Few Attend Forum Program To Air Views

The newly established Dean's Forum met at noon Thursday Dec. 1, and its first meeting characterized one of the problems for which the meeting was held—lack of communication.

Dr. Charles M. Renneisen, dean of students, said the reason for the forum was to help improve communications between the administration and the students. Attending the meeting were seven students—three SGA representatives, two Proscript reporters, the Honor Court chairman and the SGA president, in addition to the dean and Lee Dennen, activities director.

Dean Renneisen said there was very little publicity on the meeting and he had not expected a very large crowd for the first program.

One statement from a list submitted during SGA Week suggested that a unicameral body be used in the student government. Dean Renneisen said this was a matter for the SGA to decide. Milt Woody SGA president, said he thought the present form—House and Senate—was best.

Parking

Parking facilities were discussed briefly, but no proposals were advanced.

The dean said that a private parking lot in the 900 block of Grace st. was advertising spaces at $9 per month and that the school has space at the corner of Main and Laurel sts. for $3 per month.

The cafeteria system was discussed and the dean said that two floors will be used in the new Hibbs extension for cafeteria facilities. Provisions for day students and faculty members to buy meals or snacks in a separate, a la carte cafeteria were also discussed.

Four Here Give Blood For Student

The spirit of Christmas giving has come early to four students.

Each student donated one pint of blood to help Steve Shewbridge, Bus2 Richmond, who was injured during a sandlot football game on Sunday, Nov. 27.

Shewbridge bled internally and lost four pints before he could undergo a one and one-half hour operation to remove his spleen.

A two-inch tear in his spleen was discovered during the operation—a tear which might have led to graver conditions if it had not been discovered in time. Doctors were not aware before the operation of the cause of the low blood count as the X-rays showed only an enlarged spleen.

Two of the donors, Scruggs and Allen, are members of the Circle K club, which was approached by a member of the business department for the donations.

In another matter, the dean said that any information concerned with the absence system must come from the Dean of the College's office.

SGA Congress Defeats Motion On Honor Code

By Linda Haffen

The Student Congress this week refused to change an Honor Code provision that makes failure to report an Honor Code offense punishable by possible expulsion.

After considerable debate, the House voted 29-13 in favor of the revision. This number, however, did not constitute the three-fourths majority needed to revise the Honor Code, and therefore the motion was lost.

Brent Webber J4 Brookneal, patron of the proposed revision, said he proposed the change in support of student opinion expressed in a referendum on that subject held last month. That poll indicated that those students voting were definitely in favor of such a change.

Milt Woody Ped4 Richmond, president of the SGA, announced an enforcement proclamation to be put into effect December 7.

The proclamation stated that "a lack of respect and responsibility has been shown on the part of some clubs, organizations, classes and their respective representatives toward our Constitution."

Woody, in his proclamation, stated that, in the past, clubs, organizations and classes have misused the name of the SGA to further the procurement of funds for their own needs and uses.

In concluding the proclamation, Woody posed two questions to the members of the Student Congress: (1) Is there a need for a Constitutional Convention to update our Constitution?; and (2) Is there a need for a Judiciary Council separate from that of the Honor Council to act as another segment of the checks and balance system? These questions are to be asked of all members of the representative organizations in the House and Senate.

In further SGA action, the House voted to express an opinion on the current dispute concerning the wearing of beards on campus.

The administration made the regulation in agreement with the board of visitors, and any changes must be made by them.

A definite stand will be taken by the Congress at a later meeting.

Shell Arrives Today

'Station' Returns Monday

The station, which can be heard in the Rotunda, will broadcast from 10 a.m. until 10 p.m. Monday through Friday.

According to Phil Schultz, Dist1 Richmond, who is presently working for radio station WHAP in Hopewell and is program director for WJRB, the format of the programs will consist of popular music from 10 a.m. until 12 a.m., the top forty from 12 a.m. until 2 p.m. and popular and semi-classical from 2 p.m. until sign-off.

Bob Purvis, Spec Richmond, who taught art and was director of student activities at Ferrum College for three years, has been appointed station manager for WJRB by William E. Ivey, Director of Student Financial Aid and faculty advisor for the station.

Purvis said that the main objective of the station is to use the facilities which are available to the best possible extent.

"We are open for any suggestions and help from the student body and the faculty," Purvis stated.

Business Student Dies in Class

David Lee Powers, 22, of the 3600 block Carolina Avenue, died during a class in the Hibbs Building early Tuesday morning.

Powers, a former junior business major, suffered a seizure of an undetermined origin, said Dr. George R. Abbott, assistant chief medical examiner of Virginia. Dr. Abbott said he had performed the autopsy, but that the exact cause of death would not be known for at least a week.

The college physician, Dr. Manfred Call, first pronounced the student as deceased. The body was then examined by Dr. Abbott and was later transferred to the morgue later transferred to the morgue where the autopsy was performed.

According to Purvis, the station has given up hope of expanding the present piping system in the Rotunda in the near future.

The station is now working on a Federal Communication Commission (FCC) application for permission to build and operate FM studios.

FCC Approval Needed

The application must be accepted and approved by the FCC before WJRB can become a FM station.

The planned FM station for which the application is being filed will broadcast from a 10-watt transmitter with a radius of 12 miles. The station would supposedly reach about 5,000 students and a large number of Richmond area residents.

The programming which will be heard Monday emanates from studios at 908 West Franklin st. The broadcast crosses Grace st. through a system of wires installed by the Chesapeake and Potomac telephone company.

Slater Drops Plan to Mail Grade Slips

Due to the time it would involve, corrected mid-semester grades will not be issued, Merle V. Slater, head of the Records Office, announced this week.

Some 2,000 students failed to receive their correct grades because of a mix-up of student Social Security numbers on course cards.

