Louis Wade Sullivan
Commencement Speaker
Recipient, Honorary Doctor of Humane Letters Degree

Louis Wade Sullivan’s parents knew that rural Blakely, Georgia, offered few educational opportunities for blacks. So, Walter Wade Sullivan, an undertaker, and Lubirda Elizabeth Priester Sullivan, a teacher, sent their sons Walter and Louis to Atlanta, where the boys stayed with family friends and attended public school.

Louis, the younger, went to Morehouse College and graduated with highest honors in 1954. He won a scholarship to Boston University Medical School, graduated with honors in 1958 and was the only black member of his class.

In 1960, after completing his internship and residency at New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center in New York City, Sullivan obtained a fellowship in pathology at Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston. The following year he received a research fellowship at Thorndike Memorial Laboratory, Harvard University Medical School. In 1963 he was named an instructor of medicine at the Harvard Medical School. A professorship at the New Jersey College of Medicine and a return to Boston University followed in 1966. Besides teaching, Sullivan was co-director of hematology at the university medical center.

Sullivan had hoped to become a department chairman at an established medical school by the time he was 45. He exceeded that goal at age 42, when he and a group of Morehouse College alumni began plans to create a medical school to be affiliated with Morehouse. The vision for the Morehouse Medical School focused on training doctors to serve where doctors are scarce: the inner cities and the rural South.

In 1978, the school was accredited as a two-year medical preparatory program, and Sullivan was appointed dean. In 1981, the program became the Morehouse School of Medicine, a fully accredited, four-year institution, independent of Morehouse College, and one of only three predominantly black medical schools in the United States.

On March 1, 1989, the Senate confirmed Sullivan as the new secretary of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, the highest-ranking black in the Bush administration and the only black in the cabinet. During the Bush administration, he presided over the largest federal agency, with 132,000 employees and a $500 billion annual budget, until his resignation in January 1993.

It was, in fact, Sullivan’s association with Morehouse that led to his acquaintance with the Bushes. In 1982, he invited then Vice President Bush to dedicate the first building at the Morehouse School of Medicine. His relationship with the Bushes grew from there; and in 1988, Sullivan was tapped to introduce Barbara Bush at the Republican National Convention.

Although Sullivan’s name will always be linked with presidential history, his academic accomplishments equal his public service. Acquaintances have said that it was because of Sullivan’s ceaseless fundraising efforts and uncanny ability to persuade people that Morehouse School of Medicine became a reality. A hematologist who specializes in the treatment of blood disorders, Sullivan is home again. After leaving Washington, he returned to the Morehouse School of Medicine, where he’s the president.
Mary Tyler Cheek

Recipient, Honorary Doctor of Humane Letters

Mary Tyler Cheek is a fighter. Her enemies are poverty, ignorance, apathy and other causes of human despair: racism, unwanted children and AIDS. While Cheek’s dedication is impressive in itself, it is even more remarkable considering she was born at a time and in a society where such commitment was unusual and hardly condoned.

Cheek is the daughter of Douglas Southall Freeman, southern historian and former editor of the Richmond News Leader. She was raised among the lettered of the early 20th century. Guests like Robert Frost and General Dwight Eisenhower visited the Freeman household when she was a child.

Returning to Richmond after graduating from Vassar College, Cheek joined the Junior League, and her first task was organizing old address cards of people helped by the league. In the process, she came across a card that would lead to her first community project: Planned Parenthood.

“One couple had many changes of address on the card,” Cheek remembers. “The couple were mentally retarded and had many children. Every nine months they were forced to move when a new child was born and the charity of their neighbors ran out. I realized then to change conditions you needed to get to the root of the problem,” say Cheek. Getting to the root of the problem has defined Cheek’s work.

Since the early 1980s, Cheek has been active in Richmond race relations. She founded the Richmond Urban Forum, a social group for leaders of Richmond’s black and white communities, designed to create a dialogue that had not existed between the two groups. A simple step, but a step no one thought of before her.

Today, Cheek serves as the chair of the Richmond Better Housing coalition, a group dedicated to developing affordable housing for Richmonders with low incomes. She also is active in the Richmond AIDS Ministry, lending critical support to the group from the start. A trustee of Virginia Union University and the Virginia director for the Robert E. Lee Memorial Association, Cheek truly is a bridge between Richmond’s past and future.

