

Dean Says No Spies On Campus

Latest Rumor Called 'Ridiculous'

The college spies have come in from the cold.

Rumors on the campus say the Student Personnel Office has hired male students to spy on coeds making illegal visits to men's apartments.

But Dean of Students Russell A. Johnston said this week the rumors were completely untrue and ridiculous.

"As long as I am a member of this Administration, never will such goings on take place," he said.

Two weeks ago rumors were started that male students were being hired at $4 an hour to report on coeds who were seen entering men's apartments.

Rumor Gets Started

Dean Johnston said the rumor started when four male students were standing outside a woman's dormitory Friday night two weeks ago, and one of them said that he was going to start his job of spying on the girls who were seen entering and leaving apartments.

All but one of the students laughed at what the student said. One student overheard and believed him and started the rumor.

The college regulation states women dormitory students are not allowed to visit men's clubs, fraternity houses or apartments maintained by a single man or several men or young married couples at any time. However, approval may be granted by the dean of women for well-organized, properly chaperoned parties.

'Spoon River'

Broadway Hit Show To Be Given Here

The Broadway hit show, "Spoon River," will be presented here at 8:30 p.m. March 23, in the gymnasium.

Called a glowing theatre experience by the New York Times, "Spoon River" was the only non-musical production of the 1963-64 season to win the top reviews of the Broadway critics.

Based upon Edgar L. Masters' classic of American literature, "Spoon River Anthology," it presents a portrait of life in American middle west at the turn of the century.

"Spoon River" was adapted and directed by Charles Aidman, a veteran Broadway and Hollywood performer.

The performance here will be presented exactly as it was in the original Broadway production. Featured in the cast of actors and folksingers are Carl Esser, Barbara Gilbert, Edward Grover, Judy Frank, Barbara Porter and Gil Turner.

Tickets will go on sale at the Student Personnel Office Wednesday through the following Tuesday. Students may obtain tickets free with validated identification cards. Tickets for the public will be $1.50.

Russian Tragi-Comedy

Circus Is Setting for Play

"He Who Gets Slapped," the story of a refugee from the intellectual world who tries to become a nameless individual by joining the circus as a clown, will be presented Wednesday through Saturday at 8:30 p.m. in the Shafer Street Playhouse.

A circus with clowns, horseback riders, a lion tamer and other typical circus figures provides the setting for the clown called He Who Gets Slapped.

The tragi-comedy was written by Russian playwright Leonid Andreyev.

The aspiring clown will be played by Robert Shoffner, Junior, Charlottesville.

Williams Pitts, Sophomore, Richmond, plays "Papa" Briquet, manager of the small second-rate European circus.

Half of Students Say Honor Code Is Not Effective

Almost half of the students here view the Honor Code as totally ineffective, results of an informal survey conducted by Proscript reporters indicate.

A total of 132 students selected at random on the Cobblestone campus were questioned last week.

Briefly here are the findings:

48 per cent agreed the Honor Code is totally ineffective.
23 per cent say the Code is hardly effective.
29 per cent say the Code is totally effective.

Most of those that said it was not working blamed its ineffectiveness on the part of the Code requiring students to report other students for honor offenses. Others said the faculty gave little or no support to the Code, thus causing ineffectiveness.

Ignorance of the Code by students was given as another reason for its not working.

But most of those who said the Honor Code was not working could give no suggestions for its improvement.

Interest in the Code

Interest in the Honor Code arose after Richard E. MacDougall, dean of students and advisor to the Honor Court, said the Code here was not working and that it may need to be changed.

"If something isn't done, and students continue to have little regard for it, the Honor Code will fade away and will have to be replaced by something else . . . many colleges are scrapping their systems," Dean MacDougall said.

"I don't feel the Administration can contribute in any way to changes in the Honor Code without changes by the students. If the Administration took the matter in hand, it would become the Administration's Honor Code, not the students'," he said.

Two weeks ago the Honor Court met in its first organized effort to strengthen the Code.

Four revisions in the code were proposed (See box, page four).

Drew Pearson Will Speak

Washington columnist Drew Pearson will be here tomorrow night at 8:30 in the gymnasium to speak on the political life of Washington.

A national weekly news magazine said Pearson's was the kind of journalistic vigilance that keeps small men honest and forces bigger men to work in an atmosphere of caution that frequently cramps their style.

Pearson has criticized and fought government officials, members of Congress and important business leaders whenever he felt

Le Grand Prix

Of all the honored traditions here, none seems to be as revered as the RPI Grand Prix.

This is a race which is held daily and which is entered not only by speedy sport cars, but by vehicles of any sort.

Although we realize the alley that winds through the campus is public, something must be done about the traffic problem and the speed of the traffic.

Recently we were going to class and almost became a statistic when a car zoomed by, in reverse no less, pushing us against the wall.

Someday, at the corner of the Library, two of these Grand Prix drivers are going to meet, and the only reward, if they are lucky, will be calling the insurance company for an estimate of damages.

Worse yet, an unsuspecting student will be cut down. Not only are student pedestrians in danger. It could even happen to our favorite professor.

Is it not possible for the campus police to arrest such offenders?

Although we have all the admiration in the world for sport cars and the Grand Prix, we are getting tired of yelling at a driver who has us sighted over his steering wheel, and seems "hell bent for leather" on spreading us all over the cobblestones.

Let's Do Something

What is a college student to think of the situation going on in Viet Nam?

While the young generation of today is being slapped for the Mercy beat, top-less attire and mop tops, our government plays musical chairs in carrying on the war against the Communist Viet Cong.

Coups follow coups in Saigon and raise questions as to the United States' influence and intentions.

With the passing of each successive group of coup perpetrators, the American student gradually feels less secure about United States' dominance in Viet Nam.

Why continue to let the United States be manhandled by a group of Communist plunders?

When Sen. Barry Goldwater was running for the Presidency, he advocated the bombardment of North Viet Nam supply bases. This obscure remark to the American people at the time caused fear of total warfare with Communist China.

Yet, one month ago, President Johnson ordered these same attacks and was praised for his actions.

One may try to keep abreast of the developments but after the Saigon juggling act—nine different coups in one year—even Washington is in the dark.

