

Openings Bears Egyptian Theme

A Harvest Queen will be selected tomorrow night from a group of six coeds, representing the upper three classes.

The Queen will be chosen by students attending the Egyptian Harvest ball at the Mosque.

The contestants are Seniors: Shirley Critzer, Business Education major from Waynesboro and Elizabeth Peden, Distribution major from Charleston, W. Va.

Buddy Morrow
Here With Orchestra

Junior candidates include Cindy Molano, Psychology major from Arlington and Gwynne Clark, a Fashion Design major from Greensboro, N. C.

Sophomores competing for the title are Marena Grant, an Interior Design major from Hampton and Mary Lou Deal, Fashion Illustration major from Wilkesboro, N. C.

Tomorrow night's Openings dance will climax the two-day Openings Week End.

Tonight there will be a dance, the "Egyptian Jammie," 8-12 p.m. in the gymnasium. Music will be provided by the "Checkmates," a group which performed here last year at the "World's Fair Week End."

Morrow to Play

The popular Buddy Morrow orchestra has been contracted for Saturday's Egyptian Harvest which will be in the Mosque ballroom from 9-12 p.m.

Tickets for tonight's dance are $2 per couple or $1 with a Dance club card. Tickets for the dance tomorrow are $5 per couple. Dance club members will be admitted without charge tomorrow night. No tickets will be sold at the Mosque.

Free 12:30 later will be given for tonight's dance and free 1:30 later will be given tomorrow. Dress for the dances will be semi-formal.

UGF Collects $2,054; Drive Ends Today

The RPI Faculty Committee has collected $2,054 for the United Givers Fund drive.

Dr. Donald Tennant, head of the Music Education department and RPI chairman for UGF, said that the campus drive should end today.

Applications Total 224

The Admissions office reports that 224 applications for admission for the fall term, 1965-66, have been received.

At this same time last year 63 applications had been received.

Two Singing Groups Plan Appearances

Representatives of the School of Music are scheduled to give three public performances next week.

Several members of the chorus will appear at the Southern States Cooperative Convention in the Mosque at 9:30 a.m., November 12.

The Madrigalists will give two performances in Caroline County. They will appear at the Caroline Music club at 8 p.m. on November 9 and will perform for the Caroline Ruritan club at Caroline elementary school, 6:30 p.m., November 12.

Dr. Willett to Speak At Fall Convocation

Dr. H. I. Willett, superintendent of Richmond Public Schools, will speak on the subject "Some Observations on Education and Life in the Soviet Union" at Fall Convocation, Wednesday, November 11, in the gymnasium.

Dr. Willett is a newly elected member of the Board of Visitors and has recently completed an extensive tour of the Soviet Union.

Mr. Henry L. Atkins, Jr., Curate of the St. James Episcopal Church, will give the invocation and benediction at the ceremony.

The "Madrigalists" of the School of Music will present "Come Be My Love," by Raffman and "Autumn," a selection from a group of four seasonal madrigals by Arnold Freed. The group will be accompanied by Lawrence Robinson, assistant professor of organ.

Faculty and Seniors will form an academic possession in caps and gowns at 9:30 a.m. on Shafer st. Classes will be dismissed at 9:30 a.m. for the formal convocation at 10 a.m. Classes will resume at 11 a.m.

Junior Marshalls chosen by the Senior class are: Paulette McCall, Fashion Illustration, Roanoke; Judy Chatham, Costume Design, Dalton, Ga.; Kathy Holdsworth, Art Education, Alexandria; Nancy Yowell, Education, Washington, D. C.

Also Howard Koch, Distribution, Richmond; Sam Assaid, Drama, Roanoke; John Welch, History, Charlottesville, and Sam Shield, Journalism, Newport News.

Convocations are held during the year for the purpose of presenting to the student body topics of general interest concerning the RPI community.

Norris Is Elected Alumni President

George W. Norris has been re-elected president of the Alumni Association. Norris is a 1952 graduate, is the senior vice-president of the Fidelity Bankers Life Insurance Company of Richmond.

"The Alumni Association has made and will continue to make a contribution to the future growth and development of the college," said Norris.