Registration Schedule

Mr. Slater said by the time these identification numbers could be corrected and new grade reports processed it would be nearly time for final grades to be issued.

Students who wish to know their grades should see their instructors, according to Mr. Slater.

Advance registration will continue next week with the schedule as follows:

Monday, Dec. 12, sophomores
Tuesday, Dec. 13, sophomores
Wednesday, Dec. 14, freshmen
Thursday, Dec. 15, freshmen
Friday, Dec. 16, freshmen

The Informer Clause

The student referendum decision that a person should not be expelled from college for not turning in a classmate came before the SGA House Monday night.

Needing a three-fourths majority to ratify, the House obtained only two-thirds and by that narrow margin the proposal was temporarily shelved.

This brings to mind on whether or not the informer clause is really necessary for an honor code to be effective. To our minds the informer clause can hurt an honor code in execution. Many students feel that the informer clause turns them into "stooges" and in many cases, rather than risk ostracism, a student will overlook an honor offense.

We have seen student lives badly damaged by a student body who only knew that a person was "squealed" on by another student.

We are definitely in favor of an honor system at RPI and readily admit that obtaining an effective honor system can be a long and painful operation.

Perhaps last week we were misunderstood in these columns on our statements about the Honor Court and Code of this college. We would like to reiterate that by no means were those comments directed at ALL members of the Court. Many of the members of the Honor Court are conscientious, hard working student-leaders who have but one goal—an effective and workable system. At times, unfortunately, they seem hindered by the statements and actions of a few. To those few, the editorial of last week was directed.

The Proscript sincerely wants to help build an effective honor system here.

It is unfortunate that the honor courts of the past and present have, perhaps through some general students fault—but mainly through their own shortcoming—have bathed themselves in a sea of secrecy. As someone once said, "The Honor Court is a black-robed klan." To many, ourselves included, this sometimes seems to be only too close to the real situation. Perhaps it would help dispel the sometimes unnecessary secrecy if the Proscript could have a reporter at business meetings of the Court. For student support of the Honor Court the students must know what the Honor Court is doing.

We have strayed a bit from our original point, the informer clause. Like it or not, students, even though only 695 cast ballots, voted to do away with it. Exactly 629 students felt an honor system would work without the "informer clause."

A strong honor code must rest on a foundation of student support.

Coming of Age

The Student Government Association has on occasion this year—thanks to the leadership of certain members of that body—shown a maturity and intelligence which is becoming both to them and this college.

Last week we saw where the Board of Elections asked members of the House for suggestions regarding future elections on campus. This is an area in which we have long hoped the SGA would work something out.

Among the suggestions received were two-day elections; precincts in both cafeterias (in addition to one in the Rotunda); voting booths; rallies; candidate debates; and hours changed for election from 9 a.m. - 4 p.m. to 10 a.m. - 3 p.m.

All of these suggestions, we hope, will be duly listened to by the Board of Elections since all of them could do much good in future election days. Realization of these suggestions could bring the students into closer contact with the elections and also bring them better student leaders.

We have noticed in the SGA this year the improving quality of the actions of this body. Also we have seen that such veteran legislators as Mark Auman, SGA president Milt Woody, Ken Scruggs, Brent Webber and even, on occasion, House Speaker Reid Cornwell, and others, have given leadership and have thought through some proposals.

We hope SGA members will continue to demonstrate the initiative and willingness to work as they have sometimes shown thus far in the year.

Taking Steps

Dr. Charles M. Renneisen, dean of students, has again shown his willingness and desire to hear the students side of matters; this time in establishment of a series of student forums. These forums are set up to improve communications between the administration and individual students and groups.

Students attending these open forums, presently being held in the Student Center on Thursdays from noon to 1 p.m., will be allowed to ask Dr. Renneisen questions regarding the administration and its policies.

Letters To The Editor

Honor, Laundry, SGA Are Topics

Editor, The Proscript:

In an effort to clear up much confusion and many misconceptions surrounding the Honor Court and its functioning, I am writing this letter as a member of the Honor Court. The opinions expressed in this letter are a general consensus of opinion of the Honor Court of RPI.

After talking with many of my fellow students, I have realized that there is a gross misconception concerning the punishment of offenses. The misconception as I see it, is if a person is found guilty of an honor offense, he is dismissed from college. Dismissal from college is the ultimate punishment that may be administered but it is definitely not the only punitive measure that may be employed. Punishment for offenses directly correlates with degree of guilt, which, in turn, correlates with intent. The lesser punitive measures that may be employed are revocation of offices held, suspension from school, failure in a course and honor probation. Honor probation is the insertion of a flyer in the student's folder stating that he has been found guilty of an honor offense. It stays in the folder for a period of time specified by the court. During this period, the person is on probation and if he commits another honor violation, the two offenses are treated together. At the end of this period, the person applies to the court for removal of the flyer. If no further offense has been committed, the flyer is removed and the person receives no mark on his permanent record. This punishment reminds the person daily of his probation while saving him the embarrassment of a public announcement. In other words, "it keeps him straight".

In so far as the referendum is concerned—making failure to report an offense not punishable by dismissal from college—we believe the students have over-looked a few facets of the code's long-range effects. Since I hope it has been cleared up that a guilty verdict does not have to end in dismissal from college, by taking out this provision, much of the bite in the code is being removed. Thus weakening the whole honor system. Granted, what we (the students) are working on is a fear principle.

It is unfortunate, but it is the only way the honor system can remain in the student's hands.

Degrees from many universities are judged by the honor code of that institution. If you hold a degree from RPI and RPI has a weak honor code, how can your potential employer be sure your degree is solely your own? He can't. He can only rely on your word and the honor code that was in effect when you were at school. The problem here is not the code itself, but the publicity, or lack of it, surrounding the court and the need for a stronger, more effective orientation.

