Metro Richmond Latino Health Services & Resource Guide – 2006

This Guide was produced by the VCU Institute for Women's Health, VCU Center on Health Disparities, and CLAS Act Virginia as a resource for the fall 2006 Latino Health Summit: Latino Cultures and Beliefs in Health Care. The purpose of this Guide is to provide a practical tool for community health care professionals to use in their work by assisting in cataloguing key provider and patient resources and services. The guide will be posted on the VCU Institute for Women's Health and VCU Center on Health Disparities websites, which will be updated on a regular basis.

VCU Institute for Women's Health

VCU Institute for Women's Health, a National Center of Excellence in Women's Health designated by the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, is a national model of innovative, comprehensive and multidisciplinary health care for women integrating research, clinical care, community outreach, professional education and women's leadership development. The Institute was created to bring these diverse activities under a single umbrella, create synergy within VCU, and foster coordinated alliances with the greater community.

Agencies and Organizations

Richmond Enhancing Access to Community Healthcare (REACH)

More than 103,000 Greater Richmond Metropolitan Area Residents (one in eight) do not have health insurance. At least 14 area organizations offer low-cost- in some cases, free- health services to persons without health insurance. These healthcare providers, which form Richmond's health safety net, are uniquely able to care for uninsured and underinsured persons; still, gaps in care remain. Recognizing the need to collaboratively address systemic problems affecting the safety net, several organizations focused on caring for the uninsured began meeting in 2000 to discuss how to minimize gaps in care and create a coordinated health services delivery model. Richmond Enhancing Access to Community Healthcare (REACH) exists to promote collaboration to increase access to a comprehensive continuum of quality health care services and strengthen the healthcare delivery system for the uninsured and underinsured of the greater Richmond metropolitan area.

Resources

The Richmond-Area Perinatal Care Resource Guide is one way to help uninsured pregnant women access local, low-cost perinatal services – prenatal care, post-partum care and baby needs. A monthly listing of Richmond area safety net providers, their services, and their ability to accept new patients – both of these guides are available on the REACH website www.reachva.org

Virginia Coordinated Care for the Uninsured (VCC)

VCC is a joint effort among the VCU Health System, the City of Richmond and community primary-care physicians to provide eligible, low-income patients with access to physician and hospital services. VCC is not an insurance program, but focuses on preventive care to improve the overall health of uninsured patients.

Virginia Department of Medical Assistance Services (DMAS)

DMAS administers the Virginia Medicaid program as well as the Virginia State Children's Health Insurance Program (SCHIP), entitled FAMIS (Family Access to Medical Insurance Security)

FAMIS/FAMIS Plus

These Federal- and State-sponsored children's health insurance programs are available to children under 19 years of age. Once children are approved, they obtain full health coverage (e.g., primary care, specialty care, dental care, mental health, hospitalization and more), and are often placed into an Managed Care Organization (MCO) to manage their benefits. If the pregnant woman is under the age of 19, she may be enrolled in FAMIS or FAMIS Plus instead of Medicaid for Pregnant Women or FAMIS MOMS. When this is the case, the coverage includes prenatal care as well. Families do not pay a premium to participate, but some families are required to pay a co-pay for some health services, usually $2 - $5 per service or visit.

Coverage: Covered services include doctor visits, well-child checks, hospitalizations, specialty care, prescriptions drugs, dental care, mental health, vision, emergency services, and more.

Eligibility

- ✓ Under age 19
- ✓ Income-based; gross household income up-to 133% Federal Poverty Level for FAMIS Plus and 200% FPL for FAMIS.
- ✓ Must be a resident of Virginia and either a US citizen or certain legal immigrants may also be eligible.
- ✓ For FAMIS, the child must be uninsured at time of application.

Requirements

- ✓ Children must be US citizens or certain legal immigrants.
- ✓ Proof of citizenship and identity is required (only for FAMIS Plus and Medicaid for Pregnant Women)
- ✓ Parents do not have to be US citizens for the child to be eligible.

3 ways to apply for FAMIS/FAMIS Plus:

- ✓ On-line: <http://www.famis.org/>
- ✓ By phone: FAMIS Central Processing Unit (CPU) 1-866-873-2647
 - TDD users only call 1-888-221-1590
 - 8:00 am to 7:00 pm Monday – Friday or Sat 9-12:00 noon
- ✓ Call your local Department of Social Services.