"The direction we will take in fulfilling this objective will continue through close cooperation with the administration and faculty," he said.

Other Alumni Association offices will be filled by Samuel H. Guza, vice-president; Mrs. Diane Brewington, secretary, and Miss Mossetta Sykes, treasurer.

New Director Was Official Of Richmond

John A. Mapp, director of the Evening College, said he hopes to carry on the work initiated by Melvin D. Fuller, last year's director, and to "carry on the American dream for bigger and better things in the field of education."

Mapp, who took the position of director July 1, believes that the evening college would not have had an increase in enrollment of almost 500 had Mr. Fuller and the staff not "fully satisfied their customers."

Mr. Mapp served as commissioner for the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service in New Orleans before joining the RPI staff. His work primarily involved the settlement of labor-management disputes, personnel grievances, and contract negotiations.

From 1949 until 1952 he was director of personnel for the City of Richmond. In this capacity he helped inaugurate the council-manager form of government under the new city charter.

During World War II he served in the U. S. Navy, first as ensign and later as a lieutenant. Following six months in Naval Training Schools, he spent eighteen months in the South Pacific on P. T. boat operations.

Dr. Oliver Accepts Plan; Allocation Set at $28,185

The 1964-65 Student Activities budget of $28,185.05—an increase of $4,590.05 over last year's allocation—was approved Tuesday by Dr. Oliver.

The Cobblestone received the largest allotment—$10,000—an increase of $100. The Image received a $500 increase, for a total of $3,500.

Other allotment increases were Student Government Association, $600, a $100 increase; Dance club, from $1,000 to $2,000; and a joint $2,000 boost to the Concert-Lecture Series and the spring music concert fund.

Designed to allow reduced rates to students, the Drama department subsidy was set at $1,000. The athletic subsidy of $2,000 will provide free admission for students at sports events.

Other budget designations are miscellaneous Mosque dance costs, $100; orientation recreation and entertainment, $350, and the Spring Arts Festival—which was included in the contingency fund last year—$1,000. The contingency, or reserve fund totals $2,035.05.

The Student Activities committee is comprised of nine students and eight faculty members headed by Chairman, Dean of Students Russell A. Johnston.

Faculty committee members are William J. Cosby, auditor; Thomas R. Long, assistant professor of dramatic art; Leon Bellin, assistant professor of commercial art; Miss Nancy Alexander, assistant professor of physical education; Dr. Donald B. Tennant, professor of music; Dr. W. L. Tucker, associate professor of business, and C. Thomas Holloway, associate professor of dramatic art.

Library Blues

The RPI Library has its own peculiarly individualistic version of Virginia's Sunday Blue Law.

Although the Library does not prohibit the sale of specific articles as does the Blue Law, it has initiated certain restrictions for Sunday operation of Library facilities.

The Library offers a semi-service to students on Sunday by remaining open 2-5 p.m. for reference or library work only. No books may be checked out at this time.

This regulation is entered by the Library staff although no written notification of the restriction may be found on Library bulletin boards or listed with other rulings in the "Signpost—The Guide to Student Life at Richmond Professional Institute."

Students who are not aware of the existence of the regulation and attempt to check out books on Sunday are told of the restriction and instructed to return the following day to pick up the requested book which may be held at the desk for them.

Supervision of facilities does not seem to affect the range of service. This reduction of facilities is observed with apparent belief in the validity of the restriction.

One Library staff member explained the regulation to us.

The Library is open on Sundays primarily as a service to students who work on Saturdays and after classes. The Sunday hours enable these students to do necessary research work. Asked when these students could check out books, the staff member replied, "It would have to be during class hours."

Only two years ago the Library remained closed on Sundays. Student demand finally resulted in the Sunday hours. These week end hours are a service to all students, but restrictions make it a limited service.

It seems impractical to have the Library staff present merely to keep order. Their duties easily could remain the same on Sundays as they are during the week.

We question the Library's justification of this policy.

Hot Foot

By Rick Harrison

In our travels to downtown Richmond the other day, we stumbled into the pet department of one of the big stores and contracted an acute case of parrot fever.

