerous array of such stands in Richmond will reveal the fact that they failed.

But just in case any of the purchasers of this literature exist in our institute of higher learning, we offer an encouraging note. Don't fret if the government closes your news stands and cuts off your supply of filth. We publish our own little package of vulgarity, the language in which would send some of the dime novelists back to profanity school for a refresher course.

What a shame that an otherwise fine publication had to be corrupt when this year's Image decided to publish a number of selections they labeled "poetry and essays," and we shorten to "trash." Yes, there's no reason to spend good money for sex and profanity. In the Rotunda they're giving it away.

It's too bad that the few rotten apples continue to smell even when you turn the pages to better selections. Even the addition of a superb photographic section can't seem to kill the odor.

It doesn't pay to try and investigate the reasons behind this poor judgment on someone's part, either. We did and found that one student turned in her literary contribution and was quite shocked to find it completely re-edited and changed in the final publication. That sin would be equivalent to the Proscript's changing the wording of a "Letter to the Editor."

But then, not being literary critics, we called on a member of the faculty who we felt much more qualified. We agree he says it better.

The art in the Image he rated as superior and felt it to be a good representation of our Art department. The photography he labeled excellent.

Of the poetry he would only comment, "It's rather uneven. I feel the Image has a need for a more effective and larger literary staff."

This same critic summed it up best when he said, "I feel that this year's Image . . . just didn't quite seem to come off." May we borrow a bit of the sacreligious vein that flowed so freely in this year's literary publication and just say . . . Amen!!

Coed Dormitories

Officers Elected for 1963-'64

Officers of the nine women's dormitories have been elected for 1963-'64.

Judy Kytle, a junior Occupational Therapy major from Hewitt, N. J., is the new president of Founders Hall. Also elected were vice president, Ginny Hamilton, a sophomore majoring in Recreational Leadership from Hamden, Conn.; secretary, Susan Eubank, a freshman Elementary Education major from Falls Church, and treasurer, Linda Heacock, a freshman Retailing major from Hatboro, Pa.

The new president of Meredith House is Sharon Combs, a junior Occupational Therapy major from Mars, Pa. Emily Burke, a sophomore Commercial Art major from Appomattox, is vice president. Secretary is Judy Smithson, a sophomore Distribution major from Victoria. Linda Dix, a freshman Business major from Alexandria, was elected treasurer.

Ritter-Hickok girls elected Sandra Dobson, a junior Commercial Art major from Greensboro, N.C., as their new president. Joyce Lamm, a sophomore Occupational Therapy major from Sinking Springs, Pa., is vice president. Mary Ann Raser, a sophomore from Alexandria who is majoring in Business, was elected secretary. Treasurer is Betsy Phelps, a freshman Interior Design major from Winchester.

Glenn Thomas, a junior Recreational Leadership major from Colonial Beach, is the new president of Sherer Hall. Vice president is Carlie Cameron, a sophomore majoring in Art from Lancaster. Marie Mercogliano, a freshman Occupational Therapy major from Shaw Air Force Base, S. C., is secretary. Treasurer is Carol Scott Bruce, a freshman from Farmville majoring in Interior Design.

President of Lee House will be Delores Campbell, a junior Distribution major from Arlington. Mary Kay Burton, a sophomore Music major from Mathews, will serve as vice president. Secretary will be Frances Bouldin, a freshman Art major from Leaksville. N. C. Cora Belle Davis, freshman Liberal Arts major from Hurt, will be treasurer.

Summer Jobs Wait for Students

By Rick Harrison

"Wine, women and song—with-out much singing" are the (ahem) plans of Richmond, Physics major Sam Scott for the ensuing period of joy and mirth to which most college students fervently look forward—summer.

To the dismay of most RPI students, however, the gilded-with-high-temperatures and heat-over-toned three months will mean either summer school or an uninteresting little paying summer job.

There are a few who have what they termed interesting jobs. Vickie Smith, a Recreational Leadership major from Richmond, is in high hopes of being the head lifeguard at Meadowbridge Country Club in Richmond.

Lee Crenshaw, a Business major from Richmond will take $15 and strong determination with him when he and three cohorts board a freighter in New York and start working their way to Europe. Crenshaw plans a long stay in Sweden.

Coed Answers Questions

"The South shall rise again," claims Mary Kathryn Burton who plans to hostess at the Civil War Centennial Center in downtown Richmond. Mary Kathryn, a Music Education major from Mathews, hopes the questions visitors ask at the center won't be too difficult, such as: "Is it true Harry Byrd will surrender to President Kennedy at Appomattox as a climax to the centennial celebration in Virginia this year?"

