Committee Is Studying Social Life

A committee to explore the present social and recreational facilities on campus and to work out a better social program for students met Monday. It will present its recommendations to the Board of Visitors at its meeting on March 24.

Appointed by the Rector when the ban on student fraternities and sororities was announced, the committee has no power to take any action of its own. It is composed of students, alumni, faculty, administration and board representatives.

Two of the suggestions which came up in the committee meeting have already been acted upon by the cafeteria and the Student Government Association.

One of the needs the committee cited was the lack of a place on campus where dormitory students could buy something to eat for the Sunday evening meal. The cafeteria has been closing at 2 p.m. on Sundays.

Yesterday, officials announced that the cafeteria will be open from 4:30-6:30 on Sundays until spring vacation.

The SGA acted this week on another of the committee's ideas. They appointed two students from each class to serve on a central social activities committee which will organize immediately. Three faculty members will also be on it.

This central committee will attempt to help students plan activities within existing space, to coordinate social events and to help promote more successful activities.

Next Friday Is Deadline For Image Contributions

Contributions for the spring issue of Image, the school creative magazine, must be turned in before next Friday at either the Image office, 930 Park ave., or the Administration Building switchboard.

This does not include entries for the cover design contest; no deadline has been set for this competition yet.

The magazine staff has announced a contest for the best cover design. The design will be chosen by the members on the basis of originality and creativity.

Cover entries must be 9"x11", must have two colors, and must

Job Interviews Set

Representatives of the Pure Oil Company and the Atlantic Refining Company will be on campus next month to interview students interested in trainee programs.

Interview appointments may be made in Office 15 of the Gymnasium Building. Interviews will be held in the east parlor of Ritter-Hickock Dormitory.

The Pure Oil Company's representative will be here Tuesday.

On March 10, a representative from the Atlantic Refining Company will be here to talk with any seniors interested in management positions.

Musical Opens Wednesday in Shafer Street Playhouse

"Little Mary" Opens Wednesday In Playhouse for Four-Night Run

"Little Mary Sunshine," the Drama department's musical production, will open at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Shafer Street Playhouse for a four-night run.

The musical's action centers around Little Mary Sunshine, (Sandra Mason), proprietress of the Colorado Inn, and adopted daughter of an Indian chief named Brown Bear (Garst White). She is greatly admired by all the forest rangers in the territory (Dolph Armstrong, Jimmy Crews, Donald Hayes, Kelly Gay, John Jones and Richard Bell). Little Mary, however, is in love with the leader of the troop, Captain Warrington (Lloyd Shockley).

The captain has been sent on a dangerous mission. He must capture Yellow Feather (W. Gordon Moore), a treacherous warrior who is wanted for murder. While the captain is away, his troops disport themselves with a group of girls from an Eastern finishing school (Sandra Mayo, Helen Johnson, Chris Fayle, Maxine Doyle and Faye Adams).

Little Mary grows anxious when the captain's absence becomes prolonged. To cheer her, the group sings "Look for a Sky of Blue." She smiles through her tears as, in back of her, there slowly rises the menacing figure of Yellow Feather. Later, finding Little Mary alone, Yellow Feather lashes her to a tree.

All seems lost when suddenly, there sounds the clear, manly voice of Captain Warrington, who approaches singing the "Colorado Love Call."

Others cast in the production are Robert Addington as General Oscar Fairfax, a Washington diplomat; Robert Wilson as Fleet Foot, an Indian guide; Eileen Lawlor as Nancy Twinkle, Little Mary's maid; Cheryl Pierce as Madame Ernestine von Liebedich, an opera singer, and Conn Fleming as Billy Jester, a forest ranger.

Board of Visitors, Council Talks Set

A joint meeting of City Council and the RPI Board of Visitors has been scheduled for March 24, Councilwoman Ruth J. Herrink said this week.

Mrs. Herrink requested the meeting so that the Council and board could discuss "ways of co-operating in areas of mutual interest."

There has been a growing feeling in recent months that the city should show more interest in RPI and consider ways of aiding the college.

"Several avenues of approach are being considered," Mrs. Herrink said.

