

Alumni Homecoming Starts Next Week

The 13th annual Alumni Homecoming will begin October 16 and a record attendance of 400 is expected, according to Samuel H. Guza, homecoming chairman.

Events for Homecoming will begin 7:00 p.m., Friday, October 16, with a cocktail party at the Sheraton Monroe Motor Hotel at Belvidere and Franklin sts.

Following the cocktail party the alumni will be entertained in the gymnasium by English actor Basil Rathbone and his presentation, "In and Out of Character." The presentation will include a dramatic performance of selections from the works of the English speaking world's great poets, novelists and playwrights.

At 8:30 a.m., Saturday, October 17, there will be several departmental breakfasts.

Following the breakfasts at 9:00 a.m. will be a President's reception at Dr. Oliver's home, 910 W. Franklin st.

Registration will be held 9:30 to 10:30 a.m. Saturday in the Hibbs Building. At this time name tags will be issued and association dues may be paid.

Local chapters which have been formed throughout the state will meet at 10:30 a.m. in the Hibbs Building.

At noon there will be a business luncheon in the gymnasium at which Dr. Oliver will review the progress of RPI, and Mayor Merrill M. Crowe of Richmond will speak. A large number of Richmond City Council members and General Assembly members from the Richmond area are expected to attend.

The rest of Saturday's festivities: a cocktail party, dinner and dance will start 6:30 in the John Marshall Hotel. The Dick Proctor Sextet will play at the dinner-dance.

To help promote the Homecoming events several alumni will appear on local television during October. Betsy Holt, an alumna, has given the Alumni Association time on WXEX television during the "Dialing for Dollars" show on October 9 and 14. Fred Hazeltine has also given time on his "Fred and Friends" show on WRVA television on October 6.

Invitations have been sent to more than 3,000 alumni.

SGA Activates Committee; Crackdown on Drinking Starts

The Student Government Association with the backing of the Administration moved this week to revitalize an SGA agency. The agency—the Floor Committee—is empowered to curb misbehavior and the consumption of alcoholic beverages at student functions.

At least one empty bourbon bottle was found and one person used profane language to a campus policeman at Saturday's Rat Dance.

SGA House Speaker Wayne Tucker told a House of Representatives meeting Tuesday night that if the Floor Committee failed to stop infractions of school rules at student activities, the Administration could hire police guards to "frisk" people before entering a student function.

He also said a final alternative would be to ban social functions altogether.

Spurred by these possible alternatives, the SGA revised Article

III, Section One, of the By-Laws of its constitution to give greater power to the Floor Committee.

The amendment in part, reads:

—Possession or consumption of alcoholic beverages is prohibited at any student function;

—Disorderly conduct, creating a public nuisance or the use of foul and abusive language is deemed a violation of conduct and is prohibited;

—Upon detection of an infraction of the above rules, two members of the permanent floor committee shall ask the violator if she or he has consumed alcoholic beverages on the premises or has such in his or her possession. When an affirmative answer is given, the ID card of an RPI student will be taken, the student asked to leave and the ID card turned in to the committee. If there is reason to believe that the accused violator is lying, the case will be referred to the Honor Court;

—Any non-student who is in violation of the above rules will be asked to leave;

—The floor committee shall have marked identifications.

Tony Woolford, SGA President said the Senate Monday night discussed the problem for an unprecedented two-and-one-half hours and decided to take a firm stand before tomorrow night's German club dance.

"This adaption of the constitution is not a result of last Saturday," Woolford said. "Rather, it is a result of the floor committee's not operating for the past few years."

Norman Pifer, senior class president, was named chairman of the floor committee and Bill Ingram, House parliamentarian, was named co-chairman. The male House and Senate members compose the remainder of the committee.

King and Queen

Juniors Name Rats; Dance Ends Week

Marian Hollowell and Herbie Pulliam were crowned Rat King and Queen by Junior Class President Paulette McCall, Art Major from Roanoke, to reign over a kingdom of "Mice and Maggots" at Saturday's Rat Dance.

Marian, music major from Portsmouth, and Pulliam, Interior Design student from Appomattox, were chosen Rat King and Queen from an eleven-member freshman Rat Court. The Freshman Rat Court was chosen by the members of the junior Rat Court as best participants of Rat Week.

