Upperclassman Puts Freshmen in Proper Place, Their Rats' Nest

Participants in Nestling Team Are Roy L. King and Cheryl Godfrey. Gerald Conner Watches.

RPI Rats Seek Revenge Today

Today, it's the Rats' turn. Freshman students who have participated in initiation activities this week now have the upper hand. It is their turn to call the plays, and the juniors, who have been bossing the freshman (Rats) must obey orders. Today is Turn-Around day, and traditionally brings Rat Week to a close. The climax of the week of tomfoolery comes tomorrow night at 8:30 in the gymnasium when the Rat King and Queen are crowned to reign over the Rat Dance. Admission is free.

The 10 members of the Junior class who comprise Rat Court will choose as king and queen a freshman boy and girl to symbolize sportsmanship and school spirit. They will be chosen on the basis of their attitude and participation in Rat Week.

Members of Rat Court are Judy Hewitt, Distributive Education; DeLores Matthews, Interior Design; Beverly Hill, Psychology; Lin Turner, Retailing; Ginny Hamilton, Occupational Therapy; Tom Fine, Business Education; Crawford Hamersley, Advertising; Howard Snook, Retailing; Bill Sherard, Music and Gordon Russell, Commercial Art.

Rat Court, and members of the Junior class who have paid their dues, have been keeping the freshman busy this week.

Judy Hewitt, president of the Junior class and head of Rat Court, said, "Those who have participated in Rat Week have done real well. They have been great sports."

Judy will probably be a prime target for the Rats today, since she has been one of the chief reasons that freshman students show up for classes with lipstick, peanut butter and whipped cream on their faces. Rats have had to carry "rat packs" with them all week. These include items such as cigarettes and matches for the benefit of upperclassmen. They also include cocked mouse traps and raw eggs (signed by five persons).

Rats have been trying to make up to Mr. Bigger for the confusion they cause in the cafeteria by holding up the walls of the dining room with their noses. Further services on Mr. Bigger's behalf have been performed by trios who occupy the table under the clock in the cafeteria. One coed says "tick", another says "tock", and the third pops up between them every minute, on the minute, to cuckoo and call out the exact time, so that no one will have to bother watching the clock.

Taught Drama

New Dean of Men States Views

At least one member of the administrative staff of RPI puts his views squarely on the line about the increasing emphasis on this college's role as a community college. Thomas C. Holloway, who took over this fall as Acting Dean of Men, has this to say: "I only hope that RPI doesn't lose the idea of a professional school."

Dean Holloway, who succeeded Richard E. MacDougall in the administrative role, was asked his views upon his return to Richmond after two years' absence. A regular member of the faculty of the Department of Dramatic Art and Speech, he has been away for work on his doctoral degree. He holds the rank here of assistant professor of drama and speech.

Commenting on RPI's expansion, Dean Holloway said he regards this as exciting.

"The student body has improved in all areas," he declared.

Discussing the Department of Dramatic Art and Speech, he digressed a bit to offer this view on RPI's future:

"I believe that RPI is superior because it offers more variety. Thus the student is well-rounded

Butterfield Hired For Harvest Ball

By Sam Shield

The "Golden Trumpet" of Billy Butterfield and his orchestra will furnish the music for the Harvest Ball, the first big dance of the year, sponsored jointly by the Sophomore class and the Student Government Association.

The dance will be held from 9 p.m. to midnight Friday, November 16, in the Mosque ballroom.

Butterfield is currently on tour in Ohio and New York and has recently released a new album for Columbia records entitled "Big Golden Trumpet." Butterfield's album "Billy Butterfield meets Ray Conniff" was a best seller last year.

The 1961 and 1962 Playboy Jazz Poll rated Butterfield's group among the nation's top three bands on the jazz scene.

Preparations for the dance are under way and all persons interested in helping may contact Dean Sissler, Sophomore class president, or Russell Thompson, SGA president, in his office on the third floor of 930 Park ave.

Committees Named

Dance committees for the Harvest Ball have been selected.