Each political reversal apparently catches the State Department by surprise.

There are no indications that the latest change, which apparently places the Buddhists in the saddle, will stabilize the Saigon government. As long as the power shifts continue, it will become more difficult to make suitable retaliation against a dedicated enemy.

Despite this dark picture, the United States must realize that to lose there would mean the loss of all Southeast Asia. Action must be taken now before more Americans lose their lives.

Yet President Johnson during the past few weeks has refused to explain to the American people the problems of Viet Nam.

The French during their eight-year period in Viet Nam from 1946 to 1954 lost 172,000 men, and equipment losses have never been figured.

With 23,000 Americans in Viet Nam, it is about time the President came out of his shell of secrecy and took the public as well as his political aides into his confidence.

If we are to negotiate a peace we must be ready to understand its necessity.

If it is to be total warfare, this surely must be discussed publicly.

Two-Year Plague

There must be a blight connected with even-numbered years which run into odd-numbered years — this recurring problem with the Honor Code here.

Only two years ago, 1962-63, the Proscript began a running editorial-news campaign aimed at revising the entire honor system. The campaign lasted from mid-September to late May.

Two notable results were produced during this campaign which included investigations by the Honor Council of systems at other schools, open discussions in Student Government Association meetings, analytical sessions held by each class and a study of systems in five other Virginia colleges conducted by the Proscript.

The Honor Court, which until that time had been a part of the SGA, became a separate institution and all information concerning the honor system was collected, clarified and printed in booklet form for the first time.

During this period of change several revisions which dealt mainly with the structure of the Court and trial procedures were made. The entire system underwent a supposed overhaul to render it more effective.

Now it is that most wretched time of the blight again. We once more call for a revision. Actually we request a completed revision. Our information reveals no end to the revision period of 1962-63.

The spark which ignited the fire to reform two years ago was provided by a letter to the Proscript from Mrs. Gertrude Cutler, instructor of English. She pointed out that most students were opposed to the portion of the Code which states that failure to report an offense also is to be regarded as a violation of the Honor Code. She said lack of respect for one part of the Honor Code affects respect for the rest of it and certainly cheating, stealing and lying should not be condoned.

A poll conducted by the Proscript at that time confirmed Mrs. Cutler's statement regarding failure to report an offense.

We feel that this portion of the Code alone keeps more people from adhering to the entire Code than any other single situation. This statement should be considered by the Court as one of the greatest drawbacks of the system. It should be revised or removed.

We do not feel that failure to report an offense should be considered as great a violation of the Honor Code as lying, cheating and stealing.

When a law is disapproved of and disobeyed by the majority, it certainly should be changed.

If no effective revisions can be made, then we propose that the Honor Code be replaced with some other institution.

The same problems have existed for two years and there seems to be no solution.

Of what merit is a little gray book which is distributed as just another piece of registration paraphernalia, is seldom read and frequently thrown away. The Honor Code cannot possibly function as long as it is primarily confined to a small book 4" x 9".

Stacy Henry and Some of the Majestics Perform Group Will Play for "Shake-a-Tail Feather, Part III"

German and Cotillion Clubs Sponsor "... Part III" Dance

An eight-piece band and vocalist will provide the music when the German and Cotillion clubs co-sponsor "Shake-a-Tail Feather, Part III."

The sequel to "... Part I and II" is scheduled for 8 p.m.-12 a.m. next Friday in the gymnasium.

Stacy Henry and the Majestics with vocalist C. C. Tyler will set the pace for the evening.

Henry and his band have made tours and supplied music for many popular recording bands and stars, including Major Lance, James Brown, Bo Diddley, Otis Redding, the Shirelles and others. They have also performed at the University of Richmond, the University of Virginia, and William and Mary. This will be their first appearance here.

Henry plays tenor saxophone and is leader and lead singer for the group. Other members of the band are Bernard Robinson, saxophone; Sterling Price, drums;

Henderson Squire, tenor saxophone; Charles Morris, guitar; Carlton Robinson, bass; Alvin Brown, trumpet, and C. C. Tyler, Vocalist.

A free pass to "... Part III" will be given away each day next week. To be eligible to win a pass, a student must deposit his name in a box to be located in the Rotunda, where a drawing will be held each day at 11 a.m. Winners, whose names will be posted, may pick up their tickets at the ticket desk in the Rotunda.

For the first time, the Cotillion club, the only coed social club on campus, will co-sponsor a "Shake-a-Tail Feather" dance.

Tickets for "... Part III" will be on sale Monday through Friday in the Rotunda. Tickets are $2 in advance and $2.50 at the door. Part of the proceeds will go toward a scholarship fund the German club plans to establish.

Letters to the Editor

Juniors' President Defends Mid-Winters Financing

Editor, the Proscript:

I am writing in regard to an article that appeared in the March 5 issue concerning "Winter Dionysia" and the Junior class. It stated that "the Junior class, according to Dance Club Chairman Mike Boblitz, supplied no money for the dance of which it was chief sponsor."

This is a false assumption. We most assuredly did go into our own treasury for funds in trying to make this dance a great success. Indeed, we devoted more time and effort than any other persons or person involved.

Ironically enough, the classes are not required to contribute any funds toward the dances whatsoever. They are sponsored more or less as a favor to the Dance club, who would not have the time to devote to the details of sponsoring such dances. And in return for the classes doing the work, the Dance club supposedly finances everything and receives all money from ticket sales. All of which is justifiable, for neither one could function on such an occasion without the help of the other.

But the Junior class went beyond this. In order to present one of the best dances RPI has ever had, we not only solicited funds from other people, such as the Ring Committee, we also delved into our own limited treasury, so as not to half-way do anything concerning the dance.

This letter was not written to give the Junior class all the credit, which would be equally unfair, but just to give credit where credit is due.

Possibly the Dance club would like the Junior class bill also?

Dormitory Residents Point Out Flaws

Editor, the Proscript:

It seems that the editor, before allowing articles to be published in the Proscript, should be certain of the facts. In reference to the article (in last week's paper) "Dormitory Fire Is Started By Hair Dryer," coeds were not vacated from the dormitory.