Other members of the Court were Daingerfield Ashton, Commercial Art, Alexandria; Ed Allan, Business, Madison, New Jersey; Beverly Brookshire, Interior Design, Winton, North Carolina; Bob Morris, distribution, Arlington; Al Shahda, Pre-Medicine, Richmond; Margery Strauss, Recreational Leadership, Pikesville, Maryland; Peggy Kay, Art, Youngsville, Pa.; Lynn Weber, Occupational Therapy, Woodbridge, and Sue Tatum, Costume Design, Richmond.

"I was treated like a rat!" said Marian when asked how she had been treated by the juniors during Rat Week. In addition to singing, dancing, reading, and music, Marian enjoys "walking in the rain," something she has had plenty of opportunity to do in recent days at RPI.

"They really let me have it, but I paid them back for it on Friday," said Pulliam whose interests include horseback riding, tennis, and painting.

"I'd love to do it over again, even if it were just for the opportunity to meet all the people I've met," said Marian in evaluating Rat Week.

"It was rough, but it was worth it," summed up Pulliam.

Music for the Rat Dance, which ended a full week of activity, was furnished by the "Mustangs".

School Moves To 930 Park Avenue

The School of Distribution recently moved from the Administration Building to the second and third floors of 930 Park ave.

Involved in the move were the offices of all instructors and department heads in the school, including Mrs. Dianne W. Brewington, newly appointed head of the Department of Distributive Education replacing Mrs. K. B. Brown who resigned September 1.

Mrs. Brewington is a native of West Virginia and received her BS degree here in Distributive Education. She is now a candidate for her MS degree in the same field.

Culture Confined

With what besides enthusiasm shall we welcome Basil Rathbone—"artist of . . . extraordinary, many-faceted talents"—to our campus next Friday? Why, with our "performance center" better known as the Gymnasium.

It is fortunate indeed that Mr. Rathbone is a performer of such calibre.

Like so many of his "fellows of the stage," Rathbone can use his abilities to project his personality and spell-bind audiences with his artistry.

Rathbone may use this ability to obliterate everything except his performance here in much the same way as did Alicia Markova, the great prima ballerina, in 1954 when she appeared in Leicester, England.

Hugh Fisher gives this account of the evening:

"The conditions were far from favorable: there was no scenery, only a background of curtains, the lighting was barely adequate, and I was apprehensive. But when Markova entered with her partner, with her first graceful movements the magic of her art cast its spell, and the audience was captivated. So light was she, so fragile and ethereal, her feet seemed scarcely to touch the ground: here indeed was beauty. With her art she had brought into the cold bare concert hall the authentic spirit of ballet: a triumph indeed."

Rathbone also will perform in less than sumptuous surroundings. His dramatic presentation will be framed by an anticipated 1,000 people—a capacity crowd for the gymnasium. His audience, including administration, faculty, students and the general public, will be seated on bleachers and folding metal chairs. He will perform from a portable stage with a portable backdrop set up near an exit giving access to a make-shift dressing room. The words of William Shakespeare, Edgar Allan Poe, Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, A. E. Housman and other great poets, novelists and playwrights will echo from the large steel-beamed ceiling.

The picture within this frame does not seem to be one that we would choose to present to such a well-known personality.

Last year the Student Activities Committee, which is sponsoring Rathbone, brought three celebrities here as a part of the Concert-Lecture Series. Cornelia Otis Skinner, American actress, monologist and author, gave an outstanding performance of original monologue sketches in December. Mendel Peterson, curator of the Smithsonian Institute, and Capt. William Anderson, retired skipper of the nuclear submarine Nautilus, gave highly educational and entertaining lectures on their adventures. All three programs were given in the Gymnasium.

We have no thought of censure for the Student Activities Committee in its effort to bring celebrities to this campus. We commend them for their highly successful efforts and anticipate many more outstanding presentations through the Concert-Lecture series.

We find fault alone in the absence of a real performance center.

RPI is Virginia's third largest institute of higher learning yet has no facility large enough to hold even half of her 3,270 daytime enrollment for special gatherings.