Alois Alford, Fashion Illustration major from Richmond, is chairman of the refreshments committee. Carol Jacobs, Arts and Crafts major from Philadelphia, Penn., heads the publicity committee, while John Keys, Advertising major from Greenville, S. C. and Dean Sissler, Distributive Education major from Arlington are in charge of the clean-up committee. Cathy Canady, Commercial Arts major from Alexandria is chairman of the theme committee.

Harvest Queen

A highlight of the ball will be the crowning of a harvest queen. Each class will select three representatives to compete for the title, and the queen will be chosen by a vote of those who attend the dance.

Tickets for the dance will cost $4 per couple without a Dance club card. Dance club cards cost $8 which includes $2 class dues or $6 if dues have been paid.

The Dance club sponsors three major SGA dances: Openings (the Harvest Ball), Mid-Winters and the May Dance. One Dance club card covers all dances.

It is hoped that Butterfield will give a special concert the afternoon of the dance in the gymnasium, but interest will have to be shown before arrangements can be made, said Thompson.

'Wild Strawberries' To be Shown Today

"Wild Strawberries," the first of 10 films planned this year by the Art Film Society, will be shown at 4:30 and 7 p.m. today in Hibbs 303 and again at 8 p.m. in Hibbs 403.

"Wild Strawberries," by Ingmar Bergman, is the story of an old man trying to recapture his youth. The film was selected to be shown here because it is an example of an effort to make a film a work of art, said Mr. Bernard Martin, an instructor in the Fine Art department and faculty advisor for the Film Society.

The other films to be shown are: "Forbidden Fruit," October 18; "The Magnificent Seven," November 15; "Orpheus," December 13; "The World of Apu," January 10; "Bicycle Thief," February 14; "All Quiet on the Western Front," March 6; an evening of surrealist films, April 3; "The Seventh Seal," April 24 and "The Rules of the Game," May 15.

Registration Totals Show Record Gains

Total enrollment for RPI day and night schools is 5,527, according to Mrs. Ethel B. Riebe, registrar. This is an increase of 328 over last year's enrollment.

A breakdown of the enrollment figure shows 2,275 full-time day students, 622 part-time day students, and 2,630 registered in evening courses which is an increase of 54 over last semester's Evening College total.

A few more late registrations may come in, Mrs. Riebe said, but registration for practical purposes is now complete.

The period for dropping or adding a class ends today.

Many of the students included in the night-time registration number are full-time and part-time day students.

Bo Peep Go Home

The new name for our athletic teams is the Rams, we admit sheepishly.

Bah.

Of all the animals there are to choose from, one wonders (and justly) how we came to this point of despair where we must speak of our brawny and crafty sportsmen as male sheep.

We have never, no never, seen a ram ramble down Shafer st. at noon or any other time of day. We have not even heard rumors about a large male sheep with gnarled horns being quartered in the offices of the administration. Most students do not develop fetishes for Ramshead Ale. We do not even have any ramshackle buildings on our campus. (Do we?) Of course there are always the more daring students, the rambunctious ones, but they are in the minority. So we see no reason why sentimentality should have led to our local heroes being thus mortified.

Of course we had to change. We were the Green Devils. When one grows up and becomes a sturdy, independent college one must change something. So we have changed the school colors from Green and Gold to Blue and Gray. This seems reasonable since the centennial swirl is all about us, here in the historic capital of the late great Confederacy.

Simultaneously with the departure of the colors came an increasing awareness of our image, how we looked to society. Obviously we could not be devils any more. Devils are noted for nastiness, and no such charge must blemish our name.

At least we haven't become Snakes-in-the-Grass, or Road Hogs, or Bookworms, or Booze Hounds, and for these blessings we must all render a great parcel of thanks. But we must also look into the future and see where this merry malice of identifying ourselves as Rams will lead.

We will be mentioned in future printings of A Nation of Sheep.

It will be easier for opposing teams to pull the wool over our eyes.

The teams will have to watch out for German shepherds in the crowd.

Sports headlines in every major paper will pun-ish us after every game by speaking of the Battering Rams.

No one seems to have thought about what this will do to the women's athletic teams here. What will they be called? Ram is definitely a male designation. A ewe is a female sheep. Now the women's teams will become the Ewes. Their boyfriends will be called "Ewe's guys." After all this time we must give up our soft Southern accents and use Northern slang.