Much of Cheek’s life has also been dedicated to the arts. Her husband, the late Leslie Cheek Jr., a former director of the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts, is largely credited with building the institution’s collections and outreach programs. For her part, Cheek has worked to improve the arts and culture of Richmond and Virginia through education and active involvement on many volunteer boards. She is currently a member of the board of the Maymont Foundation, the Jefferson Poplar Forest Fund, Richmond Symphony Foundation, Council for America’s First Freedom, the Virginia Historical Society and the Commission for the Preservation of the Capitol.

She has received numerous awards for her work in housing, race relations and historic preservation, including Style Weekly’s 1990 Richmonder of the Year, the 1988 Charlotte J. Washington Community Service Award from the Richmond Urban League and the 1991 Architecture Medal for Virginia Service from the American Institute of Architects. She was inducted into the Virginia Women’s Hall of Fame in 1991.

Cheek is the mother of four children and seven grandchildren.
William W. Berry

Recipient, Honorary Doctor of Humane Letters Degree

The year before William W. Berry became president of Virginia Power, the company was struggling. The public was angry over skyrocketing rates and fearful of nuclear power. Using an innovative management incentive plan and specific performance goals, Berry kindled strong employee support and steered Virginia Power to its place as an industry leader.

His 35-year career at Virginia Power culminated in his position as chief executive officer at Dominion Resources, the parent company of Virginia Power. Berry relinquished his CEO title in May 1990 but continues to serve as chairman of the board for both Dominion Resources and Virginia Power.

Through his involvement in advisory boards and in federal law-making, Berry has been instrumental in bringing about significant change in the energy industry. For more than a decade he worked to have competition introduced into the industry, and his efforts were rewarded in 1992 with the passing of the Energy Policy Act. Berry continues his involvement in industry through working with national and state-level advisory boards.

Active in education, Berry has served as adjunct faculty and on the board of directors at secondary and postsecondary institutions. He has worked through his gubernatorial appointment as co-chair to the Workforce 2000 Advocacy Council to focus attention on education and on the need for increased funding in an age of cutbacks and belt-tightening in higher education.

Berry believes the volunteer sector is one of the best resources to meet human service needs effectively. For his own part, he has worked with the United Way, the Alexis de Tocqueville Society of Virginia, and the Advisory Council of the Virginia Hunger Foundation, among many community service campaigns.

Universities, museums, community groups and service organizations have all honored him for his outstanding contributions to Virginia. In May 1990, VCU presented Berry with the Presidential Medallion for his work on VCU’s capital campaign.

A native of Norfolk, Berry graduated from Virginia Military Institute with a bachelor’s degree in electrical engineering and from the University of Richmond with a master’s degree in commerce.

Berry and his wife, the former Elizabeth Mangum of Norfolk, have three children.
The Hon. Lawrence Douglas Wilder
Recipient, Honorary Doctor of Humane Letters Degree

On January 14, 1990, L. Douglas Wilder made history when he was elected the 66th governor of Virginia and the nation's first elected black governor. Like many of his predecessors, including Patrick Henry, Thomas Jefferson and Harry F. Byrd, Wilder followed a course that stressed self-reliance and responsibility throughout his private and political career.

Wilder grew up in the shadow of Virginia's statehouse in the once-segregated Church Hill section of Richmond. Two generations earlier, his family had been slaves in Goochland County. Wilder has described his childhood as "gentle poverty;" although his parents never had spare money, they ensured the family was provided for.

After graduating from Virginia Union University in 1952, Wilder entered the Army and was sent to the Korean War. In 1953, he was promoted to sergeant and won the Bronze Star for valor at Pork Chop Hill.

In 1954, the Supreme Court's ruling in "Brown vs. the Board of Education" galvanized Wilder, and he decided to study law. "It restored my faith," he said, "because nine white men wrote the decision." With no Virginia Law school open to blacks, he attended Howard University in Washington, D.C.

Wilder returned to Richmond in 1959 and opened a one-man law firm in Church Hill. He soon developed a reputation as an up-and-coming criminal lawyer and built a successful practice, now known as Wilder & Gregory.

In 1969 the Richmond seat in the state senate was empty. A political novice, Wilder nonetheless seized the moment and announced his candidacy. In a three-way race against two white candidates, Wilder won a plurality, including 18 percent of the white vote. Wilder never faced opposition in re-election to the senate. By 1985 he was a committee chairman and rated one of the five most influential senators.