In case of breaks, bruises, injuries or any other infirmities Sandy Moll, a Social Work major from Richmond, will be working with Blue Cross. She will take time out for a possible quick trip to St. Louis.

WAF's Appeal to Susie

Susie Schlenk, a Sociology major from Richmond, will join the Women's Air Force and be stationed at Lackland Air Force Base in San Antonio, Texas.

Another Europe-bound student is Jeannie Morrison. The Applied Social Science major from Salem will venture to Germany to work for service families.

Here's a warning to all people with overdue bills and unpaid accounts. Tom Barnett, a Richmond Distributive Education major, will be an investigator for the Retail Credit Association.

'Cave Dwellers' Play Praised by Reviewer

By Alberta Lindsey

A mixture of fantasy and allegory surrounded the Drama department's presentation of William Saroyan's "The Cave Dwellers" last week in the Shafer Street Playhouse.

Woody Eney gave a strong and towering performance as the King, a former music-hall clown now reduced to a faithless beggar. To him the old theater becomes a cave, a home, a church and a hiding place.

Equally well done was Christine Fayle's portrayal of the Queen, a sick aging actress who had once played elegant roles. The Queen pulled herself together for an hour during the play's action to be in the eyes of her beholders, young and beautiful again.

White and Talbot Excel

Garst White was excellent as the Duke, an ex-boxing champion who had nothing left but dreams and memories of better days. Sharon Talbot was particularly outstanding in her heart-warming interpretation of the Girl, a homeless waif. The play is a whimsical study of a group of outcasts living in an abandoned theater on the lower East Side of New York City during a slum-clearing project. "The Cave Dwellers" is cast in an abandoned theater because the author said he feels that all buildings are caves, and the theater is the cave at its best—the last arena in which all is possible.

Patricia Earley and Don Hayes turned in convincing portrayals as the Mother and Father who were befriended by the four "cave dwellers." Hayes was especially praiseworthy in his performance right down to his assumed Hungarian accent, which remained constant.

The small but lovable part of Gorky, an enormous bear, was played by Richard Foltz. Foltz overcame, very nicely, the problem of appearing both bear-like and human at the same time.

John Armstrong (the Silent Boy), Conn Fleming, (the Wrecking Crew Boss) and Samuel Assaid (Jamie) were all satisfactory in their minor roles.

Others appearing in the production were Sandra Mayo, as a woman with a dog; John Arnold, as the young opponent; Frank Garner, as a young man and Elizabeth Nicoll, as the young queen.

Thomas R. Long, assistant professor of Dramatic Art, directed the play. The rag-bag costumes were designed by Miss Agnes David and appropriate sets were created by Richard Higgins. Music for the production was composed by Richard Foltz.

Coeds to Go Abroad For Service Jobs

By Sandra Beale

Two senior Social Science majors will board a plane in Washington on July 11 for a trip which will take them to their jobs in Europe.

Jeanne Morrison from Salem and Katie McKeone from Glen Allen will fly to Heidelberg, Germany, where they will receive assignments which may take them to other areas of Germany or to Italy or France.

In Heidelberg, they will start at least two years of work with the Civilian Employed of the Army with Special Services. Work will be frequently interspersed by trips within their assigned country and to other countries if the opportunities arise.

"Opportunities Unlimited"

"Opportunities unlimited" may be a suitable term to apply to their adventure. The same chance is open to anyone who is interested in working in Europe or the Far East. All it takes is an interview, stacks of applications, character investigations and a physical examination. After final acceptance there is more paper work, "hundreds" of shots, and final preparations before winging off to other lands.

Jeanne and Katie will leave their homes for Washington on July 8 for an orientation period during which they will learn of their duties, responsibilities, requirements and assignments. On July 11 they fly to Heidelberg where they will remain for a short time before being given other assignments.

Work With Enlisted Personnel

They will perform services to enlisted personnel and their families: working with hobby groups, planning social activities such as dances and variety shows, planning tours and doing countless other things in their European "community centers," said Jeanne.

Jeanne and Katie learned of this opportunity for "working travel" from a campus poster last November. A woman representing Civilian Employed of the Army interviewed them and aroused their interest. Preliminary acceptance was followed by a physical examination with the definite formal acceptance arriving in April.