All these things are sad indeed, but the most tragic of all is the expense to the cheerleaders for new and appropriate uniforms. Bo Peep outfits are hard to come by.

Off Limits Parking Areas Cited

The Grove Avenue Baptist Church reminds students who drive that there are certain areas around the church where students are not permitted to park.

These areas which students have been parking in are located around the church building itself. Parking spaces for students are provided in the front and rear of the church educational building between Harrison st. and Linden st.

Hahn Appointed SGA Secretary

The Student Government Association last week appointed Claudia Hahn, a Sophomore Business Education major from Lynchburg, as corresponding secretary for the 1963-64 school term. Claudia replaces Anita Marr who did not return this year.

SGA President Russ Thompson announced that SGA tests will be given to members of the Senate and House of Representatives at 6 p.m. Monday and at 5:30 p.m. Tuesday.

The tests are given to members of the student congress to provide an insight to the workings of student government and a clearer interpretation of the constitution. Members of the House and Senate must score successfully on the test to maintain their seats in the upper or lower house.

Several new committees were appointed. The Finance - Scholarship committee is headed by Rick Harrison, SGA treasurer. Also on the committee are Carol Bushnell, Freshman Advisory board representative; Dean Sissler, Sophomore class president; and Cathy Canady, Sophomore class senator. Frank Britt will be in charge of publicity.

Navy Is Recruiting

A naval officer information team will be in the Rotunda from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. Monday to interview students interested in obtaining commissions in the US Navy.

The officer qualification test, a mental examination for the Naval Officer Candidate School program, will be administered to interested juniors and seniors at any time convenient to the students.

Image Wants Carbon Copies Of Creative Contest Writings

Editors of Image, the school literary and art magazine, urge potential authors to enter a creative writing contest and submit a copy of the entry to Image, so that the work will be available to the magazine staff.

The creative writing contest, sponsored by the American Association of University Women, begins Tuesday and runs through December 31. It will be open to non-professional writers of Virginia. Categories include poetry, stories for children, short stories and non-fiction.

Ron Oakley, manager of the literary and art magazine, requests students entering this contest to prepare a carbon copy of their work for possible publication in the Image.

Ruth Meyer, poetry editor, said this week that the staff is seeking contributions in poetry, fiction, non-fiction and art from all departments of the college. Students submitting copy to the Image can place it in the box provided on the main floor of the Administration Building.

A portfolio will be placed at the switchboard in the Administration Building for those students who wish to contribute art work.

Ruth said the staff is planning to publish two issues of the Image this year. Deadline for submissions to the first issue is October 21 and distribution will be in early January, she said.

The college allotted $1,500 for publication of the first issue but it will have to be good enough to show a worthiness for an additional allotment and a second issue.

Levens to Speak Here

Miss Dorothy Levens, associate professor of child study and director of a pre-school education program at Vassar College, will speak here Saturday, October 5, at a meeting sponsored by the Association of Childhood Education and Richmond Professional Institute.

 Swiss Miss Comes to RPI for OT Course

Coed From Switzerland Was Homesick for USA

By Randolph Goode

The School of Occupational Therapy has among its students a vivacious coed from Switzerland, Gertrud Daeniker, who prefers to be called Trudi.

Trudi comes from Zurich, which is about the size of Richmond and is the largest city in Switzerland.

Trudi, who speaks both French and German fluently, has been in this country only a short time. However, she has traveled through most of the North, South, and Southwestern parts of the United States. She says that New Hampshire, which reminds her of Switzerland, along with Texas and Tennessee, are her favorite states.

"Americans are very helpful to a traveler," she commented. Trudi visited America once before, stayed a brief while and returned to Switzerland. However, she became "homesick" for the USA and decided to return and study here. Trudi's parents and older brother and sister remained in Switzerland.

For hobbies, Trudi likes swimming, photography and traveling. She enjoys American folk singing.

Trudi recalls one distinct difference between America and Switzerland, that being the drugstores. In Switzerland, she says, drugstores sell only drugs. In America she found everything in the drugstore.

Another important difference, she says, is that students in Switzerland take their studies more seriously than do Americans. In Switzerland, students finish school at ages from 14 to 16. They attend school approximately 10 months of the year. Trudi plans to work in occupational therapy in Switzerland after she is graduated.

