Look No Farther

The highest office in the college will be vacant when Dr. Oliver retires from his presidential duties, and this vacancy gives us much concern, but also a tinge of optimism.

We feel the Board of Visitors need not look outside the boundaries of this campus for the next leader, since the man who has both the potential and abilities to lead this college is already here. His name is Dr. Charles M. Renneisen.

Dr. Charles M. Renneisen

Dr. Renneisen, who is presently serving in the capacities of Dean of Students, came here in the fall of 1965 from St. Louis University. Since then he has made his abilities noticed and his voice heard by both the faculty and the student body. Also in his short time in Richmond he has won the respect of many residents in the surrounding area.

Dr. Renneisen is a straight-forward man. He will look a person in the eye and say exactly what he thinks. Many in the press have gotten to know him well in the last two years and we have come away from meetings filled with both admiration and respect for him. And this comes from a group of individuals who seldom are overly impressed with people.

Many may feel that a man of his age—Dr. Renneisen is only 39—is not ready to become president of a university. However, aged complacency is already out at many colleges and recently Randolph-Macon College named a 43-year-old lawyer as its president. Ohio University has for the last few years been governed by a man who has not yet reached 45. Dr. T. Marshall Hahn Jr. of Virginia Polytechnic Institute is a long way from drawing an old-age pension.

A president of a college today—in this fast-moving and ever-changing world of education—has to be on the run all the time if he is going to properly do his job. His job may run from counselor to politician and it usually does.

When he came here Dr. Renneisen said RPI was not bogged down with tradition, that innovations could be introduced easily, and that the college could build traditions of its own. In the areas in which his present duties take him, these have proved prophetic words. They gave promise that was fulfilled, and that fulfillment gives promise of much more if the opportunity is given him.

Dr. Renneisen is very familiar with RPI—its problems and its future. In the past he has expressed extreme interest in the urban university and worked with one at St. Louis.

We are not demanding that the Board of Visitors quickly huddle and choose Dr. Renneisen as president. We do hope the Visitors will consider our recommendation.

There are others here who also have shown they are made of presidential timber. Many have been here longer than Dr. Renneisen, but it's the cream that rises to the top and we can only call them as we have seen them.

Many in student government here share our feelings toward Dr. Renneisen and most, we feel, would back us in nominating him for president.

Now, more than any other time in its history, RPI needs a strong leadership if it is to attain a high place in the academic world.

Free Forum Tickets Offered

One hundred free tickets to each of the four performances of this season's Richmond Public Forum will be made available to students wishing to attend.

The Forum will open its season on January 28 featuring cartoonist Al Capp. Other speakers will be: former Republican presidential candidate Barry Goldwater on February 25; sex education authority Mary S. Calderone on March 18 and space expert Dr. Wernher von Braun on April 8.

BUT SUPPOSE I DON'T WANT TO JUMP?

'Tis Often Better to Give . . .

Verdict: Santa Sometimes Goofs!

By Nancy Thomas
Co-News Editor

A bit of spice is added to everyone's Christmas spirit each year by at least one gift which is either impractical, baffling or totally ridiculous—if not all three.

Students returning to the campus after the holidays were heard giving accounts of such presents and commenting that often it truly is better to give than to receive!

Dave Clements, Adv1 Virginia Beach, got an electric razor from his girl friend—something most boys would be happy to find under a tree. However, the quality of Dave's razor is questionable since his girl's father had received the razor two years before and never used it!

Two of the more interesting reports of unusual presents came from Dwight Howdershelt, Mgt1 Fredericksburg, who was given a check for $35 drawn from his own checking account, and from Janet Soper, A&Sc2 Alexandria, who was blessed with a three-foot picture of Marlon Brando.

Among the gifts which are undoubtedly useful, although rare in form, are a monogrammed trash-can given to Christy Cooke, J1 Richmond, and a record player one-third the size of a piece of notebook paper presented to Dayle Mayer, Aed2 Richmond.

Clothes always make nice Christmas presents, but sometimes they tend to be more ridiculous than practical. Stockings with holes in the toes and a loafer with a hole in it were among the more questionable items. However, top award in the clothes classification goes to Cheryl Rives, Fash1 Columbia, S. C., who was given a pair of size 48 jockey shorts.

Stockings were filled with food again this year, but in some cases it was over-done. One girl found 2½ pounds of pistachio nuts, and other feasted on two links of Polish sausage and one boy was presented with a carrot cake. Gregory Thrift, J1 Warsaw, was particularly happy with his package of liquor-flavored lollipops—bourbon, scotch and gin.