Furthermore, they were not informed that a fire had started. The ones who did vacate their apartments were those fortunate enough to be awakened and could easily have been asphyxiated.

Also, we should like to bring to the attention of the student body that Monroe Terrace has never had a fire drill, has no alarm system and no sprinkler system. It is stipulated in the current RPI catalogue on page 52 that all college-owned dormitories are protected from fire by automatic sprinklers approved by the American Underwriters Association. This is another misrepresentation.

Moreover, girls have received instructions to remain in their apartments during a fire, as it is the belief of the authorities that this building is fireproof. This is impossible as the rooms, windows, and doors are completely trimmed in woodwork. The inner doors are wooden as are the floors. All walls are covered in wallpaper and even the fire doors are trimmed in wood.

If a fire were to begin because of faulty wiring, it could be well under way before the flames were seen. If such a fire occurred, it is our belief that the sudden sight of flames would cause mass panic, as no one has the vaguest idea of what to do in case of drastic fire.

It is amusing to note the Administration's concern with trivialities, and its lack of concern with the lives of 300 students.

NAMES WITHHELD BY REQUEST

(Ed. Note: Last week's news story stated "Coeds were vacated from the northern half of the dormitory where the fire started to rooms on the southern half." A Proscript reporter who lives in Monroe Terrace wrote the story.

Mrs. Margaret Peritt, assistant to the dean of women, said mimeographed fire instructions were issued to all dormitory coeds in Monroe Terrace.

Reader Requests Error Clarification

Editor, the Proscript:

I would like to thank you for printing my letter concerning the Honor Code. (See March 5 Proscript.)

There was a misprint, however, and due to the effect on the understanding of what I wrote I would like you to print a clarification.

The misprint occurred in the last paragraph.

I asked for a concerted effort among the students, not a concealed effort as was printed.

If you could clarify this mistake, it would be greatly appreciated.

On Campus with Max Shulman

(By the author of "Rally Round the Flag, Boys!" "Dobie Gillis," etc.)

THE BEARD OF AVON

Topic for today is that perennial favorite of English majors, that ever-popular crowd pleaser, that good sport and great American—William Shakespeare (or "The Swedish Nightingale" as he is better known as).

First let us examine the persistent theory that Shakespeare (or "The Pearl of the Pacific" as he is jokingly called) is not the real author of his plays. Advocates of this theory insist the plays are so full of classical allusions and learned references that they couldn't possibly have been written by the son of an illiterate country butcher.

To which I reply "Faugh!" Was not the great Spinoza's father a humble woodcutter? Was not the immortal Isaac Newton's father a simple second baseman? (The elder Newton, incidentally, is one of history's truly pathetic figures. He was, by all accounts, the greatest second baseman of his time, but baseball, alas, had not yet been invented. It used to break young Isaac's heart to see his father get up every morning, put on uniform, spikes, glove, and cap, and stand alertly behind second base, bent forward, eyes narrowed, waiting, waiting, waiting. That's all—waiting. Isaac loyally sat in the bleachers and yelled "Good show, Dad!" and stuff like that, but everyone else in town sniggered derisively, made coarse gestures, and pelted the Newtons with overripe fruit—figs for the elder Newton, apples for the younger. Thus, as we all know, the famous moment came when Isaac Newton, struck in the head with an apple, leap to his feet, shouted "Europa!" and announced the third law of motion: "For every action there is an opposite and equal reaction!"

Figs for the elder Newton, apples for the younger.

(How profoundly true these simple words are! Take, for example, Personna Stainless Steel Razor Blades. Shave with a Personna. That's the action. Now what is the reaction? Pleasure, delight, contentment, cheer, and facial felicity. Why such a happy reaction? Because you have started with the sharpest, most durable blade ever honed—a blade that gives you more shaves, closer shaves, comfortabler shaves than any other brand on the market. If, by chance, you don't agree, simply return your unused Personnas to the manufacturer and he will send you absolutely free a package of Beep-Beep or any other blade you think is better.)

But I digress. Back to Shakespeare (or "The Gem of the Ocean" as he was ribaldly appelled).

Shakespeare's most important play is, of course, Hamlet (or, as it is frequently called, Macbeth). This play tells in living color the story of Hamlet, Prince of Denmark, who one night sees a ghost upon the battlements. (Possibly it is a goat he sees; I have a first folio that is frankly not too legible.) Anyhow, Hamlet is so upset by seeing this ghost (or goat) that he stabs Polonius and Brer Bodkin. He is thereupon banished to a leather factory by the king, who hollers, "Get thee to a tannery!" Thereupon Ophelia refuses her food until Laertes shouts, "Get thee to a beanery!" Ophelia is so cross that she chases her little dog out of the room, crying, "Out, damned Spot!" She is fined fifty shillings for cussing, but Portia, in an eloquent plea, gets the sentence commuted to life imprisonment. Thereupon King Lear and Queen Mab proclaim a festival—complete with kissing games and a pie-eating contest. Everybody has a perfectly splendid time until Banquo's ghost (or goat) shows up. This so unhinges Richard III that he drowns his cousin, Butt Malmsey. This leads to a lively discussion, during which everyone is killed. The little dog Spot returns to utter the immortal curtain lines:

Our hero now has croaked,
And so's our prima donna.
But be of cheer, my friends.
You'll always have Personna.

Students Give Opinions On Worth of Honor Code

Honor Court members also discussed the idea of publishing the names of students involved in Code offenses. The court talked over the possibility of limiting punishment to two penalties—dishonorable dismissal or suspension from school.

As it now stands, the Honor Court may inflict any punishment it desires, including an "F" in the course of a student proved guilty of cheating and suspension of the student from college any where from one semester to an unlimited time specified by the Student Personnel Office when the student involved applies for readmission.

Dishonorable Dismissal

The gravest penalty the court can rule is dishonorable dismissal, which means the student involved may never reapply for admission. This penalty has not been used here in recent years.

All penalties and Honor Court involvement are included on the student's permanent record.

Here are some of the replies to the question "Do you think the Honor Code is an effective device?"