Student Leaders To Be Nominated March 26 at Rally

By Rick Harrison

A political convention to nominate and show support of candidates for class offices and Student Government Association offices will be held from 6 to 10:30 p.m., March 26.

Platforms and slates of officers for SGA offices will be presented by the Young Democratic club (YDC) and Young Republican club (YRC). One candidate for each office will be presented by the YDC and YRC. Other candidates can be nominated from the floor but must be sponsored by a club, organization or class.

Petitions, required for all prospective candidates, are now available in the student personnel office. Students who wish to participate in either class elections or SGA elections must turn in a petition and the required signatures to the student personnel office by March 20 if they plan to be recognized at the convention. A "C" average is required for all candidates.

Participation in the convention is not a prerequisite to nomination. Students who do not wish to take part in the convention may still be eligible to run for office.

Eligibility

In the SGA elections, freshmen may run for the office of treasurer. Sophomores may be nominated for secretary. Juniors and seniors may try for the presidency.

Class officers will be filled by qualified members of each class.

Delegations of classes and clubs will be able to make nominations from the floor of the convention for their favorites.

Encourage Spirit

The convention is not designed to hamper individual initiative, but to make the elections more interesting.

Students who do not plan to take part in the convention but plan to run for office are requested to follow this schedule:

Freshmen who wish to run for Sophomore class officers will make petition for their office between March 23 and March 26. Campaigning for offices will take place April 6-10. Voting will occur April 9 and 10.

Sophomores planning to run for offices in the Junior class will make petition April 6-9, campaign April 13-17, and vote April 16-17.

Juniors who want to run for Senior offices will petition April 13-16, campaign April 20-24 and vote April 23-24.

SGA Petitions

Students who want to run for an SGA office will petition April 20-23, campaign April 27-May 1, and voting for the entire student body for SGA officers will be April 30 and May 1.

"This is the first time actual campaigning will be allowed while votes are being cast," Martin said. "The usual procedure is to campaign one week and hold the voting the following week."

Class officers will take office at the next regularly scheduled class meeting following their election.

SGA officers will be installed at the Spring convocation, May 5.

Dr. Oliver is expected to deliver an address at the convention concerning participation in elections by students.

Alois Alford Elected Sophomore Treasurer

Alois Alford, a Fashion Illustration major from Richmond, has been elected treasurer of the Sophomore class.

He replaces John Keith, a Distribution major from Richmond.

The sophomores have decided not to have a dance which had been scheduled for tomorrow night. The dance was called off because a name band could not be gotten.

Drama department, is directing the Rick Besoyan musical.

Technical direction is being done by W. Joseph Stell, a Drama instructor, and costume designing by Miss Agnes David, assistant professor of Drama. Jeff Slayton, a Freshman Drama major from Richmond, is the choreographer.

Four Petitions Are Circulating About Parking

Four petitions are circulating as a result of a resolution of the Student Government Association House of Representatives to provide "ample parking places" for students.

In a report to the SGA Senate Monday night, House Speaker Jim Walton said that the House planned to form a committee of five students to investigate and recommend appropriate measures to provide parking spaces.

Walton said that the House wanted to "let the City Council and the Board of Visitors know our feelings."

He proposed a committee to be composed of one member from each of the following: the Honor Council, Senate, House of Representatives and two members from the student body at large.

Dr. Oliver told Pat Brown, SGA vice president, that a committee of the students affected should be formed to air their complaints.

Particular attention was directed to the parking problem which exists on Franklin st. Complaints have been made by students that police officers have been distributing parking tickets after 9 a.m. and that tickets were "pre-written" and "slapped" on unsuspecting cars as they parked.

Sweeney Places Third In High Jump at VMI

Stan Sweeney, a Junior Commercial Art major from Lebanon, Penn., placed third in high jump at the VMI relays last week end. Sweeney earned three points.

In the beginning God thought about creating Cassius Marcellus Clay, but after a second thought, He chose Adam instead.

When Greek and Roman emperors were holding sway, God reconsidered the creation of Cassius Marcellus Clay, but decided that the proper moment had not come yet. So he used Caesar instead.