Procedures Are Standard

Qualifications and application methods are standard, said Jeanne. Qualifications include U. S. citizenship; excellent physical and mental health; well-groomed appearance; friendly personality; demonstrated initiative and ability to supervise, instruct, inspire and work successfully with people of varied backgrounds and a minimum age of 21. Persons enrolled in this program must remain for two years unless they have paid their own transportation.

Applications are made on government forms. A civil service rating is given but it is not always necessary to take a written civil service exam.

Other Fields Open

Opportunities are available in the fields of sports, music, drama, crafts, and library sciences in addition to the service club work that Jeanne and Katie will be doing. A degree in an appropriate field is necessary. Since all work will be done with service families, knowledge of a foreign language is not required.

Anything open to military personnel will be available to Jeanne and Katie even though they are civilians. "It is an excellent opportunity to travel," Jeanne said. "We will have access to all of their facilities including libraries and swimming pools. We will also have the opportunity to attend foreign language classes taught by professors for the benefit of military personnel."

Proscript Sports

RPI sports fans will no longer be cheering for the Green Devils. Next year sports teams will have the nickname of the Rams. The colors will also be changed to Blue and Grey.

Athletic director Ed Allen announced that wrestling will probably become a varsity sport next year. Intramural director Dave Magill, who started a wrestling-interest group this year, will coach the team.

Wrestling will become an intramural sport whether it becomes a varsity sport or not. Whether wrestling becomes a varsity sport or not hinges on budget appropriations.

Sixteen games have already been lined up for next year's Ram basketball team. "We'll probably have about eight or 10 more contests," said Coach Allen, Washington and Lee's Generals will appear on the Ram basketball slate for the first time next season. The Rams will also appear in the Seafood Holiday basketball tournament at New Bedford, Mass.

Lynchburg's Hornets, who have left the Mason-Dixon Conference for a smaller conference, have been dropped from next year's basketball schedule. The Rams will have away engagements with Randolph-Macon and Old Dominion and home contests with Roanoke and Hampden-Sydney during the first two weeks of play . . . Pretty tough opening . . . hey!

With Lynchburg leaving the Mason-Dixon Conference, Coach Allen is hoping that the Rams can get in. "I've applied for about seven years in a row . . . however, with the opening, we may get in this time," said Coach Allen.

What did Coach Allen think about the performances of this year's varsity players? "We're definitely getting better . . . but everybody else is to," declared the veteran mentor. "We're handicapped because we can't go out and get any talent," added the Coach. "However, better athletes are coming here in an increasing number," he said.

Attendance at basketball games was the best in several years; however, spectator interest at baseball contests was nil. "If we could just get Monroe Park and turn it into an athletic facility, it would help our program immensely," said Coach Allen. "Students could see the teams play and we could have practice later in the afternoon," said Coach Allen. The Green Devil baseball team was especially handicapped this year by having to use city fields. The team had to practice early in the afternoon, because other teams were using these facilities . . . many players had classes and were unable to attend. Say: That 752, gym wouldn't hurt the athletic program, either.

The Proscript sports editor would like to take this last opportunity to thank men's athletic director, Ed Allen, women's athletic director Nancy Alexander and intramural director Dave Magill for their excellent cooperation. The above mentioned three were ready news sources. To them, goes our best wishes for a successful future.

Devilettes Beat Westhampton In Tennis, 4-1

RPI's Devilette tennis team finished its season Monday with a smashing 4 to 1 win over Westhampton. Thus, the Devilettes finished with a 5-3 record.

In what Coach Nancy Alexander termed the top match of the day, the Devilettes' number one doubles team of Betty Vaughan and Betty Compton smashed Marionette Parker and Dottie Williams, 6-2, 6-1.

Win All Singles

The Devilettes also won all three of the singles matches. In the number one singles match, Dee Dee Dvorak (RPI) defeated Alice Koontz, 3-6, 6-1, 6-2. Jean Hebert, who is the Devilettes' only undefeated player, whipped Barbara Wilkie, 6-4, 4-6, 6-3. And Peggy Major (RPI) downed Caroline Anthony, 6-4, 6-0.

The number two doubles team of Inez Littleton and Gail Miller lost to Westhampton's pair of Jackie Smither and Bonnie Baron, 6-1, 6-3.

Devils Conclude (1-19) Season By Losing 2 to Pembroke State

RPI's baseball team finished a most disastrous season (1-19) Saturday by dropping a twin bill to Pembroke State, 7-0, 13-6.