Three Honor Court members answered the question. Court Chairman Ed Coffman said, "It's working to a certain extent, but not to the fullest extent. That's the fundamental weakness of the Honor Code and why it isn't working."

Bob Tichacek
'Quite Unrealistic'

Sophomore alternate Mary Dugan: "I think if for any reason the Honor Code does not work, it's because of the lowered moral standards of the individual. At this time the moral standards of youth are lower than they've ever been."

Senior alternate Larry Pugh: "The present one is effective and should be abandoned only when its authority is not executed and accepted by the student body."

Mixed Reactions

Instructors had mixed reactions over the Honor Code:

John MacKenzie, instructor of English: "It is not completely successful. You always run the risk of a few departing from the Code. Over a period of time I feel an honor code can become an effective tradition in a school."

Miles Woods, assistant professor of English: "The honor system should be abolished. It is not taken seriously by the student body and it is just a joke."

Mrs. Gertrude C. Curtler, instructor of English: "I am against the Honor Code as it is because of the business of saying that a person is as guilty if he does not report an offense as the person who commits the first offense."

"He is not equally guilty, if he is actually guilty of a crime at all. I feel that from what I have heard from students and overheard that students do not believe in the Honor Code and sign with no intention of living up to it."

Ann Carson
'Emphasis on Educating'

"It should be done away with completely or revised. I don't know what policing should be done, but perhaps it is more the job of the faculty than the students. I feel that a great many students do not believe cheating is wrong."

Other members of the student body gave their comments:

Lynn Gibson, Sophomore, Pre-Physical Therapy, Arlington: "As far as I'm concerned, it's working. I have seen much more cheating in other schools I have attended."

Diane Abbott, Junior, Art, Newport News: "I feel that it is working. I have never seen anyone cheating."

"Doesn't Affect Individual"

Anne Blaine, Junior, Fashion Illustration, Franklin, N. C.: "No. I don't think it affects the individual that much because if they were going to turn someone in they would do it without the Honor Code, and the ones who wouldn't abide by it still wouldn't, no matter how strictly it was enforced."

Lee Ann Rowe, Junior, Occupational Therapy, Lexington, Ky.:

"When I attended the University of Kentucky, the instructors eliminated the possibility of cheating. We didn't have an Honor Code but we didn't cheat. I think it's being made too big an issue."

Cynthia Olive, Sophomore, Interior Design, Fredericksburg: "It's not stressed enough. All a student does is stand in a line, hold up his hand and say the code and then walk on."

Kevin Guthrie
'Honor Code Is Effective'

Dick Robinson, Sophomore, Advertising, Norfolk: "There is nothing wrong with the Honor Code per se; however, the blame must fall on the Administration and the students. Our Honor Code is no different from that of the University of Virginia, Harvard or anywhere else. It is the fact students take such a lackadaisical attitude toward their school that has led to demise of the Code. It is the honor—not the Code."

"Displaces Responsibility"

Norman Marshall, Sophomore, Liberal Arts, Mechanicsville: "The Honor Code encourages people to inform on their peers, which is an orthodoxy of totalitarianism. It displaces the personal responsibility for integrity from the individual to the mass of the entire social unit. Furthermore, it doesn't serve the interests of the student body as much as it serves the interests of the several manifest whims of the Administration. Alterations in Honor Code offenses are effective without the student body's consent to suit the fetish of the institution that seeks the change."

Bob Tichacek, Sophomore, Engineering, Richmond: "The Honor Code is something people are forced into. It is quite unrealistic, because in an honor code, you are supposed to be left on your own personal honor. Here, you can be kicked out of school for not telling on someone else. When I pledge myself, I'm not pledging to tell on someone else. I'm not my brother's keeper."

"Not Left on His Honor"

"When an RPI student takes the Honor Code pledge, he is not left on his honor. For example, you are forced to be checked for hidden books in the library. The point I'm trying to make is that if a person is going to be checked for books, even if he has taken the pledge, why even have an Honor Code? The Code is nice in name, but it is completely superfluous."

Kevin Guthrie, Sophomore, Liberal Arts, Arlington: "I personally haven't seen much evidence of cheating, and not many cases in the Proscript itself. Therefore, I would have to say that the Honor Code is effective to a great degree."

"Keep the System"

Adele Sciscent, Sophomore, Business, Portsmouth: "If we could keep the system and make people respect it more, it would work. That assembly-line swearing-in doesn't make you respect the system."

Cathy Canady, Junior, Art, Alexandria: "The fact that the system we now use is entirely run by the students is one of the main reasons it must not be done away with, to do so would be confessing that we as young ladies and gentlemen feel that we can not watch over a trust such as this placed in our hands by the Administration."

"Nothing Can Replace It"

Martha Pullen, Senior, Sociology, Sandston: "If the Code isn't used, I know of nothing that can replace it."

Cleveland Cook III, Freshman, Business, Richmond: "Teachers do not participate enough in the honor system to make it work."

Jackie Burke, Freshman, Advertising, Hampton: "The honor system here is a farce from the beginning. In September, some guy with a cigarette hanging out of his mouth asked me to repeat

Honor Code Revisions

PRESENT CODE

An individual is considered to be guilty of cheating, and thus of committing a breach of the Honor Code, only if he acted with specific intent to deceive.

If you profit by the advice or help of another person (except your instructor) in preparing a theme, research paper, or a written exercise which is to be submitted as your own work, you must append a full statement of the nature and extent of the help received.

Stealing is the act of taking or appropriating without right or leave that which belongs to another with intent to keep or make use of wrongfully that which was taken.

Added to the section on lying would be: Dormitory students who sign out for one destination and go to another will be considered guilty of lying.

PROPOSED CHANGE

An individual is considered to be guilty of cheating, and thus committing a breach of the Honor Code, if he acts in a suspicious manner such as looking at another person's paper, looking at notes or looking at textbook during an examination of any sort.

If you profit by the advice or help of another person (except your instructor) in preparing a theme, research paper, or any other material which is to be submitted as your own work, you must append a full statement of the nature and extent of the help received.