FAMIS MOMS

DMAS also offers a new program for uninsured pregnant women of any age called FAMIS MOMS.

Coverage: Covered services include comprehensive health care benefits during the pregnancy and for two months following the end of pregnancy. FAMIS MOMS also has a special program for women with high-risk pregnancies. And just like FAMIS, with FAMIS MOMS there are no enrollment fees or monthly premiums, and there are no co-pays for pregnancy related services.

Eligibility

- ✓ Currently be uninsured
- ✓ Have a medically confirmed pregnancy or be within the sixty-day period after pregnancy ends
- ✓ Be a resident of Virginia
- ✓ Be a U.S. citizen or a certain legal immigrant
- ✓ Not have access to a state employee health plan
- ✓ Meet family income guidelines. 166% FPL

Virginia Health Care Foundation (VHCF)

Initiated in 1992 by the Virginia General Assembly and its Joint Commission on Health Care, the VHCF works to improve the lives and health of Virginia's uninsured. Whether helping children obtain health insurance, providing seniors and the chronically ill with medicines they need, or bringing more health professionals to underserved areas, VHCF touches the lives of thousands of Virginians everyday.

VHCF works on multiple fronts to increase access to health care for Virginia's uninsured and medically underserved. In addition to its grantmaking program, which supports community-based projects, VHCF has initiated several important statewide programs. These include:

- The Healthy Communities Loan Fund - to bring more providers to parts of the state where there are too few;
- The Pharmacy Connection – to increase access to prescription medication for seniors and chronically ill adults;
- The Child Health Insurance Initiative – to enroll eligible children in health insurance through Virginia's FAMIS programs; and
- SeniorNavigator – to serve as a source of information and referral for seniors and their caregivers.

Service Providers

Bon Secours Care-A-Van

Care-A-Van was established in 1994 by the Bon Secours Richmond Health System. The mobile health clinic's operations today still emphasize providing youngsters with on-time immunizations, but its services have vastly expanded to meet the medical needs of both children and adults residing in the greater Richmond area who are uninsured and underinsured. Ongoing services include all immunizations for school, pregnancy tests, blood pressure, health education, referrals, flu and pneumonia vaccines for adults (seasonal). The following services can be provided on request: school entrance physicals, urgent and primary care, and health screenings for adults (glucose and cholesterol). Staff are bilingual, and services are free (donations are accepted).

CrossOver Ministry (CrossOver Health Centers)

In continuous operation in greater Richmond since 1983, CrossOver is a 501(c)3 nonprofit organization that operates a network of four free clinics strategically located in areas of identified need throughout Metro Richmond. CrossOver provides a full continuum of health education and health care services to low-income, uninsured individuals. The immigrant population that finds a medical home at CrossOver has increased significantly since 2000, from 14% to 53% in 2005; and the cultural competency of the organization continues to advance to meet the emerging need. Spanish-speaking interpreters are available.

Fan Free Clinic (FFC)

Incorporated in 1970, FFC is the oldest free clinic in Virginia. FFC provides medical treatment, health education, and social services to those in the Richmond area with limited access to care. Special emphasis is placed on welcoming the least served. Medical services at the clinic are offered through multiple night-hour and daytime clinic sessions each week, which include general medicine, gynecology, pediatrics, primary care, family planning, and sexually transmitted infection testing and treatment, as well as day and evening hours for HIV antibody testing. Medical services are provided free of charge by volunteer medical professionals who are assisted by community volunteers. Fan Free Clinic also serves as a community rotation site and placement site for VCU's Medical College of Virginia residents. A nutritionist and chiropractor also volunteer their services, on an as-needed basis, for clients requesting information and evaluation.

The Education, Prevention, and Outreach Department and the Social Services Department now offer the following services: (1) Case management assistance; (2) Support group for persons with HIV/AIDS; (3) Resources for financial and transportation assistance; (4) Complimentary therapies; (5) A food bank; (6) An AIDS/HIV information and referral hotline; (7) Street outreach; (8) Care teams; (9) Housing Opportunities for People With AIDS (HOPWA) financial assistance; (10) Extensive prevention education and outreach; (11) Client social events.

Fan Free Clinic materials are available in Spanish. Staff members in the clinic and on the education and social services teams speak Spanish.