Although the Green Devils could manage only one win, the prospects for fielding a good team next year or the year after are not too much to hope for.

When Coach Ed Allen looks over the prospects next spring, he will find seven returning "regulars" in which to build the team around. And those regulars compiled a team batting average of .278—not bad for a team which won only one game. The return of catcher C. G. Grizzard, who hit .375 his first year, won't hurt either.

Good Hitting

While there appears to be good hitting strength for next season, if all of the regulars return, pitching and defense are something else.

"We did cut down quite a bit on errors and our pitchers gained more control as the season neared completion; however, we still need a lot of help along these lines if we are to have a respectable team next year," said Coach Allen.

What were Coach Allen's views on this season? "We just seemed to make the wrong play at the right (for the opposition) time," said the Coach.

The Green Devils finished the season with two .300 hitters. Freshman Jerry Harding, who played five of the nine positions and posted the Devils only pitching victory, led the club with a .380 mark. Harding's average was the highest of any Devil hitter in the last three years. Third baseman Tommy Fudala finished at .302; Ed Coffman at .297; Catcher Bill Schwartz, who led the club in homers with four, hit .291; and Stan Barrack posted a .274 average.

MARKING ON THE CURVE—AND WHAT TO DO ABOUT IT

Twonkey Crimscoot was a professor. Choate Sigafoos was a sophomore. Twonkey Crimscoot was keen, cold, brilliant. Choate Sigafoos was loose, vague, adenoidal. Twonkey Crimscoot believed in diligence, discipline, and marking on the curve. Choate Sigafoos believed in elves, Julie London, and thirteen hours of sleep each night.

Yet there came a time when Twonkey Crimscoot—mentor, sage, and savant—was thoroughly outthought, outfought, outmaneuvered, outplayed, and outwitted by Choate Sigafoos, sophomore.

It happened one day when Choate was at the library studying for one of Mr. Crimscoot's exams in sociology. Mr. Crimscoot's exams were murder—plain, flat murder. They consisted of one hundred questions, each question having four possible answers—A, B, C, and D. You had to check the correct answer, but the trouble was that the four choices were so subtly shaded, so intricately worded, that students more clever by far than Choate Sigafoos were often set to gibbering.

So on this day Choate sat in the library poring over his sociology text, his tiny brow furrowed with concentration, while all around him sat the other members of the sociology class, every one studying like crazy, every one scared and pasty. Choate looked sadly at their stricken faces. "What a waste!" he thought. "All this youth, this verve, this bounce, chained to dusty books in a musty library! We should be out singing and dancing and cutting didoes on the greensward! Instead we are here."

Then, suddenly, an absolute gasser of an idea hit Choate. "Listen!" he shouted to his classmates. "Tomorrow when we take the exam, let's all—every one of us—check Choice 'A' on every question—every one of them."

"Huh?" said his classmates.

"Oh, I know that Choice 'A' can't be the right answer to every question," said Choate. "But what's the difference? Mr. Crimscoot marks on the curve. If we all check the same answers, then we all get the same score, and everybody in the class gets a 'C'."

"Huh," said his classmates.

"So why should we knock ourselves out studying?" said Choate. "Let's get out of here and have a ball!"

So they all ran out and lit Marlboro Cigarettes and had a ball, as indeed, you will too when you light a Marlboro, for if there ever was a cigarette to lift the spirit and gladden the heart, to dispel the shades of night, to knot up the ravell'd sleeve of care, to put spring in your gait and roses in your cheeks, it is filtered Marlboros—firm and pure and fragrant and filled with rich, natural, golden tobacco. And, what's more, this darlin' smoke comes in soft packs that are actually soft and flip-top boxes that actually flip.

Well sir, the next morning the whole class did what Choate said, and, sure enough, they all got 'C's, and they picked Choate up and carried him on their shoulders and sang "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow" and plied him with sweetmeats and Marlboros and girls and put on buttons which said "I DOTE ON CHOATE."

But they were celebrating too soon. Because the next time shrewd old Mr. Crimscoot gave them a test, he did not give them one hundred multiple choice questions. He only gave them one question—to wit: write a 30,000 word essay on "Crime Does Not Pay."

"You and your ideas," they said to Choate and tore off his epaulets and broke his sword and drummed him out of the school. Today, a broken man, he earns a living as a camshaft in Toledo.