Students are urged, but not required, to attend Fall and Spring Convocation exercises because the administration could not hope to be able to accommodate all students in the Gymnasium where the programs are held.

Special programs and meetings involving a large number of people must be held in the Gymnasium for lack of another location. Band and choral concerts are given in the Gymnasium. Presentations of the Drama department must be given before limited audiences in Shafer Street Playhouse. Countless other functions of interest to students and the public must have limited audiences due to limited facilities.

In fact, RPI functions under a burdensome curtailment of its cultural offerings.

The need is great, but the answer in forms of finances and space is missing. The question goes unanswered, nay, unheeded.

Letter to the Editor

President Says System Is Good

Editor, the Proscript:

In the first issue of the Proscript there appeared a letter to the editor concerning our Honor Code in relation to the library situation. (See Volume 45, number 1, September 25)

I do not believe there is a student here at RPI that likes this situation. However there is a reason for its being.

At a conference in September we found out some interesting statistics—all of which deal with this same situation.

Texas University, with a much larger campus than ours, has an armed guard in its library. Harvard and Princeton have the same.

Here in this state, Old Dominion College, Lynchburg College, Christopher Newport and many others have the same thing.

In most colleges the students are given a choice. Either closed stacks, which means no one may remove a book from the school library, or a system of checking those entering and leaving the library.

Therefore even though every student takes the Honor Code Pledge, it still doesn't mean our system is degrading. Far from it!

Perhaps this will help to clear up any misunderstandings concerning this matter. It also gives one an idea of what other colleges are doing about this problem.

The choice is definitely ours.

Tony Woolford,
SGA President

"Ollie" Receives Mail in Thousands

The mail room, one of the busiest places on campus, is run by one employee.

"Ollie" Jackson, who alone handles each of the four to five thousand pieces of mail received weekly, also has many other responsibilities.

After separating each day's mail, it must be placed in the individual mail boxes located in the first floor hallway of the Administration Building. This includes only the mail addressed to the administration offices. No dormitory mail is received in the mail room during the school term.

All out-going mail is either brought to the mail room or picked up in the offices and prepared for pick-up by the post office department.

Located in the mail room are mimeograph and ditto machines, on which test and exam papers are run off by "Ollie." It is also his responsibility to distribute supplies to the administrative offices.

First Lady Comes to Richmond

The RPI band blasted a woodwind, percussion and brass greeting to the Nation's First Lady Tuesday.

Under the direction of Edward A. Mirr, assistant professor of music, the band played the "Washington Post March" and "Brasses Aflame" at special invitation of the Richmond Democratic party.

As the band played softly in the background, Mrs. Johnson told about 5,000 people at Union Station of the close ties between Virginia and the Democratic party.

The First Lady arrived on the "Lady Bird Special," a 19-car train making a whistle-stop campaign tour of eight southern states. The train was scheduled to end its tour today in Louisiana.

She said Richmond "is truly a barometer of the new South as well as the old with abundant evidence of our country's prosperous present and promising future."

"I would be remiss if I did not point out that these were Democratic years. Certainly it fits with my husband's premise that this region's future will be more vitally served by the Democratic party in the years ahead," she said.

Boarding the train in Richmond, Gov. Albert S. Harrison, Jr. told the crowd at Broad Street Station that "President Johnson's re-election will be one of our best assurances of continued open lines of communication problems of mutual concern and matters of national import."

The 90-foot observation-hospitality car in which Mrs. Johnson rode through Virginia, making stops in Alexandria, Fredericksburg, Ashland, Richmond, Petersburg, Suffolk and Norfolk, was outfitted with patriotic red, white and blue.

Mrs. Johnson urged Virginians to forget differences over civil rights and to seek a unified nation. She said "seek the ties that bind us together, not settle for the tensions that tend to divide us."

IMAGE,

the student journal of creative ideas, announces the intended publication of its fall 1964 issue. The purpose is to provide students an outlet for their literary and artistic works with emphasis on the creative individual. Visual materials are to be left in portfolio at the switchboard; literary works may be left in the box in administration bldg.

Graphics, essays, musical compositions, articles, one-acts, photographs, drawings, calligraphy, poems.