There being one in every crowd, one boy had a comment for posterity. When asked whether or not he got anything unusual for Christmas, he pondered the question and answered with a smirk, "She was unusual."

'Machine Age' Snack Shop Was to be Opened Thursday

The Ram's Den, which is located on the first floor of the Student Center, was due to reopen yesterday for the first time this year with several innovations.

During the 1965-66 school year the Ram's Den was operated on a similar basis as the snack bar in the Rotunda. This year it will be used as an "automat" with five vending machines taking the place of cooks.

What formerly was the kitchen of the Ram's Den has been converted into a room containing coffee, hot food, candy, sandwich and cold drink machines.

Along with the vending machines there is a Litton Micro-Wave oven.

According to Lee Dennen, director of student activities, the machines are on trial basis to see if they will be suitable for the facility.

The hot food machine dispenses several different types of soups, chili and spaghetti. The sandwich machine supplies hamburgers, ham sandwiches and cheese sandwiches.

The Ram's Den closed earlier in the year when the college changed its meal service company. Slater Food Service was replaced by SAGA.

Auld Lang Syne

New Year's Eve was a flurry of horns, drinks, balloons and paper hats balanced precariously on celebrator's heads, but amidst the revelry many brave resolutions were breathed and stout oaths sworn.

Perhaps the most popular resolution was that of resolving never to make another resolution.

One may ponder on what some of these resolutions were. What might the harried English prof have promised himself, the tipsy co-ed foresworn. We venture, for some, possibly appropriate resolutions for this year A.D. 1967.

Milt Woody, president of the Student Government Association, could have found an autographed football from the Richmond Rebels under his tree and may have resolved to stick to water polo—it is a more conservative sport.

Richard MacDougall, dean of men, upon opening his Christmas mail, might have been surprised to find greetings from Uncle Sam and his 1-A classification. It could have lead him to resolve that he would send in the 2-S classification forms next time.

Perhaps the Speaker of the House, Reid Cornwell, discovered that one of his packages contained a leather-bound edition of Roberts' Rules of Order. His resolution might have been to read or reread the rules and take a bottle of aspirin to the next House meeting.

The manual, "A Guide for the Progressive Coach," bound in grey and blue leather, might have been found in Coach Allen's stocking, maybe followed by the resolution to memorize the chapter on defense and recite it at the next practice.

Dean Roach, pouncing on his gayly wrapped gift, may have ripped off paper and ribbon to discover a schedule card with his name in 14kt gold letters, and a listing of all eight o'clock classes with no cuts. One could guess that he might resolve to buy a new alarm clock and revise some previous decisions.

Santa Claus is a considerate fellow and he might have given to the SGA House members, after the Honor Court referendum vote of 629-66, copies of "Man as a Deity" and the book, "The Invisible Government." In view of this present, the legislators might have taken secret oaths to read carefully and to observe public opinion before the next election.

And last and but not least, perhaps RPI might have received the biggest present of all, MCV. No resolution. P.A.H.

Our Legacy

L'enfant, 1967, is not quite a year old. The war, Viet Nam type, continues to live and is nearing the ripe age of five. Maybe Americans should open another bottle of champagne and celebrate. Or maybe they should open up the box of handkerchiefs that Aunt Minnie gave them and have a good long cry.

We were reading a magazine article the other day by a noted satirist. He noted that the war may be won in another decade or two and after a couple zillion dollars had been sunk into the jungles. He ended with a peasant leader being the only Vietnamese left. After looking across the deserted, napalm scorched, bullet-pocked countryside he noted, "with allies like the Americans, who needs to fear the Communists."

The Observer

By Larry Evans

One of the most serious problems facing higher education today is the lack of communication between the student body and its administration and faculty.

As colleges grow larger this problem usually becomes more pronounced. We, with a relatively small but rapidly-increasing student body of around 8,500, have seen this problem arise sporadically. At some larger universities the schism between the students and their educators often manifests itself into an undertow of antagonism on the part of the student body and a viewpoint of almost complete misunderstanding on the part of the educators.

The effects of this communication problem on our institution have not reached the proportions that they have at larger schools, thus we have a definite advantage. We can make an all-out effort to establish clear lines of communication between administration and students before our university grows into an educational monster which will only serve to defeat its original purpose. But are we taking advantage of this opportunity?