The lump of clay began to stir restlessly in the Lord's workshop, but even when the time came for an aspirant to the world throne, God chose a man named Napoleon for the job.

Teddy Roosevelt got the post of elephant hunting, rough riding and carrying the big stick. The soul on the work bench began to whine and beg for shape.

God patted Cassius gently and said "Not yet."

In the United States, a crisis arose, and the nation milled around, confused. God looked on the shelf for a leader and public relations sort of fellow. With one hand he held the impatient blob labeled Cassius Marcellus Clay up for inspection.

God thought. And thought. This nation must unite behind something, be joined by some bond.

Then the traditional lightening flashed brilliantly. The proverbial thunder rolled and rumbled magnificently. God knew.

He created Cassius Clay for America. It worked. The country united in amazement at Cassius Marcellus Clay, who defeated the world heavyweight champion.

Of these famous men in history, the greatest was Cassius Clay. Ask him. He'll tell you:

"I'm king of the world
 The greatest of great
 It took me just seven
 When I prophesied eight.

While the Big Bear's head whirled
 I did something nifty
 I didn't take eight, but seven,
 To win- Oh, how thrifty!

Yes, I'm king of the world
 The greatest of great
 For it took me just seven
 When I'd prophesied eight."

Letters to the Editor

Sports Fan Would Like Column

I would like to take this opportunity to compliment the Proscript on its sport coverage which in my estimation has improved vastly since last semester. However, there is one thing which I feel is still lacking: a sports editor responsible for a weekly column discussing the campus, conference and national sports scene. Such a series would benefit the paper greatly.

During the past month I have noticed that your sports stories have become more authoritative, containing such interesting side-lights as the percentage of field goal attempts completed, the score at certain strategic points during the game or match, and the point average of the individual players.

To me, these indicate much effort on the part of your reporters.

I have also taken interested notice of the types of sports covered in the Proscript: inter-collegiate basketball, wrestling, golf, and tennis and intramural basketball. Your issue of February 21, 1964, contained an article describing the women's varsity basketball game between RPI and Petersburg General Hospital. I hope that this feature will become a regular one; the college has neglected women's basketball long enough. I congratulate Samantha Shridlu on her well-written article with hopes that she will be busy writing more in the future.

Graduate Student Changed Plans From Marine to Acting Career

By Kenneth Boettcher

Woody Eney, a graduate Drama student from Alexandria, embarked on his acting career by accident.

After graduating from high school, Eney enlisted in the marines and planned to make it a career. Since his father had spent 22 years in the navy, a service career had been Eney's goal since he was 7. His father, however, thought a college education should come first, so after two years in the service, Eney enrolled in the School of Drama here.

Eney's first paying job as an actor was in "The Lost Colony" in Manteo, N. C. Eney spent three summers there and became acquainted with "Pop" Drinkwater, the last living person associated with the first flight of the Wright Brothers.

Eney has just finished playing the role of Guildenstern in Shakespeare's "Hamlet" at the Virginia Museum Theater. Of Leo Ciceri, the Canadian actor who played the lead, Eney said, "He is the best actor I've ever worked with. I think of him as the kind of actor I would like to be someday. You'd think that a famous actor with as much experience as Ciceri would be a little 'above' the other members of the cast, but Ciceri wasn't."

Eney is currently playing Don Gresham in the Barksdale Theater's production, "The Moon Is Blue."

"Last Friday," he said "I got a telegram wishing me luck at the Barksdale. It was from Ciceri, in Stratford, England, getting ready to do another play there."

In his first Barksdale performance, Eney will portray a young architect entangled in a series of complicated events with a girl he meets on top of the Empire State Building.