Girls' Team Is Sought

The Department of Physical Education will decide in the next few weeks whether there is to be a girls' basketball team this year. Interested players are asked to contact Miss Nancy Alexander in Room H in the Gymnasium. At least 20 students must indicate interest in the idea or the team will be dropped.

Interest in the team picked up somewhat last year, but on a whole participation has been declining steadily for the past six years, Miss Alexander explained.

The team last year was composed of 11 players and compiled a 4-3 record for the season. The team coached by Mrs. Connie Stanley has only seven returning players.

Practice usually begins about the end of November, and scheduled in order not to conflict with classes. Trips will be made to Bridgewater, Longwood, Lynchburg, and Petersburg for games.

Returning from last year's squad are Sophomores: Val Avery, Distribution, Frankford, Del.; Dawn Grigsby, Commercial Art, Williamsburg; Judy Skeen, Art Education, Scottsville, and Wilkie Smith, Applied Social Science, Manassas; Juniors: Barbara Goodman, Physical Education, Kilmarnock, and Betty Coppenbarger, Art, Washington, D. C. and Senior Linda Holloway, Business Education, Poquoson.

Mrs. Elizabeth Royster

Mrs. Royster is a 1954 graduate who has returned as a Physical Education instructor. She will instruct coeds in team participation sports as well as individual sports. She spent three years as head P.E. instructor at the YWCA and five years as a coach at Richmond's John Marshall high school. She says she is pleased with the many changes that have taken place here since she was a student and looks forward to being a part of the school again. Mrs. Royster won a leadership key in her senior year and held several class offices.

UGF Drive Is Set

The United Givers Fund will conduct its annual drive during the month of October and has called on RPI faculty and students for support.

Last year the college's contribution amounted to about $2,500, ten per cent above the goal. This year's goal is not yet known, but the drive's aim is to top all previous contributions, according to Dr. Donald B. Tennant.

Dr. Tennant, head of the Music Education Department and RPI chairman for U.G.F., said he feels sure that "RPI will once again present a favorable image in the interest of community affairs through its support."

Team Tryouts Planned

Students interested in trying out for the men's varsity basketball team should report at 3 p.m., Monday in the gymnasium for the year's first practice session, according to Coach Ed Allen.

Last year 18 men reported for the first try-out session. The squad will be cut down to 12 members on Thursday.

Two One-Act Plays Planned; Season Will Open Next Week

Theater Associates (TA), RPI's drama club, will present its first one-act play of the season next Thursday at 8:30 p.m. in Studio Theater, located behind the President's House.

The program includes Anton Chekhov's "A Marriage Proposal," directed by John Armstrong, a junior Drama major from McGainsville and president of TA.

The scene changes from Chekhov's Russia to a Civil War battle-

Women's Bowling Goes Intramural

Intramural bowling for girls is being introduced for the first time this year.

Each Tuesday, starting October 13, coeds will board a bus at Shafer Street Playhouse and go to Azalea Bowl where they will compete from 4-6 p.m.

They will bowl in a tenpin league composed of three-member teams representing dormitories. Scores will be based on handicap and trophies will be awarded.

No previous bowling experience is necessary. Miss Susan Bumgardner, a representative of Azalea Bowl, will give free instructions to beginners. Both transportation and shoes will be furnished.

Girls who are interested should contact either Mrs. Elizabeth Royster, Physical Education instructor, or Bowling Manager Mary Jo Dillon, junior Physical Education major from Fort Pierce, Florida at Founders Hall.

There will be an organizational meeting today at 3 p.m. in the Women's Physical Education office. All interested coeds should attend.

Freshmen Have Their Day

YR Names Sponsor

Mr. Glenn W. Murphy, assistant professor of science and education, is the new sponsor of the Young Republicans Club (YRC).

Mr. Murphy, a life-long Republican, is a native of Kentucky and a graduate of the University of Kentucky where he is a candidate for a doctorate of education.

A Reb, played by Bill Williamson, freshman Drama major from Richmond, meets a Yank, played by Jon Smet, freshman Drama major from Newport, New Hampshire, to set the scene of the play. The stage manager is Carley McConnell, a freshman Drama major from Colorado Springs, Colorado.