It all started when we went to pay our budget account (of last count we owed the store for one gross of buggy whips and a 50-pound barrel of unleached flour). Having paid the bill, our attention was called to the pet department which was having a penny sale on imported birds.

The saleslady—who reminded us of a moulting Baltimore oriole—was particularly fitted for the pet shop.

A vast array of dull-colored feathers and a floor full of the hulls of birdseed was the first encounter with the birds.

Two birds in particular caught our eye (several others' cages had caught our nose off guard).

A Dirty Mynah

A mynah bird—who refused to release his name for publication—kept sticking his head out of his cage, yelling obscene words to fat ladies dressed in black. And since this was a week end sale there were quite a few fat ladies dressed in black.

The dirty words flew out of the mynah's beak like a shipwrecked sailor stranded on an island with no women . . . a normal sailor, that is. We dare not print what the mynah had on its mind for the sake of keeping this a "clean" paper.

And then we came to the parrot's cage.

Just think of the last time you met with a parrot. What's the first thing you said. It was "Polly, want a cracker?" Right?

We used the same approach thinking this would incite the parrot into a stream of consciousness.

Needed a Bromo

But the parrot stared blankly back at us saying nothing. We figured it had had a bad night. So we asked it, "Polly, want a bromo?" But still no luck.

"Polly, want a vodka Collins?" "Polly, want a whiskey sour?" "Polly, what do you want?"

Our questions went on and on, but Polly never answered. Polly had the DT's.

Then, it started, Polly stuck his thick tongue between his sawed-off beak and wouldn't shut up. He said moral decay started three days after he was hatched; it seems someone slipped him spiked pumpkin seeds one day and he discovered he was an alcoholic.

He kept falling out of the vines and trees in the jungles of Borneo and started smoking pot. His was a life of vice and corruption. The parrot was even head of a jungle mafia that shipped pep seeds over the border.

Hard to Believe

Many of you will find this all hard to believe.

But, my friends, we are living proof that the parrot's story is true. We have developed a severe case of parrot fever.

The fever started when we developed this unquenchable craving for saltines, and, if this wasn't bad enough, we had to have beer and cheese with the crackers.

Moral: birds of a feather are cold. How would you feel if you had to share one feather with a flock of other nutty birds?

Students Lack Self-Discipline, German Art Major Believes

By Dave Harvey

"I think American women have problems. They are too sentimental and do not work anything out by themselves."

This is what Hans Schaal, Senior Commercial Art major from Stuttgart, Germany, believes.

Being mildly critical of some American institutions, Schaal, nevertheless, loves America.

Regarding American women, he says they have all those old American values but are confronted with the ways of modern life. However, he adds, "I love women; I adore them".

Schaal, 29, has been in America for three-and-a-half years and will receive his third college degree when he graduates this spring. In Geneva, Switzerland he earned a liberal arts degree from the University of Geneva. He also has a business degree from the Stuttgart School of Higher Learning.

Concerning the American educational system he says there is not enough self-discipline among the students. The only discipline imposed upon them is that of withholding privileges, which is not the case in most European colleges and universities.

Schaal thinks many students do not really become involved in their work while in college.

"They are always after a material gain," he says, "they do not do too much just to better themselves as a person." He believes a good education can be obtained, but "most students are not mature when they enter college in the United States."

First Love—Photography

"My first love is photography. I want to travel all over the world and do freelance photographic essays for newspapers and magazines," he says.

Schaal has sold much of his work and is a regular contributor to the Image, the college's creative magazine. He feels that photography is a valuable tool in communications and that it is an ideal means of self-expression. He says training in commercial art will be valuable to him as a photo-journalist.

When he first arrived in America Schaal was immediately drafted into the Army. Ironically he was ordered to Germany. Since he is able to speak five languages fluently he served as a translator in military courts.

"The Army gave me a good chance to find out a lot about the American people," he said.

When asked what his first impression of America was he said he expected things to be different from what they are.

"America has an appeal to me because of its vastness. In Germany conditions are generally crowded," he said.

Before coming to America, Schaal played semi-professional handball for four-and-a-half years in Switzerland. He also played soccer for the Army team during his military hitch.