Despite his stature, many feared Wilder would doom the entire Democratic ticket if he ran for lieutenant governor in 1985. He ran an impressive campaign, visiting each of the 95 counties of Virginia. The entire Democratic ticket won. Wilder received 52 percent of the vote, and he made a particularly strong showing in southwestern Virginia, the state's least racially diverse region.

Wilder again triumphed in 1989, this time in the race for governor. Elected at a time of economic uncertainty, Wilder kept his promise of no new taxes while balancing the budget. His fiscal austerity helped Virginia earn the distinction of being the best financially run state in the nation.

Wilder's career in politics may continue, but history has been made. In a few months, L. Douglas Wilder will have completed his term as the nation's first black governor.
PRESENTED TO

BY THE

BOARD OF VISITORS
Wayne Medal

The Wayne Medal was established in 1971 to honor individuals who have made outstanding contribution or provided exemplary service to Virginia Commonwealth University.

Awarded by the president at commencement, the medal is named in honor of Edward A. Wayne, chairman of a commission that planned to establish a state-supported university in the Richmond metropolitan area. With the commission’s recommendation and the General Assembly’s approval, Virginia Commonwealth University was established in 1968.

Mr. Wayne also served as the university’s first vice rector.
William C. DeRusha
Recipient, Wayne Medal

William C. DeRusha went to work for the Heilig-Meyers Company as a part-time employee in 1969. Today, he is chairman and chief executive officer of the furniture company.

Born in Norfolk in 1950, DeRusha graduated in 1967 from Douglas S. Freeman High School in Richmond. He began his college career at VCU’s forerunner, Richmond Professional Institute, but interrupted his studies to work full time for the company. Continuing his education on a part-time basis, he graduated from VCU with a degree in accounting in 1975.

When DeRusha started with Heilig-Meyers, the company had 17 stores. It now has 432 stores and 7,800 employees, the largest publicly held home furnishings retailer in the country. DeRusha worked his way through the ranks and in 1986 was named to the top spot.

Aside from family and work, DeRusha makes time for community service. He is a past president of the VCU Foundation and a member of the VCU School of Business Advisory Board. He also is a member of the High Point College Advisory Board, the Virginia Council on Economic Education and the Maymont Foundation. He currently serves as chairman of the National Home Furnishings Association and a board member for Peebles Stores, Inc.

This year, he also received the 1993 Man of Achievement Award from the Anti-Defamation League.

DeRusha also makes time for VCU, particularly through class visits with students, his work with the business school’s advisory council, and his generous financial support.

DeRusha is married to the former Jennifer Leigh Cleary of Richmond, also a VCU graduate. The couple have two children.
Presidential Medallion

An exceptional honor, the Presidential Medallion is bestowed by Virginia Commonwealth University and is awarded in recognition of outstanding contribution by a member of the university community. The award is meant to recognize extraordinary achievement in the world of learning and dedication to Virginia Commonwealth University as shown by numerous outstanding contributions to several areas of university life. To honor these individuals, the president recommended and the Board of Visitors approved the establishment of this award in March 1984. The medallion is awarded at either the annual faculty convocation or at commencement, on recommendation of the president.
Louis S. Harris
Recipient, Presidential Medallion

Louis Harris is one of the few people who can claim to be in the Encyclopedia Britannica. In fact, of his 204 publications, 147 have resulted from his research since he arrived at VCU two decades ago. Add to these writings more than 150 abstracts along with a variety of scholarly contributions ranging from books such as The Therapeutic Potential of Marijuana to encyclopedic texts, as well as editorships for national and international journals. It's not hard to see why people call him "prolific."

Harris was born in Boston in 1927. In 1954 he earned a bachelor's degree in chemistry, continued on through a master's in medical sciences and a doctorate in pharmacology. This was no ordinary man of learning. While a graduate student, he was a National Science Foundation Fellow, and he later enjoyed a postgraduate fellowship at the National Institutes of Health.

After earning his doctorate, Harris spent eight years as a researcher at Sterling-Winthrop Research Institute, followed by positions at the University of North Carolina Schools of Pharmacy and Medicine, where he taught until 1972, when he joined VCU as professor and chairman of the Department of Pharmacology and Toxicology.

His initial areas of research were narcotics and analgesics. By 1968, when he was associate professor of pharmacology at UNC, he had published some of his first findings on tetrahydrocannabinol, the beginning of his particular of marijuana constituents.