The Honor Code belongs to the students and is not a system imposed upon you by fifteen fellow students. It can only work if we want it to and it is as effective as we are willing to make it.

Hopefully, you will be seeing more in this newspaper about the Honor Court. We trust you will interest yourself in your honor system.

Sincerely,
JODY FORMAN
Member of the Honor Court of RPI

Editor, the Proscript:

In recent weeks, girls in Monroe Terrace have been plagued with another hazard—that of a laundry service which refuses to wash dirty towels.

Maids in the 12th floor laundry room, to which all laundry (sheets, pillow cases and towels) must be taken, have been instructed by representatives of the laundry service not to accept towels which contain traces of dirt, such as eye makeup or hair coloring. However, the maids cheerfully tell you that if you can wash the towel and get the marks out, they would be glad to wash it over again.

After encountering this problem of no laundry service, in spite of the fact that we had paid for it, we decided to see what we could do about washing the towels ourselves. After washing one towel in Cold Power and cold water in the bathroom sink, it came out clean. Why couldn't the laundry service do the same thing?

As long as dormitory students have to pay the fee for laundry service, we feel that we should have the caliber of laundry service which could do the job it is in business to do.

Sincerely,

Editor, the Proscript:

I propose that we abolish the SGA and with its destruction bury the myth of the well-rounded college student. The SGA declares that its purpose is to enable students to govern themselves. Govern ourselves for what reason? Is there oppression? What vital role does student government play in our lives?

As one SGA representative put it, "SGA helps to make you well-rounded. And when you come down to it, being well-rounded is just as important if not more important than making great grades." I guess he has just about summed up the role of this all important organization.

Our colleges as a result of active SGA's are producing witty, charming, well-rounded cocktail party chit-chatters. Hooray for the SGA!!!

What would it be like without an SGA? The only thing that I know we would miss is someone telling us we are apathetic.

Historical Society Promotes Subject

An historical society has been organized on campus and has opened its membership to any student with a C-plus grade average.

Known as the Alexandrian Society, the group's purpose is to encourage the study of history and to promote a better understanding of the subject.

Later in the year, the new organization reportedly hopes to print a publication to be made available to the student body.

The Observer

By R. Brent Webber

It is unfortunate in some respects that a unique, and in ways avant-garde, college like Richmond Professional Institute should be located in one of the most ultra-conservative areas of the nation.

RPI is large, urban, diversified, and highly specialized. It has resident and commuting students, part-time and full-time students, night classes as well as day, old pupils as well as young pupils, and students from other countries as well as other states. The rich and the poor come here; the brilliant and the mediocre; the farmer's daughter and the banker's son. Some major in business and others in music, some in occupational therapy and others in fashion design. Courses are offered here that are unobtainable at most schools. And, as in other schools that do have a similar curricula, the drama and art departments are known for their avant-garde productions and dress, for their individualistic behavior and nonconforming ideals.

On the contrary, Virginia, like the rest of the South, has its provincialisms and isn't best known for possessing a cosmopolitan atmosphere. In reality, to be fully accepted in this state, it is preferred by the residents that one be a long-time resident Virginian, rural Southerner, white, Anglo-Saxon, Protestant, ultraconservative, segregationist, Byrd Democrat. Other elements, as well as alien ideas, may raise a few eyebrows, cause some suspicions, or even bring downright antagonism.

Less Social Unrest

Historically, Richmond is an old and aristocratic town well steeped in tradition. Its conservatism on social issues is positive, as Richmond has far less social unrest and similar problems than do other, larger, urban areas. But this makes it somewhat intolerant of unconventional standard to which it is unaccustomed. James J. Kilpatrick, in criticizing Richmond's attitude towards RPI, which more or less views the school as the local Greenwich Village, said Richmonders sometimes thought like the inhabitants of "a highly provincial, feed-store, Bible-belt town" when they condemned RPI's uniqueness.

The beard problem that ended up as court litigation, along with the recent election of a Negro to reign over a social function, no doubt hurt us locally. Ironically, these same incidents probably upgraded our image from New York to California.

RPI students, struggling artists and writers especially, should conform to a minimum of standards while retaining their individuality.

It is then hoped that in time our public will become more tolerant, as well as understanding, of us.

Fund Drive Begins Monday

Students Asked for Donations To Enlarge SGA Scholarships

The SGA scholarship drive begins Monday, and Student Government members are asking each student to donate 25 cents toward fulfillment of the drive's goal.

Hanukkah Starts For Jewish Faith

As the Christian population of the campus begins to look forward to the Christmas season, those of the Jewish faith are celebrating Hanukkah, the Festival of Lights.

Wednesday, at sundown, was the beginning of Hanukkah, which lasts for eight days. The eight days represent the number of days that it took the Hebrews to make oil. After the Temple was destroyed by Judah and the Macabees, the Hebrews had only enough oil left for one night, but according to the Jewish religion God performed a miracle and made the oil last for the eight nights that it would take the Hebrews to make more.

Hanukkah is celebrated by the lighting of eight candles, one on each night.

Proceeds from the drive go to the SGA scholarship fund. Any fulltime student may apply for a scholarship from this fund. Last year the SGA gave several students scholarships totaling $650. The only requirements for application are that the student must have been a fulltime student here for a full semester prior to the time the scholarship is to be used, and that he must have maintained a C average.

The drive, which will run for five days, ending the day Christmas vacation begins, has been planned without a specific goal, according to Ron Miller, SGA treasurer.

Miller said he hopes the equivalent of 25 cents per student will be received during the drive.

The Finance committee is heading the drive, which includes the appeal to students for contributions, and pledges from clubs and organizations on campus.