Schaal regrets that he has not had much time engage in sports since he came to RPI.

Final Senior Fittings Scheduled for Today

Seniors who have not been fitted with caps and gowns should report to the housekeeper's office at 924 Park ave. today between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. Seniors are expected to wear caps and gowns at the convocation exercises on Wednesday.

Naval Reserve Will Visit

A representative from the Naval Reserve will visit the campus on Monday.

Yale Art Department Chairman Lectures to Students Here

Jack Tworok, chairman of the Art department of Yale University and one of the foremost abstract-expressionist painters of the New York school, spoke before the combined school of Fine and Commercial Art, Tuesday.

"We feel that Mr. Tworok is one of the most distinguished creative artists to have been invited to our campus," said Maurice Bonds, head of the Fine Arts department.

Tworok has held fifteen one-man shows since 1947. He has shown his works in most of the famous museums of the United States, including the Museum of Modern Art and the Guggenheim Museum in New York. His work is reproduced in all art history books which include the latest period.

His latest major award was 1st prize at the Corcoran biannual show in Washington, D.C. in 1963.

Tworok, who was born in Poland, attended Columbia University, the American Academy of Design and the Art Students League of New York. He has taught at several colleges, including Black Mt. in North Carolina.

One of his latest exhibits was seen by many RPI students on a field trip to Washington last spring when Tworok was showing his works at the Gallery of Modern Art.

'Mug and Blanket Hootenanny' Set for Tomorrow Afternoon

A Mug and Blanket Hootenanny, sponsored by the Cotillion club, will be given in the first floor parlors of the Student Center, tomorrow 3-5 p.m.

Students are to bring blankets, mugs and dates. All musical instruments will be welcome, but they are optional.

Among the guest performers will be Rick Wagoner, Sophomore, Commercial Art, Sanford, N. C., and Jeff Camp, Sophomore, Distribution, Wheaton, Md.

Sharon Gates, Elementary Education Junior from Ocala, Fla., and co-chairman of the Cotillion club said the Mug and Blanket Hootenanny will be a warm-up for Openings.

"Anyone who can play a musical instrument or sing will be welcome. It's sure to be a lot of fun, and we are hoping for a large attendance," Sharon said.

Cider or coffee and doughnuts will be served. Slacks may be worn.

Admission is 25 cents.

Ramblings

Scouting Report No. 1 By Sam Shield

The name of the game is height. While the Rams basketball team possesses no skyscrapers, the team's first game—a home encounter against Newport News Apprentice school—will be a battle of the little men.

When the Shipbuilders, under Coach Bill Castelow, invade the Franklin st. gymnasium on December 1, they too will be short on height. But for Coach Castelow the improvement in this year's squad will make his team a contender.

The Apprentice school, this season, is minus last year's leading scorers, forwards Royce Bowden and Bernie Vaughan who averaged 17.0 and 11.3 points per game, respectively.

Returning from last year's squad are Billy Rew, a 6'3" forward who averaged 8.3 points per game; John McKinney, 6'2", 11.2 and Doug Gauley, 5'8", 10.0.

Other returning veterans are Ronnie Carmeans, 6'4", 3.0; D. T. Andreoli, 6'2", 5.9, and Butch Waters, 6'5", 2.7.

Newcomers on the Shipbuilder team are Owen Smith, 6'6", and Mac Hill, 6'4", from last year's Group I-A basketball champions, Newport News high school, along with grid star Willie Brown, 6'1".

With Brown, Hill and Smith, Coach Castelow will have seven men between the heights of 6'1" and 6'6".

"The addition of Smith and with Waters' having another year of experience under his belt, our height problem should be better," Coach Castelow said.

Coach Castelow, in his fifth year at the helm, said he will carry a squad of 15 men. The A's have scheduled 21 games this season after closing out last year's campaign with a 10-11 ledger.

In the two meetings with Newport News last year, the Rams came out on top in both games, barely winning the second contest by one point in the Shipbuilder gymnasium.

Coach Castelow said he would stress the use of the fast break on offense whereas in the past he has had to emphasize possession type basketball.