The National Alliance for Hispanic Health

The National Alliance for Hispanic Health is the nation's action, advocacy, and research forum for Hispanic health and well-being. The National Alliance informs and mobilizes consumers, supports health and human service providers in the delivery of quality care, improves the science base for accurate decision making by promoting better and more inclusive research, promotes appropriate use of technology, insures accountability and advocates on behalf of Hispanics, and promotes philanthropy.

Specific programs include capacity development of community based organizations, diabetes education and outreach, Hispanics in the Sciences, prenatal help lines, family health help lines, cultural proficiency, teen theatre as a tool for prevention, and consumer outreach in the areas of depression, ADHD, immunization, HIV/AIDS, women's health, osteoporosis, tobacco control, and environmental health.

Su Familia: The National Hispanic Family Health Helpline

This Helpline (1-866-783-2645) is a national helpline that offers consumers free, reliable and confidential health information in Spanish and English. Callers speak to bilingual and culturally proficient information specialists, and by providing their zip code, can receive referral to one of over 12,000 local health providers, including community and migrant health centers.

National Hispanic Prenatal Helpline (NHPH)

As a component of the Maternal and Child Health Bureau's national campaign to promote early and regular prenatal care, the NHPH carries out the following main functions: 1) to answer questions about prenatal issues in a culturally appropriate manner; 2) to give referrals to local prenatal care services that have the capability of serving Hispanic consumers; and 3) to send out written information to callers in English and Spanish about prenatal issues. These services are provided by a bilingual (English and Spanish) staff to pregnant women and their partners, families planning a pregnancy, relatives or friends of pregnant women, and prenatal care providers. For information on how to obtain prenatal care, or for more facts about how to have a healthy pregnancy, call the NHPH at 1-800-504-7081, Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. EST.

The National Hispanic Indoor Air Quality Helpline

Provides bilingual (Spanish/English) information about indoor air pollutants that consumers may find inside their homes, offices, or schools. Consumers, health and human services professionals, outreach workers, and community leaders from across the United States, Alaska, Hawaii and Puerto Rico can dial 1-800-SALUD-12 (1-800-725-8312) , or 202-265-6388 in Washington, D.C. to speak with a bilingual health information specialist (HIS) Monday through Friday, 9:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. eastern time. After business hours, consumers may leave a message, and an HIS will return the call the next day during business hours.

National Center for Farmworker Health (NCFH)

The NCFH, established in 1975, is dedicated to improving the health status of farmworker families by providing information services and products to organizations and individuals serving the farmworker populations. This includes monographs, fact sheets, news, and other information related to migrant/farmworkers and their health issues.

Call For Health

The National Center for Farmworker Health has created “a nationwide, toll-free, bilingual, health information and referral service program for farmworkers and their families. Call for Health helps farmworker families and the health care providers who serve them to find health services for both adults and children.” The phone number is 1-800-377-9968.

U.S. Department of Health and Human Services Administration on Aging (AoA)

While we celebrate our nation’s rich diversity, we recognize that minority Americans often are at greater risk for poor health, social isolation, and poverty. Currently, minority elders comprise over 16.1 percent of all older Americans (65 years of age and older). In the future, their numbers are expected to increase dramatically. Between 1999 and 2030, the older minority population 65+ is projected to increase by 217 percent, compared with 81 percent for the older white population. For example, the number of African American elders will increase by 128 percent. The population of Asian American elders will increase by 301 percent, and the number of Hispanic American elders will grow by 322 percent. The number of American Indian and Alaska Native elders will increase roughly by 193 percent by 2030 if current demographic trends continue. The “Addressing Diversity” portion of the AoA web site was designed to provide information that can help to increase access to and improve programs for older minority Americans.

U.S. Department of Health and Human Services Office of Minority Health (OMH) and Resource Center (OMHRC)

The mission of the OMH is to improve and protect the health of racial and ethnic minority populations through the development of health policies and programs that will eliminate health disparities. OMH operates the OMHRC, which serves as a free information and referral service on minority health issues for community groups, consumers, professionals and students. It distributes scientifically valid and culturally competent health information, encourages public participation in HHS programs, and assists in conducting health campaigns. All pages on the website can be viewed in Spanish.

OMHRC operates a toll-free telephone service (800-444-6472), accessible throughout the U.S., Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands; and provides a TDD telephone (301-251-1432) for the hearing-impaired. Bilingual information specialists answer English and Spanish-language inquiries.