Miller said containers for the deposit of student contributions would be placed on all tables in both cafeterias, on tables in the rotunda, and in various other centrally located places on campus.

The SGA is sending letters to all resident students asking for the donation. Letters will also be sent to faculty members with requests that they read them to all classes.

Miller said the scholarship drive had become a "pet project" with him, and expressed the hope that students would actively support the effort.

Tree Lighting Set At Shafer Court

The annual Christmas tree lighting will take place at 7 p.m. Sunday in Shafer Street Court.

Christmas carols will be sung and refreshments served. This is the fourth year the SGA has sponsored the program.

Last year the tree was lighted by President Oliver.

The RPI chorus, which will take part in the festivities, also performed last year by leading the students in Christmas carols.

SGA officials said this week a 16-foot tree would be purchased from the Richmond Jaycees.

Around the Campus

"Megalopolis," a 30-minute film, will be shown at 3 p.m. Monday, in Science 115 by the Alexandrian Society, RPI's first historical organization.

The Fine Arts club will sponsor its annual Art Auction, to be held from 7 to 11 p.m. Tuesday in the Shafer Playhouse.

Art will be donated by students from the different art department and will be auctioned to raise money for the Fine Arts club scholarship fund and SGA scholarship fund.

The auction made $1,100 last year toward its scholarship goal.

Circle K has begun its annual promotion of the school basketball team.

The club plans to put up posters publicizing each home game. The games are also listed on the Circle K student activities calendar. Wallet-sized season schedule cards have also been distributed by club members.

Programs are distributed at the games free of charge. Members also help the Athletic department by ushering and collecting money at the games.

Pat Russell, Bus2 Richmond, has been appointed corresponding secretary of the Student Government Association (SGA) by president Milton Woody.

Pat is also serving as secretary of the Sophomore class.

Choral Group Presents Annual Yule Concert

Holding with a tradition established twenty years ago, the Choral Group will present its annual Christmas concert this weekend to welcome the celebration of the Yule season to the campus. The program will be held at 8:30 p.m. tomorrow, in the gymnasium.

This will be the first in a series of four concerts that the group under the direction of L. Wayne Batty, will present. On Monday they will perform for the Optimist Club and the Chester Woman's Club; on Tuesday at Grace Covenant Church; at the Tuckahoe Woman's Club on Wednesday and for the Lynchburg Woman's Club on Thursday. They have had a previous Christmas engagement singing for the Thalheimer's Toy Parade on Nov. 22.

Consisting of 97 members from all over the country and from many departments of the college, the Choral Group is the largest that it has ever been. The organization elects its own officers and these students are responsible for the operations and organization of the club.

The original location of RPI was in the downtown area on Capitol Street, where the present Virginia State Library is located.

On Campus with Max Shulman

(By the author of "Rally Round the Flag, Boys!", "Dobie Gillis," etc.)

'TIS THE SEASON TO BE JOLLY

I know how busy you are—studying, going to class, helping old grads find their dentures after Homecoming—but, hark, the Yuletide is almost upon us and it's time we turned our thoughts to Christmas shopping.

We'll start with the hardest gift problem of all: what to give the man who has everything. Well sir, here are some things I'll bet he doesn't have: 1) A dentist's chair. 2) A Mach number. 3) A street map of Perth, Australia. 4) Fifty pounds of chicken fat. 5) A pack of Personna Super Stainless Steel Blades.

"What?" you exclaim, your eyebrows leaping in wild incredulity. "The man who has everything doesn't have Personna Super Stainless Steel Blades? What arrant nonsense!" you scoff, making a coarse gesture.

But I insist. The man who has everything doesn't have Personna because everyone in the dorm is always borrowing them. And small wonder! Wouldn't you be there with an empty razor and a supplicating side if you heard somebody had super-blades that were super-sharp and super-durable; that scrape not, neither do they nick; that shave you easily and breezily, quickly and slickly, scratchlessly and matchlessly; that come both in Double-Edge style and Injector style? Of course you would!

So here is our first gift suggestion. If you know a man who shaves with Personna, give him a safe.

Next let us take up the thorny problem of buying gifts when you have no money. Well sir, there are many wonderful gifts which cost hardly anything. A bottle of good clear water, for example, is always welcome. A nice smooth rock makes a charming paperweight. In fact, one Christmas back in my own college days, these are exactly the gifts I gave a beautiful coed named Norma Glebe. I took a rock, a bottle of water, a bit of ribbon, and attached a card with this tender sentiment:

Here's some water
And here's a rock.
I love you, daughter,
Around the clock.

Norma was so moved, she seized the rock, smashed the bottle, and plunged the jagged edge into my sternum.

Here now is a lovely gift for an American History major—a bronze statuette of Millard Fillmore with a clock in the stomach. (Mr. Fillmore, incidentally, was the only American president with a clock in his stomach. James K. Polk had a stem-winder in his head and William Henry Harrison chimed the quarter-hour, but only Mr. Fillmore of all our chief executives had a clock in his stomach. Franklin Pierce had a sweep second hand and Zachary Taylor had 17 jewels and Martin Van Buren ticked but, I repeat, Mr. Fillmore and Mr. Fillmore alone had a clock in his stomach. Moreover, Mr. Fillmore was the first president with power steering. No wonder they called him "Old Hickory!")

But I digress. Returning to Christmas gifts, here's one that's sure to please—a gift certificate from the American Society of Chiropractors. Accompanying each certificate is this fetching little poem:

Merry Christmas, Happy New Year,
Joyous sacro-iliac!
May your spine forever shine,
Blessings on your aching back!
May your lumbar ne'er grow number,
May your backbone ne'er dislodge,
May your caudal never dangle,
Joyeux Noel! Heureux massage!