Stealing is the act of taking without permission anything that belongs to another.

the Honor Code after him. Well, it was apparent that he didn't really care. I couldn't see the book he held up in front of me, so I only half-way said it. The present system can not work like that. Honestly, I can't remember what it says, anyway."

Nancy Black, Junior, Distribution, Richmond: "No matter what measures are taken toward enforcing a school's honor system, there will always be those who will break it."

Norman Marshall
'Totalitarianism'

Susan Findlay, Sophomore, Fashion, Roanoke: "RPI has the same honor system that every other school uses. It is all a matter of how it is enforced. Freshmen are not indoctrinated here like they are in other schools."

Richard Robertson, Sophomore, Advertising, Norfolk: "It has a lot to do with pride in the school. We have very, very little pride here."

"Consist of Deans or Faculty"

Susan Eubank, Junior, Elementary Education, Falls Church: "I believe that the honor council should consist of deans or faculty rather than students. I don't think any group of boys and girls can actually sit in judgement of another pupil."

Paulette McCall, Junior, Fashion, Roanoke: "The Honor Court is too secretive. It would be more effective, I'm sure, if the names of guilty persons were published."

Carole Davis, Freshman, Business, Martinsville: "The many cases of cheating that have been reported prove the ineffectiveness of the Honor Code."

chology, Richmond: "Exams and tests should be proctored. The present generation of college students doesn't have the moral stamina to impose rules and regulations upon themselves, therefore, why shouldn't they cheat?"

Anne Levin, Sophomore Education, Richmond: "The problem arises when it's a known fact that most students wouldn't turn someone in if they saw them cheating. If a student plans to cheat, he or she will not hesitate to raise his right hand and take the oath."

"Instructors Should Speak"

Sonny Simpson, Sophomore, Engineering, Varina: "Instructors should speak to the students of their individual classes several times a year about honor and its merits."

Ann Carson, Sophomore, Retailing, Petersburg: "We should put more emphasis on educating the students to the workings of the code through school publications as well as verbal instruction."

Ralph Sager, Sophomore, Biology, Richmond: "Every college student should be capable of practicing honesty, if not he should not be a college student."

"Size Hinders Effectiveness"

Merilyn Lowery, Sophomore, History, Richmond: "The size of RPI hinders (the Code's) effectiveness."

John Roach, Senior, Business, Richmond: "People are basically dishonest. Like marriage, the Honor Code is a device imposed by society."

Robert Burns, Senior, Business, Bon Air: "No, but tell me a better system where you don't get pinned under with rules and regulations."

Model of Proposed $3 Million Dormitory on Grace St. College Has Been Offered Exclusive Use of Building

College Given Option On $3 Million Building

The college has been given until the latter part of May to decide whether to accept control of a proposed $3 million dormitory being constructed at 823-29 West Grace st.

"The dormitory has been offered to RPI for first refusal, that is, the college has been given first choice on the dormitory," Arthur C. Worley, a former RPI student and president of Collegiate Developers Inc., explained.

Worley said all plans and specifications had been reviewed by Dr. Oliver and Webster S. Rhoads Jr., a member of the Board of Visitors. Worley said a decision would be made by the college sometime in May.

Complete Control Offered

"I don't understand the school's hesitancy in the acceptance of the proposed dormitory. Under the first refusal plan offered them, RPI would have complete control over it and existing school regulations would apply," Worley said.

It was also asserted by Worley that Dr. Oliver had requested over the telephone that Robert O. Guza, treasurer of CDI "not bother the Board of Visitors at this time."

The school has been offered exclusive use of the structure, but if some definite action is not taken during May, use of the dormitory would be opened to other area schools with the builders assuming the responsibilities of supervision.

Plans Other College Projects

CDI has plans to build at other colleges, and is now purchasing property for another state school, in an effort to meet the needs of Virginia schools, both public and private. The location was not disclosed.

At the same time work on the Grace Street dormitory is proceeding on schedule with or without RPI's acceptance.

The dormitory has been designed for possible use as a co-educational dormitory, with apartments available on each floor for house mothers or dormitory managers.

There also will be six private rooms per floor available to graduate students. Each floor has 66 beds and 792 students can be accommodated.

Dr. Oliver has asked CDI not to provide facilities for meals, because of a possible addition to the school's budget for a new cafeteria, according to Worley.

"Our dormitory will rent for much less per semester than the 'fire traps' students are now living in," Worley said.

"We hope RPI will see fit to accept the use of the new dormitory," Worley said.

Sweethearts and Attendants Are Selected For May Court

Four class sweethearts and eight attendants were selected at a tea last Thursday at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Oliver. The coeds will serve as the May Court at the May Dance, May 1.

Thirty-three candidates from the four classes vied for positions on the court of May Queen Joyce Lamm, Senior Occupational Therapy major from Sinking Springs, Pa., and Maid of Honor Carole Mundy, a Senior Fashion major from Rockville, Md.

Judged on Four Points

The coeds were judged on beauty, poise, personality and school activities.

Libby Peden, Distribution major from Charleston, W. Va., is Senior class sweetheart. Mary Kay Burton, Music major from Richmond, and Judy Grimm, Occupational Therapy major from Cumberland, Md., are her attendants. Lin Turner, Distribution major from Hagerstown, Md., and Betty Nester, Distribution major from Alexandria are alternates.

The results of a parking survey taken here January 13 at the request of the Richmond Parking Board have been given to Richmond Traffic Commissioner John Hanna.

The questionnaire, filled out by faculty and students, was concerned with hours and where commuters park their cars and the number of passengers riding in each vehicle.

The purpose of the survey was to ascertain city parking needs.

A. Lee Hall, assistant professor of Business, said the results of the survey and the findings of the Traffic Commission would be released at a later date by Hanna.

Jane Dulaney Reynolds, Senior voice major from Clinton, N.C., will give a concert at 8:30 next Friday night at the Woman's club, 211 East Franklin st.

Regulations for Fire Criticized by Coeds

A fire that sent smoke into all 13 floors of Monroe Terrace dormitory two weeks ago has brought a barrage of complaints about fire regulations from coeds living on the upper floors.

A spokesman for the coeds asserted that the dormitory has faulty wiring, no sprinkler system, no alarm system and no fire drills. She said the coeds have been instructed to stay in their apartments and keep their doors closed in event of another fire.