Defensively, he could be allowed to switch from the matching zone to the man-to-man. Of course, all this might change by December 1.

Coach Ed Allen has kept RPI busy all week on defense and running hard. Dave Terry, who has been bothered by a bad back injury incurred during the summer, is the latest addition to the Ram team. This brings the total number of players on the squad to 13.

The big question remains: will the Shipbuilders be in condition in time for the Rams and will the Rams live up to expectations. The show begins December 1.

Intramurals to Begin; Play Starts Monday

Twelve teams are set to begin the men's intramural basketball season which gets under way Monday.

The teams, announced by intramural director Dave Magill this week, are the German club, the Varsity club, Sots, Carpetbaggers, Hasbeens, Liabilities, Traitors, Yankees, Lafayette Dormitory, the Commuters, the Bangers and Johnson Hall dormitory.

Schedule for the first week is follows:

Monday—4:00, Sots vs. the Bangers
5:30, Hasbeens vs. German club
Tuesday—4:00, Commuters vs. Lafayette Dormitory
5:30, Varsity Club vs. Yanks
Wednesday—4:00, Traitors vs. Liabilities
5:30, Johnson Hall dormitory vs. Carpetbaggers

Wholesale Trading

During the past week players have been shuffling between teams in wholesale trades. Last year's leading intramural scorer, Howard Clabough, Senior, Physical Education, Richmond, with an average of 22.1 points per game, played with the Varsity club but this year he will be playing for the Carpetbaggers.

Jerry Stone, Sophomore, Business, Richmond, the second leading scorer last season with a 17.4 average has switched from the Traitors to the Sots, and John Gaddy, Senior, Business, Richmond, intramural's fourth leading scorer with a 15.0 average will play for the Traitors after playing for the Sots last year.

The teams will play a regular schedule until January when the league will be divided into two groups—an A league for the better teams and a B league for the other teams.

Cheerleaders Name Ann Levin Captain

By Larry Evans

The selection of seven cheerleaders was announced this week. The cheering squad will represent the basketball team at its games this year.

Returning from last year are Juniors Lu Hooper, Distributive Education, Newport News, and Sharon Gates, Elementary Education, Ocala, Florida. Sophomores Ann Levin, Sociology, Richmond.

Also Carol Williams, Fashion Illustration, Jetersville; Frances Loth, Art Education, Richmond, and Dale Gatewood, History, Richmond. The only newcomer to the squad is Freshman Sonya Hagen, Journalism, Hopewell.

The cheerleaders chose Anne Levin to serve as captain this season. Anne lists her hobbies as listening to soap operas and trying to find ways to get out of studying. As for sports she enjoys wrestling and basketball and going to football games on cold days.

No Times for Hobbies

Lu Hooper said she "doesn't have time for hobbies." As for sports she put basketball and football at the top of her list. Lu says that she learns a lot about basketball by talking to the players.

Ichabod, an iguana, occupies the time of Sharon Gates. A native of Florida, Sharon spends a great deal of her spare time participating in water sports. Roller derby and carpet golf also are of interest to this third-year cheerleader.

Carol Williams enjoys singing, dancing and water skiing. Horseback riding, basketball and football are sports which offer enjoyment to Carol.

Enjoys Bridge, Parties

Dale Gatewood enjoys playing bridge and going to parties. Water skiing, basketball and football are her favorite sports. When asked if she knew anything about basketball she answered, "I know I get awfully mad at the referees sometimes."

Painting and water skiing are spare time interests of Frances Loth. She enjoys swimming and going to basketball games. "Basketball is a sport that everyone can participate in and enjoy," Frances said.

Newcomer Sonya Hagen is interested in politics. Sonya also enjoys travelling in foreign countries and writing. Basketball is her favorite sport. In answer to the question did she know anything about basketball, Sonya replied, "When you cheer for four years you are bound to take in something."

Distribution Majors Start Work Projects

By Donald Dulin

Twenty-six Distribution majors reported for work in Richmond, Washington, Alexandria and Arlington retail stores Monday in junior executive positions for the Christmas season.