Office of Epidemiology

The mission of this Office is to provide leadership and support to local health departments, other medical providers and community-based organizations in the prevention, surveillance, and treatment of HIV, other sexually transmitted diseases, tuberculosis, and their complications. The Office is dedicated to the provision of education, information, and health care services that promote and protect the health of all Virginians. Additionally, pharmacy services are provided for local health departments via drug and vaccine dispensing for individual patients, bulk drug distribution and drug information services.

African-American and Hispanic Faith Initiative

Through a community-mobilization approach, religious institutions are funded for clergy training and congregation education around HIV as well as mentoring of other churches in the development of HIV prevention and support programs.

AIDS Drug Assistance Program (ADAP)

The Virginia ADAP program provides medication for the treatment of HIV/AIDS to individuals without insurance coverage or third party benefits for ADAP medications. ADAP is accessed through local health departments throughout the state.

Community HIV Testing Services

Following a successful pilot program, which showed, increased testing of high-risk populations and return rates for test results, this grant program was established in 2001 to provide oral HIV antibody testing in outreach and non-invasive settings through community-based organizations.

Health Care Services

Free medical care and essential support services are available for low-income individuals with HIV infection. These health care services are administered by VDH, coordinated through five regional consortia, and funded by Title II of the Ryan White Comprehensive AIDS Resources Emergency (CARE) Act.

HIV/STD Literature Requests

Free informational pamphlets, brochures and posters are available in Spanish and other languages for interested groups, individuals and organizations. To request literature, download the following form, print it out, and either mail or fax it to the address provided on the form. <http://www.vdh.virginia.gov/std/Hotline/LitRequest06.pdf>

Minority AIDS Initiative (MAI)

Minority community-based organizations (CBO) are funded to find persons who know their HIV-positive status but are not currently receiving health care, then engage and retain them in care; they also find people who are lost to care in order re-engage and retain them in care.

Minority AIDS Projects

Funds are provided to minority community-based organizations to conduct HIV prevention interventions to racial/ethnic minorities at increased risk for HIV infection. Projects are funded localities with the highest HIV/AIDS morbidity among Black, Latino and Asian/Pacific Islander communities.

Newcomer Health Program

The Mission of the Newcomer Health Program is to protect the public's health by empowering VDH health districts to provide thorough initial health assessments to all new refugees entering the Commonwealth of Virginia

Office of Health Policy and Planning (OHPP)

The mission of the OHPP is to improve access to quality health care for all Virginia residents. The OHPP contributes to the mission through policy analyses and research concerning the cost, quality, and accessibility of health care in the Commonwealth. The OHPP achieves its mission by assisting medically underserved communities and populations with the development of resources, establishment of partnerships and identification of programs. Finally, the OHPP achieves its mission through the development of the health care workforce, including the management of scholarship and loan repayment programs and other initiatives aimed at the recruitment and retention of health care providers. Two specific program areas of the OHPP include Culturally and Linguistically Appropriate Health Care Services (CLAS-Act) and the State Office of Minority Health.

CLAS Act: Culturally and Linguistically Appropriate Health Care Services for Virginians Resource Guide

The CLAS Act Virginia web site is a Resource Guide meant to assist health care providers in meeting the needs of Virginia's changing demographics through resources relating to cultural competence, overcoming language barriers, translation, interpretation, and much more. It is specific to Virginia with regionally appropriate information on language service programs, multicultural health & human service programs, studies, and conferences. It has

Commonly Used Clinical Phrases in Spanish & Korean with accompanying audio for the following areas: Emergency Dispatch, Nursing, Nutrition Clinics, Parents, Parents -to- be, Pediatric Clinics, Psychiatry, Radiology, and Social Work in addition to over 250 translated forms and documents. <http://www.CLASActVirginia.org>

State Office of Minority Health

The mission of the State Office of Minority Health (OMH) is to enhance health access of minorities in the Commonwealth through leadership, advocacy, education and proactive outreach for special programs and projects to improve access to health care and ultimately eliminate health disparities in Virginia. There are five federally recognized minority populations in Virginia:

- ♦ African American/Black,
- ♦ Hispanic/Latino,
- ♦ Asian,
- ♦ Native Hawaiian or other Pacific Islander
- ♦ Native American

Virginia Health Quality Center (VHQC)