Russell A. Johnston, dean of students, and 10 members of the German club donated blood at the Virginia Blood Bank last Friday.

David Alexick, graduate art assistant from Lynchburg, and June Spain Atwood, graduate art student from Richmond, are among college art students from Tennessee, Virginia, North Carolina and South Carolina who have work on display in an exhibit at the Appalachian Gallery of Fine Arts Building in Boone, N.C.

The exhibit will close March 25.

A national recruiter for Camp Fire Girls, Inc., will be here Tuesday to interview college women for a career in the national youth organization.

Camp Fire Girls serves over 600,000 members in the 50 states and provides a program of education and recreation to girls from seven through high school age.

Fire-Proofed Doors

Central stairwells are of concrete and steel, and the walls around the elevator shafts are concrete. All doors are fire-proofed with metal coverings.

The city fire bureau, which annually inspects the building, said there is no need for a sprinkler system since the structure is fire-proofed.

Mrs. Perritt said there are no fire drills because the fire marshal advised against them with such a large number of students involved.

No Bell Alarm System

There is no bell alarm system because a panic could be created by mass evacuation and the telephone intercommunications system is a better method of letting occupants know about any fires in the building, she said.

The complaint of faulty wiring, Mrs. Perritt said, is really misdirected. It should be directed to an overloading of the circuits by the girls themselves. She noted the recent blaze was attributed to use of a hair-dryer.

Mrs. Perritt also explained that smoke travels to the upper floors quickly because the stairwells act as chimneys to the top and that very little of the smoke would enter apartments if the fire doors were kept closed.

The Quota club, girls' community welfare organization, last week collected more than $100 for CARE as its first service program for the year.

Danny Dixon With Coach Dave Magill
Number One Golfer Was Second in State Last Year

Six Lettermen Lift Hopes For Winning Golf Squad

By Richard Corker

"All in all it looks like we will have the strongest golf team we have ever had," Coach Dave Magill said this week.

The team will have six returnees from last year's team. They are Danny Dixon, Sophomore, Business, Richmond; George Temple, Junior, Business, Richmond; Robbie Showalter, Senior, Business, Kenbridge; Howard Clabough, Senior, Physical, Education, Farmville; Ed Rothgeb, Senior, Physical Education, Roanoke, and Joe Gentry, Senior, Business, Richmond. There also will be several new prospects.

The home matches will be played this year at the Lakeside Country club, "which," Coach Magill said, "we appreciate very much since it is one of the better courses in the Richmond area, and we feel the team is very fortunate to play on a course of such caliber."

Team Led by Dixon

Last year's team finished with a 2-6-2 record. The team was led by Danny Dixon who finished second among colleges in the state. Dixon shot a 156 at Hot Springs last year and was only two strokes from the number one position.

Last year RPI was forced to play its first six matches in the rain. Dixon was not able to play well in cold rainy weather, Coach Magill said.

"All our boys were capable of shooting in the 70's, but lack of ideal weather and playing on bad courses caused most of our downfall," he said.

The team will suffer from the loss of Doug Miller, last year's number two player.

Matches Scheduled

Coach Magill said there will be two matches with Old Dominion College, Randolph-Macon College, the Medical College of Virginia and the University of Richmond. Single matches will include Lynchburg College, Bridgewater College and Hampden-Sydney College. The team also will attend the State Collegiate Tournament, April 26-27, at Hot Springs.

The Rams are anxiously awaiting their meeting with the University of Richmond with whom they have a 1-1 record in the big city rivalry.

Coach Magill Cites Wrestling Potential

The wrestling team may have posted a winless season, but Coach Dave Magill and his squad do not feel their efforts were in vain.

"Sure, I'm disappointed that we didn't have a better record," Coach Magill said, "but the boys worked hard and the experience we gained will help us a lot next year."

"Injuries and schedule conflicts hurt us at first, but as the season progressed, definite improvement could be seen," he said.

Illustrates Point

The two matches with Hampden-Sydney College illustrated Coach Magill's point. The Rams met Hampden-Sydney at mid-season and were turned back 28-6. They faced the Tigers again in the final contest of the season and matched them point for point on the mat but were forced to forfeit two weight classes, enabling the Tigers to win, 21-11.

"Mike Winchester did a great job for us," Magill said. "He was our most outstanding wrestler."

Winchester, a freshman from Richmond, had the only winning record on the team. Wrestling in the 123 lb. class, he posted a 5-3 mark for the season.

Schedule Conflicts

Schedule conflicts prohibited Winchester from competing in the early part of the season, but when he started wrestling the second week in January he began by defeating Tom Hoover of Newport

News Apprentice School by a margin of eleven points, 12-1.

Winchester had 19 points for the season with two pins and three decisions.

"We'll certainly miss Charlie Hall next year," Coach Magill said. "He did a good job for us. I think he would have had an even better season if it hadn't been for his injury at the beginning of the year."

Hall suffered a dislocated elbow which hampered him for six weeks and caused him to sit out the first two matches.

"If most of our wrestlers return next season and we can get a few experienced boys out of high school I think we will have a much improved record next season," said Magill.

Hasbeens Down Sots For Second Position

By Al Shahda

Herman Allen sank two foul shots with no time remaining in overtime to give the Hasbeens a 75-74 victory over the Sots Wednesday night.

The victory left the Hasbeens with a 10-1 record and sole possessor of second place in the men's intramural league race.

The two teams were tied 64-64 at the end of regulation time. The Sots posted a 74-73 lead at the end of the overtime period but Allen was fouled trying to make a last second shot which failed.

The Varsity club moved closer to a perfect season as it won its ninth and tenth straight game.

Despite having only a 30-20, half-time lead, they went on to crush Lafayette Dormitory, 75-47.

Shaheen Nets 24 Points

High scorer for the Varsity club was George Shaheen with 24 points.

Ed Allen pumped in 18 points for Lafayette Dormitory.

A last half surge enabled the Varsity to defeat the Liabilities, 82-52.

The Liabilities rallied in the second half to pull within 11 points with 12:30 left in the game. The Varsity club then staged a counter-attack and pulled away for good.