And greetings of the season from the makers of Personna Super Stainless Steel Blades, Double-Edge or Injector, and from Personna's partner in shaving luxury, Burma-Shave, regular or menthol.

"J.B.", a religious play in verse, opened to a full house Friday night in the Shafer Street Playhouse. The play will also be presented tonight and tomorrow night at 8:30 p.m. in the playhouse.

Howard C. Cobbs Jr., director and designer for "J.B.", chose the 1959 Pulitzer Prize winner as his masters thesis production because he plans to go into religious drama professionally. The play was written by Archibald MacLeish.

Overall the play is good and provides an enjoyable evening of entertainment but there are too many loose ends.

"J.B." is adapted from the biblical book of Job. It is the story of Job's sufferings at the hand of God to prove to Satan that man can endure any pain or hardship and still praise the name of God. In the play Mr. Zuss plays the part of God, Mr. Nickles is Satan and J.B. is Job.

John Sterling Arnold, winner of the "best actor award" last year at RPI, was the most outstanding actor in "J.B." for his portrayal of Mr. Nickles (Satan). He was firm and confident, making every movement and gesture with meaning, saying every line with sureness.

In opposition to Arnold was J. Lindsey Alston playing Mr. Zuss (God). Not only was Alston's character opposite to Arnold's, so was his performance. He was unsure of himself and did not stand firm as "God" should, but wandered around the stage and swayed while standing. His deep speaking voice was perfect for the role but he did not use it to its fullest advantage.

Judith Ann Culhan was a perfect and flawless Sarah, wife of J.B. She played the part with sensitivity and passion.

The title role of J.B. was played by John B. Wynne. Wynne started off very weakly but seemed to warm up to the part as the play progressed. His emotions were never really strong enough in either direction to convince the audience that he really meant what he was saying.

Carl Randolph Childress and William T. Obermeyer were messengers. Childress was extremely stiff and unimaginative while Obermeyer had a small role but lived it to its fullest.

Notable among J.B.'s three comforters was Richard Conway Bell portraying Eliphaz the psychiatrist. Eliphaz's cold, smooth, calculating quality was brought out very well.

An additional performance of "J.B." will be presented at 8:30 Sunday night due to the heavy ticket demands over the final weekend. The religious drama is being presented in the Shafer Street Playhouse. Ticket orders may be obtained by calling extension 430.

John B. Wynne in Title Role Comforts Judy Culhan as Sarah 'J.B.' Will Close Sunday Night at 8:30 p.m. in Shafer Playhouse

Mobile X-Ray Unit to Be Here

The city's mobile X-ray unit will be in Shafer Court December 13-15 to take screenings of X-rays. An active diagnosed case of tuberculosis found here recently was the motivating factor in getting the emphasis on participation of students in such a program at this time.

Tuberculosis, despite the better drugs and health precautions taken in the past ten years, is still the number one communicable disease in Richmond. It is said that Richmond has three times the national average and twice the average count of the state of Virginia. It is recommended that every adult have a chest X-ray at least once a year as a precaution against the disease.

The unit will be available to the student public from 9 a.m. to noon, 1 to 3 p.m. and 6 to 8 p.m. on Dec. 13 and 14. On Dec. 15, it will be closed during the evening hours. The college physician and nurse will be at the health unit, and posters will be made available in the dormitories and elsewhere on campus concerning further information.

Dr. Roland Pitts, educational director of the Richmond Department of City Health, urges all students to have X-rays taken. This includes faculty and evening students.

Elected

Dr. J. Curtis Hall, dean of the School of Business, was elected president of the Southern Business Education Association at a meeting in New Orleans over the Thanksgiving holidays.

School Requests Federal Allocations

The Office of Development announced that the college has applied for a grant in undergraduate studies in the amount of $49,500 under Title VI of the Higher Education Facilities Act.

If the college qualifies, the money will be spent in the areas of biological science, physical science, social science, and the arts, with additional equipment largely in visual aids for campus-wide use.

Total equipment called for in the grant exceeds $99,000, with the college's request that the federal government grant 50 per cent.

Flicks Set Tonight

Two movies, Pathe Newsreel and Two Daughters, will be shown tonight by the college Film Society at 5 and 8 p.m. in Room 115 of the Science Building. Single admission to each film will be 75 cents without a series pass.

A Folk Singer Strums Away at the Cross Roads

Church Coffee Houses Change Former Image

By Sandy Penn

A coffee house—a dark smoky basement where dope addicts hang out? Not the Carriage House or Cross Roads coffee houses, two members of the coffee house ministry of local churches.

The Carriage House is located at and operated by the First Baptist Church at Monument and Boulevard, while the Cross Roads, a joint venture of the Methodist, Episcopal, and Presbyterian churches, is located at Pace Memorial Methodist Church, 700 West Franklin st.

Both coffee houses seek to provide a place where students can meet to discuss topics of current interest. Entertainment is provided by folk singers, and artists are invited to display their work. Refreshments are available at both of the coffee houses. Although there is no charge for the items on the menu, including expresso, cider, tea, chip n' dip, and cheeses, a suggested donation is listed for each item.

The Cross Roads is open on Saturday nights from 8-12 p.m., while the Carriage House is open on Friday and Saturday nights from 8-11:30 p.m. On Friday nights at the Carriage House, a guest is featured. People in the coffee house may engage this person in conversation during the evening. The guest is usually a professor, there having been so far this year guests including a professor of religion and a professor of chemistry from the University of Richmond.

Tomorrow night at the Carriage House, there will be a discussion of the RPI production of "J.B."

Mary English, OT3, Vienna, a member of the board of directors of the Cross Roads, said, "The entrance to the Cross Roads is right beside where the new dorm is being built—on Saturday nights, lanterns are hung out to light the way to the door."