The Virginia Health Quality Center (VHQC) is the Medicare Quality Improvement Organization (QIO) for Virginia. The VHQC partners with health care professionals to improve patient care for the state's more than 900,000 Medicare beneficiaries, as well as other target groups. The VHQC is a not-for-profit organization that works closely with health care professionals to implement successful and meaningful changes to the way health care is delivered. VHQC creates partnerships, develops methods, and evaluates outcomes for quality improvements that result in healthier communities. The combined quality improvement efforts of VHQC partners – nursing homes, home health organizations, hospitals, physician offices and pharmacies, as well as many other health care professionals- consistently demonstrate a measurable impact on the quality of health care delivered not only to all Virginians, but also to others beyond the Commonwealth. Since 1984, the VHQC has been a valuable resource for healthcare providers and individuals who have health insurance coverage under Medicare.

Cultural Competence in Working with Latino Family Caregivers

This is an interactive learning module that includes core concepts in cultural competence along with four cross cultural health care case studies, each accompanied by a lecture and learning activity. The purpose of these case studies is to familiarize the learner with the many issues that may arise while working in a pediatric setting with people from different cultures. The development of this learning module was supported in full by a group of Pediatric Pulmonary Center Projects that were funded by the Maternal and Child Health Bureau (MCHB) of the Health Resources and Services Administration (HRSA), US Dept. of Health and Human Services.

Ethnomed

Ethnomed is a web site containing medical and cultural information on immigrant and refugee groups. The project started in 1994 and is designed to be used in clinics by care providers in the few minutes before seeing a patient. For instance, before seeing a Cambodian patient with asthma, a provider might access EthnoMed and learn how asthma is translated in a particular culture, and about common cultural and interpretive issues in the Cambodian community that might complicate asthma management. A practitioner could also download a patient education pamphlet in Cambodian to give to the patient.

Hablamos Juntos

Hablamos Juntos means "We speak together." Hablamos Juntos is a project funded by the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation, and administered by the UCSF Fresno Center for Medical Education & Research, a major educational and clinical branch of the UCSF School of Medicine. Its mission is to improve communication between health care providers and their patients with limited English proficiency. Its goal is to develop affordable models that will help doctors, hospitals and their staff care for a changing patient population by funding ten demonstration sites in regions with established or emerging fast-growing Latino populations. Their website provides a wealth of information on the use of universal symbols for health care in signage, developing quality Spanish language materials, interpreters and interpreting, and affordable solutions.

Office of the Governor Virginia Latino Advisory Board

The Virginia Latino Advisory Board (VLAB) was created to recognize the importance of the contributions of Latinos in Virginia, to advise and inform the Governor on issues facing Latino constituents, and to advocate for Latino interests. Latinos in Virginia are native-born U.S. citizens from all parts of the country, and foreign-born residents from all over the world. Virginia's Latino community represents a diversity of cultures and languages, unique needs and skills, countless contributions, and endless potential for the Commonwealth. The mission of the VLAB is to serve these Virginians who enrich our state and to call upon government officials, local communities, and all constituents to take part in the positive changes that are making Virginia an even better place to live.

Virginia Hispanic Chamber of Commerce and Virginia Hispanic Chamber of Commerce Foundation

The Virginia Hispanic Chamber of Commerce was founded in May 2000 as the first statewide organization to empower Hispanics in the Virginia business community by building economic, social, and cultural bridges between Virginia and its growing Hispanic community. Since its inception, the Chamber has worked to foster an environment that is conducive to business growth and benefits people with business acumen, both Hispanic and non-Hispanic, through cultural, social, and business activities. Offers referral services to social service organizations, legal aid, and community support systems.

CyraCom - Transparent Language Services

CyraCom is committed to helping healthcare providers more efficiently communicate with patients by providing the best quality medical interpretation and translation services. CyraCom pioneered the development of 'transparent' language services, and specializes in providing these services to the healthcare industry, where precision and cultural accuracy are vital. Transparent Language Services go beyond simpler forms of interpretation and translation because the speakers' intent, tone, cultural perspective and idiom are imparted along with their words. A complete spectrum of communication services in more than 150 languages is provided. These services include over-the-phone interpretation - available through standard phone lines or our patented telephone technology - onsite interpretation, translation, interpreter testing and training, and assessment services. All of CyraCom's interpreters are trained in medical vocabulary and concepts, enabling CyraCom to better meet the critical needs of healthcare professionals and the diverse communities they serve.