Other roles Eney has played include Polonius in the production of "Hamlet" given here two years ago, James Tyrone in Eugene O'Neill's "Long Day's Journey Into Night," Harry McAfee in "Bye-

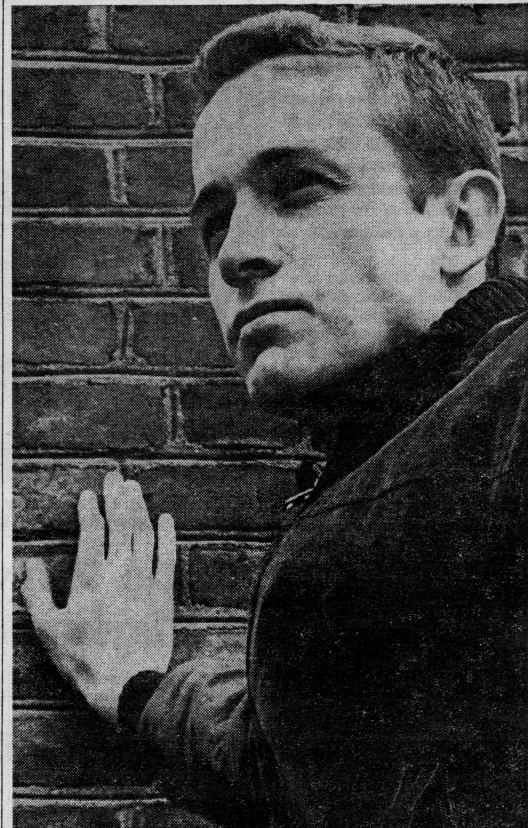

Bye Birdie," Alan Baker in "Come Blow Your Horn," and Sevigne in "A Shot In The Dark."

In addition to acting, Eney has directed one-act plays here. He also has had experience in nightclub work doing comic monologues.

As to his future, Eney said, "I'm not certain. I would like to develop as an actor, but I don't know whether I'll choose acting, nightclub work or what, for a career."

One thing appears certain. He isn't going to spend his life in uniform.

Honor Court Chairman Has Strong Opinions

By Rick Harrison

Troy Braswell, the new Honor Court chairman, says that "the Honor system is based on participation of the students, and only through their participation can it be enforced more completely."

The 21-year-old senior from Newport News, who recently replaced resigning Christine Fayle as chairman of the honor judiciary, believes that the code is more respected this year, but said he is "not naive to the fact that there is some cheating going on."

Braswell's chief duties are to preside over trials concerning offenses of the Honor Code. The chairman and his co-chairman, Rose Marie Shields, alternate in supervising trials. Braswell presides if a girl is on trial and Rose Marie presides if a male student is on trial.

"Justice is simply that student judges student," he said.

"I am sure that every individual student knows that the Honor Court has the power to enforce its regulations. I don't feel that the Honor Court was completely publicized in past years and this could contribute to its weakness."

"The role of the faculty should be to have no part in the trials except as a possible witness. The dean of students is the only administrative official who enters a trial and then only in an advisory capacity," he said.

Braswell this week welcomed into the court three new members: Chester Henderson, a junior from Roanoke Rapids, N. C.; Preston Wilhelm, a Richmond senior, and Theron Bell, a Richmond junior. All are Business majors.

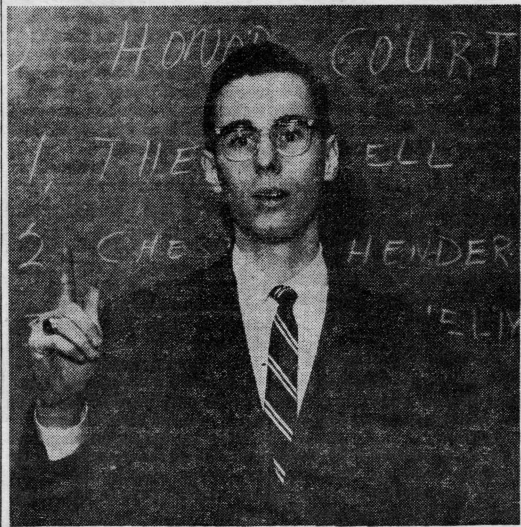

The new members were selected as the result of two resignations and loss of a third member who graduated in February. The two resigning were Walt Lynd, a Junior Occupational Therapy major from Ovid, N. Y., and Christine Fayle, former chairman. Ray Gilliam was graduated.