The students work 42 hours a week for eight weeks and receive three credits. When they return here in January, they will write a project on their retail experiences during the Christmas season.

Seven students went to work at Thalhimers in Richmond—Leonard Carlson, Richmond, Senior, who serves as assistant to the basement merchandising manager; Virgil Mansfield, another Richmond Senior, whose position will be assistant buyer in men's furnishings; Jane Beckley, a Greenwich, Conn., Senior, who will be supervisor of customer services.

Also Bobbi Griffin, Senior, Woodland, N. C.; Hope Horner, Newport News, Senior; James Strickland, Senior, Wilmington, N. C., and Lin Turner, Senior, Hagerstown, Md., will all be working as supervisors in the toy department and other Christmas sections.

Working at Miller and Rhoads

Seniors Sara West, Newport News and Nancy Moss, Richmond, will be assistants to the buyers in accessories and sportswear at Miller and Rhoads. Four other students will be in other supervisory positions—Susanna Rowe, Richmond, Senior; Ann Thrvillian, Richmond, Senior; Robert Haskey, a Bon Air graduate student, and Lib Peden, Charleston, W. Va., Senior.

Four other seniors are working at Richmond's Sears store. Tony Woolford, Richmond, will be assistant to the personnel director, Ben Ellenberg, Richmond, will assume duties as assistant buyer in infant and children's wear; Betty Howe, Petersburg, will be department manager of Santa Photo, and Otis Farmer, Richmond, supervisor in toys.

Ronald Coleman, Senior, Burke, went to Lansburg's in Shirlington as assistant buyer in men's furnishings, and Howard Snook, Arlington Senior, went to the Sears toy department in Arlington.

Seniors in Washington

Three seniors signed in at Woodward and Lothrop in Washington. Betty Nester, Alexandria, went as a training representative in the training department; Geri Parker, Dinwiddie, and Tanya Dayhoff, Rockville, Md., as Santa Photo managers at Wheaton Plaza and Seven Corners.

Clarence Davis, Senior, Amelia, will be assistant buyer in boy's clothing at Richmond's Berry-Burk. Senior Rod Wood from Richmond reported as a supervisor at Eljo's at Willow Lawn in Richmond.

Sherri Mueller, Senior, Newport News, and Norman Pifer, Senior, Decatur, Ill., will be with Green-tree's in Richmond as supervisors.

William Henry Alton
Christian Science Lecturer

W. H. Alton To Speak Here

William Henry Alton of the Christian Science Board of Lectureship will present a lecture entitled "Man Unlimited," Sunday at 7:30 p.m. in room 303 of the Hibbs Building.

Alton's lecture will be an exploration of how development of a person's "deeper capacities" takes place through a spiritual perception of life and its purpose.

The breaking down of old barriers of time and space put greater demands on everyone, Alton believes.

"All things are possible" to the man who is humble enough to develop his abilities through an absolute relationship to God, Alton says.

Alton believes that people were never meant to do anything by themselves, but that it is the power from the divine Mind that really does everything.

Born in Mexico city, Alton was graduated from Dartmouth College. Before entering the Christian Science healing practice in 1957, he was an administrator for the Rockefeller Brothers Governmental Studies.

Thayer Schedules Concert

Edwin Thayer, assistant professor of music, will be presented in a Faculty Concert tonight at 8:30 in the Woman's Club Auditorium, 211 E. Franklin st. Mr. Thayer, who teaches piano and French horn, is principal hornist for the Richmond Symphony Orchestra.

The concert will consist entirely of ensemble compositions. Beginning with Beethoven's "Sextet in E Flat, Op. 81 B," the program will also include "Quartet in F, Op. 2, No. 1," by Wendel Stich, and Beethoven's "Quartet No. 1, in E Flat." Following intermission, Schubert's "Quintet in A, Op. 114," also known as "The Trout," will be presented.

Alternating between horn and piano on these compositions, Mr. Thayer will be assisted by William Whitson, violin; Dennis Brown, violin and viola; Linda Whitson, French horn; Janet Kriner, cello, and Peter Bahlet, bass viola. These musicians are members of the Norfolk and Richmond Symphonies and the Feldman String Quartet.