'Welcome To RPI'

Last Year's Athletic Team Surveyed for Performance

For the benefit of those who are new to RPI, here is a brief summary of last year's athletics.

The first major sport of the school is basketball. Last season's team was expected to be the best in RPI history. The team boasted three strong returnees in George Shaheen, a Junior Business major, Bobby Muse and Jimmy Jones, plus one of the best benches to play at RPI.

The Devils won their first six home games and eight of their first 12 outings. But later in the season, the defenses collapsed and they lost their last four games, finishing with a 12-12 record.

In baseball, RPI's only other major varsity sport, the Green Devils finished with a more disastrous 1-19 record.

The Devils' lone win was a 7-6 come-from-behind effort over Randolph-Macon College. The win came as a surprise, especially to Coach Allen, who was forced for personal reasons to leave the game after the fifth inning with the score 6-1 in favor of Randolph-Macon.

RPI scores six runs in the bottom of the ninth inning on a grand-slam home run by Ed Coffman and a two-run homer by Bill Schwartz.

Coach Allen said the outlook for next spring is somewhat more hopeful. If all the expected players return, he will have seven experienced "regulars," who last season compiled a .278 batting average. Included is C. G. Grizzard, a Senior Physical Education major, who missed action last year because of a broken arm, but the year before hit .375 in his first year of college baseball.

Policemen Study

Mrs. Lois Washer, head of the Sociology Department, reported today that there are 10 policemen enrolled in a new law enforcement class here, nine in the Evening College and one as a day student. The hope is that a proposed two-year curriculum in law enforcement will be approved by the Board of Visitors and by the State Council on Higher Education.

This week the Committee on Education is studying the proposed curriculum and will report to the Board of Visitors. After the Board has studied and approved it, the curriculum will be presented to the Council.

All 10 policemen enrolled are working full-time on the Richmond city force.

United Givers Fund To Campaign Here

Monday, October 14, will mark the start of the campus United Givers Fund campaign. The campaign will continue through November 1.

Pledge cards will be distributed to the faculty, staff and dormitory managers, according to Dr. Donald B. Tennant, professor of Music, who is heading the drive. Any day student who wishes to contribute should turn his money in to the cashier's office.

Musical Work Wins Contest

Daniel E. Tucker of Chicago, a graduate student at the American Conservatory of Music, is the winner of the orchestral composition competition sponsored by the School of Music here.

The composition is entitled "Chamber Symphony" and consists of three movements.

Mr. Tucker has had three other works performed in the past: "Trio for Violin, Cello and Piano;" a ballet, "Hopscotch" and "Incidental Music for Henry IV, Part I."

After a preliminary judging of scores by members of the RPI contest committee, five scores were sent to William Bergsma for final judging. Mr. Bergsma is a composer who is now head of the music school at the University of Washington. He was formerly associate dean at Eastman School of Music. Mr. Bergsma stated that the five scores submitted to him were of such uniform excellence that he had a hard time judging them.

The winner, Mr. Tucker, receives $300 as a prize for his composition. It is expected that this work will be performed by the RPI Symphony Orchestra in its spring concert.

RPI Rings on Sale Monday in Rotunda

School rings will be on sale September 30 through October 4 in the Rotunda, the RPI Ring committee announced this week.

Juniors are eligible to purchase rings. Seniors who did not buy rings last year also may place orders at this time.

A representative of the Josten Ring Co. will be in the Rotunda Monday to help students select rings. He will also talk with any student who is dissatisfied with last year's purchase.

The men's rings sell for $55 and the women's for $32. A $10 deposit is required on the men's ring and a $5 deposit for the women's ring.

The rings will be delivered COD in February and should arrive in time for the ring ceremony at the annual "4-winters dance."

Orders will be taken again in February for delivery in May.

Wrestling Draws 19

Nineteen students turned out for the first meeting of the RPI wrestling team.

At least six matches have been definitely set up, and one more may be added.

Practice will be held at 4 p.m. each Monday and Wednesday in Rooms D and E of the Gymnasium.

For additional information see Dave Magill, coach for the team.