Teachers Being Hired

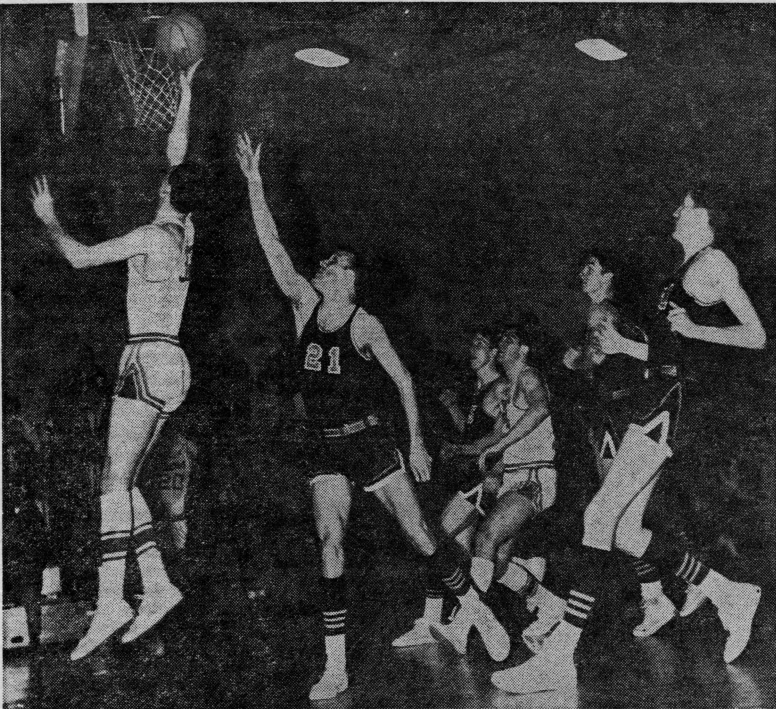

W. F. Long and Harold Gibson of the Richmond public schools will be on campus from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Wednesday to interview seniors interested in teaching in Richmond schools.

Dr. George McIntosh of the Newport News public schools will be here from 10-11:30 a.m. Thursday to talk with seniors interested in teaching in that area.

Interview appointments can be made in the admissions office.

Rams Win Last Two of Season

By Sam Shield

RPI ended its basketball season last week end with two victories over Pembroke State College. The Rams finished the year with a record of nine wins and 14 losses.

The final game of the season belonged to C. G. Winston, as the freshman hit for 47 points and the Rams made it two in a row in as many nights, 98-88. Winston broke the school record of 44 points set by Jim Ward in 1953 with an assortment of jumps and driving lay-ups.

Although it was a one-man show, Winston only scored seven points in the first half.

In the second half, Winston stopped every Pembroke comeback bid with a 40-point performance. The Braves closed to a four-point deficit with 5:02 remaining to play but Winston reeled off three consecutive jump shots to make it 88-78. The Rams were never headed after that, as timely rebounding by Shaheen sewed up the game for RPI.

Shaheen, playing his last game for the Rams, scored a record 1,322 points in his career and was voted most valuable player by his fellow teammates. Bill Parker, who was out because of a sore knee, was voted most improved and Johnny Magill was selected for the Slater sportsmanship award.

Winston connected on 18 of 25 attempts from the floor in the second half to push his point total for the year over the 500 mark. Harding made 29 points and Shaheen 12 as the Rams only other double figure scorers.

In the opening game between the two teams, the Braves jumped off to a 9-4 lead in the first four minutes of play before RPI used a zone-press and baskets by George Shaheen and Bubba Crone to give the Rams a short-lived 10-9 advantage.

After trailing 41-39 at the half, RPI moved into the lead for good when C. G. Winston, Johnny Magill and Crone made it 46-41 for RPI, with 17:03 remaining in the contest.

The Braves cut the lead to one point, 59-58, but Shaheen netted nine straight points for a 68-58 Ram lead with 9:48 left in the second half. RPI then coasted to victory.

Women Defeated Twice, To W&M, Westhampton

By Samantha Shridlu

The women's varsity basketball team faltered twice last week after winning its first game.