Director of Nursing Will Attend Meeting

Miss Olive J. Faulkner, professor of nursing and director of the School of Nursing, will attend the National League for Nursing meeting in Dallas, Texas, November 9-11.

The topic of discussion will be "Teacher-Practitioner: Collaborators for the Improvement of Nursing Care."

The School of Nursing is an agency member and receives guidance from this national accrediting agency for nursing.

Eleven Musicians Give Student Recital

The School of Music opens its series of student recitals on Sunday at 3 p.m. in the Hibbs building.

Mary Burton, soprano, Senior Music Education major from Richmond, will sing "If God Be With Us" by Handal.

Carolyn Upshaw, soprano, Sophomore Music Education major from Milford, will sing "Pieta Signore" by Stradella and "O Mio Babbino Caro" by Puccini. She will also accompany Mary on the piano.

Thomas Moser, tenor, Sophomore Voice major from Richmond, will sing "O Leggiadri Occhi Belli," Blangini's "C'est Une Misere Que Nos Jeunes Gens" and Cherubini's "Ahi, Che Forse Ai Miei Di." He will be accompanied by Rita Busse, Freshman Applied Music major from Richmond.

Clarinetist Donald Faye will represent the Reed department. Faye, Junior Music Education major from Richmond, will play "From A Winter's Dream" by Gillis.

James Kirby, Sophomore Music Education major from Richmond, also will perform on the clarinet. He will play "First Sonata For Clarinet and Piano."

Alice Planting, Freshman Applied Music major from Arlington, will play an oboe selection, "Adagio" by Mozart.

Melvin Solomon, Freshman Applied Music major from Richmond, will perform on the bassoon. His selection will be "Aria 14" by Pergolesi.

Several piano performances are scheduled.

Paul Keller, Junior Music Education major from Hampton, will play four movements from "French Suite No. 5" by Bach. He will also accompany Alice.

Mrs. Kathy Hughes, Senior Music Education major from Richmond, will play Hindemith's "March From The 1922 Suite."

"The Swan Song" Will Be Presented

"The Swan Song," a one-act play by Anton Chekhov, will be presented Thursday, November 12, at 8:30 p.m. in Studio Theater.

Barbara Brown, Richmond Junior, will direct the play which she describes as "a psychological drama concerning the pathos and conflict of an aging actor."

The two-member cast includes John Arnold, Richmond, Junior, as the aging actor Svetlovodov, and Jesse Cline, Junior; Newton, N. C., as Nikita.

Richmonder Bill Williamson, Junior, is assistant director. Chip Williamson, Freshman, will be stage manager.

Freshman Cynthia Hicks, Applied Music major from Richmond, will play "Waltz In E Minor" by Chopin.

Carol Lynch, Freshman Applied Music major from Chesapeake City, Md., will play Mozart's "Sonata In A Minor, Koechel 310." Carol also will be accompanist for Carolyn, Faye, Kirby and Solomon.

Civil Service Exam Given New Date

A Civil Service clerk examination for RPI students seeking temporary employment with the Internal Revenue Service will be given in Room 25 of the Administration building on Wednesday, November 18, at 2:00 p.m.

The examination was scheduled to be given by the U.S. Civil Service Commission, November 7, but special arrangements were made by the Internal Revenue Service to administer the examination on campus.

Students who had been notified by the Commission to take this test November 7, should report for the November 18 test.

Masquerade Ball Attended by 120

"Come Dressed As You Witch"—the Masquerade Ball sponsored by Lafayette Dormitory last Saturday night in the gym—drew approximately 120 costumed guests.

Ed Coffman, Senior, Business major from West Point and manager of Lafayette, said, "The boys did an extra good job preparing for the dance."

Lyn Weaver, Sophomore, Interior Design major from Roanoke, and Harry Garner, Senior, Interior Design major from Chilhowie, were chosen as the best dancers.

Awards for the best costumes went to Herbie Pulliam, Freshman, Interior Design major from Portsmouth, and Margaret Marsh, Junior, Commercial Art major from Philadelphia, Pa.

Prizes were RPI mugs.