'... A Merry Little Christmas'

Dorms, Clubs Bring Yule Spirit

Parties, decorations and charity projects have combined to bring true Christmas spirit to the campus.

Most of the dormitories and clubs are planning their festivities for the last week before vacation, but a few have already begun.

Meredith House, Monroe Terrace, Scherer Hall and Ritter-Hickok dormitory will have open houses on Sunday afternoon. Room doors in Meredith House will be judged by the girls' dates, and guests of Scherer Hall will help decorate the dormitory. The party at Monroe Terrace will be confined to the lobby due to the incomplete renovation of the floors.

The girls' dorms will also be holding closed parties for only the residents. The Rev. William J. Gold of the First Unitarian Church will deliver a Christmas message at a candlelight ceremony at Meredith House Wednesday. Also, the girl who has shown the most spirit during the holiday season will be announced as the Spirit of Christmas.

Scherer Hall will hold its annual St. Nick party after curfew Thursday. It is customary that during the week girls exchange small gifts with those whose names they have drawn and at this party the secret Santa is revealed when she presents her girl with a larger present.

Chalkley House will also have a private party, and the separate floors in Monroe Terrace will be having their own festivities.

Founders Hall and Ritter-Hickok are both supplying toys and underclothes to the children at Grace House, and Chalkley House is collecting gifts for a Richmond unwed mother's home.

Lafayette dormitory has made tentative plans to have a carol sing and open house on Thursday evening. Also, plans were incomplete for a party for Grace House children in co-operation with 806 W. Franklin st. dormitory.

The 808 W. Franklin st. dormitory will entertain 23 children from a local home Tuesday.

The College Quota club has joined with Woolco Department Store at Azalea Mall to take Christmas gifts to underprivileged children. The store has also given the club Christmas cards to send to soldiers in Viet Nam.

Christmas plans for the Cotillion club include decorating the Student Center, preparing a basket and tree for a needy family in the community and making and selling wreaths in the Rotunda beginning December 7.

The German club will help the Cotillion club obtain and decorate the tree which will be placed in the Student Center.

Among clubs which have already celebrated the holidays is Phi Beta Lambda, which held their annual Christmas dinner at the Sheraton Motor Inn on December 2. After dinner there was dancing to the music of the Merry Old Souls.

The Occupational Therapy club will hold its Christmas party at the home of Jackson E. Jeffery, associate professor of biology, on December 11.

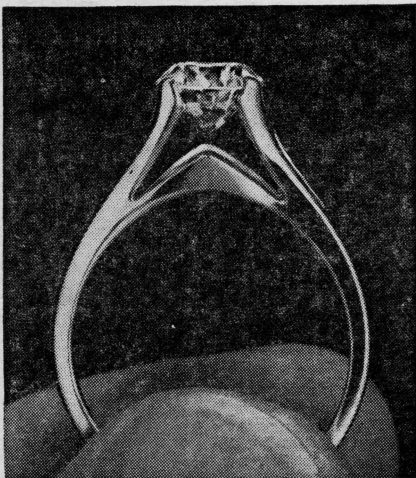

Theater Associates is sponsoring a party Thursday in the Gaslight Theater for members of the drama department. A short revue will be given by the club entitled "The Palace" saluting great entertainers of the Palace and vaudeville. White elephant gifts will be given.

Students Plan Parking Survey

Many students on campus next week will be receiving questionnaires concerning the college parking problem. The questionnaires will be circulated by a class in the Graduate School of Social Work.

The class plans to hand out 750 questionnaires, and hope to have at least 650 returned. Linda Nee, chairman of the committee said the class hopes that the questionnaires will result in something being done by the state on the college parking problem.

Crew's New Shell Due to Arrive At Noon Today

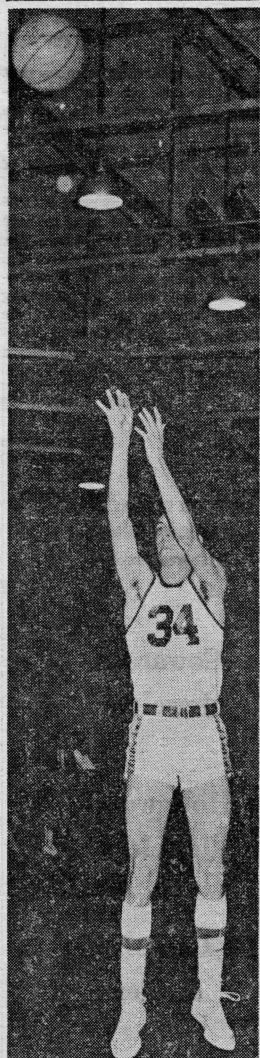

The rowing team's racing shell will arrive in Shafer Street Court around noon today.

Georgetown University (Washington) is transporting the shell here. The shell will be displayed in the court for about an hour and then it will be transported to the rowing team's facilities at the Virginia Boat Club (VBC).

Donald H. Bowles, associated professor of retailing and crew sponsor said that he hoped the music department would provide "a little band music." William O. Edwards, director of development, will co-ordinate the activities today.

Mr. Bowles said the plans were to transport the shell through downtown Richmond in hopes of giving a little publicity to the rowing team.

The crew has two shells, but on the one which the VBC has loaned them the hull needs to be filled and the cracks patched. In order to do this a constant temperature of 70 degrees must be maintained so the epoxy, the substance used to patch the shell, can be applied evenly.

Without celebration or ceremony, junior Len Crech is shown here crossing the 1,100 point mark by sinking a foul shot in Thursday's game against N. C. Wesleyan College. Crech, who held a 27.6 average last year, has scored 62 points in the first three games of the season to give him a total of 1,142 points in college basketball.

If the epoxy is put on rough this rough spot can slow the progress of the shell.