Earlier this semester the Student Government Association and a few

Election Gives Freshman Class Self-Government

Three Freshman class officers, including President Steve Brown, swept into office unopposed as the freshmen exercised their newly acquired right of self-government in an election before the Christmas holidays. The five other officers faced opposition.

The officers will assume control of their class at the first class meeting in February. Next semester, the Freshmen Advisory Board, which is presently governing the class, will be delegated to a strictly advisory capacity.

The officers include President: Brown, Bus Petersburg, (unopposed); Vice president: Tommy Williams, Dist Scottsburg; Secretary: Nancy Filppen, Edu Colonial Heights; Treasurer: Linda Lively, PhyTh Richmond; Senator: Janie Shapiro, Soc Petersburg; Parliamentarian: Larry Stansbury, Edu Richmond, (unopposed); Historian: Marjorie Priddy, Psych Richmond; and Reporter Martha Whitlock, Dist Charleston, W. Va., (unopposed).

This step by Dr. Rennelsen tends to bolster a somewhat fading faith we have had in college administrators. By this action Dr. Rennelsen is putting himself on the firing line and any student who wants to come out and meet him on public ground and ask any question he wishes has the opportunity. But since Dr. Rennelsen has taken this rather liberal move on the part of an educator the response of the student body has been almost nil.

If attendance does not increase at the Dean's Forum we are relatively sure that Dr. Rennelsen will discontinue his meeting. If this should happen the lines of communication between the administration and the student body will become even more strained. One cannot blame an administration for ruling over the student body with an iron hand if this student body does not care enough about its own freedom to make its views heard.

Students who go before Dr. Rennelsen cannot be sure that their ideas will be put into effect or that they will see their own ideas mirrored by the actions of the administration in any way, but if the Dean's Forum was to fold and the administration become even more omnipotent, the student body will have only itself to blame.

A Right Step

Thus, by inviting Dr. Roach to speak, the student body took a step in the right direction toward bridging the gap between students and administration.

Soon after this confrontation a member of the administration made a move of his own. Taking a cue from Roach's meeting with the students, and capitalizing on the ideas he picked up at a conference of Southern deans, Dean of Students Dr. Charles M. Rennelsen announced plans to open a Dean's Forum in which students could voice their complaints.

Second Loss To Monarchs

With 11 seconds left in the game, Old Dominion had control of the ball in their backcourt, failed to bring the ball past the mid court line, but, the Rams lost Wednesday night to the Monarchs, 88-86.

RPI PLAYED catch-up ball all night and began to press with three minutes left in the game. However, Old Dominion's lead went from two to four to six and back to two before the game ended.

The Rams scored 36 field goals to the Monarchs 31 but the difference came in the foul department—ODC made 26 for 31. In the first half RPI shot 43 per cent to ODC's 35 per cent. Old Dominion lead at the half, 42-37, on the strength of their foul shooting (14-16). The Rams were one for one at the charity strip in the first half.

Lions Down RPI in Tourneys

By Gilbert Walker

Yes fans, its spelled FREDERICK. That's right, F-R-E-D-E-R-I-C-K. Now, shall we write it on the blackboard three times?

Three times this season the Frederick College Lions have mauled the Rams, twice in Christmas Tourneys.

The Rams lost to Frederick in the Championship game of the Ft. Lee Christmas Invitational Basketball Tournament, 80-64, Dec. 21, and to the Lions again, 106-84, in the Colonial Classic consolation game in nearby Colonial Heights Dec. 30.

RPI beat Va. State in the opening round.

An earlier encounter, on Dec. 3, had found the Rams downed by the Lions 99-82.

The Ft. Lee championship game saw the Lions place five players in double figures and the other two scoring players

Rams Face W & L Tonight

The Rams travel to Lexington tonight to play the Generals of Washington and Lee University. The Rams will try to capture their first win away from home in regular season play.

The Generals starting lineup against the Rams will probably consist of all-state forward Bob Bauer, captain Frank Morrison, Jody Kline, John Carrere and Tommy Cox their best defensive player.

THE RAMS will return home on Tuesday and try to avenge a 118-88 decision suffered at the hands of Hampden-Sydney earlier this season.

The Rams have not beaten the Tigers in many years and they will try to reverse this trend in the Franklin st. gym. The game will start at 8 p.m.