As a consultant and professional leader, Harris is as dedicated to service as to research. He has served with the National Institute on Drug Abuse, the Food and Drug Administration, the National Institutes of Health, and the World Health Organization's Expert Advisory Panel on Drug Dependence. His professional memberships include the American Pharmaceutical Association which presented him its Academy of Pharmaceutical Sciences Research Achievement Award in Pharmacology in 1977. In 1984 VCU honored him with the University Award of Excellence; the School of Basic Health Sciences awarded him the Outstanding Faculty in Teaching, Scholarly Activities and Science Award.

Scientists the world over have recognized Harris's work. He has addressed the Karolinska Institute in Stockholm, Beijing Medical University and the Regional Foundation of Scientific and Technological Development at St. Petersburg. Most recently, through the National Institute on Drug Abuse (International Visiting Scientists and Technical Exchange Program), he has traveled to Prague, Warsaw, Krakow and Budapest.
Charles P. Ruch

Recipient, Presidential Medallion

Colleagues who worked with Charles “Chuck” Ruch during his 18 years at VCU know he is fond of saying: “People of good will can reach agreement.”

Ruch left VCU a few months ago. But VCU’s loss was a gain for Boise State University, where he became president in January. Ruch’s positive outlook is still fresh in the minds of faculty and staff; and it is a safe bet that 10 or even 20 years from now, people will still remember his smile and generous nature. Faculty say Ruch saw the possibilities in every problem, and it is his spirit that benefited VCU the most. President Eugene P. Trani said, “Chuck Ruch is integrity beyond belief, hard-working and compassionate.”

On taking the position in Boise, Ruch said, “After much soul-searching I made the decision, and it was a difficult one to make.”

Boise’s urban setting, Ruch said, helped his decision. “It had to be an urban university, it had to be big enough to be a major player, it had to be in a state where growth was possible and it had to be in a part of the country that rivaled Virginia.” No doubt Boise State will challenge Ruch, but his VCU friends know he is up to it.

In 1959, Ruch earned a bachelor’s degree in chemistry from the College of Wooster in Ohio. He did his graduate work in counselor education and educational administration at Northwestern University in Illinois. In 1974, Ruch accepted the position of associate professor of education at VCU.

Three years later, he was named dean of the School of Education. As dean, he was instrumental in creating VCU Teaching, a journal about new educational approaches and teaching techniques. Ruch has always known that teaching is central to VCU’s mission and that good teaching deserves to be recognized and celebrated.

Ruch served as interim provost and vice president for academic affairs in 1985 and assumed the official position in 1986. During Ruch’s years as provost he helped to shape and direct the feeling of academic community at VCU as the University itself flourished and grew.

In his wake, Ruch left a proposal for an engineering program, the University’s strategic plan, the Southern Association of College and Schools (SACS) self-study, and the continuing discussion of the faculty rewards system on his successor’s desk. Ruch’s vision has been integral in shaping these documents that, in turn, will shape VCU’s future. Ruch and his wife Sally have four grown children.
The University Medallion

In 1984, Virginia Commonwealth University commissioned R. Daniel Booton to strike a university medallion to be worn by the president on ceremonial occasions. The University Medallion is hand-carved and designed in 24-karat gold-leafed bronze, created as a perpetual symbol of Virginia Commonwealth University.

The Medallion uses Egyptian hieroglyphics and mythological and real images to represent the University's contributions in teaching, research and service.

The Egyptian Building on the Medical College of Virginia campus was selected as the centerpiece because of its significance as a historical and architectural landmark. The oldest medical building in the South, it is considered the best example of Egyptian Revival architecture in the United States. The building is flanked on the left by Isis, goddess of medicine, the arts, the home and the community. On the right is Toth, shown in his guise as the Ibis scribe of the gods. He is the master of writing and god of wisdom, numbers, measures and time.

Above the building is the glyph for “A to Z,” which represents knowledge and the role of the university. Isis offers the Ankh, the symbol of life, while Toth, holding the scroll of wisdom, blesses Virginia Commonwealth University.