Last Tuesday afternoon the Blue and Gray basketekers were scalped by the Squaws from William and Mary, 47-28.

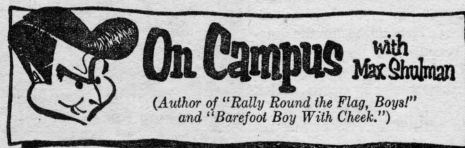

RPI found itself behind, 9-0, in the first four minutes of play and could never sustain a rally long enough to give the Squaws anything to squawl over.

Flagging, 28-10, at half-time, the RPI women gave a small crowd something to cheer about when Val Avery netted six points. But the Squaws quickly put down the uprising with four baskets to win the game.

The following afternoon the Blue and Gray was hopelessly outclassed by Westhampton, 38-13.

RPI came to life briefly in the third quarter after trailing, 28-8, at halftime but not for long. The women sank two baskets in 32 attempts for a 6.2 per cent average.

EVOL SPELLED BACKWARDS IS LOVE

They met. His heart leapt. "I love you!" he cried.

"Me too, hey!" she cried.

"Tell me," he cried, "are you a girl of expensive tastes?"

"No, hey," she cried. "I am a girl of simple tastes."

"Good," he cried, "for my cruel father sends me an allowance barely large enough to support life."

"Money does not matter to me," she cried. "My tastes are simple; my wants are few. Just take me riding in a long, new, yellow convertible and I am content."

"Goodbye," he cried, and ran away as fast as his little stumpy legs would carry him, for he had no yellow convertible, nor the money to buy one, nor the means to get the money—short of picking up his stingy father by the ankles and shaking him till his wallet fell out.

He knew he must forget this girl, but lying on his pallet at the dormitory, whimpering and moaning, he knew he could not.

At last an idea came to him: though he did not have the money to buy a convertible, perhaps he had enough to rent one!

Hope reborn, he rushed on his little stumpy legs (curious to tell, he was six feet tall, but all his life he suffered from little stumpy legs) he rushed, I say, to an automobile rental company and rented a yellow convertible for $10 down plus ten cents a mile. Then, with many a laugh and cheer, he drove away to pick up the girl.

"Oh, bully!" she cried when she saw the car. "This suits my simple tastes to a 'T.' Come, let us speed over rolling highroads and through bosky dells."

Away they drove. All that day and night they drove and finally, tired but happy, they parked high on a wind-swept hill.

"Marlboro?" he said.

"Yum, yum," she said.

They lit their Marlboros. They puffed with deep contentment. "You know," he said, "you are like a Marlboro—clean and fresh and relaxing."

"Yes, I am clean and fresh and relaxing," she admitted. "But, all the same, there is a big difference between Marlboros and me, because I do not have an efficacious white Selectrate filter."

They laughed. They kissed. He screamed.

"What is it, hey?" she asked, her attention aroused.

"Look at the speedometer," he said. "We have driven 200 miles, and this car costs ten cents a mile, and I have only $20 left."

"But that is exactly enough," she said.

"Yes," he said, "but we still have to drive home."

"Oh," she said. They fell into a profound gloom. He started the motor and backed out of the parking place.

"Hey, look!" she cried. "The speedometer doesn't move when you are backing up."

He looked. It was true. "Eureka!" he cried. "That solves my problem. I will drive home in reverse. Then no more miles will register on the speedometer and I will have enough money to pay!"

"I think that is a smashing idea," she said, and she was right. Because today our hero is in the county jail where food, clothing, and lodging are provided free of charge, and his allowance is piling up so fast that in two or three years he will have enough money to take his girl riding again.

Leading Team In Basketball Wins 2 More

The league-leading Traitors made it two wins in a row last week as they walloped the Hokies, 98-35, and the German club, 99-52, in intramural basketball.

Led by Jerry Stone's two-game point production of 48, the Traitors never trailed. Stan Sweeney finished the two games with a total of 38 points. Ed Coffman and Bernie Mann contributed 37 and 34 points, respectively.