In the first game with the Tigers, Len Creech was the high scorer with 31 points with three other Rams, Bones Gordon (21), C. G. Winston (10) and Bill Donlon (10), scoring in double figures.

NEXT SATURDAY the Rams will tangle with the Maroons of Roanoke College here in the Franklin st. gym. This will be the first meeting between the teams this year.

Matmen Lose Boyer; Generals Due Here

The Ram wrestling team suffered a severe blow during the holidays when co-captain "Whitey" Boyer suffered a back injury. According to Coach Dave Magill, Boyer will be out for the next four matches and the earliest possible date for his return to action is the beginning of next semester.

COACH MAGILL said that he will change the lineup today to find a replacement for the 137-pound star. Boyer's injury takes points away from the Ram lineup in that he was almost always good for at least three points in a match.

The Rams were scheduled to travel to East Carolina College on December 15 but due to complications arising because of a Pirate basketball game, the match was moved up to Jan. 17.

The grapplers will be back into action tomorrow when they host the Generals of Washington and Lee at 8 p.m.

Washington and Lee is a strong team complimented with nine lettermen. They are led by co-captains Don Patterson, 152 pounds, and Warren Stewart, 177 pounds. Also, the Generals are a young team with Patterson and Stewart being the only seniors.

COACH MILLER summed his team by saying, "our overall strength is about the same as last year, with one important addition in Spencer Gay in the 137-pound class. He was undefeated in high school."

The General's squad is rounded out by seven juniors, four of them letter winners, three lettermen sophomores eight freshmen.

Cage Loop To Begin On Jan. 16

Day and Night Leagues Slated

Intramural basketball will begin on Jan. 16. There will be a day and night league. Teams will play only the teams in their league and games will be played Mondays and Wednesdays in the afternoons and evenings.

All teams interested in participating in intramural basketball should contact coach Buck Jones, ext. 409. Teams must have its rosters by Jan. 10 so league action can start the following week. All teams should specify whether they wish to play during the afternoon, night or both.

LAST YEAR the Gray League ended in a tie between the Sots and the Fighting Five, each finishing a 9-1 record. In a playoff the Sots defeated the Fighting Five, 70-58, to clinch the first place title.

In the Blue League the crown went to the Yankees.

In the tournament between both leagues, the Fighting Five got another shot at the Sots in the finals and this time they were victorious and captured the Intramural championship.

Co-ed Cagers Play Monday

The co-ed basketball team will play its second game of the season at Longwood College Monday.

In the first encounter the co-eds played Old Dominion College and lost by 37-13. But, RPI was ahead at halftime 10-9. Scoring for RPI were Ann Carneal, PE 1 Richmond, 5 points; Sue Dawson, Bus 2 Falls Church, 4 points, and Lillie Hinton, Dist 1 Rocky Mount, N. C., 4 points. Anita Moffat, co-ed basketball coach, said she had not selected a starting line-up.

Literary Magazine On Sale Next Week

Copies of Spectrum, a campus literary magazine, will go on sale sometime next week, according to the publication's Managing Editor Jerry Parrish.

Commenting on the publication, Parrish said, "It is a good one. We have a good spread between poetry and short stories. However, I'm still disappointed in the number of submissions." He also added that the staff is still in need of more members.

Homecoming

This co-ed waits outside her dormitory while her luggage is being unloaded from a nearby automobile on Franklin st. From her expression she may have mixed emotions about this homecoming.

'Godot' Play To Start Run Wednesday

"Waiting for Godot" by Samuel Beckett, the third major production of the Department of Dramatic Art and Speech, will open Wednesday, January 11 and run through January 14.

The two-act tragicomedy will be presented at 8 p.m. in the Temple Theater which has recently been renamed the Gaslight Theater.

The play which contains very little action centers around two men who are waiting for Godot.

The fact that these men are waiting for Godot and have faith that he will arrive is the important point, said Roy M. Carter, assistant professor of dramatic art.

The main subject of the play, said Carter, concerns waiting and the reflections and actions of those who believe Godot is coming and those who do not believe.

The set is very simple and consists only of a place where two men might exist.

The two men who are waiting for Godot, Estragon and Valdir are portrayed by Nick Cohn, Dra2 Woodford, and Tim Anderson, Dra4 Ridgefield, Conn., respectively.

The rest of the cast consists of: Rayner Johnston, Dra1 Emporia as Lucky; Richard Bell, Dra4 Culpeper, as Pozzo, and Ron St. Germain, Dra1 Newport News, as a boy.