The plays are presented free of charge.

Large Enrollment Crowds Chemistry

Where to put students seems to be the major problem in the Chemistry Department.

In the Physical Chemistry course there are 18 students enrolled, 12 had been planned for; in the Qualitative Organic Analysis course six students were planned for and 15 enrolled.

Dr. Mary E. Kapp, chairman of the School of Applied Science, said the Chemistry Department was obtaining an Infra-Red Spectrophotometer. This will be used in the Qualitative Organic Analysis and other advanced courses. The apparatus was purchased, in part, by funds from the Alumni of the School of Applied Science. Chemistry students will use the machine to study the structure of organic compounds.

Circle K Club Formed Here

Thirty-five students have formed a Circle K Club—the college level of the Kiwanis Club—here.

Advisors for the club are Mr. Cofer Loomer, instructor of Distributive Education, and Mr. William O. Edwards, associate professor of Business.

The Circle K is primarily a service rather than a social club for male students.

Rules Are Listed By Floor Committee

House Speaker Tucker said he didn't know who was at fault concerning the drinking and behavior problem at the Rat Dance but "the people involved are 'on the carpet' now and could be prosecuted by the State."

The consumption of alcoholic beverages on state property is an infraction of state law.

Tucker said people must conform to the rules of behavior and "those who break the rules must pay." He said one group of unruly people "could ruin things here."

Russel A. Johnston, dean of students, told the House meeting he wanted to emphasize the adaption of the SGA constitution was "an action by the SGA to fulfill their obligations as they see them." He said "no pressure" was put on the SGA by the Administration.

President Woolford said the floor committee could be termed "a student police force," but he said he would rather have students take charge than regular police.

Dean Johnston said if an infraction of the floor committee rules "was serious enough," it would probably come to the attention of the student personnel office.

Glass Crafts Lecture Scheduled Tonight

Joel Phillip Myers of Blenko Glass, Inc. will give an illustrated lecture tonight in the Shafer Street Playhouse at 8 p.m.

Mr. Allan A. Eastman, head of the Department of Arts & Crafts, said the lecture was being sponsored by the RPI Hand Workshop in cooperation with the Richmond Craftsman's Guild as a part of the Continuing Education Program. The public is invited.

Fashion Designer Will Speak Here

Patrick de Barentzen, well-known Italian fashion designer, will speak here at 3:30 on Monday in Hibbs 403.

Mrs. Ottie Y. Windmueller, instructor in Costume Design, met de Barentzen on a trip abroad in the summer of 1963. At that time he expressed an interest in speaking to Costume Design students at RPI.

De Barentzen is being brought to Richmond by the Junior Board of the Crippled Children's Hospital (CCH) and Thalhimers for the upcoming Ambassador's Ball sponsored by Thalhimers and CCH where he will show his current collection.

At Byrd Field

Students from both Costume Design and Fashion Illustration plan to be at Byrd Field to meet de Barentzen on his arrival in Richmond on Saturday.

Following the lecture, a testimonial dinner at the Sheraton Motor Inn is planned by students in the department, faculty members and interested guests. De Barentzen will be guest of honor.

Murrelle Tells YRC's Go, Change World

Colonel A. C. Murrelle, professor of business law, told the Young Republicans (YRC) meeting last week that if they didn't like what was going on in the world today "to do something about it."

Murrelle urged the club to "work in precincts, and local elections."

Several members of the YRC canvassed the third district's second precinct, which includes RPI, Friday and Saturday, urging all qualified residents to register and vote for Senator Barry M. Goldwater, Republican presidential nominee, and Richard D. Obenshain, third district Republican congressional nominee. They also worked at the Republican booth at the Virginia State Fair.

Discussing Cuba, Murrelle said that the danger in Cuba today came not only from Russia but from Red China.

"Without the assistance of the United States, Castro wouldn't be in power in Cuba today. The State Department put Castro in office, just as it put Batista in office before him," said the retired army colonel.

There are still several thousand "highly trained, highly qualified, fully confident" Russian troops in Cuba today. He said that each American would have to decide for himself if missiles still remain in Cuba.