George Shaheen led the Varsity club with 30 points and teammate Dean Sisler collected 22.

Leading, 38-28, at half-time, the Sots went on to defeat Lafayette Dormitory, 74-57.

The Sots placed five players in double figures: Butch Waleski, 16; Rick Lyons, 13; Jerry Stone, 11; Jim Cobb, 10, and Bob McMillan, 10.

The Hasbeens went into half-time with a slim, seven-point lead over the Yankees, but surged back in the second half for a 78-45 victory.

Ken Magill with 18 points was high scorer for the Hasbeens, which placed three other men in double figures: Jerry Harding, 13; Billy Cooke, 13, and Guy Davis, 10.

Leading, 26-15, at half-time, the Liabilities traded shots in the second half for a 51-37 victory over the Yankees.

Mike Kirby led the attack for the Liabilities with 19 points. Teammates Billy Gordon and Curtis Wright collected 12 points apiece.

Carpbaggers Win

The Carpbaggers trailed the German club, 25-24, at half-time but came back in the second half for a 68-45 victory. It was the sixth loss in a row for the German club.

For the Carpbaggers, Jerry Hubbard hit double figures with 21 points as did teammates Joe Davis and Howard Clabough with 19 and 17 points, respectively.

The Traitors completely overran the Bangers, 73-40.

All five starters for the Traitors hit in double figures: Stan Sweeney, 25; Bernie Mann, 14; Roger Fadula, 12; Ed Coffman, 12, and Woody Cofer, 12.

The team standing are:

Varsity club	10-0
Hasbeens	10-1
Sots	9-2
Traitors	7-3
Carpbaggers	7-3
Liabilities	4-6
Bangers	4-7
Lafayette Dormitory	3-8
Johnse Hall	2-8
Commies	2-8
Yankees	1-9
German club	1-9

The top ten individual scorers through March 9 were George Shaheen, 22.2, Varsity club; Howard Clabough, 18.2, Carpbaggers; Jerry Harding, 17.9, Hasbeens; Bernie Mann, 16.2, Traitors; Dean Sisler, 16.0, Varsity club; Jerry Stone, 15.8, Sots; Joe Davis, 14.8, Carpbaggers; Stan Sweeney, 14.5, Traitors; Harold Starke, 14.4, Sots, and Jerry Hubbard, 13.6, Carpbaggers.

Lyn Creech

The state's leading collegiate scorer was voted last week to the All-Little Eight Conference basketball. Creech, who averaged 24.0 points per game, is the only Freshman on the honor squad. The 6' 2" forward hit double figures in every game and scored 38 points against Southeastern University for his best performance of the season.

Baseball Squad Returns With Extra Bench Power

By Larry Evans

Baseball Coach Ed Allen says it is too soon to make any predictions about the coming baseball season, but with eight players returning from last year's squad, the future looks bright for the Rams.

Spring practice began Monday as Coach Allen put the 23 tryouts through their pre-season workout. He will cut the squad to 13 players before RPI opens its season in a home tilt with Mt. Union College on March 24.

Pitchers

The 1964 team had four players hitting better than .300, but on defense the Rams were guilty of committing an average of 3.5 errors a game.

Last year's team started strong, winning the first four games it played, and then dropped nine of the next ten to finish with a 5-9 record for the season. The Rams held the distinction of being the last undefeated team in the Middle Atlantic before hitting their never-to-end slump.

1963 Poor Season

In 1963 RPI had one of its poorest seasons, finishing with a 1-19 record. The lone win came over Randolph-Macon College. Errors also plagued that team, with an average of over four miscues a game.

Returning to this year's squad will be the pitcher-catcher combination of Milt Woody and Bill Schwartz.

Woody, a stocky right-hander, will probably be the mainstay on the pitching staff this year. He posted a 3-5 record last season. During the summer Woody pitched for Colonial Heights in the Sertoma League, gaining five wins against only one loss.

Handling the chores for the Rams behind the plate will be Schwartz. Schwartz, a 6'4", 220 lb. Junior, will be playing his third year. A fairly consistent hitter, he hit .283 last year and .286 in 1963.

Garland Lloyd, a .404 hitter last season, returns to take his position in left field. Swinging from the left hand side of the plate, Lloyd collected 23 hits in 57 times at the plate to pace the Rams batsmen.

Ed Coffman enters into his final season for the Rams. The speedy center-fielder hit at a .301 clip in 1964 and a .297 his Sophomore year.

Rounding out the returning outfielders is Jerry Harding. Harding slumped to a .217 batting average last season after hitting a robust .380 in 1963. Hardings' strong throwing arm is respected by opposing baserunners.

Roland Wheeler

Out again for second base is Roland Wheeler, the second leading hitter on the club last season with a .344 average. Wheeler was plagued with injuries throughout last season, but still managed to swing a big bat for the Rams.

Bill Gordon, known for his clutch hitting, is out again this year. Gordon is working out at third base, but is versatile enough that he could possibly see action as a first baseman or pitcher. He hit a mediocre .246 last season, but his 14 runs batted in doubled the production of any other teammate. Gordon also led in the home run department with two.

RPI is scheduled to play 20 ball games this year. The twelve home games will be played at Hotchkiss Field with single games starting at either 2 or 3 p.m.

Tunie Dooley With Coach Nancy Alexander
Number One Tennis Player Returns to Court Action

Tennis Team Hopes To Duplicate Feat

Tryouts for the women's tennis team were held Monday through Wednesday. Tennis Coach Nancy Alexander will announce the team Monday.

Miss Alexander, head of the women's Physical Education Department, has urged as many as possible to go out for the tennis team. She complained: "People were afraid that they wouldn't be good enough to make it, and we only have three girls returning."

Last year the tennis team went undefeated.

The three returning players who were the contributing factor for the victorious 7-0 season last year, are Tunie Dooley, Sophomore, Applied Social Science, Richmond; Harriet Cooley, Junior, Drama, Waterford, and Betty Compton, Junior, Applied Social Science, Richmond. Tunie is the number one singles player for the team.