Grapplers Lose 2nd, Meet ECC Thursday

By Ken Heite

After two consecutive losses the Rams hope to get in the winning column when they travel to Greenville, N. C., Thursday to meet the Pirates of East Carolina College.

Last year the Rams tangled with the Pirates, a Southern Conference team, and were defeated, 32-5.

Last Saturday RPI didn't surprise anyone by losing to Old Dominion College wrestlers, 34-2, but they did surprise the Monarchs in the individual matches.

Last year's captain, Willie Hatcher said after the match, "I thought the team did real well, certainly better than last year." Last year the score was an identical, 34-2, but the individual matches were not as close as this year's matches.

The match began on a bad note when Ram co-captain Tommy Carr was decided by Larry Christ, 11-2 in the 123-pound class. In the first period Carr was only behind, 4-2. However, it was a different story in the second period as Christ scored enough points to hold off a third quarter rally by Carr.

The Rams then forfeited the 130-pound class and the score was, 8-0.

The next match, 137-pound class, kept the crowd on edge as Ram Karl Weiland gave Roy Carrithers a battle for two periods before bowing in the third period, 11-6. Every time it looked as though Carrithers had Weiland beat; the Ram grappler would come back to make a match of it.

"Whitey" Boyer, Ram co-captain, managed to salvage a 2-2 tie in the 145-pound class. After a scoreless first period the Monarch Bill Forbes made an escape in the second period for a 1-0 lead. In the third period with one minute left Boyer scored a reversal to take a 2-1 lead and the match ended. But, Forbes picked up a point via riding time advantage and this tied the score. The tie gave the Rams their only team points.

In the 152-pound class the Monarch's David Lindhjem stunned the crowd when he pinned Jim Palmer in 43 seconds. This made the score, 16-2.

The 160-pound contest was one of the best matches of the day. Although Ram Tom O'Brien was beaten, 6-4, he demonstrated that he knows how to wrestle. O'Brien was behind, 6-2 midway through the third period, but he reversed Newty Miller to narrow the margin and the final score was 6-4.

In the 167-pound class Don Salotti, although out-weighted, managed to give Jim Clarke a good match, but was beaten by the Monarch, 4-0.

The Monarchs ended the match in grand style as Russell "Wild Man" Flynn pinned Ram Tom Baker in the 177-pound class and in the unlimited class, Jeff Hall pinned Bill Burris.

In two exhibitions matches Rams Bill Hagenden and John Ailor won their second straight match. Hagenden pinned Henry Osman with 55 seconds left in the match and Ailor completely dominated his opponent Jeff Goodman to win by a 14-2 margin.

Rams Here Tonight; Face H-SC Saturday

The Rams will tangle with their second out-of-state opponent when they meet Southeastern College at 8 tonight in the gym.

Tomorrow night the Rams will be on the road for the first time when they take on the Hampden-Sydney Tigers. They follow this up on Monday with a road game with Frederick College.

Tonight's game will be the last home encounter for the Rams until after the Christmas vacation when they return to the Franklin st. gym with a game with Hampden-Sydney.

Tomorrow's game will mark the first chance for the Rams to change their reputation of a team that can win only within the safety of their own gym. The Rams opponent Hampden-Sydney is the pre-season favorite among many of the Virginia sportswriters to be the best small college team in the state.

The Rams will be testing their somewhat erratic offense against the high scoring Tigers so the games does not figure to be one that will rely on the defense. If the Ram scorers can get together on one night with some kind of unity the game might hit the century figure in points scored.

Monday night's opponent, Frederick, is a team which was not picked to be very high in the standings but has been a surprise so far in the season. Also with the advantage of playing on their home court the game with Frederick should not be an easy match for the Rams.

Crech Held to 10 — RPI Loses to ODC

Hot and Cold Cagers Win 2 of 3

The Rams brought their seasons record to 2-1 on the scoring of junior Len Crech Wednesday night as they beat Newport News Apprentice School, 84-72. RPI won its opener against N.C. Wesleyan, 93-61 and lost to Old Dominion College (ODC), 85-74 Saturday night. All the games were held in the Franklin st. gym.

Crech, pacing all the scorers, netted 28 points Wednesday night, all on field goals. Crech, scoring only 10 points in the first half, hit for 16 points in 6½ minutes of the second half to lead a 30-point Ram spree. Six of the 30 points came from "Bones" Gordon who got four on fast breaks and dunks. He finished with 18.

The Rams opened with an 8-0 lead and took advantage of numerous offensive miscues by the Shipbuilders that permitted RPI's sometime fast-breaking offense to take a 35-24 halftime lead.

After the half the Rams began their high-scoring offense that netted 42 points to the Shipbuilders' 19. As Coach Allen cleared the bench, the Shipbuilders staged a rally that narrowed the margin from 34 to 12 points in the closing minutes.

Besides Crech and Gordon, Ram co-captain C. G. Winston was the only other RPI player to score in double figures with 12 points on five field goals and two free throws.

Leading scorer for the Shipbuilders was 6' 3" Wayne Vick who had 19. Carol Burch, a 5' 10" punier had 12 points for the Shipbuilders.

RPI Loses, 85-74

The Rams lost their first game with a state opponent as Old Dominion College (ODC) held Len Crech to 10 points, controlled the rebounds and kept the Rams scoreless for a total of seven minutes in the first half as the Monarchs won, 85-74 Saturday night. The Monarchs hit 42.2 per cent on field goals' while RPI for only 34 per cent.

RPI controlled the opening tap and kept ODC scoreless until Bob Pritchett made a jump shot with 17:32 left in the first half. This made the score 8-2, and Crech only had two points.