Dorm Students Change Rooms

Approximately 75 men and women resident students are situated in new dormitory rooms today, at the end of two days of moving.

Mrs. Margaret Perritt, assistant dean of women, said about 23 women from 928 Park avenue dormitory, moved to Monroe Terrace Wednesday.

Joining them yesterday were approximately 26 women from 807 W. Franklin Street Dormitory, which is to be used for faculty offices.

Also moving on Wednesday were 26 men who took rooms at 928 Park ave., after vacating 906 Park ave. The latter location will be razed before February to make way for a classroom and snack-bar addition to the Hibbs Building, according to Dr. George Oliver.

Students were required to place their belongings in a box for transporting by professional movers, thus eliminating the need for suspended classes.

Book Store Sets New Sales Record

Mr. Mansel Van Horn, Book Store manager, said sales this year have increased at least 20 per cent over last year's total and are twice the amount sold five years ago.

Approximately 19,000 books were on the shelves when the Book Store opened at the beginning of school and only 2,000 were left after two weeks of sales.

According to Mr. Van Horn, the "best-sellers" were the business and economics texts, but history and English ran a close second.

As soon as the supply began dwindling, reorderers were made, and should be in soon.

Society Gives Film Schedule

The Film Society has announced the following films are scheduled for the remainder of the season:

October 30—Ray's "Pather Panchali" (Indian); Sucksdorff's "Sea Hawk" (Swedish).

November 20 — Kurosawa's "Throne of Blood" (Japanese); Sander's "Time Out of War" (American).

December 11—Godard's "Breathless" (French); Lamorisse's "White Mane" (French).

January 15—Renoir's "The Southerner" (American); W. S. Hart's "The Fugitive" (American).

February 26—Antonioni Fellini, etc. "Love in the City" (Italian); Chaplin's "Tillie's Punctured Romance."

March 12—Bunuel's "The Young and the Damned" (Mexican); Bunuel's "Land Without Bread" (Mexican).

April 16—Truffaut's "Jules and Jim" (French); Pintoff's "The Interview" (American).

April 30—Wayda's "Ashes and Diamonds" (Polish); Chaplin—4 shorts (American).

May 14—Bergman's "The Naked Night" (Swedish); Sucksdorff's "A Divided World" (Swedish).

All of the film presentations this season will be on Friday. Showings in Hibbs 303 will be at 4:30 and 7:00 p.m. Showings in Hibbs 403 will be at 5:30 and 8:00 p.m.

Both season tickets at $3.50 and individual tickets at 60 cents will be on sale at the door.

Monroe Terrace Dorm Names Council Officers

New officers of the Inter-Dorm Council and house council members for Monroe Terrace and 909 W. Franklin Street Dormitory were announced this week by Mrs. Jane Bell Gladding, dean of women.

Joyce Lamm, a senior Occupational Therapy major from Sinking Spring, Pa., was named president of the Inter-Dorm Council. The Council, composed of the presidents from each women's dormitory, meets weekly to discuss problems occurring in any of the campus women's dormitories. The president confers regularly with the Dean of Women over the organization's actions.

Other Officers

Other officers for the council are Vickie Goodman of Roanoke, a senior Costume Design major, vice-president; and Judy Grimm, a senior Occupational Therapy major from Cumberland, Md., secretary.

Officers elected for Monroe Terrace are:

North: Kee Wheless, senior Interior Design major from Louisville, N. C., president; Bertha Edwards, a senior majoring in Fashion Illustration from Norfolk, vice-president; Pat Deer, junior Costume Design major from Hickory, N. C., secretary, and Barbara Fitchett, senior Art major from Melfa, treasurer.

House Council

Sales Seminar Set

The School of Distribution and the Sales and Marketing Executives of Richmond, Inc. are sponsoring a six-week sales seminar here aimed at developing successful marketing programs.

The six sessions will be held 3:30-5:30 p.m. on Mondays from October 19-November 23 in the Hibbs Building.

Nurses Meet in Norfolk

Olive J. Faulkner, professor of nursing and director of the School of Nursing, will attend the 64th annual convention of the Virginia Nurses' Association October 14-18 in Norfolk. The convention will discuss nursing education in Virginia and quality of patient care.