Wrestling, which was introduced last year at RPI in the form of an interest group, will become a varsity sport for 1963-64.

Singers Are Lined Up For SGA Folk Festival

The Student Government Association announced plans last week for a Folk Festival at 8 p.m. October 18 in the gymnasium.

Headlining the program will be the Newton Thomas Trio, a jazz group that has appeared in major cities on the eastern seaboard.

Other performers will be the Villagers, a folk group from the University of Richmond that has appeared in local folk singing shows and Rita D'Amico, an RPI Art Education major in her sophomore year. The Sleepy Glen Singers from Randolph-Macon College in Ashland, will also appear in the show. Several other of the folk performers have yet to be contacted, stated Rick Harrison, SGA treasurer.

Proceeds from the Folk Festival will be applied to the scholarship fund, a student financial aid project.

Tickets for the festival are available at Miller & Rhoads or Thalhimers, and the Rotunda.

THE DEAN YOU SAVE MAY BE YOUR OWN

Colleges are complicated and bewildering places, filled with complicated and bewildering people. Today let us examine one of the most complicated and bewildering—yet fetching and lovable—of all campus figures. I refer, of course, to the dean of students.

Policeman and confessor, shepherd and seer, warden and oracle, proconsul and pal—the dean of students is all of these. How, then, can we understand him? Well sir, perhaps the best way is to take an average day in the life of an average dean. Here, for example, is what happened last Thursday to Dean Killjoy N. Dampier of the Duluth College of Belles Lettres and Penninean.

At 6 a.m. he woke, dressed, lit a Marlboro, and went up on the roof of his house to remove the statue of the Founder which had been placed there during the night by high-spirited undergraduates.

Dean, Policeman, Confessor, Shepherd, Seer...etc.

At 7 a.m. he lit a Marlboro and walked briskly to the campus. (The Dean had not been driving his car since it had been placed on the roof of the girls dormitory by high-spirited undergraduates.)

At 7:45 a.m. he arrived on campus, lit a Marlboro and climbed the bell tower to remove his secretary who had been placed there during the night by high-spirited undergraduates.

At 8 a.m. he reached his office, lit a Marlboro, and met with E. Pluribus Ewbank, editor of the student newspaper. Young Ewbank had been writing a series of editorials urging the United States to annex Canada. When the editorials had evoked no response, he had taken matters into his own hands. Accompanied by his society editor and two proofreaders, he had gone over the border and conquered Manitoba. With great patience and several Marlboro Cigarettes, the Dean persuaded young Ewbank to give Manitoba back. Young Ewbank, however, insisted on keeping Winnipeg.

At 9 a.m. the Dean lit a Marlboro and met with Robert Penn Sigafoos, president of the local Sigma Chi chapter, who came to report that the Deke house had been put on top of the Sigma Chi house during the night by high-spirited undergraduates.

At 10 a.m. the Dean lit a Marlboro and went to umpire an intramural softball game on the roof of the law school where the campus baseball diamond had been placed during the night by high-spirited undergraduates.

At 12 noon the Dean had a luncheon meeting with the prexy, the bursar, and the registrar, at the bottom of the campus swimming pool where the faculty dining room had been placed during the night by high-spirited undergraduates. Marlbors were passed after luncheon, but not lighted, owing to dampness.

At 2 p.m., back in his office, the Dean lit a Marlboro and received the Canadian Minister of War who said unless young Ewbank gave back Winnipeg, the Canadian army would march against the U.S. immediately. Young Ewbank was summoned and agreed to give back Winnipeg if he could have Moose Jaw. The Canadian Minister of War at first refused, but finally consented after young Ewbank placed him on the roof of the metallurgy building.

At 3 p.m. the Dean lit a Marlboro and met with a delegation from the student council who came to present him with a set of matched luggage in honor of his fifty years' service as dean of students. The Dean promptly packed the luggage with all his clothing and fled to Utica, New York, where he is now in the aluminum siding game.

Students in Aerospace Plan to Fly to Colorado

Approximately 15 students from the Evening College's Aerospace Education class will leave Byrd Airport tomorrow for a field trip to the Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs.

Charles Sherman, class instructor and the principal of Patrick Henry Elementary School, will accompany the students. Several other interested persons also will make the trip.