Two matches have been scheduled with Lynchburg College and Bridgewater College at home, and one match has been scheduled with Westhampton College, the College of William and Mary, Longwood College, and Mary Washington College.

Matches will be played at Byrd Park.

Miss Alexander hopes for another winning season.

"The success of the team will depend on the girls who come out for it; and so far, those girls who have come to practices, know how to play tennis," she said.

Joyce Hendricks and C. L. Sigmon With GOP Symbol

Statewide Recognition

Campus Young Republicans Attain High Club Positions

Two campus politicians have gained statewide recognition by the Young Republicans.

Joyce Ann Hendricks was named Miss Virginia Young Republican 1965, and C. L. Sigmon was elected vice-chairman of the state college confederation of Young Republican (YR) clubs at the state convention, Saturday in Richmond.

Joyce, also Miss RPI YR, a Freshman Distributive Education major from Greenville, S. C., will represent the state at the National Federation of YR's convention in June at Miami. She will compete with contestants from all 50 states in the Miss YR USA.

Crowned with a garland of red and white carnations and blue ribbons, Joyce received a corsage and a pair of pearl earrings from outgoing state YR Chairman Robert Stone of Arlington.

C. L. Sigmon, president of the RPI YR's, was selected by acclamation as first vice-chairman of the state college federation.

"The club here is very proud of the important role it played in the convention, and of the role the college YR's will play in the 1965 gubernatorial elections," said Sigmon, a Junior Business major from Ferrum.

The RPI YR's sent six delegates to the convention. With a membership of 80, the RPI club ranked seventh at the convention among the 60 state clubs.

Hi-Landers and Combo Featured Next Week

A double package deal—two for the price of one—will be offered by the Dance club next Saturday night.

The Hi-Landers, a group that does folk, jazz and modern harmony, will present a concert 8-10 p.m. in the gymnasium followed by a combo party 10-12 p.m.

Paulette McCall, Junior class president and a spokesman for the Dance club, said the combo dance will be offered as a bonus to those who purchase tickets for the concert.

The Hi-Landers, who appeared here in a December concert under the auspices of the Dance club, have been contracted for $1,500.

The group has performed at many places across the country including the Playboy Lounge in Flint, Mich.; the Blue Grass Room in Louisville, Ky.; the Martingue in Chicago, and the 3200 club in Richmond.

Other Performances

In addition to their performance here, the Hi-Landers appeared at the University of Richmond, Mary Washington College and the University of Virginia.

A combo for the dance has not been named.

Paulette said that bleachers and blankets spread on the floor probably will be used for seating for the concert in order to eliminate the removal of chairs to provide dance space. Students will be requested to bring blankets.

Tickets for the concert went on sale Wednesday in the Rotunda. They will also be sold at the door.

Prices for the concert, which will be open to the public, are $3 for couples, $2 stag and $2 with Dance Club cards.

Spring Arts Festival Activities Are Planned and Changed

The program for this year's Spring Arts Festival—(Bang!)—continues to take shape as activities were planned in detail, and changes were made in the program this week.

The Spring Arts Festival—organized by the faculty and students—is under the auspices of the Student Activities Committee.

Contemporary music, drama, choreography, films, painting and graphics with discussions and contact with active, creative artists who are well known in their fields make up the festival.

Three dancer-choreographers—Yvonne Rainer, Lucinda Childs and Robert Morris—will perform.

A concert will bring many types of music together. It will include Mississippi John Hurt, the Virginia Choral Ensemble, the Country Gentlemen and an Armenian band headed by Bedros Bendazian.

Other scheduled activities include a synthesis, which, unlike a play, is improvised and has no plot; a panel discussion of American art; a symposium on communication, and the Second Annual Richmond Film Festival.

they were not acting in the public interest.

During his early years, Pearson spent most of the time touring the world and writing stories for American newspapers and magazines.

In the years of the Hoover Administration, an anonymous book, "Washington Merry-Go-Round," created a stir in the nation's capital. It was packed with inside stories about politicians and other members of the Washington society.

When it was discovered one of the authors was Pearson, he was fired from a job on the Christian Science Monitor.

Teams With Allen

After leaving the Monitor, Pearson teamed with Robert S. Allen in 1932 to write the syndicated daily "Washington Merry-Go-Round" newspaper column. In 1943, the column won the Sigma Delta Chi Distinguished Service Award in Journalism.

Through the medium of radio, Pearson waged a campaign against the Ku Klux Klan in 1946 which was climaxed by a broadcast from

Job Interviews To Be Arranged

A representative of Larus & Brothers Co., Inc., tobacco manufacturers, will visit the campus on March 30 to interview Senior men. The firm is interested in hiring men for international sales positions.

Meyers Furniture Company will interview students next Friday. The firm is interested in persons for retailing careers.

Interested students should make an appointment in the Office of Development, Ad 21.

Roy Killian will be here March 31 on behalf of Belk's Department Stores, with branches in North Carolina, Virginia and West Virginia. Appointments with Killian should be made with Mrs. Dorothy Fierst in the School of Distribution.

Graduate Art Student Wins $25 Painting Prize

Frank Pole, Richmond graduate student in Fine Arts, received a $25 award for his first prize painting entitled "Landscape" in the Fourth Annual Virginia Collegiate Art Exhibit now on display at the 20th Century Gallery in Williamsburg.

Fun-Seeking Marble Team Is Organized

Round-up all your "cat-eyes," "steelies" and "blockbusters" for RPI is organizing a marble team.

All interested aspirants and fun seekers are asked to sign up on the first floor of the gymnasium.

Although not under the direction of the Athletic Department as yet, matches are being planned against the Atlantic Coast Conference and Big Ten power-houses.

Plans also call for the team to enter the National Collegiate Athletic Association tournament in May. The defending champions are the Marbleteers from Pawtucket College, R.I.

If weather conditions are favorable, final tryouts will take place 2 p.m., Monday on Shafer Court. Official rules will be presented and discussed in a briefing session to be held 9 a.m. tomorrow in the gymnasium.

According to Coach Ed Allen the first match will be played at home against Randolph Macon College. The date of the clash is still pending because the Yellow Jackets are still waiting for their warm-up uniforms.