High School Bands Hold Festival Here

A Stage Bands Festival clinic, the first of its kind in the state, will be held for high school bands from 8:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. tomorrow in the Gymnasium.

At the close of the afternoon session, several of the top bands will be chosen to present a concert and dance for all RPI students tomorrow night. This will begin at 8 p.m. in the Gymnasium.

Sponsored by the Music Education department in cooperation with Jacobs Music Store, the clinic will feature Buddy DeFranco, who has played with several dance bands, including that of Tommy Dorsey.

Fourteen high school bands will participate. Included are bands from the following high schools:

New School Rings Are Set to Arrive On Campus Today

An Ionic column and capitals form the band. On either side are the laurel and myrtle leaves. The crenellated inner frame symbolizes the top of a fortress, suggesting the martial history of the state.

The seal used on the rings is not the official school seal because there is no official school seal at this time.

The Ring committee urges anyone who finds any fault with in his ring to write to Josten's or mail the ring back to the manufacturers.

Murphy to Head Proscript Staff For Next Year

Harvey is a 19-year-old freshman from Virginia Beach. He has worked on the Virginia Beach bureau of the Norfolk Ledger-Star. Richmond newspapers have also used his work.

Gormus is a veteran of two years in the Navy, where he served as co-editor of the base newspaper at Patuxent, Maryland. The 23-year-old Richmonder is a sophomore in Journalism, entering the department after a year as a photography major.

Several navy publications have carried work by Gormus, as have the Richmond newspapers.

Mr. Hunter also announced that Joan Tolsen, a Business major, will continue next semester as business manager.

Grange Hall, Douglas Freeman, Manchester, Highland Springs, George C. Marshall, Prince George, Hampton, Fairfax, Lexington, Robert E. Lee, Herndon, Sidney Lanier Intermediate School, John D. Bassett and Cave Springs.

Each band will perform three numbers of contrasting style: ballad, swing, Latin or novelty. DeFranco will work with each band for a period of 20 minutes, directing, offering suggestions and answering questions.

At a luncheon meeting from 12 to 1:30 p.m., DeFranco will talk on the organization and literature for stage band groups. Following the luncheon will be a demonstration by the RPI college stage band under DeFranco's direction, playing special arrangements.

At the close of the afternoon session DeFranco will select four or five bands to give a half-hour concert and dance for all RPI students at 8 p.m. in the Gymnasium.

Donald B. Tennant, head of Music Education, is coordinator for the festival.

Advisor Is Named For Campus ISU

J. Terrence Morrison, assistant professor of Chemistry, has been appointed advisor to the campus International Students Union (ISU).

The union was organized by Mrs. Bette Riesmeyer, a former member of the English faculty, in October, 1962.

According to Mrs. Riesmeyer, the club is "to provide a source of socializing between foreign and American students." The club is open to both American and foreign students.

The ISU attempts to provide foreign students with the opportunity to gain better understanding of American customs, familiarize them with the language and provide an opportunity to expand cultural horizons here.

Another aim is to serve to improve international communication and understanding for both students at RPI and the entire Richmond area.

Articles at Switchboard

The school's switchboard operator reported this week that numerous articles of clothing, books, eyeglasses, etc. have been turned in to her. She requests students who might be interested to please check the articles before the end of the semester.

Fleming Elected

Conn Fleming, a junior Drama major from Clintwood, has been elected president of the Theater Associates.

Other officers are: Don Hayes, junior, vice president; Sandra Mason, a freshman, secretary; Agnes Brown, a sophomore, treasurer; Hendree Fitzgerald, a freshman, Student Government Association representative and Sam Assaid, a freshman, alternate SGA representative and parliamentarian. The students are all Drama majors.

Six Drama Students Join Summer Theater

Six Drama students and a former RPI student have been asked to join the Millbrook Playhouse, inc. in Mill Hall, Pa., for the summer season. The appointments were announced by Thomas R. Long, assistant professor of Dramatic Art here and managing director of the playhouse.

a 1962 graduate of the Drama department.

The Millbrook Playhouse is a summer theater operating on a stock basis, explained Mr. Long. "This will be the group's first season," he said, "and we will do eight plays in nine weeks."

Jean, Murdaugh, Eney, and Davis will be part of a nine-member acting company. They were selected from about 200 actors auditioned by Mr. Long in New York and at the South Eastern Theater Conference in Tennessee.

Assaid and Armstrong will be serving as apprentices and Straus will be master electrician and stage manager.