Mr. Sherman said the group will travel in a troop carrier C-119 Flying Boxcar flown by the Maryland National Guard. They are scheduled to arrive in Chicago in the late afternoon and in Colorado Springs Sunday afternoon. On Monday they will be transported to the Air Force Academy where they will be guests of the commandant and conducted on a tour of the Academy. They will return to Richmond Tuesday.

For educators and interested business people, Mr. Sherman said, this will be an excellent opportunity to study first-hand the curricula offerings and actual operation of the Academy.

Aerospace Education, taught on Thursday evenings at John B. Cary elementary school, is sponsored jointly by RPI and the Civil Air Patrol, an auxiliary of the Air Force.

Reception Is Tonight

Members of Phi Beta Lambda, the campus business fraternity, will hold a reception from 7 to 10 o'clock tonight in the Rotunda.

The functions and responsibilities of the club will be explained to Freshmen Business students who wish to attend.

Ham sandwiches and soft drinks will be served.

Two Tobacco Festival Princesses Continue RPI Beauty Tradition

Dorcas Campbell, RPI's contributor to the Miss America pageant, may have graduated, but the college can still hold its own in the beauty line.

Two coeds are getting ready to vie for the crown of queen of the 15th Annual National Tobacco Festival which begins September 28 and continues through October 5.

Sandra Manley, Miss Powhatan and Marianne Walker, Miss Brookneal, will begin a week of festival activities at 10 a.m. Wednesday when they move into the John Marshall hotel, official headquarters for the Tobacco Festival princesses.

One of the 28 princesses will be chosen as queen. Her prizes include her crown, a tour of "tobaccoland," personal appearances during a one-year reign and a $1,000 scholarship.

Twenty-year-old Sandra, a Junior Elementary Education major from Powhatan, says that she is "... not really excited now, but I know I will be by next week."

The 5'2" green-eyed, brown-haired Miss Powhatan received her title in a Labor Day contest sponsored by the Powhatan Garden Club.

She will sing in the princesses' talent show at 8 o'clock Thursday evening in the Mosque. Sandra also plays the piano and the flute.

Miss Brookneal, an 18-year-old Freshman Business major from Charlotte Court House, says that she is quite excited already.

"I almost didn't make it," she said. "The sponsors of the Brookneal contest didn't know that I was to be in the Tobacco Festival until approximately five weeks before the festival was to begin. Of course I had hoped since June when I received my title that I would participate in the 'big' pageant. I had a lot of preparations to make in a hurry for the festival before I came to school," Marianne explained.

Brunette Miss Brookneal, who is 5'6" tall, also plans to sing in the princesses' talent show. She has selected "Mr. Wonderful" from the musical comedy of the same name as her presentation for the judges.

Marianne plans to wear a blue gown in the talent show. "All princesses are required to wear pastel gowns on Thursday night and white gowns for the ball on Saturday night," she added.

The Tobacco Festival Grand Ball honors the princesses and the 1964 Tobacco Queen. She will be crowned at half-time ceremonies Saturday at the University of Maryland versus Duke University football game in City Stadium. Kick-off time for the game is noon.

Oriental Art Revised As Night School Class

A number of new courses ranging from Oriental Art, which is being taught again after a lapse of several years, to courses in Play Production, Display and Food Distribution, are being offered in the Evening College.

A special course in Scientific German will be held for those who wish research and who need to become acquainted with the technical side of the language.

Students of Engineering will be enrolled in several new classes. Statics, which covers concepts of force, mass, space and time, etc., and Dynamics, the study of Coplanar and three-dimensional kinematics and kinetics of particles and rigid bodies; are two.

English Courses

For students of English there are two new courses, Technical Report Writing, American Literature, Sociology Through Literature and English for Foreign Students. This last course is designed to meet the needs of foreign professionals, such as Cuban refugees, who have studied on a college level in their own language.

Especially for Americans who are planning trips to Europe is Language for European Travel. This is a non-credit course, giving instruction in conversational German, French, Italian, Russian or Spanish.

Another non-credit course, Beginning Strings, is for those interested in cello and violin.

Mr. Fuller said further that RPI will offer Driver Education for high school instructors who are required to have certification.