The central grouping is surrounded by Nut, goddess of the sky, and Geb, god of the earth. The recumbent god forms mountains and valleys with its contorted body and thereby represents the earth sciences. Nut arches over the earth and symbolizes the cosmos and physical sciences. The Eye of Ra, the sun, travels across her back and is shown at its zenith, representing Virginia Commonwealth University's rise to greatness.
RECIPIENTS OF DEGREES

Due to rigid time requirements, this program must be printed before the final list of degree candidates can be determined. The exclusion of the name of a student is not to be taken as indication of official status as a non-graduate, nor is the inclusion of the name of a student to be taken as certification of official status as a graduate.

ACADEMIC COSTUME

Academic costume worn today at American college exercises goes back in its essential features to the Middle Ages. The oldest universities of northern Europe, such as Paris and Oxford, grew out of church schools, and both faculty and students were regarded in the Middle Ages as a part of the clergy. They wore clerical costumes, largely borrowed from the monastic dress of that day not just on special occasions, but as their regular costume.

The head covering of the academic costume developed from the skull cap worn by the clergy in cold weather to protect their tonsured heads. In the universities, the skull cap acquired a point on top, which evolved into a tassel. The bonnet with tassel is still worn by degree holders of European universities. In America, it has been replaced by the familiar mortar board, which still retains the medieval tassel.

The hood (the medieval caputium) was originally a covering worn over the head in bad weather, otherwise dropped on the shoulders as the monk's cowl. At first it was worn by faculty and students alike, but in the early sixteenth century it was restricted to graduates, thus it became the mark of a degree holder. Today, each college has its distinctive hood lining by which its graduates may be recognized in academic processions. Anyone with a degree from Virginia Commonwealth University may wear a hood showing a black chevron on gold background.

The gown worn today is the medieval robe and seems to have been borrowed from the habit of the Benedictine monks. In the Middle Ages, undergraduates, bachelors and masters could be distinguished by the simplicity or intricacy of their gowns. The doctor's gown was often furred - this survives today in the ornamentation found on the doctoral gown. Usually the gown is black, but some colleges have colored gowns.

The wide velvet borders extending down the front of the doctoral gown, the velvet bars on the sleeves, and the borders of most hoods are colored according to the scholarly field of the wearer. Some of these are:

THE UNIVERSITY

Virginia Commonwealth University is a public, urban research university with more than 22,000 students pursuing undergraduate, graduate and professional studies on two campuses. VCU was created July 1, 1968, when Richmond Professional Institute merged with the Medical College of Virginia. Today, the two campuses blend the old and the new, with historic homes adapted into offices and classrooms amidst modern new high-rise buildings.

Approximately 175 fields of study are offered on the two campuses of the university. The Academic Campus, located in Richmond’s historic fan district, houses the College of Humanities and Sciences, the schools of the Arts, Business, Community and Public Affairs, Education, Mass Communication and Social Work. The Medical College of Virginia Campus, two miles east of the Academic Campus in Richmond’s downtown business district, houses the schools of Allied Health Professions, Basic Health Sciences, Dentistry, Medicine, Nursing, Pharmacy and Graduate Studies.

VCU takes its urban mission seriously, with the commitments of faculty and students alike. Two years ago, the Community Service Associates program began. Through it, faculty offer their expertise to area organizations, local governments and businesses and school systems on specific projects.

The university is also working on strengthening relations with nearby communities. Community Advisory Boards for both campuses began meeting in fall 1990 to provide a quarterly forum where VCU’s neighbors could voice their concerns and the university could discuss plans that will affect the community around us.

Through the Carver Promise, VCU students monitor support for 127 Carver Elementary School students and their families by consistent tutoring and encouragement. VCU is one of four local colleges and universities that promised full tuition to students who graduate from high school and are admitted.

Ranked among the top universities in terms of funded research, VCU received more than $76 million in external research awards for research and training programs in the 1991-92 fiscal year to fund projects on both campuses.

High quality academic instruction is provided by a 2,401 member faculty, distinguished in both teaching and research. Of the full-time faculty, 79 percent hold terminal degrees. University Library Services supports the instructional programs with James Branch Cabell Library on the Academic Campus and the Tompkins-McCaw Library on the Medical College of Virginia Campus. The library system recently acquired its one-millionth volume to add to the holdings. In addition, books and journal subscriptions are supplemented by special collections in the arts, sciences, humanities and biomedical areas.

Annually, about 3,500 students graduate from VCU. The success of our graduates and academic achievements of our faculty enhance VCU’s position as one of the more important institutions of higher education in the United States.