The usually high-scoring Hasbeens defeated the 712 Dormitory team, 70-43, in what was an almost disastrous game for the Hasbeens because of a player shortage before the game. Ken Magill led the Hasbeens with 23 points. Nick Orsi and Dan Kennedy came through with 16 and 15 points, respectively.

The Varsity club's Howard Clabough, the league's leading scorer, scored 44 points against the 712 Dormitory team last week in a game that ended in a victory for the Varsity club, 100-51.

Clabough's 44 enabled him to take a commanding lead in the scoring race. Nick Orsi is second with a 19.0 average.

Rams Lose, 86-61, In Lexington

Washington and Lee College held high scoring C. G. Winston to his lowest output of the basketball season, nine points, as the Generals crushed RPI, 86-61, last Tuesday night.

While a blizzard raged outside the gym in Lexington, the Rams had trouble of their own with cold shooting. RPI hit less than 30 per cent of its attempts.

New College Catalogue Will Use Photography

The 1964-65 college catalogue will use photography to introduce each school and major department, according to Mrs. Sophia Hodges, assistant to the dean, who is editing the publication.

Photographs which are appropriate for each major division of the school will attempt to present a picture of the college throughout the bulletin. A one-half page photograph will precede each section of the catalogue.

RPI Coeds Among Finalists In Miss Richmond Contest

By Jane Gerring

Four of the 17 finalists competing for the Miss Richmond title are students here.

Mary Lillian Cain, Velma Elizabeth McCuiston, Carol Ann Williams and Judith Ann Tucker are competing for the city beauty crown, to be awarded May 9 in the Mosque by the Ginter Park Junior Woman's club.

Mary Cain, a freshman in Social Work, will twirl a baton in the talent competition. Mary comes from Miami, Fla., but her home is now in Richmond.

Mary says she loves the old South and is very impressed with Virginia. She likes to sew, write poetry, read and dance. Mary, who was a semi-finalist in the 1964 Orange Bowl festival, is interested in major league bowling.

Business sophomore Velma McCuiston will perform a modern dance as her act in the talent contest. Velma lists school, meeting people and playing the piano as hobbies. She plans to become a vocational office training coordinator.

In 1962 she was the Virginia Miss Future Business Leader of America (FBLA) and won seventh place in the national competition. "You'll Never Walk Alone," is the selection chosen by Carol Williams, a freshman Art major, to sing in the talent division.

In addition to singing, Carol likes to ski, fish and go horseback riding. The Jetersville coed said she hopes for a career as a singer.

Fashion Design major Judith Tucker from Lynchburg will use her major to display her talents in the coming contest. She plans to give a fashion designing demonstration for the judges.

Judith, a freshman, is happy when she is singing, playing the piano or reading.

Art Student Wins Award From Museum

The Virginia Museum's 1964 Architects, Designers and Photographers exhibition opens tonight, and an RPI student will be a prominent contributor to the photography section.

Emmet Gowin of Danville, a Commercial Art junior, won Certificates of Distinction for two of his entries. They were black and white photos titled, "The Keeper of the Children" and "Child, North Carolina," a picture of a young Negro girl sitting in an empty church.

Four of the other five photographic winners are, or have been, connected with the college in some way.

Willard D. Pilchard, a Commercial Art instructor here, received a certificate for his print, "Trees No. 2." A former student and present staff photographer for Richmond Newspapers, Inc., David Ryan, won a certificate for "Blimmy, It's Christine." Vann Traynham, also a former student here, was given an award for her "Spectator."

The wife of Commercial Art faculty member William O. Bevilacqua, Mrs. Marilyn B. Bevilacqua, took the only Certificate of Distinction for a colored transparency. Hers was named "Market Place." Mr. Bevilacqua won an honorable mention in photography, as did James A. Bumgardner, another Commercial Art instructor.

In the design division, both Leon Bellin, a member of the Commercial Art teaching staff and the entry from the college, topped honorable mentions.

Jurists for the exhibition were architect Phillip Johnson, who designed New York's Seagram Building; painter-designer Gyorgy Kepes, and photographer-etchist Ivan Dmitri.