With 9:20 left in the first half the Monarchs were within three points of RPI, 24-21. The half then changed hands and the Monarch's "Buttons" Speakes hit on a jump shot. ODC held the Rams scoreless until 6:21 when Crech hit on a jumper which tied the score, 26-26. RPI was again held scoreless until 3:28 when Ron Woody scored, and narrowed the margin to 33-28.

RPI never caught up after that and the halftime score was 37-31, in favor of ODC. The Rams opened the second half like the first and came within four points of the Monarchs but to no avail as ODC continued to stifle the Rams' offense and knifed through the RPI defense as ODC won the game.

Rams Win, 93-61

The Rams won their first encounter of the season by downing N. C. Wesleyan, 93-61 last Thursday night.

RPI scored first and most often as they hit for 36 field goals and were 21-29 from the foul line. Crech, who had 1,080 points before the game, scored 24 to boost this total over 1,104. However, Crech did not take home the high scoring honors as they went to the Bishops' 5-9 junior guard Chris Felts who had 11 field goals and three free throws for 25 points.

Charles "Mac" McLeod (33) Goes Up For a Score
An Unidentified N. C. Wesleyan Player Defends

Last Thursday night the 'Ramblin Rams' began their '65-66 basketball season with a win over North Carolina Wesleyan, 93-61. And the coaches and managers and the crowd seemed less than impressed—except for the co-ed (right) who expressed some dismay and joy as the Rams either scored or missed a shot.

However, RPI's fleeting moments of glory were short lived as Old Dominion College beat the Rams Saturday night, 85-74 and held perennial high scorer Len Creech to ten points.

Donlon scores most of his points on long shots taken from outside the foul circle. So far this year Donlon has scored 32 points in 3 games for a 10.6 point average.

Donlon has a total of seven years experience in basketball: four years in high school, two years in junior college and last year here.

The six foot guard scored 139 points in 18 games last year for a 7.7 point per game average.

Last season Donlon hit 40 per cent of his floor shots making 60 out of 150. From the foul line he was 19 for 23 or 68 per cent.

When asked about this year's team Donlon said, "I feel that RPI has the potential to be the best small college team in the state." He also agreed with oth-

Co-ed Cage Games Tentatively Slated

"Because most teams have games scheduled from year to year and this is a new year for us, we may not play many games this year," said co-ed basketball coach Anita Moffat.

Although all of the games are tentative, the present schedule includes a game here with Old Dominion, Dec. 15; Mary Baldwin, away, Feb. 16; two home games, Westhampton, Feb. 21 and Chowan, March 10. Honor Flitz, Ped2 Richmond, has been chosen manager of the team, although the team itself has not been selected.

The Transfers and 808 Dormitory are tied for second with identical 3-2 records. Lafayette Dormitory, 2-3, 806 Dormitory, 1-4, and the Engineers, 0-2, round out the league.

The Rams in their first three games have scored 262 points to 207 for their opponents.

John Kleberg, director of campus police, inset, checks on the location of the campus' newest addition in the area of law enforcement, a police car. The car was purchased several weeks ago and just recently has had a two-way radio unit installed. It will be used for campus emergencies, according to the college.

Student Auto Registration Is Set Here

The college security office will begin registering student cars next semester, John R. Kleberg, security director, said.

The registration, which will be voluntary and no expense to students, will help the security office develop "current, valid statistics" that would be necessary if parking problems are carried before a planning unit such as the city or the Board of Visitors.

Mr. Kleberg said the automobile registration will be accomplished during class registration in February. Pre-registered students will be asked to register their cars at the security office the first week of classes.

Registered cards will bear a bumper sticker, he said, with college identification on it. The stickers will aid in visual surveys.

SAC Allocates Funds to 4 Groups

Athletic Director Ed Allen was granted an additional $1,500 for the athletic fund by the Student Activities Committee last Thursday in the committee's regular monthly meeting.

In addition to the $1,500 allotted to the athletic fund, the committee also voted unanimously to grant the Spring Arts Festival and crew team an additional $900 each and to grant the senior class $650 and lend it $350 to sponsor a Miss RPI contest in conjunction with the Miss Virginia Pageant.

In his request for additional funds, Coach Allen pointed out the fact that, though the enrollment at RPI has steadily increased, funds available to the athletic department have had little increase. The $1,500 additional funds granted to the fund gives it a total of $4,000 allocated for the year.

The Spring Arts Festival had previously been allotted $1,000 for the year. The festival was granted

The crew team was represented by Donald H. Bowles who asked for more money with which to buy necessary equipment. The original allotment of $900 was supplemented with another $900 for the year.

According to a senior class spokesman any profits made from the Miss RPI contest will be given to the SGA scholarship fund.

All allotments made by the committee are subject to approval by Dr. Oliver.

These requests complete the 1966-67 budget by the committee with $226.50 left in the committee's regular funds. A contingency fund of $1,638.70 is maintained by the SAC to use if the need should arise.

meters near the school was aired but not in any depth. The dean said he would refer the sidewalk proposal to the Buildings and Grounds Department. The parking meters provide more students with a place to park, the dean said. If students were allowed to park without any regulations fewer students would be able to use the existing facilities, he said.

Also during the meeting, the possibility of a football team again came to the attention of the school and again was called unfeasible. The cost of equipment, lack of crowds due to television and the lack of an adequate field were some of the reasons given by the dean.

Student Hours

Student hours in the men's dormitories were discussed and the dean said the problems of the general public entering dormitories at urban universities was one of the main considerations for the hours. He added that first-year students needed the regulations in order to help teach them how to budget time between study and recreation.

On the matter of fraternities and sororities, Dr. Renneisen said a committee had been set up to investigate their organization. The group consists of six members of the SGA, three pro and three con on the question. Its report will be submitted to the administration in the latter part of the school year, according to Milt Woody, SGA president.

The idea for the forum came from a dean's conference Dean Renneisen recently attended in New Orleans.