On the graduate level is Theory of Accounting, which will be taught by Dave Willis, head of the Accounting Department.

Melvin E. Fuller, Director of the Evening College, announced that Miss Etta Rose Bailey, retired principal of Richmond's Maury Elementary School, will teach a course called Administration and Supervision in Elementary Education. This will be taught once a week on Thursday at 7 p.m.

Full-time students who were enrolled here last year and did not get their copy of the Cobblestone, the college yearbook, may pick them up when they have their pictures taken for this year's annual.

The Cobblestone office is on the second floor of 824 Park ave.

Appointment cards will be mailed to those who filled them out during registration. Students should receive them a few days before their picture is scheduled.

The type of outfit to be worn will be printed on these appointment cards. Daniel P. Small, Cobblestone business manager, said it is especially important that senior boys wear white dress shirts.

Full-time graduate students who have not made their picture appointments must do so before October 4 in the Cobblestone office.

Business Department Begins 7 New Classes

The School of Business is offering seven new courses this year.

These include a Management Seminar, Readings and Cases in Personnel Administration, Intermediate Economics, Economic History of Europe, Personal and Family Finance, a second semester of Business Statistics, International Economics and Economic History of the United States.

The Management Seminar consists of talks with supervisory personnel, trips to local businesses, improvement of speaking ability and leadership techniques, and the thorough study of training films for industry and business.

Readings and Cases in Personnel Administration is a seminar on management with emphasis on the problems of supervising business and industrial firms. Such items as cases that show the problems in labor-management relations, management and employee training, and readings that deal with human aspects of supervision are included in the course.

Personal and Family Finance is designed to help individuals and families in making difficult financial decisions and judgments. Units of instruction include managing money, credit and its use, and investments.

In addition, business students are to take two full years of English and more work in both history and political science.

Also new is a graduate program which allows more concentration in business management fields.

For the first time students may major in economics. This would include work in the fields of history, natural and physical sciences, political history, and language. The purpose of this line of study is to equip the student for graduate work and enable him to enter business careers with a broad background in economics.

New courses offered in economics are Intermediate Economics, Economic History of Europe, Economic History of the United States, and International Economics.

Intermediate Economics is a detailed analysis of income, wage, value, and growth theories.

Economic History of Europe concerns the current European problems due to economic factors which have contributed to their development.

Economic History of the United States analyzes the various economic factors that have contributed to the development of the American economy.

International Economics is a study of the theories of international trade and financial relationships.

Baptists Plan Social

RPI students are invited to attend a student-fellowship reception at 5 p.m. Sunday night at Tabernacle Baptist Church, Grove at Meadow sts.

There will be a variety program and a chicken supper. Reservations, which must be in by 5 p.m. today, can be made by calling EL 5-0134.

Young Democrats Practice Politics

"Some of the principal aims of the Young Democrats club are to initiate interest in politics and to promote participation by the students in political matters," said Ken Shuts, vice-president of the YDC.

Tuesday, the officers were guests of the William Byrd club, a civic club composed of Democratic party members, at a dinner held in the William Byrd hotel.

Debates between the YDC and various Republican clubs in the area are being scheduled for the future. The club is planning to have speakers from the Virginia House of Delegates and the Senate. A trip to Washington during the football season to see the Redskins play might also be conducted.

Although only 15 members returned from last year, the club enrollment has increased to 98 members.

Meetings will be held between 6:30 and 7:30 the Second and Fourth Sunday. The location of the meetings will be announced later.

Senior Art Majors Set up Displays

Art work by Grant Parrish and Bruce Velsor, Senior Commercial Art majors, is being displayed on the second floor of the Commercial Art Building.

Included are ink drawings of a 1963 Ford, the main tower atop the Mosque on Park ave., an armored knight and a freight train. There are also photographs of a sign titled "James River," an engine block, a dog, two flowers, a girl and a RPI dormitory after a heavy storm. A charcoal facsimile of Durer's "Hands" done by Grant Parrish is also featured.

Except for part of Bruce Velsor's collection of pictures representing the four seasons, and Grant Parrish's photographs of Richmond, all the works are from class assignments and projects over a three-year period.
